Drunken Plot

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)—Hamilton is threatened with an unprecedented wave of drunkenness, and authority for the assertion is Street Commissioner James Weedon.

Commissioner Weedon is occupied with a plan to eliminate numerous pigeons which are considered a menace to cleanliness of the city. The birds may not be shot in the city limits, so this is what the Commissioner proposes:

Soak wheat or other grain in Scotch whiskey and feed it to the pigeons. If the plot works the pigeons should get bellied as owls and fall down. The extermination forces then would have to do no more than scoop them up in baskets.

CATTLE ENTRIES AT EXHIBITION OF HIGH QUALITY

Five Herds of Holsteins Comprise the Largest Class Being Shown.

SOME CLASSES SMALL.

In the livestock section of the Exhibition the cattle classes are all well represented once more this year, occupying the available space in the barns and maintaining the high quality of breeding that has placed the Peterborough show on its present standard.

Five herds of Holsteins comprise the largest group in the Exhibition, and most of the breeders are from the Peterborough district. They are James Seymour and Sons of Cavan township; Ross Calvert of Reaboro; Bruce McNevin of Omemee; G. A. Brethen of Norwood and Fred Ormiston and Sons of Brooklin. The judging of Holstein begins Thursday morning, and the dairy classes will be concluded Friday.

Mr. Brethen has returned to the Peterborough show ring after an absence of nearly twenty years. Since then he has been at times a local judge of dairy cattle, and has lost none of his early enthusiasm for the "black and white" breed.

In the Jersey class, W. S. Duffy of Newmarket has returned to Peterborough with a strong group of animals in competition with Sam S. Staples of Cavan and Garnet Kerr of Campbellford.

J. Gordon Mann and Son of Smith township is the only exhibitor of Ayrshires, and as a result will simply walk away with the prize money in this section. It is a "break" for the Simth breeder with not even the Peoples Brothers, Alex Hume and Fred Ruther-

MEIGHEN LAYS ABITIBI PROBE TO VENGEANCE

Charges Whole Object Aimed to Injure Him, Even Up Part in Beauharnois.

SLAGHT REPLIES.

Ex-Premier Confident in Absolute Rightness of All Own Actions.

TORONTO, Aug. 23. — (CP) — "Vengeance for Beauharnois" was proclaimed as the motive for the attacks on Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former prime minister of Canada, culminating in the "Abitibi probe" by Mr. Meighen himself as he addressed the probe today.

Mr. Meighen's address brought the inquiry which has been going on for six weeks close to its end. After him Arthur Slaght, commission counsel, began a reply.

The whole object of these responsible for the probe seemed to be to injure him personally said Mr. Meighen. A few references dropped by Mr. Slaght to his own part at Ottawa in dealing with the Beauharnois scandal in the senate had convinced him vengeance was the motive. It was the first intimation he had had from any source that his conduct on that occasion had been unfair.

Absolute confidence in the rightness of his own actions as a Hydro Commissioner was expressed by Mr. Meighen. He said he felt perfectly safe in leaving them to be judged by the Commission composed of Chief Justice F. R. Latchford and Hon. Robert Smith.

Own Interests Never First

His holding of $3,000 in the bonds of the Ontario Power Service Corporation which had been replaced with Hydro-Electric Power Commission bonds when the Government took over the Abitibi Canyon Power Plant had never placed him in a position of serving his own interests at the expense of the public.

Mr. Meighen said at first his accusers might have honestly believed it was he who had carried on the negotiations looking to the taking over of the property. Since they had found he had nothing to do with them, they had had to resort to all sorts of innuendos to get something on him.

The charge had been made, he said, that he had sought to hide behind former Premier George Henry in describing the deal as a purely Government affair. It was a purely Government affair, but as a citizen of the province he approved everything that Mr. Henry had done. He had obtained the property at a lower cost than it would have been to the Abitibi interests; and those interests, fully familiar with Northern Ontario, had been ready to pledge their entire assets to keep the plant and complete it.

Commissioner Smith agreed with Mr. Meighen he was justified in going to the Government as representative of his investment companies to urge a speedy decision

CUBAN OFFICERS TO FACE DEATH

Two Held Responsible For Revolutionary Plot to Overthrow Batista.

REBELLION CRUSHED.

HAVANA, Aug. 23. (AP).—Two high ranking Cuban army officers were sentenced to death by a court martial to-day for participation in a revolutionary plot against Col. Fulgencio Batista, commander-in-chief of the army.

Major Angel Echevarria and Captain Augustine Erice, commander of the army signal corps, were convicted of participation in the plot in an early morning trial at Columbia, outside Havana.

The revolt was crushed in Pinar Del Rio province before it could get started.

It was planned for September 4, the anniversary of the rebellion by which Batista, a former sergeant, established himself at the head of the army.

The verdict was given to Batista, commander-in-chief of the army. He said regardless of its nature he would approve it and forward it to President Carlos Mendieta.

Reports that eight enlisted men were shot to death in Pinar Del Rio province when the revolt was smashed were denied officially but several newspapers said they were true.

The whirlwind developments saw the conspiracy discovered, thwarted, the suspects arrested and tried within the space of 24 hours.

Hundreds of soldiers, sitting in the picturesque open air army theatre at Camp Columbia, outside Havana, heard witness after witness testify Lieutenant-Colonel Mario Hernandes, youthful military commander of Pinar Del Rio, and Major Angel Echevarria, led the plot to overthrow Batista and kill him if necessary.

Hernandes is the only official victim of the revolt. He was shot and wounded while resisting arrest at his home, a government statement said, and died in an automobile accident while being brought to Havana.

Hold Rival Lover On Nominal Count In Manvers' Case

Peter Rogouski, Alien-Born Carpenter, Is Found Dead In Small Trout Creek In Southern Section Of Manvers Township.

MET SYMONS, RIVAL OF DEAD MAN FOR LOVE OF 16-YEAR-OLD GIRL, PLACED UNDER ARREST

Man Had Been Missing From The Farm Where He Worked For Three Weeks—Searchers Found Decomposed Body Partly Covered With Brush.

(By Staff Reporter)

BETHANY, Aug. 22.—Police today are investigating the death of Peter Rogouski, 43, whose body was found in a creek in the southern part of Manvers township after he had been missing for three weeks. Police have arrested Met Symons, husky, 35-year-old Ukranian on a nominal charge and placed him in Cobourg jail while they continue their investigations.

Rogouski's half-decomposed body was found concealed in a secluded pool of the trout stream near the farm of John Fallis, sixth line of Manvers, four and a half miles south west of Bethany, yesterday by a posse of searchers led by Provincial Constable Smith, of Bowmanville.

In Love With Same Girl

The little carpenter, who was employed at the farm of Michael Romanic, father of rosy cheeked Olive Romanic, aged 16, for whose affection the murdered man and Symons were rivals, had been missing since July 26, but it was only last Sunday that fears were aroused for his safety. Police were called into the case on Monday, and a search throughout the district resulted late yesterday afternoon in the finding of his body in a stream less than a quarter of mile from the farmhouse where he had been employed.

The posse of farmers and police were searching along the bed of the creek when Bill Serhenwick, son of the man who employed Symons, and John Fallis, farmer, found the body in the creek.

"It was hidden in the creek less than 200 rods from my home," Mr. Fallis told the Examiner. "Why the children have had picnics right there several times recently. I noticed something sticking up out of the water. It was his left leg. Covering the rest of the body were several poles and sticks and some sods. It looked to me as though somebody had tried to hide the body and put all that stuff on it to hold it down."

Two Wallets Found

Within a few feet of the place where the body was taken from the stream, searchers found Rogouski's two wallets and his vest.

"The vest was tramped into the mud," Mr. Fallis said. "It was Rogouski's all right and in its pockets we found his comb and cigarette holder.

"A few feet further on we found

Attendance at "Ex"

While the combined gate and grandstand admissions at the "Ex" were considerably lighter yesterday than was the case on the corresponding day during 1933 Fair week, there were several factors that militated against a better showing of figures.

Wednesday of Fair week last year, it will be recalled was children's day, a factor which undoubtedly boosts attendance figures as will be so well demonstrated in a comparison between the attendance figures for Tuesday of this year and last. In 1933 Tuesday's attendance was at low ebb compared with the large crowds of youngsters who packed the grandstand on the opening afternoon this year.

Then again another reason for yesterday's apparent decrease in attendance, was the threatening weather conditions of early afternoon, which resulted in a torrential downpour of rain shortly before the grandstand performance was timed to commence. Despite the change of dates, the Fair Board have again run foul of unseasonable weather, the nights having been extremely chilly so far, and no doubt, contributing in no small measure to a tendency towards smaller attendance.

TRAP BEING SET FOR KIDNAPPERS

MAYOR OPENS INQUIRY.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 23. (CP).—Police conferences continued today as authorities attempted to set a trap for the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, millionaire London Ont., brewer, kidnapped last Tuesday morning and released early last Friday for ransom rumoured as $50,000. The pick of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, provincial and city forces were in London in connection with the case but still silent as to their plans.

Inspector John Boyd of the Provincial Police arrived in London last night and went into conference with other officers including Inspector Hamar Gardiner of the Criminal Investigation Department and Detective-Sergeant Frank Crowe of the Toronto city force. It was reported Inspector Boyd brought some documents from Toronto but their contents were not revealed.

Reports from the City Hall indicated Mayor George Wenige was conducting an inquiry himself into the kidnapping, working on the theory the abduction of Labatt as he drove from his Sarnia beach home to London was engineered by some one connected with a gambling ring.

A Londoner, prominent in the liquor running racket during prohibition days, is rumoured as possible "finger man" for the snatchers. Police were said to be investigating his movement in the belief he supplied the kidnap gang with information on Labatt's movements and drove Labatt's car to London after he had been abducted. He is also considered, reports indicate, as the man who telephoned Hugh Labatt, the victim's brother, and informed him of the kidnapping and ransom demand.

MYSTERY CALLS LEAD TO ARREST

AT GUN POINT.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 23 (AP)—One man was in custody tonight as police pressed their investigation of two mysterious telephone calls to the home of Paul A. Schoellkopf, president of the Niagara Falls Power Company, and chairman of the board of the Niagara Hudson Power Company.

Sergeant Alfred Gibbons found Alfred F. Taborski, 29, of Buffalo, on the grounds of the Schoellkopf home early yesterday. He was held for investigation. Sergeant Gibbons said two calls, both for Mme. Andre Boissier, of Paris, France, the former Jasmine Schoellkopf, daughter of the utility executive, were made.

Taborski, according to Gibbons, claimed he was forced to make the calls by a man who shoved a gun in his ribs ribs.

Several years ago when Mme. Boissier was married heavy guards were placed at the home and at a church in Lewiston Heights after an unidentified man had warned the church would be blown up.

THREE MEN DIE IN AUTO SMASH

CAR TOTAL WRECK.

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 23 (C.P.) — Three lives were snuffed out to-day and two men were sent to hospital with injuries when a speeding automobile crashed into a truck on a grade just outside this city.

Mangled almost beyond recognition, Joseph McGillivray of Glen Morrison was dead when he was lifted from the twisted wreckage of the car in which he and four companions had set out early this morning for their home s a few miles away.

Douglas McIntyre of the nearby village of Bencastle, driver of the car died with an unidentified companion while an ambulance, siren screaming, roared with them toward hospital in Sydney, four miles from the scene of the accident.

Hector McIntyre, brother of the driver, and a fifth man named McNeil, suffered scalp wounds and were taken to hospital for treatment. Their condition was not regarded as serious by physicians.

Almost miraculously, the driver of the truck, H. McGinty of Saint John, N.B., escaped with only minor cuts and bruises and a bad shaking up. Of the six persons in the crash, he was the only one able to give police an account of what had happened.

He was travelling from Saint John to Sydney with the demonstrator truck, McKinty said, when he saw the other car coming downgrade toward him. It was steering a wavering course from side to side, he asserted, and he pulled into the ditch to get out of its way.

But he failed to avoid the oncoming auto, he said, and it crashed squarely into his machine with an impact that threw one of its occupants several feet into the air.

The other four men lay in the McIntyre car, reduced to a pile of junk by the crash.

Primping

CHICAGO, Aug. 22. (CP).—Actresses are the worst, wealthy women pretty bad, but even the average woman spends one eighth of her time primping.

The cosmeticians have estimated the time spent in beautification making wealthy women as spending one sixth of their time and actresses at least a fourth.

MURDER TRAIL LEADS INTO U.S.

Pair Wanted in Montreal Case Known to Have Headed West in Ontario.

AIMING FOR CHICAGO.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23 (C.P.)—The trail of the killers of Charles Feigenbaum, prominent Montreal smuggler, who was slain by gangster bullets as he stepped from his car here Tuesday night, led through Ontario and towards the United States to-day.

Ontario police were called into the case last night when it was learned the two killers had made their escape from the island a few hours after the slaying by crossing the Vaudreuil Bridge over the Ottawa River and speeding into Ontario, apparently headed toward Chicago.

Police reported a small sedan bearing Illinois license plates, and in which were two Americans had paid toll at the Vaudereuil Bridge about 11.30 Tuesday night and headed into Ontario. The route they followed would take them through Brockville, Belleville and Toronto. Where they would go from Toronto was a mystery to police, but it was believed the gunmen would attempt to cross the international border somewhere around Buffalo, N.Y.

Meanwhile, as the search for the Feigenbaum slayers spread out of the city, Quebec Provincial and Montreal police continued the search for other slayers. At South Ham, Que., the district was scoured for the killer or killers of Saul Gregoire, 55-year-old farmer, whose body was found by searchers near his home yesterday. He had been beaten to death by some blunt weapon and a large sum of money he carried had been stolen.

In Montreal, killers of Alexander Soulgikoff, Russian court interpreter, shot in the same manner as Feigenbaum just 10 days ago, were still at large. Three men jumped on the running board of Soulgikoff's car as he drew to a stop at a cross street and shot him to death, making their escape in the early morning darkness. As in the Feigenbaum case, clues and leads to the killers were lacking, seeming to indicate professional gangsters had perpetrated the crime.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (C.P.) — Among the troubles that beset Joseph Burns, 17, to-day was a disquieting disovery of the doctor.

The nucleus of the Party is already in Bermuda, under the command of Flight-Lieut. Thomas H. Moon, who was technical officer attached to the British Schneider Trophy racing teams in 1927 and 1929.

The work allotted to the Bermuda Party is maintenance of the biplanes of No. 443 flight, which is employed with the 6th and 8th Cruiser Squadrons of the Royal Navy on the West Indian and American stations. Formerly other than minor repairs that could be done on shipboard required sending the machine to England. In future all machines needing repair or maintenance except when complete reconstruction or reconditioning is involved, will be sent to the new repair base.

The machines are employed for open-sea reconnaissance with the fleet and for gunner spotting. Its areoplanes are of the type which has been built in greater numbers than any other comparable military aeroplane; they are fast, efficient and capable of carrying big loads and of making lengthy non-stop journeys.

JUNIOR FARMERS GIVEN BANQUET AFTER BIG DAY

Canada Packers Are Hosts to Young Farmers and Farmerettes.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED.

Peterboro County Team Second in Girls' Inter-County Contest.

The same youthful enthusiasm that marked their participation in the various junior farm activities, conducted under auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, was self-evident at the big complimentary banquet tendered by Canada Packers Limited at Empress Hotel.

Presided over by Gordon S. Matthews, manager of Canada Packers Limited, the banquet provided a fitting conclusion to the largest and most successful Junior Farmer Day, in a series of such events held in connection with Peterborough Industrial Exhibition over a period of five years.

The big dinner has come to be traditional now, but last evening was the first occasion on which invitations were extended to the girls also, and Mr. Matthews assurred them it would not be the last.

Mayor Extends Welcome

Mayor Roland Denne, president of Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board extended an official welcome to the young guests, numbering over two hundred, and also presented the Robert Fair Trophy to Victoria County Girls' Team which stood first place in the inter-county "good dressing contest".

The victorious team was composed of Jean Wilson, Amy Graham and Olive Graham, all of Lindsay.

Peterborough County team represented by Irene Frankish and Ethel Blakely both of Lakefield, were runners-up in the contest, with Hastings in third place and Northumberland fourth.

The cup—a handsome silver trophy was given by the Robert Fair Company for annual competition among the girls in 1932. It was held in that year by Hastings County, and was this year relinquished by Peterborough County.

T. L. Church To Seek Federal Seat Again

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—(C.P.)—After a lapse of four years, Thomas L. Church, former Mayor of Toronto, intends seeking re-entry into the Dominion Parliament.

Mr. Church announced last night he intended submitting his name at a convention to-night to select the Conservative candidate to contest Toronto East in the coming Federal by-election.

The seat was made vacant by the death of Hon. E. B. Ryckman, former Minister of National Revenue.

"Big interests" were "out to kill" the Stevens' mass buying investigation as they had done with the gasoline inquiry and the Beauharnois probe, he said. The Conservative party should move for an investigatinon by the Stevens' committee of the set-up and the propaganda of Canada's electric utilities and their mergers, he said, and of the grain exchanges and the tied newspaper industry.

Sweat shop conditions must be abolished, he continued, and the time is coming when there must be an investigation into the propaganda ad set-up of private power companies in Quebec and elsewhere and their United States' affiliations.

Rice Lake Aquatic Association Holds First Regatta at Alderville.

FOURTEEN EVENTS.

(By A Staff Reporter)

VIMY RIDGE, Aug. 22.—Competition was of a high order as regatta folowers of the Kawartha region gathered at this port for the final aquatic meet of the season yesterday afternoon. It was the Alderville regatta, winding up for the year the Rice Lake Aquatic Association's annual series.

A short but heavy hail storm followed by a stiff inshore wind made for conditions which were far from ideal but the meet, the first of what is hoped will be an annual series in connection with the Rice Lake Aquatic Association, was a distinct success. A good representation of the season's headline performers were there having descended upon Vimy Ridge by boat and motor car from the other Rice Lake centers, Wallace Point and Chemong. The numbers of competitors in the various events were not high as compared with other regattas this year but the spirit of competition was of a high grade.

Fourteen Events

Fourteen events made up the card. Twelve of the items were canoe contests of the various types with a goose chase and a paddlers' tug-of-war completing the list. A gallery of several hundred spectators encouraged the contestants with lusty vocal support.

The Alderville United Church sponsored the regatta, Rev. L. W. Scott serving as chairman, Thomas Marsden as secretary and Ernest Crowe, treasurer. Madden Howard and Hanlon Howard, Hiawatha, with William Dixon, Bewdley, handled the judging. John and Zack Smoke, Alderville, acted as starters with Henry Perrin, Bewdley, on the small end of the megaphone and Mrs. Alfred Simpson, Roseneath, recording.

Pat Perrin of Bewdley collared a tired goose with a firm hand to win the most entertaining event of the afternoon—the goose chase. For a while the chase looked like a straight endurance test destined to end in a draw as five swimmers splashed about in the water after the frightened, quickly-moving bird. Hec McLeod, Nels Stanger and Bill Taylor, all of Wallace Point, three of the other would-be goose catchers, all had hands on the bird at various times but it remained for the lady of the party to make the capture.

Tug-of-War

Herb. Cardwell, Wallace Point, and Bill Taylor were required to paddle husky strokes to win the tug-of-war. Despite the fact that strong wind favored their opponents, they towed Ralph Loukes, Hiawatha, and Fred Smoke, Alderville, across the neutral zone with relentless thrusts of their paddles to win the final honors. The contest provided an excellent spectacle for the bystanders and gave rise to sharply divided sympathies—as evidenced by the cheering.

As at the other meets this summer, the men's professional canoe race resulted in a hard-fought contest. Frank Gray, Alderville, skimmed down the half-mile stretch for a win by little more than a length. Earl Smoke and C. Taylor, a representative from Curve Lake, battled it out neck and neck over the entire course and finished in a dead heat for second money. Declining to decide the tie by a second paddle over the course, Taylor conceded the prize to Smoke.

Shows Details Of Canada's First Great Kidnapping Drama

This layout and map tells dramatically the story of the kidnapping and subsequent release of John S. Labatt, head of the Labatt Brewing Company of London, Ont., who was abducted as he drove from his summer home at Sarnia, Ont., towards London. Hugh Labatt, brother of the kidnapped brewer rushed to Toronto and secured a room at the Royal York hotel where he hoped to contact his brother's captors, and turn over the $150,000 ransom demanded. John Labatt was released unharmed in Toronto and officials deny that any ransom money was paid.

HALIBURTON MAN LOSES HIS BARN

LINDSAY, Aug. 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—Death came with tragic suddenness to Robert Gould, a well-known resident of Haliburton, on Tuesday. The deceased, who was in his sixty-eighth year, was found dead by his wife on her return from the garden. The late Mr. Gould resided on the old homestead at Gould's Crossing and was well-known throughout the north country. He is survived by one son, Bruce, of Haliburton village.

During a heavy storm on Monday, a large barn owned by Alex. McCrea, of Essonville, Haliburton County, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed, together with contents. Very little insurance was carried.

The death is announced at Kinmount of one of the best known farmers in that district in the person of James Ritchie. The deceased was in his sixty-seventh year, and has been a life-long resident of that district. He was an Anglican in religion.

The death occurred in the Township of Emily on Tuesday of John Graham, uncle of ex-Mayor Wm. Graham, of Lindsay. The deceased, who was in his eighty-first year, was born in the Township of Fenelon. He took up farming in Emily about sixty years ago. He is survived by one son, Robert, on the homestead; one daughter, Mrs. T. Kennedy, of Dunsford; one sister, Mrs. A. Wilson, of Morden, Manitoba, and one brother, Robert, of Lindsay.

MRS. THOMAS H. BRADLEY

MILLBROOK, Aug. 23. (Examiner Correspondence).—The death of Clemina Bateson (Mrs. Thomas H. Bradley) took place at the Nicholls' Hospital, Peterborough, on Saturday, August 18, in her sixty-eighth year, following an extended illness.

Deceased was born and brought up in Millbrook practically all her life having been spent here, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bateson, early settlers of the village, her mother's maiden name having been Margaret McConkey. Previous to her marriage to the late T. H. Bradley who predeceased his wife by three years, Mrs. Bradley was an active member of the former Methodist church and soloist in the choir for several years. Following her marriage she went with her husband to St. Thomas Anglican Church in which communion she was confirmed. The late Mr. Bradley was local manager of the Hogg and Lytle elevator at Millbrook until failing health compelled relinquishment of his position. Their marriage took place in 1917.

Deceased was one of a family of eleven children, six daughters and five sons, all of whom have been called away by death with the exception of one sister, Mrs. Ephraim Bateson (Emma), now of Huntsville, who was here for the funeral. Those previously deceased included Mrs. John Davey, Mrs. David Baxter, Mrs. Thomas Raby, Mrs. Thomas Richards, Simeon, John, Richard William and James Bateson.

The funeral took place from her late residence George street on Monday at 2.30 p.m. and was largely attended, the Rev. William H. Stubbs, of Elmvale, a former curate on Cavan parish, taking the service in the absence of the rector, Rev. William Simpson, B.A., who is on holidays. The pall-bearers were H. A. Fallis, T. G. Harkness, W. E. Ball, P. Stinson, Dr. A. Jemison, and G. E. Burnham. Interment was in St. Paul's cemetery, Fourth Line, Cavan. The late Mrs. Bradley was a Past Noble Grand of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge No. 176, and among the many beautiful floral tributes were suitable emblems from Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 308, and the Rebekah Order.

Relatives from outside points who attended the funeral included Mrs. Mary Baxter and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Boucher and family, and Mrs. Huggins of Peterborough, Mrs. Thomas Baxter of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bradley, and Miss Annie Bradley, of Omemee. ROEBUCK DENIES FIRING LONDON JUVENILE JUDGE

TORONTO, Aug. 23. (CP).—Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck denied a London report yesterday that he had accepted the resignation of Canon Warner, juvenile court judge for 11 years, of that city.

"There is no intention of interfering with juvenile courts throughout the province in the changing of the magistrates," said Mr. Roebuck. "I do not recall Canon Warner's name in the list, but if he fell under that list through being a magistrate, then I will have to adjust it."

The same, he said, applies to Judge Mott of the Toronto juvenile Court, who is not to be retired. On the contrary, Mr. Roebuck pointed out that all juvenile court magistrates have been doing excellent work.

The Dream That Built A Mighty Industry

How One Man's Vision Gave The World Its Greatest Breakfast Cereal

Twenty-eight years ago, W. K. Kellogg, whose name is now a household word, originated Corn Flakes—the greatest discovery in manufactured breakfast foods the world has ever known. Today, more than twelve million people have breakfasted on Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Thus one man's dream became a reality and Kellogg's Corn Flakes are enjoyed in practically every civilized country by people of almost every race and tongue.

What is the secret of this world-wide popularity? It is because the Kellogg institution has always adhered to the ideals of its founder. Not only has it aimed to give the public the finest food product that human intelligence, research, and up-to-date equipment can possibly extract from the choicest grain, but to insist on business methods based on honesty and sincerity. Quality has always been the first essential.

Kellogg's Corn Flakes have continued to lead the world and to think of Corn Flakes is to think of Kellogg's. So fine is their quality, so indescribably delicious their crisp, tasty flavour, that demand is ever increasing. Today it takes the product of 675 acres of corn to supply the daily needs of the world-wide Kellogg family.

The splendid Kellogg plant in London, Ontario, is one of three large, modern Kellogg factories. There happy Canadian people work under pleasant and hygienic surroundings and under ideal conditions to supply these tasty, healthful Corn Flakes to Canada, other parts of the Empire and European countries.

WORTH WHILE CONSIDERING.

In seeking to find further usefulness for the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital, the upkeep of which is a heavy item of expense, the new medical officer of health, Dr. Fraser, and the Board of Health are to be commended.

If the proposal to utilize part of the building for the care of local consumptive patients receives the approval of the Provincial Board of Health and can be acted upon, the result will be a material saving, and there does not seem to be any deep-rooted obstacle in the way of this plan being carried out.

There is more accommodation in the Isolation Hospital than is normally required, and if this can be devoted to such a thoroughly important purpose as caring for tubercular patients who would otherwise have to be treated at the city's expense in outside sanitaria, the authorities have hit upon a very happy solution of getting more use out of the institution.

It is assumed, of course, that the patients can be accorded the same care and attention here, and that they will be assured of the same chance of recovery as if treated elsewhere; otherwise the proposition could not be entertained for a moment.

The Isolation Hospital represents a fairly heavy annual expenditure, and the finding of further uses for this institution is a legitimate field for investigation and action.

IN A HAPPY POSITION.

On behalf of the township of Scarborough, the claim is made that as a result of a ten-year period of innoculation against diphtheria not a case of that disease has been developed in the township for a year, and that this sets up a new record in Ontario for a community of 20,000 persons.

Peterborough is in the fortunate position, thanks to the progressive policy inaugurated by Dr. A. W. McPherson, the school medical health officer, years ago, to be able to say that we have done almost as well as Scarborough in eliminating this once-dread scourge that has now been virtually conquered by medical science.

Like the York County township, this city has been carrying on the campaign against diphtheria for ten years, and during that period 6,000 children have been immunized, with not a single case of a child who had been innoculated afterward contracting the disease.

Not only has this protection been afforded to pupils of the schools, but each year Dr. McPherson has arranged innoculation clinics for children of pre-school age, and as a result this city is now in a remarkably safe position as regards a disease that formerly took a toll of lives nearly every year.

Immunization against diphtheria is now an accepted fact, and Peterborough is therefore to be congratulated that, thanks to the foresight and enterprise of Dr. McPherson, this city is the vanguard of Canadian communities in so far as protection against this scourge is concerned.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

The announcement from Ottawa that the Bennett Government proposes to introduce an unemployment relief policy at the next session of Parliament will occasion little surprise, nor will it afford a great deal of comfort to the present jobless.

Under the plan proposed the Federal Government, the Provincial Government, the employer and the employee will all contribute toward the pension fund, and thus the measure will not be of the slightest assistance to those who are now unemployed, inasmuch as they are not in a position to contribute and therefore are not entitled to any assistance.

However, it is to be imagined that the measure will add considerably to the peace of mind of thousands of Canadian workers who will welcome the opportunity to ensure adequate relief for themselves in the event of future unemployment, and will be glad therefore to contribute toward unemployment insurance.

It is understood that the legislation will operate similarly to the Old Age Pension Act—that is, that only those provinces that desire to participate in the scheme will come under its operation.

Premier Hepburn has been quick to announce that so far as Ontario is concerned the measure will be welcome, so that as soon as the act becomes effective it is probable that this province will avail itself of the opportunity to provide machinery by which the unemployed of future years will be taken care of effectively.

A COMMON-SENSE ACTION.

There is sound common sense in the decision of local hotel-keepers to voluntarily restrict the hours of beer and wine sale.

Beginning with Saturday of this week, the new policy will be in force, calling for the beverage rooms in Peterborough to close at 10 o'clock on Saturday night, instead of at 12 as provided for in the regulations, and on the other week nights at 11 o'clock, instead of at 12 o'clock.

This is a move in the right direction and will meet with almost general approval from the public, which has been studying the system since it was introduced and has already arrived at the decision that reforms are urgently needed.

Earlier closing will be accepted as an important step towards better conditions, and the hotel-keepers are to be congratulated upon recognizing the need of a change and upon acting upon their own initiative.

It is to be hoped that the good judgment shown in this move will be repeated in an improvement in the manner in which the beverage rooms are conducted, and that the two most disturbing evils, selling to minors and supplying intoxicants to customers who are already under the influence, will be also wiped out by the proprietors themselves.

The Government has shown more haste in authorizing sale than it has in providing machinery for strict enforcement of the legislation, but those engaged in the business would be very short-sighted indeed if they allowed the absence of adequate supervision to sway them into permitting laxity and abuse.

The local hotel-keepers by their action this week have shown themselves alive to the situation, and the same common sense will undoubtedly induce them to correct the weaknesses that have made their appearance and to conduct their beverage rooms in strict accord with the regulations.

YOU CAN STILL SEE NIAGARA.

You still have some years left to see Niagara Falls. In a few more thousands of years the Falls might be vanished and only rapids be there to take the waters of Lake Erie plunging to Lake Ontario. The last breaking away of rock is just a step in the process of time. It has been going on for 35,000 or more years.

Years and years ago the brink of the Falls was down near Queenston. That is what the geologists figure out. The famous Horseshoe Falls have been going back at an average rate of five feet per year since 1842. That does not mean that each year the brink recedes five feet, because when a large split occurs more rock than that is carried away.

Some day the Falls may lose their height and instead of the water plunging over a precipice, it will go tumbling down over a series of rapids. The slope will be gentle as the rocks which have fallen from the top cluster at the base.

However, the process has been going along steadily for 35,000 years or so and the Falls are still attracting thousands of people every day during the summer. They will never lose their popularity, and even the folks who will be living here in another 35,000 years will still be going to see the water surging from Erie to Ontario. The waters will be working at cutting away the Falls through all those years. But where they take away beauty in one phase, they will be adding new beauty in the formation of the cataract.—Border Cities Star.

NEW BRITISH HOME.

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

"Life for the majority of the population," wrote Siegrried Sassoon in one of his books, "is an unlovely struggle against unfair odds."

Next to insecurity in respect of work and wages, there is no condition of life which produces so unlovely a struggle against odds for the poorest people of Britain as bad houses and overcrowding. Under the urge of very strong public feeling, the problem in all of its aspects has at length been studied with thoroughness, and a report by a highly influential committee, of which Lord Amulree is chairman, has recently been issued, recommending a scheme for organized national action comparable with that which President Roosevelt proposes for the United States.

The question may be said to fall into three parts. There is, first, the problem of the slums—of dwellings not fit to be lived in, but still inhabited because their tenants have nowhere else to go. Here the present Government has acted with exemplary energy in initiating a five-year plan of slum clearance and resettlement which seems likely to strike at the heart of the evil. The second problem is that of overcrowding in built-up areas, and with this condition also it is prepared to deal in the coming autumn.

But there is a third problem still awaiting solution—that of provision of new houses for the expanding numbers and at a rent within their means. A million new houses at the very least will be needed during the next ten years. Can they be provided, as the Government has hoped, by private enterprise alone? The answer given both by Lord Amulree's committee and by another committee appointed by the Labor party, is—No.

How, then, can it be done? Public opinion is deeply disturbed about the conditions under which the poor are living, and will not tolerate neglect. The problem is that of constructing at least 1,000,000 new houses. Not for sale, but to let at inclusive rents of 10 shillings a week and under. It cannot be solved by private enterprise building for profit could, perhaps, be solved by local authorities erecting houses with the help of a Government subsidy. But at an immense cost.

The committee, therefore, has examined the proposal for the establishment of a statutory National Housing Commission, and declares it to be the right machinery for dealing with this gigantic task. The body it proposes would not itself build and own houses, but would provide cheap capital for financing schemes; it would be the medium for the supply of cheap and standardized material, and suitable labor; it would advise, plan and co-ordinate, as the supreme housing authority for the whole country.

Not only would the commission be in a position to supply capital cheaply, but also, owing to its vast field of operation, cheap materials—there would be no profiteering; there would be mass production. Research would be stimulated; national needs would be surveyed; building throughout the country would be co-ordinated and directed without waste.

This, then, is the comprehensive scheme, authoritatively commended, which is capturing the practical imagination of social reformers. The British Government has not accepted it, and has recently looked to private enterprise to solve this part of the problem. But it has shown in the last two years that it is singularly responsive to public opinion in the matter of housing, and for that reason the warm welcome that informed opinion has given to the national housing plan makes it likely that the Ministry, even if it does not adopt this plan, will pursue some similar scheme having the same object and not less far-reaching.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Perhaps as he sees the bills coming in Mr. Henry is able to reconcile himself to the fact that the responsibility of looking after them is now on other shoulders.

Unemployment insurance for Canada is said to be on the way, and if the provincial axe continues to swing it looks as if some relief for the jobless will be more than ever needed.

It is generally agreed that the program at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is the best yet. If you haven't seen it, don't miss it; if you have, you will undoubtedly want to see it again.

It looks as if Guelph has imported trouble, as well as a couple of new industries.

It is announced that President Roosevelt has drafted a reorganization of the NRA. The mechanism has been creaking badly and repairs have been indicated for some time.

SUNRISE SERVICE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

In the Voice of the People of the Toronto Globe last week there were a few lines about the natural bowl at Riverdale Park. The writer suggested that next Easter they have a service open to the public of all denominations. Music would be supplied by massed bands under one leader.

In Peterborough we have the Bowl over in East City where throughout the summer ball is played. As a suggestion to the people of the City, why couldn't we have a service there this next Easter? We have the Salvation Army band and the 57th Regiment Band, so would be well supplied with music.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

REVELSTOKE, BRITISH COLUMBIA

The site on which Revelstoke now stands was used by miners as a camping ground as far back as 1860, on their way to and from the Big Bend, where placer mining was carried on.

About 1884 a C.P.R. surveyor surveyed and received a crown grant from the Dominion and a little later another man surveyed another part of the town. These surveyed blocks were named after the men, namely, Farwell and Mara. Each man claimed property belonging to the other and they resorted to law to settle the dispute.

The federal government ordered a new survey and allotted to each of the claimants a new piece of land.

The place was named Revelstoke in 1899 for Lord Revelstoke, a partner in London banking establishment of Baring Bros. He is believed to have assisted the C.P.R. in the financing of the western part of the road.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Lillian Fallis,
Box 4020, Brampton, Ont.

This handwriting portrays keen mental intelligence. It shows love of travel, and a decided interest in all things which pertain to mental reasoning powers.

Strong Points: Your strongest point as designated in the sample is genuine artistic ability. You may not realize this trait as yet, but with study, could determine which line to follow. Of course, art may be carried out in one's clothing, or in household decoration schemes. The ability to complete what you commence is another strong point.

Weak Points: Your weak points are not well pronounced, so I presume that they are negligible, but reserve is noted and over-conscientiousness.

Emotions: You do not often portray your worst emotions, and thus do yourself great harm by keeping them pent up inside your being. I venture to suggest that often you feel like a volcano getting ready to erupt. A good explosion of words once in a while would do you much good.

Health: Your health is rather of a nervous type, but not of a type to worry about, for rest and relaxation will do much to gather up the tangled ends of these nerves and bring about complete restoration.

Disposition: Your disposition is fairly even. People usually know what to expect of you. Your word is nearly always kept if humanly possible and if by chance you cannot keep your word, you worry needlessly. Don't you? It is more from fear of what others will think.

Temperament: Your natural temperament is fine, generous and energetic.

How to Succeed: You will succeed best when you learn to assert yourself. Study should come fairly easily to one who possesses your keen mental abilities.

Marie Adams,
Barrie, Ontario.

Your handwriting portrays a mental nervousness, no doubt you crowd your ideas and so quite often become confused and do not know which way to turn. This will no doubt be overcome as you grow more mature in years. The last part of your name, Adams, shows that you really get too physically tired to carry on, but you try to drive yourself, thus sapping your strength. You are not very positive about anything, for you think you want certain things, and desire to do certain things; then, for no apparent reason, you change your mind, or give in to the wishes of others, and sink your personality, for the sake of passive resistence.

You are conservative in your ideas, reserved in your manner, and thoughtful of the comfort of others in your daily life. Routine and detail bore you terribly, and make you wish that you could do things in your own way and in your own time. You detest being 'rushed', yet you can hurry when you want to.

Social affairs wear out your patience, because you are literally speaking 'on edge' till the function is over in case you have not done all in your power to make your guests comfortable and agreeable. I mention agreeable, because now-a-days, so many social affairs are spoiled by the very persons who are present (and guests of the hostess) yet who quabble over scores, etc., as though their very life depended upon a prize.

Your writing shows intuition and excellent business perspectives. You are somewhat inclined to be hasty in judgment, but as your conclusions are usually correct, this does not detract from your merit in any manner.

I am afraid that you are impatient with others who are less well equipped with brains than you are and no doubt quite sharp in issuing your commands. You are not very careful as regards detail and perhaps do not care for routine or detail at all. The terminal of your letter 't' as in 'St.' shows persistence, and genuine qualities which should lead to success. You seem to be fond of change. You appear to enjoy getting into an argument, just for the sake of talking your way out of it. The large and expressive capital 'P' in Peterborough, reveals artistic tendencies and also illustrates the desire to be praised for the work which you feel has been well done.

The long uncertain 't' bar crossing in the word 'Ontario' designates periods of time in which you are at a loss as to how to continue with your work or plans, but as the following letters reveal a spirit of co-ordination, I have no doubt but that you are competent enough to lead yourself out of the mire of uncertainty.

Nervousness is noted in the manner in which you form the lower portions of the letters 'g' and 'j'. You are very intelligent and should experience no difficulty in getting and keeping a good position.

Mrs. Harry Smith,
1162 Hanover Ave.,
Detroit, Michigan.

It is indeed gratifying to notice so many visitors in our midst and I do hope you will enjoy the scenery around the lake district as well as the news contained in our local newspaper, 'The Examiner'.

The upper portions of your capital letters as depicted in the sample of writing, designate you as a person who has an excellent imagination. You are quite generous, humorous and sympathetic. Your capital 'H' is of the constructive type and should encourage you to organize social events as often as possible. Your type as a rule have many ingenious qualities; for instance: They are good housekeepers and good cooks, they can arrange things in an artistic manner; they can make noteworthy objects of interest about them. On the other hand they tire easily of any task which requires a lengthy period of time in its completion. So, you see, even though they can do the above mentioned things, they do not often want to. Flowers and music interest them, but neither for long at a time, because it is not their nature to plod along in a needless rut. Vivacity is their keynote and a spirit of especially good humor. They love deeply, and are easily hurt through their feelings.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A COMMISSION THAT FAILED.

On this date in 1898, the Chateau Frontenac at Quebec was the scene of an international gathering in fulfilment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pledge when leader of the opposition, that he would, if elected to office, enter into negotiations with the United States for a friendly discussion of all disputes with Canada and especially for an endeavour to secure better trade relations.

The delegates were Lord Herschell, representing the British government, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Louis Davies and John Charlton, representing Canada and Sir James Winter and A. B. Morine, representing Newfoundland; and Senator George Gray, Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, John A. Kasson, Nelson Dingley, General John W. Foster and T. Jefferson Coolidge, representing the United States.

Meetings were held, first at Quebec, then at Ottawa and finally at Washington. Many subjects were discussed—the Alaskan boundary, reciprocity, war vessels on the great lakes, the Atlantic and Pacific fisheries, shipments in bond, alien labor laws and minor topics. Canada was ready to arbitrate the Alaskan boundary dispute, but the United States was not; it took five years for that point to be reached, with eventual disastrous results for Canada.

Laurier offered substantial concessions to secure a reciprocity agreement, but high tariff men were in control at Washington, and it was impossible to reach any satisfactory conclusion, so that all the labors of the commission went for naught, any concords that had been arrived at on the minor issues being abandoned when failure came on the major proposals.

Laurier took a strong stand in defence of Canadian interests; there were members of his party who thought that he was too defensive of Canadian industrialists and who said so, but his course as a whole met with Canadian approval. This commission, however, convinced Laurier that it was easier to talk about reciprocity than to secure it, a lesson which had its influence all through his administration.

The trade agreement with President Taft in 1911 was far, far different from that proposed by Laurier in 1898, and it would have been effective if the elections of 1911 had not been complicated by the naval bill issue in Quebec. It was that which ended his government, not the reciprocity agreement, for had not Quebec defeated the Liberals would have won, by a reduced majority, and we would have had "trade and truck with the Yankees".

Popular Astronomy

THE SUN

BY H. W. L. MAHOOD

The amount of heat and light sent out by the Sun is incomprehensible. About whether the amount is radiated out equally in all directions there is an If. If it be the Earth takes to itself only one twenty-two-hundred-millionth part. The calculated amount is so great that the Earth, and all the other planets together, do not capture more than one-hundred-millionth part.

Placed side by side in comparison, the Sun is a mountain and the Earth a mole hill, in mass. In bulk, the Sun is one million, three hundred thousand times as great. The mean density of the Sun in proportion to the Earth is 0.25. The surface gravity, or fall in feet per second of the Sun is 442.4, and that of the Earth is 16.1. The diameter in miles of the Sun is 864,750, and that of the Earth is only 7,918. The average period of revolution of the Sun is suggestive of its massiveness. 25 days, seven hours, and 48 minutes are required to make one rotation. The Earth speeds along at the rate of 23 hours, 56 minutes and 4 seconds, to complete a rotation.

At the surface the Sun is pretty hot. On the Earth we fan ourselves when the thermometer climbs to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. The coolest place on the Sun registers 15,000 degrees.

The most powerful furnaces devised by the ingenuity of the electrician do not come within thousands and thousands of degrees in the effort to produce intense heat. The light of the Sun travels at an incredible speed. Imagine, if you can, the light ray travelling 92,320,000 miles in eight minutes.

The energy, radiant energy on every square yard perpendicularly exposed to its rays is at least equal to that of the strongest four horse team. Each horse power in this reckoning must be at least equal to the task of lifting 33,000 pounds one foot in a minute. How to harness this mighty Sun horse will some day be discovered.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point — Wheat, 90c to 92c; oats 35c to 38c; barley, 89c to 90c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 56c to 57c; buckwheat, 60c to 62c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter was fractionally higher in price on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

Fresh No. 1 butter in cartons or less brought 18¾c to 19c a pound, as compared with 18¾c to 18¾c Tuesday. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted at 20c a pound for solids and 21c a pound for prints. Receipts totalled 1,537 boxes.

Cheese was unchanged in price. Ontario colored being 10c to 10¼c a pound, and Quebec cheese 9½c to 9¾c a pound. Arrivals were 229 boxes.

Graded shipments of eggs in carlots or less from Ontario or the West were priced at 22c to 23c a dozen for A-large, 21c for A-medium, 18½c to 19c for B, and 17½c to 18c for C. Arrivals totalled 1,833 cases.

On the potato market, quotations remained the same as they have been for some days. New Quebecs No. 1 brought 45c to 50c per 80-lb. bag, and No. 2 were 35c to 40c per 80-lb. bag. Old N.B. Mountains were unchanged at 20c to 25c per 80-lb. bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat prices fell back fractionally yesterday, despite continuation to a large extent of the bullish situation on which gains of the three previous trading sessions were based.

Fresh, unexpected strength advanced prices at Liverpool and Rotterdam, and this fact was primarily responsible for early upturns of wheat here of almost a cent. A strong cash market also prevailed, high premiums being paid for spot grains over future contracts, an unusual situation.

However, weight of profit selling, prompted by the net advance since Saturday, forced the market down, and commission house buying was sufficient only to establish the early rallies. Weakness at Winnipeg and easiness later in other foreign markets made for some change in sentiment here. Some traders expressed a belief response here to the early strength abroad had not been satisfactory.

The net change for the day in wheat was ⅛c to ⅜c lower. December new deliveries closing at $1.06¼ to $1.06¾ after reaching a high of $1.06⅝. May finished at $1.07⅛ to $1.07¼ and September new at $1.04¼ to $1.04¾.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Increased hedging pressure, coupled with considerable local liquidation and short selling, sent wheat futures prices into a decline on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Values closed ⅝c to ¾c lower, October at 84⅝c December at 85⅝c, and May at 89⅝c.

Futures received little support and the impouring offerings swept values down from the day's peak, where gains of as much as a cent had been marked up, to finish at the session's lowest points. Export sales of 500,000 bushels of wheat were insufficient to stem the decline.

Country deliveries of new wheat Tuesday amounted 1,787,000 bushels and resulted in increasing hedging sales in the pen market as operators "insured" their commitments.

Receipts from farms, slightly behind last year's figures, are steadily increasing, and it is expected the market will be called upon to absorb increasing amounts of wheat each day.

Liverpool prices continued strong, closing yesterday ½d to ⅝d higher. Substantial gains were registered at Buenos Aires, Argentine wheat shippers advanced their prices sharply again yesterday, resulting in a further narrowing of the spread between Canadian and Argentine prices. There is now a difference of only 15 cents bushel between the two wheats.

Good demand again was shown for higher grades of cash wheat, but other varieties were slow. Spreads closed generally unchanged. Heavy selling entered the coarse grains futures market, all grains closing lower.

A Thought

PROGRESS

It is not, on the one hand, a mere oscillatory motion, although it has sometimes this aspect. It is a pendulum which at last breaks the sides of the clock that confined it. Nor is it exactly circular, like that of a wheel, although it has often this aspect also. The wheel at last resembles a momentary circle produced by a stone or rock in an advancing stream. Nor is it distinct, onrushing, without any let or hindrance like that of a river between even and polished cliffs. It is one motion compounded of many. —C. Gilfillan.

TECK HUGHES SHOWS ACTION

Hollinger and McIntyre Also Traded in Slightly in Higher Priced Golds.

BASE METALS QUIET.

TORONTO, Aug. 23 (CP).—Secondary golds held the limelight for another day on the mining section of the Toronto Exchange today, but there was some evidence of activity in the higher priced issues, Teck Hughes particularly. Hollinger and McIntyre also were traded in slightly. The only silver to move greatly was Eldorado. Other silvers, base metals and oil were quiet. Prices today were generally higher.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP).—Stocks encountered resistance in attempting to extend advances today. A mild buying flurry carried the list a little higher in the second hour, but quiet irregularity followed. Bethlehem and National Distillers held small advances. U. S. Steel was steady while Santa Fe and U. S. Smelting eased. Transfers approximated 770,000 shares.

Canada Packers Pay $1.87 Common Share

Profits for the fiscal year ending March 29, 1934, amounted to $1,429,670.17 after bond interest, depreciation and income tax, it is stated in the annual report to shareholders of Canada Packers, Limited issued today by president J. S. McLean. Dividends paid preference shareholders, regular and deferred, amounted to $1,055,671.75 leaving $373,998.42 available for common shares, or $1.87 per share on 200,000 shares.

The President points out that profits for the past 7 years amounted to a total of $7,343,823.02 and that preference dividends paid in that time were $2,896,316.50 leaving an accumulated profit applicable to common shares of $4,447,506.52.

Total sales for the year ended March 29 were $54,380,430. The profit for the year was therefore equivalent to 2.6 per cent. of dollar sales.

When the Company was formed in 1927, working capital was $3,636,869.35. Working capital of 10 millions was set as an objective and this has now been reached.

Profits for the year were only a little lower than those of the three years preceding the depression. This was due to an advance in the price of several commodities, chief of which was hogs. This advance was due entirely to one cause, the steady advance in the price of bacon in England. The branch of the livestock industry with the surest immediate prospect is that of hogs, says the President's report. To take maximum advantage of the opportunity, however, Canadian bacon must be improved so that it will be on a par with competitive bacon in the world market. Danish bacon in 1933 sold in Great Britain on an average of 10 shillings per hundredweight more than Canadian bacon; chiefly because Danish bacon was better and that is because Danish hogs are better than Canadian hogs.

"If in 1933 Canadian hogs had been as good as they might have been, the Canadian farmer would have received for them an additional 12 million dollars. The 12 million dollars which the Canadian farmer fails to make each year on hogs alone, is more than the total profits of the Canadian packing industry in the last 15 years."

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD PEACE RIVER DISTRICT

EDMONTON, Aug. 23 (CP).—Canadian National Railways executives returned today from a three-day trip to the Peace River District impressed with conditions in the north, especially with the crop showing which is expected to reach a record 20,000,000 bushels this year.

"Things are looking very good up there and prospects are bright," said J. S. Hungerford, President of the railway.

The party left for Mountain Park, Alberta, where they will inspect coal mines. From there they will proceed to Jasper and then to Prince Rupert, where a boat will be boarded for Vancouver.

England Building Large Flying Boat

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The world's largest flying boat, with the exception of the German DO X, which was never placed into commercial service, is being built by the Blackburn Aeroplane Co. here.

Powered with six motors of 650 horsepower each, the new craft is designed to carry 50 passengers in addition to a pilot, two co pilots, two stewards and two stewardesses.

Incorporating several new departures in design, the plane, a high wing monoplane, is destined for long over water trips. Its speed and cruising radius as well as several features of its design are being kept a close secret.

TO JUDGE NEW DEAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The American Liberty League began laying foundations today for a campaign across the United States to recruit 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 property owners to judge the new deal.

Avowedly non-partisan and "not anti-Roosevelt," it set out to command all possible influence in the warning debate over whether the administration is "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

138 INSPECTORS WILL BE OUSTED

Brewery Warehouse Liquor Permit Officials Through on August 31.

SAVE $209,000 YEARLY.

TORONTO, Aug. 23 (C.P.)—Ontario Liquor Commissioner Edmund Odette to-day announced 138 brewery warehouse liquor permit inspectors would be notified to-day their services would not be required after Aug. 31.

Dismissal of the inspectors would save the Ontario government $209,000 a year, Mr. Odette said. He explained the new system of taxing brewers and the abolition of permits for purchase of beer had rendered services of the inspectors unnecessary.

The Dominion Government inaugurated the new tax system about a month ago, substituting for the old five per cent tax on gross sales of beer at 3½ per cent tax on malt used in manufacture of the beverage and a four per cent tax when other substances, such as rice, were used in the manufacture.

The money saved by discharge of the warehouse inspectors will revert to the provincial treasury.

Oils brightened up slightly in late trading, and other issues were generally steady to firm. Volume way down from yesterday.

PRESS ATTACKS BOYCOTT PLANS BY LANCASHIRE

Fear Action May Lead to Further Tariff Reprisals Australia.

UP TO OTTAWA PACT.

By THOMAS CHAMPION,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(C. P. Cable.)—Leading British newspapers which ordinarily differ in opinion, united to-day in deprecating Lancashire's threat to boycott Australian produce as a result of various increases in Australian duties on cotton piece-goods from Lancashire.

The boycott threat was mentioned at the same time representations were made by a Lancashire deputation to Stanley Bruce, Australia's High Commissioner in London, who promised the delegation yesterday he would take the matter up with his government.

"It is most unfortunate," the Times said, "that this delicate issue should have been raised during the present Australian election campaign. It is impossible not to suspect the increase in duties was deliberately timed as a bid for support of the Queensland cotton growers; nevertheless there is surely a strong case for the contention that if 100 per cent. duties can be brought within the scope of the Ottawa agreements, then the articles of the agreements have very little meaning.

"Now that the home government has decided to take up the matter officially with the Australian government it is to be hoped untimely efforts to force the issue will be immediately abandoned.

"Reprisals can only arouse illfeeling in the Antipodes, which may easily give rise to counter-reprisals that might hit Lancashire very severely."

The Times referred to the point that if Lancashire grocers institute a boycott, as threatened, Australia can easily do likewise with Lancashire goods.

The Liberal News-Chronicle said the issue ought not to be beyond reasonable accommodation if all concerned keep their heads and their tempers. "The moral to be drawn at the moment is the vanity of the Ottawa experiment as an essay in cementing the empire," it added.

Australian View

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 23. (C.P. cable via Reuters)—The Melbourne Herald said to-day that Stanley Bruce, Australia's High Commissioner in London, had presented Australias case 'admirably' when he met a deputation of Lancashire cotton industry representatives yesterday, protesting against new Australian tariffs on cotton piece-goods.

Mr. Bruces reply was marked by "an ability and a spirit gratifying to the Commonwealth's interests" the Herald said.

"Australia, which will have to stand any loss, is the best judge of whether there is any ground for the contention that she has broken the Ottawa agreement by entering an industry she is unable to conduct at a profit. Australia in this has the backing of her tariff board, which was approved at Ottawa as a fair tariff tribunal.

"There is strong sentiment in Australia favoring Imperal trade but Mr. Bruce, like Australians in general, wants to remove the possibility of a conflict which would be deplorably mischievous and fatuous."

RUSHING TO SAVE N.R.A.

Enroute with President Roosevelt to Washington, Aug. 23.— (AP) — President Roosevelt hurried back to the White House today as fresh reports sprang up of a sharp controversy over the reorganization of the NRA.

The chief executive, who paid his last respects to the late United States House of Representatives Speaker Henry T. Rainey yesterday, changed his original plans to go directly to his summer home at Hyde Park, N. Y. and returned to Washington instead in order to attend to some urgent matters.

300,000 SHARES OFFERED PUBLIC

Glenora Gold Mines Use Funds to Finance Development Plans.

Announcement is made of a public offering of 300,000 shares of treasury stock of Glenora Gold Mines, Ltd., through a group of brokers, members of the Toronto, Montreal, Calgary, Winnipeg and Vancouver Stock Exchanges. It is planned to use the funds derived from the sale of stock to finance the present plan of development and thoroughly prospect the property, which adjoins Toburn Gold Mines on east in the Kirkland Lake camp and is in the direct line of the seven producing mines, namely, Macassa, Kirkland Lake, Teck-Hughes, Lake Shore, Wright Hargreaves, Sylvanite and Toburn.

Formed a little more than a year ago, surface exploration on the Glenora property to date has opened up four important veins together with a number of others which will be explored further later on. Since it is a well-known fact that nearly all the Kirkland Lake mines have had to go to depth to locate commercial ore bodies, Glenora with its average vein dip of from 65 to 72 degrees south and a 4,300 ft. length along the main south "break" of the camp is well protected. Of the four veins partially opened up, the north vein is the most important. This vein crosses the Glenora property in an east-west direction for a length of several hundred feet, while cross-trenching at intervals has opened up what appears to be the same vein across the Toburn ground to the west for an additional 900 ft. On the westerly extension of the north vein, the manager of Glenora reports a fairly continuous length of 190 ft. over an average width of 14 inches and grade of approximately 0.5 ounces. Average grade runs $9.06 ($35 gold) per ton over an average width of 18 inches for a length of 265 ft. Samples taken from the North vein recently are said to have run into several hundred dollars per ton.

K. B. Heisey, mining engineer, who reported on the property recently, states in part that the No. 1 vein strikes across the ground in an east-west direction for a distance of 250 ft. The fracture comprising the vein is a typical Kirkland Lake variety consisting of fragments of porphyry mineralized with pyrite supported in a groundmass of a little quartz. The No. 2 vein parallels the No. 1 some 40 feet south and has been exposed for a length of 80 ft., while the No. 3 is located approximately 90 ft. south of the No. 2 vein and parallels it in strike and dip, and has been traced in length over 3,000 ft. Latest results of development work on the property is to the effect that one section of the No. 3 vein has been opened up 100 ft. west of No. 8a pit averages $14 gold (old price) per ton across a width of 16 inches for 100 ft. in length. It is stated that the last eight samples averaged better than $20. Further west, the No. 3 vein is joined by another vein on surface and a much greater width is indicated. Blasting and channel sampling every 5 ft. is being continued. Only recently two other promising veins were traced into the Glenora ground from the Toburn property. The first one, known as the No. 5 vein, is located 200 ft. north of the North vein. Gold values have been obtained from this vein. The second vein, known as No. 4, is 160 ft. north of the North vein and 40 ft. south of the No. 5. Opening up of these two veins is continuing in preparation for thorough sampling.

As a result of the excellent results on surface, the company is going ahead with plans for the sinking of a three-compartment shaft, which is to be put down to a depth of 1,000 ft. In view of the dip of the veins on the property, it has been suggested that any extensive lateral development be postponed until that level is reached.

Glenora Gold Mines is capitalized at 2,500,000 shares, $1 par, of which approximately 2,100,000, including the present offering, are outstanding.

ARGENTINE BALKS AGAIN

By Albert W. Wilson, A. P. Staff Writer.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Argentina and two or three European countries declined to give full support to new proposals for international regulations of wheat trade and production, an authoritative source said today.

The statement was made following a final reading of a six-page draft plan drawn up at this morning's session of the world wheat conference.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

MEIGHEN LAYS ABITIBI PROBE

about assisting the bankrupt Ontario Power Service Corporation. He also said Mr. Meighen might have been justified in suggesting a course of action, but Mr. Meighen said he had not done this.

Not a Pleasant Task

Addressing the Latchford-Smith Royal Commission to-day Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, a former Prime Minister of Canada, said his task was not a pleasant one in as much he had to defend his conduct with respect to his personal honor.

He had many times had to defend his judgment on public matters but never his own honor.

"The inquiry as directed by the new Government," he said, "is directed mainly against myself. I have sought an inquiry ever since the first breath of aspersion appeared. I never relaxed my efforts until I got it."

"Why all this anxiety to bring injury to myself was not clear to me until recently," said Mr. Meighen. He said it was the duty which fell to him in relation to Beauharnois which now loomed clearly as the reason for the attacks.

"Vengeance for Beauharnois is the foot of all efforts to get Mr. Meighen," he declared. Further he said it was the first intimation he had that his duty in dealing with the Beauharnois matter in the Senate had been performed unfairly.

He then asked what was involved in the inquiry. There were no civil rights or property involved. If his life or property were attacked he would, under British law have certain rights which were denied to him when his honor was attacked. A man accused had the right to specific statement of the accusation of what he did that was wrong. He had none, only vague inferences.

No Defence

An accused had some say as to his jurors. He had none; of this he made complaint. Trials were governed by rules of evidence. No rules were enforced at this inquiry. Anything could be put into the mouths of witnesses which could be got in. Crown prosecutors were impartial. Here the prosecutor was in the position of a man who had been robbed prosecuting the thief. Arthur Slaght had made the charges and now sought to justify.

"These are the conditions we have had to contend with for six long weeks," he said. Most of the work has been done for us by Mr. Tilley. In fact Mr. Tilley retained by his own clients, witnesses, has done the work that should have been done by counsel for the commission."

Mr. Meighen said he had heard it said he was hiding behind Mr. Henry. Nothing was further from the truth. As a citizen of Ontario, he had no hesitation in saying he approved wholeheartedly of everything Mr. Henry and the Government had done in connection with the Abitibi purchase.

The Abitibi Company, said Mr. Meighen, knew the situation in the North thoroughly and was willing to and did pledge its whole assets to put over the Abitibi Canyon Power Plant.

The Government later acquired the plant at a huge saving compared to what it would have cost the company to complete. There had been losses, perhaps larger than any that had been anticipated, but there were always losses on power plants in new territory during the first years of their operation.

Mr. Meighen stressed the close and intimate relation between Hydro and the Government. The Government was the banker and provided the capital. Yet as trustee for the municipalities, the real owners of Hydro it was its duty to accept no instructions from any government for the good of the system.

In 1932, said Mr. Meighen, Hydro had a contract for the purchase of 100,000 horsepower of electricity from the Ontario Power Service Corporation. That contract was made at the request of the Government because it was not Hydro's business or policy to operate in Northern territory where municipalities were not in existence. Consequently the Government guaranteed Hydro against loss.

When the time came that the Ontario Power Service Corporation could not complete its Canyon Power Plant the question of Hydro's position was considered. The government wanted the plant completed. It got it completed at the lowest possible cost and got the ownership of the plants.

Appointed in 1931

Mr. Meighen said he was appointed a Hydro Commissioner in 1931. He said he had not been in public life for five years, but his appointment was termed political. The reason was because he had stated he had looked into the payment of $50,000 to John Aird and found nothing wrong.

"If anyone in Hydro says anything in answer to an attack," he said, "that is political. That payment was under attack. In my opinion there was nothing dishonorable. But apparently if you are with Hydro you must say nothing in answer to attacks."

Mr. Meighen said he would assume the Commission would rule there was nothing wrong in his original purchase of $2,000 in Ontario Power Service Bonds. It would take more than a prophet at the time to see in that a future conflict between his duty and his interests.

When the first charges against him were made, said Mr. Meighen, those who made them apparently honestly believed he had conducted the Abitibi deal negotiations, that he had fixed the thing up to suit himself. They had said as much. But they found it was not so and hence all the frantic attempts to "pin something on me."

His companies, said Mr. Meighen, were investment companies with holdings in Ontario Power Service Corporation bonds as well as in scores of other companies. Their business was investments.

There was not a single bond purchase by one of the companies which could be attributed to him until after a public announcement of the close of the deal was made.

During the period of negotiation he knew nothing of the trend, said Mr. Meighen. The only ones who knew about them were members of the government or confidantes of the government, such as I. B. Lucas, lawyer called in by Mr. Henry, G. T. Clarkson, auditor, and F. A. Gaby, engineer. They were men accustomed to handling confidential matters and they would not have been trusted again if they had spread the word around.

Referring to his visit to the government, Mr. Meighen said he thought Commissioner Smith was under a misapprehension. He was not such a "ninny" as to go to any government for help if he were in trouble. Mr. Smith said he had not thought that.

Asks Quick Decision

His sole purpose in going to see W. H. Price, acting premier, was to urge that a decision be made soon. He felt he was justified in that though he did not care to suggest what ought to be done.

"I would think you would have been justified under the circumstances in making suggestions" said Mr. Smith. Mr. Meighen said he perhaps was extremely careful because he was conscious of his position as a Hydro Commissioner. Further, he said he was not greatly concerned in what the decision was but thought it should be prompt.

It was ridiculous, he said, for counsel to speak of the bondholders as helpless who "could be ground down under the heel of the government." The bondholders were led by the big ones, the insurance companies and others. They were not going to be sacrificed for they owned the property.

"Nesbitt of the Canada Northern Power Company was keenly interested," said Mr. Meighen.

Saved For Ontario

"Mr. Henry told him to go back to Montreal. The Canada Northern Power was a strong company. Had it got this property it would have been monarch of the north. But Mr. Henry said: "No, we want that property for the province."

The government was in the position of guarantor of a losing contract—the O.P.S.C. contract with Hydro. This was an added reason for getting the canyon power plant. It was a government problem and not a Hydro problem.

"Was it Hydro's place then," he asked, "when the government presented a solution of the problem for Hydro to turn it down." The suggestion is so nonsensical it didn't occur to anyone. There was no consideration as to whether we should review the government's solution of its own problems."

Consequently the Hydro Commission approved the purchase of O.P.S.C bonds. Mr. Slaght's suggestion he should not have voted because of his $3,000 in bonds would have been an easy thing to do but would have amounted to nothing.

Objects to Reference

Mr. Meighen said he had a few complaints to make. He objected to the "scurrilous irrelevancies" of Mr. Slaght. He said he had been accused of fraud and crime in a question addressed to a witness by Mr. Slaght. It was ruled out as soon as uttered, but was in the newspapers across the coutnry. This was part of Mr. Slaght's campaign to injure him.

Another complaintt was the accusation "he had concealed" his holding of $3,000 O.P.S.C. bonds. This was a deliberate slander, he said. The Erindale Securities, his personal company, had been formed long ago. It held all his property. He had never concealed his bonds.

If they had been held by the company they would have been deposited with a trust company in the name of his broker and would not have been in his own name, anyway.

The purchase of a $5,000 bond by one of his companies when negotiations were going on was the one regrettable thing so far as he was concerned, not because he had information but because he wished to keep his own record clear.

Mr. Meighen said he had full confidence in leaving his good name in the hands of the Commission.

Asks Government Pay

Former Premier Henry arose to repeat his request made earlier in the inquiry that counsel for the former Government be paid by the Government. The Commissioners made no answer.

In his reply Mr. Slaght argued Premier Henry under established legal doctrines was wrong in carrying on the Abilitbi negotiations while holding his bonds. Certainly, he claimed, he had a duty to disclose his holding to his colleagues.

"His position is condemned by every authority—legal, moral and ethical," said Mr. Slaght, referring to arguments advanced by Russell Locke, counsel for Mr. Henry.

It was true he had directed attention to only two men, Mr. Meighen and Mr. Henry, said Mr. Slaght. This was because they were the only ones whose interest was shown to conflict with their duty.

Mr. Slaght accused Mr. Tilley of impertinence to the Commissioners.

ground dragged him for some distance.

The boy cyclist, is stated to have been riding on the shoulder of the road at the time he was struck down. With the totally wrecked cycle straddling the hood of the car, the vehicle sped on north.

Suffering from extensive scratches and bruises to his back and slight scalp wounds, the boy was picked up and conveyed to the home of his parents near by. The officer told the court this morning, "it is nothing short of miraculous that he was not killed."

Joseph Girven, road inspector on the Lakefield-Peterborough paving contract, observed the car zig-zagging up the centre of the highway a mile and a half beyond the scene of the accident, and after it had scattered a group of workmen, he ordered a truck placed across the roadway to bring the Calvert car to a halt, he told The Examiner.

Ran Into Woods.

The car stopped, Mr. Girven stated, and the two occupants jumped out and ran off into the woods. The wrecked cycle was still straddling the hood of the car, and realizing that an accident had taken place Mr. Given not ified police.

Securing the license number of the abandoned car, police got in touch with the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Highways Department at Toronto, and learning of the ownership proceeded to Hall's Bridge, where the two me nwere arrested this morning.

It was ascertained that after abandoning the car when it was stopped by the highway workers, the men had gone across country to Lakefield, where they hired a taxi to take them to their respective homes.

anic, said the railway has 63 locomotives, 33 of them in good condition, the balance in need of repair, here are many small type engines which are rarely in service, he said.

Present service on the road requires constant use of the 33 locomotives, Mr. Ross continued, and he recommended immediate repair of the 30 engines which require attention.

The T. and N.O. has 29 all-steel passenger coaches, witness said, four of them needing general repairs and 12 requiring light repairs. The road has 35 passenger coaches of wood construction and 24 of them need paint and repairs, Mr. Ross added.

Borrowed 1,111 Cars

In one year, Ross said, the railway borrowed 1,111 cars from the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways for paper shipments and 27 for other purposes. Cost of the borrowing was $1 a day for each car. He said the road had 240 box cars, 40 percent of them in need of light repairs, and 278 flat cars, 20 percent in need of light repairs. He testified about 50 percent of all rolling stock needs repairs.

He attributed absence of repairs to "lack of working hours and labor," and said repairs should be made at once to avoid deterioration.

He agreed with Mr. Racine that revenue-producing equipment is lack of repairs is "threatening the life of the railway when its revenue-producing equipment is out of service."

He said his superior officers were aware of the situation as he had furnished them with a list of cars which need repairs.

Staff Cuts

The Commissioner sought information of staff reductions in the service, and was told they were effected after conferences between officials of the road.

He sought to place responsibility for reduction in the car shops staffs from 405 in 1919 to 240 in 1934. He was told the reductions were effected after conference between officials including Archibald Freeman, Employment Agent; Secretary-Treasurer Maund, and Superintendent W. A. Griffin.

A sharp tilt developed between the Commissioner and Freeman, who denied with vigor the Commission's assertion, "You know more about the reductions than anybody else on the railway." Freeman maintained his specialty was a "knowledge of wage agreements with the men."

RIVAL LOVER BEING HELD

his purses. There was one cent in one of the purses. I understood that Rogouski was in the habit of carrying considerable money on him all the time."

Bill Serhenwick, who knew Rogouski well, said, "Sure he carried money with him. I believe he had $50 in bills maybe more."

The condition of the body leads police to conclude that the man has been dead for some time or since he disappeared.

The body was removed to Scott's Undertaking Parlors at Millbrook some time later. There it was viewed by a coroner's jury empanelled by Dr. Harold Ferguson, coroner, of Enniskillen. To-day the jury was taken to the home of Michael Romanic to make a survey of the place and view the spot where the body was found.

Evidence of Violence.

Coroner Ferguson stated that there was evidence of violent treatment on the body, but Dr. Edgar R. Frankish, of Toronto, expert criminologist of the Attorney-General's Department, was in Millbrook today making a detailed post-mortem, and his findings are expected to be materially helpful to police.

Symons was arrested by Provincial Constable Smith immediately after the finding of the body. A few hours previously, before beginning search of the stream, Constable Smith called at the Serhenwick farm and questioned Symons and Bill Serhenwick.

"The constable questioned Met pretty closely, but he didn't seem scared at all," Serhenwick told The Examiner to-day. "Afterward Smith took Met along with him down to the stream where they were searching. I went to. As soon as they found the body, Smith put the handcuffs on Met. He was scared then."

Symons was conveyed under guard to Cobourg jail, where he is held without bail on an open charge.

On Sunday, July 29, the murdered man left the Romanic farm, where he had been working for several weeks, building a frame kitchen, to go to the home of his widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Daniel Rogouski, seven miles away, where he made his home. He left for the visit in the morning, but did not return.

Days passed, and with Rogouski still absent, on Sunday Romanic went to Mrs. Daniel Rogouski to inquire when Peter was coming back to finish the kitchen. Mrs. Rogouski informed him that Peter had left her place to return to Romanic's on the Sunday three weeks before.

She was surprised to learn that he had never reached the Romanic farm. Romanic immediately became suspicious, informed police, and the search followed.

Bill Serhenwick, farmer, for whom Symons has been working for the past five months, was interviewed to-day by The Examiner. The Serhenwick and Romanic farms are less than a quarter of a mile apart.

"Met and Olive Romanic were pretty hot about each other," the young farmer stated. "He used to see Olive often. Before working for me he worked for a couple of years at the Romanics. They were going to get married in the spring.

"Then some little time ago Peter Rogouski came up here to build the shed for Romanic. Olive seemed to take a fancy to Rogouski, and I was told by the Romanics that she was through with Met and was going to marry Peter.

Always Gloomy.

"Met seemed to be gloomy. He was always gloomy. You couldn't get much out of him. No, he didn't get angry, but he was sure down-in-the-mouth."

During the past three weeks, since the disappearance of Rogouski, Symon's personality did not undergo any change. "He did not seem any different, just the same gloominess as before."

"Met, he is a big fellow, pretty good-looking too. But Peter was just small—a nice fellow though, I could never see why Olive threw Met over for Peter, though. Of course Met didn't have any money or anything. The Romanics seemed to want Olive to marry Peter and not Met."

Recalling the movements of Symons on the Sunday, July 29, when Rogouski disappeared and on the day on which police believe he was murdered, the young farmer stated, "As far as I can remember he was at our farm all day. In the afternoon I went out picking berries, but I came back before six o'clock and Met was at home. He was in the house up until 8 o'clock, when I went to my room and read the funny papers until 10, when I went to sleep."

The young farmer's evidence may be important to Symons. "If Rogouski left his sister-in-law's around 8 o'clock, when they say he did," he explained, "it would take him two or three hours to walk back to Romanic's. Met was in the house with me when Peter should have been about reaching Romanic's. I don't see how he could have done anything like this."

Girl Is Interviewed.

The reporter went across the road and interviewed Olive Romanic, for whose affections police believe Symons and Rogouski were at odds. The slight, healthy-looking girl seemed undisturbed by the recent happenings in which she had become involved, although police had just finished questioning her as The Examiner drove up.

Garbed in a red dress, she held a five-months-old baby in her arms. "This is my baby," she told The Examiner in answer to questions. "His name is Bill and Met is his father."

"Was Met in love with you?" the reporter asked.

"Oh yes, he liked me a lot," the girl answered.

She said she was to have married him, but after the baby was born, "I told him I was through with him." "He wasn't supposed to come over and see me at all," she explained.

"Did you still care for him?"

"No."

"Were you going to marry Peter?"

Get Married in Fall.

"Yes, we were going to get married in the Fall. I liked Peter. He asked me to marry him three years ago, but I was going to school then and was not thinking of marriage. He proposed to me some months ago, after the baby was born."

"Did Met ever show any anger when he saw Peter with you. Was he ever jealous" the reported queried.

"No, he seemed all right."

Sometimes, she said, Met would come over in the evenings and stand out in the yard. She and Rogouski would be in the house.

Serhenwick told the reporter that one evening he had seen Met peaking in the window of the Romanic house. "I don't think the Romanics wanted him around after Peter came," he said.

The sixth line of Manvers is inhabited mostly by foreign farmers, Mr. Fallis being the only Canadian-born farmer residing there.

While the investigation is under the direction of Inspector Gardiner, of Belleville, head of the Provincial Police for this district, Constable Smith, of Bowmanville, and Edwin Richards, chief constable of Millbrook, have been most active during the past two days in striving to clear up first the disappearance and now the murder of Rogouski.

Dr. Frankiah completed a complete post mortem of the body at 2.45 this afternoon. While no statement as to his findings was given out by Dr. Frankish, The Examiner learned that the post mortem confirmed the belief that Rogouski had met death by violence.

Police were busy throughout the district late this afternoon piecing the mystery together.

$1,000 Loot Taken From Freight Car

LINDSAY, Aug. 23 (Special to Examiner)—Burglars made another big haul in tobaccos and cigarettes last night when a freight car was entered on the C.N.R. siding at the local freight sheds. The loss is estimated at $1,000. Police believe a truck was used to carry away the loot. This is the second haul of this nature during the past few weeks. Recently burglars entered the warehouse of T. Bakogeorge and carried away cigarettes to hte value of $1,500.

POLICE CLOSE MIDWAY SHOW

MAY BE OPEN AGAIN.

Clamps of censorship were last night fastened down on a sideshow — a feature of Wallace Brothers Midway playing at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

Last night three police officers in uniform mingled with the big audience of men, and concluded from their own observations, that the show was not only highly suggestive, but too scantily attired to conform to proper standards of public decency.

J. P. Sullivan, owner and operator of Wallace Brothers Midway, hearing that the sideshow had been shut down, sought out Constable Silvester and expressed surprise that police had found it necessary to take such extereme measures. Apparently, the sideshow is not under direct supervision of Mr. Sullivan, but is leased out to a concessionaire. Mr. Sullivan stated that he was striving at all times to keep the general tone of the Midway on a high level.

PRICES RISING IN CANADA WHEAT LEADING THE WAY MILK AND BREAD FOLLOW

Undercurrent of Anxiety Is Evident in Ottawa and Financial Circles.

$53,000,000 ISSUED

Wages and Salaries Certain to Rise, But Usually More Slowly.

(By Wilfrid Eggleston, Central Press Canadian Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 23 — Prices are rising again at last. Wheat is leading the way. Milk prices are stiffening. Bread goes up a cent a loaf. Rents are to follow. Bacon and ham is double the price it was a short time ago. Are we in for an era of inflation? Or has the inflation we have already indulged in been responsible for the recent rise in commodity prices—so welcome to the farmer and primary producer, but so ominous to the wage-earner and the "fixed" income" classes, pensioners and so forth?

An era of climbing prices is what people have been clamoring for ever since the beginning of the depression. All through it there were apostles of inflationary measures pleading with the government to depreciate our currency, print new bills, some way or another cause an artificial rise in wholesale price levels.

But now that there are signs of soaring prices an undercurrent of anxiety is evident at Ottawa, and in the big financial centres.

Canada Follows U. S.

Some of the wise men of Parliament Hill shake their heads gravely over the recent halt in business recovery at Washington and across the water. They are afraid that the drought and the growing uncertainty across the line may drive the administration to further inflation, such as monetising of silver and the production of new currency on a silver basis instead of gold. If business falters, it will be given a "shot in the arm." It it goes on for a while and then falters again, it will be given another. The history of inflation is full of dope patients whose dose had to be increased until money became valueless.

A few years ago when France and Germany devaluated their currency, commodity prices rose. This was the effect desired in the United States when President Roosevelt devaluated the dollar. The desired effect, however, was not forthcoming and many economists are of the opinion that the United States reckoned without the overabundance of commodities. In France and Germany there had been a shortage; in Canada and the United States, commodities are being destroyed and grain, acreage cut in an effort to sustain prices. Since prices failed to rise another method of inflation must be tried.

Not that many acute observers fear an orgy of inflation, but they seriously expect some additional stimulation from Roosevelt. The question follows: "If the U. S. dollar is further depreciated, can this country avoid following blindly after them?" Most monetary observers believe that inflation in the United States means inflation in Canada. It has done so far. The Canadian dollar is tied closely to the American. The United States has inflated to the point where her dollar is now only worth 59 cents in gold. Canada accompanied her all the way. If the U.S. depreciates her money to 60 cents gold, that will probably mean a Canadian dollar worth 60 cents.

That's the external threat. Then there's the internal one.

Print $53,000,000 In Bills

The Bennett government took steps, just before the last session closed, to print $53,000,000 in crisp new bills without adding a dollar to the gold reserves. That's inflation. The money has only just started to get out. Forty millions of it is earmarked to pay for the nation-wide program of public works. But the government means to get that money out and get it working. If business threatens to collapse, this Fall, they will see that it is issued, public works or no public works.

And that $53,000,000 is just the beginning of what we could do. It is based on gold at $35.07. If we revalued gold in this country at its world value, of about $35 an ounce, we could issue another hundred million dollars in bills at least.

Inflation, whether self-induced or forcibly brought about by the manipulation of a neighbor's currency, normally spells higher prices. You and I may not have noticed much effect as yet, but the inflation this country has already undergone has made several major changes in price levels. Take wheat and gold as good examples.

Real Price Remains Same

The world price of wheat in terms of gold (the only world measuring stick we have left) was about the same in December, 1933 as it was in April, 1934, about 40 cents, basis No. One, at Fort William.

Yet the average elevator price to Western farmers of average grade wheat was 18 cents a bushel in December, 1933, and 42 cents in April, 1934.

Why the difference? Because our dollar, in sympathy with the U.S. dollar, has slipped down to 59 cents gold.

It's a bit confusing, but think of it this way. Supposing a farmer in December, 1933, hauled a 100 bushel tank of wheat into town and got in exchange an ounce of gold. This, at the bank, would have yielded him $20.67.

In April of this year, even though the same load only fetched the same price of an ounce of gold, he would get $35 in Canadian money for that ounce of gold. Though the world price of his wheat in terms of gold was just exactly the same as it had been, he would be over $14 to the good on his one load of wheat. And that $14, although "depreciated money" would go quite a way in buying stuff at the grocery store or in paying taxes.

Farmer Gets More

Wheat early in August touched the dollar mark at Winnipeg. But the gold price of wheat, on those very dates, was only 58 cents cash. If Canada had remained on the gold standard No. 1 Northern wheat at Fort William would still only be worth 58 cents or so. Deduct freight and less from grades, and the average net price to Western farmers, on the gold basis, would be only 34 cents.

Instead, the farmers were, on those days actually getting about 75 cents at the elevator.

That's what inflation, or depreciation of currency, has done for the wheat farmer.

Every gold miner, and every owner of gold stock, knows what that same depreciation has done for gold in Canada. The stuff sells for $35 an ounce instead of $20.67—the old price. And even when the government has taken its tax on the premium, there's enough left to make gold mining the most profitable industry in Canada to-day.

The same things are true of other exported commodities. Hogs, fruit, cheese, metals, automobiles, meats—the returns to the farm are all higher because we "left gold" and depreciated our currency. The Australian farmer, the New Zealander, and the Argentinian got the benefits of such depreciation long before we did. While we were still on the gold standard, they were getting prices which worked out in their own currency at nearly twice what Canadian farmers were getting. Their wheat was selling for five shillings ($1.25) a bushel, while ours was only 91 cents. The world price was the same. It was just the inflation of Australian money which made our cents equivalent to $1.25 in their money.

Pensioners Are Hurt

The catch is that although inflation helps, or appears to help, the farmer and the exporter, the tradesman and the dealer, it hurts other people.

If all prices and wages, rents and taxes, rose and fell together, probably the ideal state of things would be a very slow rising index of all commodities, services, etc. Or so the experts say.

Unfortunately, they don't.

An era of rising prices, like the present, usually sees the primary commodity prices, like wheat, meats, copper, lumber, fish, etc., rising first and quite rapidly.

This in turn raises wholesale prices and, more sluggishly, retail prices.

Wheat jumps 30 cents a bushel in three months. Flour rises, too, though not so fast nor so far. For a couple of months bread isn't affected, then, at last, it goes up one cent or two cents a loaf.

Wages Rise Last

Wages and salaries are certain to rise, too, but usually they rise later and more slowly than retail prices. So that the small householder soon begins to feel a pinch. His food bill goes up. His fuel rises. His rent bill is stepped up a little. But his pay envelope stays the same.

Ultimately wages and salaries rise. But some incomes are fixed. The widow living off bonds, the old age pensioner, the war pensioner, the purchaser of a retirement bond—these people find the cost of living rising, but have no chance of a rise in income.

The farmer, the lumberman and the fisherman have a brief period of prosperity. Wheat doubles in price in a year. (It has done that in the past year, virtually, counting the net return on the average farm rather than Fort William prices). But store goods only rise a little. Taxes remain the same. The mortgage interest stays the same. The result is that the farmer has much more money to spend.

Of course, deflations work unequally, too. They help the "fixed income" people, and the people on wages and salaries. They work havoc with the primary producer. His income is cut in half in a year, while most of his costs stay up where they were.

WORK OF BLIND SHOWN AT 'EX'

Remarkable Color Schemes Receive Much Comment.

SILK WINDING

A display of work done by blind Canadians, sponsored by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Toronto, is exciting enthusiastic comment on the part of visitors to the commercial exhibits in the Main Building at the Exhibition this week. The exhibit comprises a wide variety of products presented for inspection in an attractive array.

Considering the fact that the products were made by persons who have been deprived of their eyesight, the prominence of colour in Greens, reds and orange, brown and yellow appear in the diverse types of baskets, the leathercraft products, the women's work and the whisks and brooms which feature the presentation. In every case, the color is tastefully applied.

The products are marketed under the general trade name, "Hope Brand." Placards at the exhibit urge Canadians to help their blind compatriots by patronizing their industry.

Ladislaus Dominik, the young Hungarian whose experiments in connection with the possibility of establishing the silk industry in Canada were reported recently in The Examiner, is staging an interesting demonstration of silk winding on the ground floor. His booth affords a series of specimens preserved in test tubes demonstrating visually the life cycle of the silk worm from the egg stage through to the egg-producing moth. The display is winning deserved attention.

The latest in Singer Sewing Machines is featured in the Singer Sewing Machine Company booth. Of no little interest to women visitors is the new type of machine with reversible feed and the new style treadle which are to be seen during the week. In the booth of the Beatty Washer Store, the well-known domestic line of Beatty products is on display. The display includes an attractive array of the most modern development in automatic ironers, washing machines, wringers, vacuum sweepers, floor polisher and wax appliers.

Stoves of various types and a wide range of Congoleum floor coverings are on view in the Cherney Furniture Store exhibit.

Cavan

The Misses Jessie Armstrong and Anna Rowland went to Peterborough on Tuesday and were in the girls' judging class in domestic science on Wednesday.

Mrs. Yeoman and daughter, of Toronto, were visitors with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Watson, this week.

The service in Cavan United Church next Sunday evening will be in charge of Bert Monk, Bethany, district president of the Young People's Societies of the United Church.

On Tuesday evening a delightful social gathering was held in Cavan United Church in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Sutton (nee Vera I. McKim) whose marriage took place recently.

Mr. Ralph Staples was the genial chairman for a short program, consisting of impromptu speeches by Messrs. Lloyd Sutton, A. B. Kennedy, Will White, R. S. Staples, James Douglas, Hal Argue, J. W. Perrin and Mrs. R. S. Staples; a song, by Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, with Miss A. Tinney as accompanist; violin duets, by Gerald and Ruth Staples, with F. M. Staples as accompanist; a song, by Miss Annie Tinney, with Mrs. A. B. Kennedy as accompanist; and a song in costume, by Messrs. [illegible] and Frank Matchett. Mrs. R. Matchett read an address and Mrs. Albert Tinney and Mrs. A. B. Kennedy presented Mr. and Mrs. Sutton with a case of Community plate flatware in the "Lady Hamilton" pattern and a tray on which were a pair of silver candlesticks and a pair of silver salt and pepper shakers. Mr. Sutton made suitable reply on behalf of himself and his wife.

SEYMOUR WEST W.I. WILL GIVE PRIZE FOR MINIATURE GARDEN

Fine Program by School Pupils Features Meeting at Mrs. James Watters'.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, August 23 — The donation of a two dollar prize for a "miniature rock garden," at the Seymour Agricultural Fall Fair, featured some of the business of the Seymour West, Women's Institute meeting in regular session on Thursday last, and over which Mrs. Howard Clark presided. A very large attendance was registered, totalling 68 members, the gathering being held at the home of Mrs. James Watters. Mrs. Arthur Rutherford presided at the piano for the opening ode.

The special prize awarded is entirely new, and to some extent carries out one of the projects of the girls' coaching class, and will be looked forward to with interest. As far as could be ascertained the exhibit of Starlings' heads and eggs at the school fair will be small, therefore the prizes were set at $1, 75c., 50c., and 25c., with a bonus if the exhibit warrants it. It is to be regretted that more work has not been done along the line of 'chucks' tails,, crows' beaks and eggs and sparrows' eggs, as the Institute had decided to pay for these.

The weed inspector, Mr. Ingram, had spoken to the president, stating that he believed if the ladies would start it some way, the cemetery near the Connelley's' school, known as Clark's cemetery, would be cleaned up and kept so. The matter will receive some attention, although several moves have been made and all progress thwarted.

The roll call, "Name, and if possible, wear a flower, beginning with your name initial," proved very popular and was answered by nearly everyone present. There were also quite a number of very beautiful bouquets, for the best of which a prize was given. Mrs. P. B. Nelson, Misses Margaret Anderson and Bertha McConnell were asked to judge. The three highest bouquets were: 1st, Miss Helen Haig's mixed basket; 2nd, Mrs. Robert McCulloch's, table bouquet of mixed marigolds; 3rd. Mrs. George Nelson's vase of Clarkia.

An excellent program was put on by the pupils of West's School: Chorus by 4 girls and 3 boys: "The Wearing of the Green," five pupils with harmonicas, "Home, Sweet Home;" violin solo, "Old Folks at Home," Bruce Elmhirst, with Gladys Elmhirst at piano, piano solo, Yvonne Watters; a paper, "A sketch of the Life of a Worthy Example," was given by Miss Edna Stillman, a former pupil of West's, who very opportunely as this is Toronto's Centennial, and the T. Eaton Co.' 50th anniversary, chose the life of the late Timothy Eaton, who came to Canada as an unknown Irish lad, and in a short time through honesty, sobriety and other great virtues built the great business now so well established. It is a noteworthy fact that this great man was one of a family of nine, and in early life passed through many hardships. In an early apprenticeship he often had to rise very, very early in the morning to sell beer. Altogether it irked him so he decided that if he ever ran a business he'd never sell drink—and so he never did. A vocal duet, "Juanita," by Bessie McMullen and Beatrice Rutherford; piano solo, "Harvest Home," by Walter Duncan, violin solo, "Agawam Quick Step," an Indian dance, by Mary Rutherford; piano duet, "Golden Star Waltz," Dorothy Curle and Gladys Elmhirst; guitar solo, "Massa's in the cold, cold ground," Gladys Elmhirst. Mr. A. Todd, the capable teacher of these pupils, was called and graciously favored the ladies with a few words.

After this the Demonstration Team, Irene Curle, Margaret McCulloch and Beatrice Rutherford, endeavored to show the listeners how to dress well. This was pleasing, instructive, and demonstrated part of the program. We wish these girls success in Peterborough Wednesday next when they will compete with teams from other counties. Miss Ruby Dunham, the high girl in the competition for the county, was present, and was presented with the $5 donated by the branch. The president voiced the thanks of the gathering to all who helped in any way and spoke of the pleasure and interest taken in the school children. There were five teachers present as well as several ex-teachers.

A delectable and abundant lunch was served. The National Anthem, with Mr. Todd at the piano, closed what was spoken of as a banner meeting.

M.O.H. Commends Federal Exhibit

In commending the educational exhibit of the Federal Department of Agriculture (Animal Health Branch) which is housed in the Manufacturers' Building at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, to the general public Dr. G. Murray Fraser said he did so in the interests of public health.

The exhibit to which Dr. Fraser, Medical Officer of Health referred, includes specimens of the diseased organs of various animals, showing the various causes for which the carcasses of animals might be condemned as unfit for human consumption.

"The reason I am interested in the exhibit, is that I feel the people of Peterborough should see these things in order that they might fully appreciate the need of government inspected meats, and the advisability of insisting on inspected meat for their own needs."

The exhibit is in charge of Dr. Bright of the Animal Health Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

PLAN SHOWING THE PROVEN VEIN SYSTEM OF THE KIRKLAND LAKE GOLD CAMP

The details contained in this map have been derived from official maps issued by the Department of Mines, Ontario, supplemented by data prepared by Glenora Engineers in the field. While this information is believed to be entirely reliable, it is not guaranteed.

DEVELOPMENTS

Operations at the Glenora property have opened up surface showings that hold splendid possibilities for depth development. It is a well known fact that nearly all the Kirkland Lake mines have had to go to depth to locate commercial orebodies. On the Glenora property developments have not only proven the extension of the main south "break" of Kirkland Lake but have also disclosed, right on surface, what may prove to be important bodies of commercial ore. The experience of this camp, moreover, is that orebodies generally improve in width, grade and continuity at depth.

PRINCIPAL VEINS

Four important veins have been discovered and partially opened up to date. These are known as No. 1 vein, No. 2 vein, No. 3 vein and the North vein. On the North vein visible gold is in evidence in many places across widths up to 3 feet. Samples running into several hundred dollars per ton have recently been taken.

The average dip of the veins is from 65 to 72 degrees south so that they should continue in the Glenora property to great depth. It is important to note that Glenora has no less than 4300 feet in length along the main south "break" of the camp, which is approximately equal to the combined lengths of Teck-Hughes and Lake Shore on the same zone.

A number of other veins have been discovered in various parts of the property and will be further explored.

POWER AND TRANSPORTATION

Glenora property is traversed by the Nipissing Central line of the T. & N. O. Railroad about three miles east of Kirkland Lake station, and also by the main government highway from Kirkland Lake to Noranda. A power line also traverses the property and adequate water is available in Gull Lake.

SUMMARY

Present financing will be ample for the developments now planned and should go far to open up the property. In conclusion it may be said that the known facts of the Glenora property, combined with the known facts of the seven producing mines immediately to the west, present in combination, the conviction that developments at depth will add another producing mine to this notable camp.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT ON GLENORA GOLD MINES LIMITED, KIRKLAND LAKE, ONTARIO.

By K. B. Hussey, Mining Engineer

"..... It is generally accepted that the geology here is favourable for gold ore deposition. The common impression is that geologically, Glenora ground is higher than the other mines of the district. This may mean that greater depth will have to be reached for even more favourable conditions.

"Surface trenching by Toburn on Claim L. 2473 is now progressing and they are reported to be getting high values. This may influence the prospecting of your Claim 2412 to the north of the highway.

"No. 1 Vein strikes in an east-west direction across the north-west corner of Claim L. 2428 for a distance of 250 feet ..... The fracture comprising the vein is a typical Kirkland Lake variety consisting of fragments of porphyry mineralized with pyrite supported in a groundmass of a little quartz. The usual mud seam and fine carbonated schist follows the footwall. In places the whole is 3½ feet wide. ....

"No. 2 Vein is a parallel break in the conglomerate some 40 feet south of No. 1. ..... The total exposure is about 80 feet and the break dips about 73° south. .....

"No. 3 Vein is one of the most impressive looking veins on the property. It is approximately 90 feet south of No. 2 and parallels it in strike and dip. .....

"The North Vein is the most important one so far opened up. It crosses the west boundary of Claim L. 2412 in an east-west direction and is opened up and blasted into continuously for over 300 feet on the Glenora property. What appears to be the same has been opened at intervals by cross trenching across the Toburn claim to the west, an additional length of 900 feet. .....

"Vein matter is mostly narrow where exposed varying from 8 inches to 45 inches in width. .....

"The average grade is .250 ozs. or $8.06 at $35.00 per oz. gold over an average width of 18 inches for a continuous length of 265 feet. .....

"On the westerly extension of north vein on Toburn claim, ... the Manager of Glenora, reports by his assay plan, a fairly continuous length of 190 feet over an average width of 14 inches and grade of approximately 0.5 ozs. In fact cross trenching at intervals across the claim shows encouraging values for much of the remaining 700 feet.

"This Toburn section concerns Glenora because the latter should get all the vein on the dip and I understand that the ground is available at a reasonable price in any event. .....

"Intensive cross trenching has been carried out, and occasional values in the shearing revealed. Some very high values up to $34.80 (old gold price) over narrow widths have been reported ..... since my inspection. .....

"I consider the chances of developing a mine in the vicinity of North Vein a fair mining risk.

"The location of the property is very advantageous. Its proximity on the strike to the producer Toburn is important.

"The geology on the whole property is favourable for ore deposition. It should improve with depth.

"The veins so far opened up are persistent in their strike and fairly so as regards gold content. .....

"This north vein lacks width only to make it an orebody. A fair chance of this being obtained with depth is held out.

"Compared to most other surface showings in the Kirkland Lake Camp this is a good one. .....

"A vertical three-compartment shaft designed to cut the vein at 500 feet is recommended. I would postpone any extensive lateral development until this level is reached.

"The cost of the undertaking would approximate $35,000.00 exclusive of plant and equipment.

MILLBROOK TAKES EASY VICTORY 9-1

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Aug. 22. — The Millbrook squad took a walkover from Dinty's Inn (Peterborough) in the scheduled inter-county league game of box lacrosse at the Cosmos rink on Tuesday at 8.30 p.m., the final score being 9-1. In spite of so uneven a showing play was fast and interest-holding throughout, the fans getting the worth of their money. Peterborough's goalie was a supply man and not up to form, the solitary goal for the visitors being scored by Gardiner.

Gray starred for Millbrook having four goals to his credit, two of these being scored in rapid succession in the second period; others who poked the ball into the net were Red Creighton, L. Ingram, R. J. Scott, L. Nattress, and R. Edmunds, Mickey McGee, of Peterborough, was referee. The teams lined up:

Dinty's Inn—Dundas, goal; Reynolds and McDougal, defense; Gardiner, centre; Williams and Olaveson, wings; McGregor, rover; Creighton, sub.

Millbrook—Larmer, goal; Creighton and LeBarr, defense; Nattress, centre; Ingram and Scott, wings; Edmunds, rover, Raper, Sloan, Donnelly, Freelove, subs.

Recently Millbrook and Peterborough journeyed to Lindsay and put on an exhibition game in the Armouries before a large crowd of fans from that town, Dinty's Inn winning out in a score of 11-10. Lindsay had not seen a game of box lacrosse in some time and evidently enjoyed the friendly contest.

To show their disapproval of the Nazi regime unknown persons smeared the windows and doors of the German Consulate in Glasgow, Scotland, with red paint.

WILLIAM COLBURN IS GIVEN TEN DAYS

Found Guilty of Operating a Car While Intoxicated.

As a sequel to his wild drive in a motor car over the steep bank of the Otonabee river at the Jacks early on the morning of August 5, William Colburn, aged 62, of Manilla, was sentenced yesterday by Police Magistrate Langley to ten days in the county gaol on being convicted on the charge of being intoxicated while driving the car.

Colburn testified that he was not driving the car at the time of the crash, but that a mysterious resident of Lindsay, named McDonald, was its driver and escaped from the wrecked vehicle before police arrived on the scene.

Constables J. Naples and J. Deannard said they were called to the scene by Alderman Fred Tuggey's telephone call. They said they had to remove Colborn through the windshield and it was impossible for anyone to have extricated himself from the wreckage without assistance.

Colburn swore that McDonald, whom he knew only by sight, sprang from the car after it had crashed through the guard rail on the embankment and before it came to rest after its two somersaults on the edge of the river. He said he could not produce McDonald as a witness because he could not find him. He admitted having drunk beer in a Lindsay beverage room, but denied that he was drunk.

Alderman Fred Tuggey said he was awakened from sleep by the crash and called the police. He and the two officers said Colburn was intoxicated and expressed the opinion that he was in Lindsay.

JUNIOR FARMERS GIVEN BANQUET

contests, and expressed gratification at the largely increased number of entries, particularly from this county. Winners and losers alike she felt, could go home with the knowledge that they had gained something that would be of benefit to them in their daily occupations.

Introduced by A. D. Runions, agricultural representative for Peterborough County, M. C. McPhail, assistant director of Ontario agricultural representatives, said he was extremely proud of the calibre of the work performed by the junior farmers that day. He wondered if they fully appreciated just how much Mr. Matthews and Canada Packers Limited, were doing to further the interests of the competition by tendering such a banquet each year.

Then commenting on the fact that the number of entrants had set a new high record in that section of the Exhibition's activity, Mr. Phail, stated he took it as evidence of keen interest being displayed throughout Central Ontario in junior farmer work, especially as the change of date in the Fair, had come right in the midst of harvesting operations on the farms.

Vote of Thanks

William Heffernan of Norwood, ably moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the junior farmers to Mr. Matthews and the Canada Packers, stating that the banquet would remain with them as one of the pleasantest recollections of the 1934 Fair.

Rosetta Frankish of Lakefield ably second the motion and expressed thanks of the girls, while Mr. McPhail added to their motion the thanks of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

During the dinner, Moss Yokom's orchestra from Brock Street Summer Gardens provided musical selections, while several members of the orchestra presented novelty numbers that were all well received.

The Beef Classes

The R. E. Birdsall and Son herd of Herefords have sent an exceptionally strong contingent to the beef section, and in yesterday's judging they took down a big share of the prize money including the firsts for senior herd, senior and yearling bull, and senior cows. W. E. Parker and Sons of Watford and George Whittington and Son of South Monaghan are the Shorthorn competitors, a section in which some of the exhibiting breeders of recent years are absent.

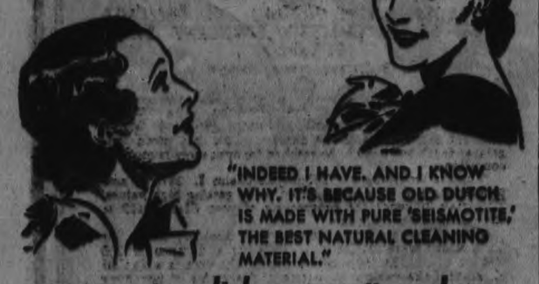
"HAVE YOU NOTICED WHAT A BRILLIANT POLISH OLD DUTCH GIVES TO THE PORCELAIN BATHROOM FIXTURES?"



"INDEED I HAVE. AND I KNOW WHY. IT'S BECAUSE OLD DUTCH IS MADE WITH PURE 'SEISMOTITE,' THE BEST NATURAL CLEANING MATERIAL."

Old Dutch polishes as well as cleans

Because it is made with pure "seismotite," the best, natural cleaning material, Old Dutch not only gives scratchless cleaning on fine porcelain, enamel and tile surfaces, but polishes as well as cleans.

Old Dutch is economical because it does more square yards of cleaning per penny of cost. Its flaky, flat-shaped particles cover more surface, contact it completely, and do more cleaning than the chunky, gritty particles present in ordinary cleansers.

Old Dutch is ideal for all cleaning—kitchen utensils and floors, painted walls and woodwork, or windows and mirrors. It's kind to hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors. There is no substitute for the quality and economy of Old Dutch Cleanser.

SECRETARY SPEAKS FOR OTTO CALLS SOCIALISM "GODLESS"

Thinks Prince Would Follow Policies of Dollfuss on Austrian Throne.

ON VISIT TO ITALY

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN,
Central Press Canadian Writer

BRUSSELS, Aug. 23.—For the second time in three years I cycled through these "meadows of astounding green," as Maeterlinck calls the Flemish countryside, and stopped off to knock at the gate of Steenockerzeele castle. But His Imperial Highness Otto von Habsburg had just flown the coop the day before.

"Are they home?" I asked a pipe-smoking Flemish peasant, who arrived at the gate with me carrying a basket of vegetables on his shoulders. "I guess so," he replied. "There are many guests these days."

"I had thought so," I said.

"Who are they anyway?" the man asked, referring to the ex-imperial family of Austria and its retinue.

"Well," I said, "whom do you people around here take them for?"

"Spaniards," he replied. "Spaniards, that's all."

"Maybe you're right," I said.

"I know I am," he assured me, taking the pipe out of his mouth to give more emphasis to his words.

"Why then did you ask me?" I said.

"A man can never be too sure in these days," he replied.

But the "Spaniards" were not home as it turned out. And what's more they may never come home again to Steenockerzeele, the Empress' Zita, tragic figure in an imperial drama, and her son Otto. Events in Austria are rapidly shaping in their favor and the bullet that cost Dr. Dollfuss his life, may well turn out to be the signal for an attempt to restore the monarchy. It depends on whether Mussolini feels the time is ripe.

I was led into an oak-panelled chamber where a priest was at work at a desk. He spoke French, but he pronounced "j'ai" as "chai," which marked him as an Austrian. He said with a smile that he was sorry but I could not see his imperial highness.

"His imperial highness is not ill?" I asked as sympathetically as I could.

"Not at all, not at all," the priest reassured me. "His majesty was never in better health, thank God. No, his majesty is on a voyage!"

His majesty, I thought, we're getting on. Presently I will hear that Otto is sitting pretty on his father's throne. So I asked: "To Vienna?"

The priest smiled again. "No, not to Vienna," he replied, "and not even to Austria. But very near Austria."

Germany being out of the question and Czechoslovakia being considered a nest of rebels, Jugo-Slavia a land inhabited by the hereditary foe, Poland a land of half-Russian barbarians, I said: "His imperial highness is in Italy, then?"

"Exactly," said the priest.

"May we look for a bethrothal and an imperial wedding before he ascends the throne?" I asked.

"Who knows?" came the answer with a shrug of the shoulders.

You ought to know, I thought, and you do know, but I said: "An Italian princess in Vienna, who would have ever dreamt such a thing?"

"We're living in strange times," the priest nodded unctiously. The door opened that moment and another priest entered. The first introduced me. "A journalist, Father Kraussmann!" The man designated threw me a cold glance. "Journalists make much trouble," he said.

"We can't all be priests," I replied.

"Really, there is nothing we can tell you," the first man said quickly. "Some day probably we will see each other in Vienna."

"You expect to be in Vienna?" I asked innocently.

"I am Viennese," said the priest. "I like my home-city. I will certainly return there!"

"With his imperial highness?" I asked.

"Perhaps," he said.

"Would it make any difference if Emperor Otto sat on the throne now, in your estimation?"

"All the difference in the world," he came back with assurance, "An emperor's presence would stop the inter-party warfare at once. He would be, for he is, the symbol of Austrian unity."

I thought of what Professor Mazaryk and King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Joseph Pilsudski and a certain Herr Hitler might have to say on the subject of Austrian unity. Wasn't it Foreign Minister Benesch of Czechoslovakia who once said: "In answer to a Hapsburg in Vienna, we will let the guns reply."

"But what changes would the emperor introduce to make things better if he came into power?" I asked.

"He would continue the work of Herr Dollfuss and apply the fundamentals of statesmanship prescribed in the papal encyclical "Quadragesimo Anno."

"In my country, Canada," I said, "we have a political group whose leaders call that encyclical a Socialist document."

"Socialist?" the priest looked up in surprise. "How can they say such a thing?" He seemed genuinely shocked. "The Holy Father is no Socialist," he said.

"I thought not," I replied, "and neither was Herr Dollfuss."

"No, Socialism is, of course, out of the question. It is an evil thing, corrupt, godless, degenerating."

"Since you are a Viennese," I said, "can you tell me, perhaps, Father, who built those airy apartment houses, those fine schools for poor children, all those new parks, the kindergartens, the clinics, and who tore down the pestilential slums that existed formerly in Vienna?"

"That was a demagogic trick on the part of the Socialist administration," he said.

"Is that why Doctor Dollfuss bombarded them with siege artillery and sent shrapnel into one kindergarten where it killed 84 little ones?"

"Chancellor Dollfuss was a great man. He wanted to make Austria a model state. He had a difficult time."

"Chancellor Dollfuss is dead," I said. "He scarcely had a chance to show how great a man he was. All we can do is judge by February, 1934."

"How long do you give the new government?" I asked.

"Oh, please, don't ask me," he replied. "How do I know? I am only political secretary to his imperial highness."

"That is precisely why I ask, dear Father," I said.

"Well, I know nothing," he said. "You ought to see for yourself that the present epoch is but an intermission. Stability hasn't returned."

"Will it return with the emperor?"

"No doubt," he said.

"But the border-states, which are made up of old Austrian provinces, will they allow the emperor to come back? Aren't you afraid that a restoration in Austria might unleash a general armed conflict?"

"We are in God's hands," came the reply.

I cycled on to Louvain. The fields looked good. No trace left here of 1914, except an occasional German military cemetery. But the wooden crosses on the tombs are rotting away and you can no longer decipher the names of the Kaiser's musketeers. Time for a new crop! The sowers are at work.

a new All-Weather tire brings your car up-to-date

Look about you—in today's motor traffic. Cars zipping by—pulling up suddenly at a stop signal—getting away again like a flash—accelerating to forty or fifty miles in less than half a minute. That's the result of high-powered engines and powerful brakes.

But what about tires? All this surging power must be transmitted through tires to the road.

G-3 gives you more rubber against the road—a wider tread—wider riding-ribs—more non-skid blocks nested closer together—an average of 2 pounds more rubber per tire.

At least 25% more tread wear than the former All-Weather Tire, the longest-wearing tire on the market. Greater protection against skidding, blow-outs, punctures—greater value. And G-3 costs no more than standard tires.

QUEBEC CLAIMS SAFEST HIGHWAY

Radical Departure in Lighting System Marks New Era in Driving.

SODIUM VAPOR LAMP

THREE RIVERS, Que., Aug. 23.—Two-and-a-half times ordinary road illumination with less glare and better visibility at low levels, features a striking experiment in highway lighting along a half-mile of roadway eight miles West of this city. Installed by the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, this installation marks Canada's premiere of the Sodium Vapor lamp—first radical departure in more than thirty years of conventional arc and incandescent lamp illumination.

The most important advantage of sodium vapor lamps is their comparatively high efficiency. Sodium lamps have a luminous efficiency of almost 90 lumens per watt, or in other words, give for the same wattage input about two-and-a-half times the light output of the incandescent lamp. This fact, together with the improvement in vision under monochromatic light at low intensities, indicates a very great increase in visual efficiency over the present-day highway lighting systems without an increase in current consumption.

Although this is the first installation of sodium-vapor highway lighting in Canada, installations of this type of lighting have been made by the General Electric Company at Revere, Mass.; Boston-Worcester Turnpike at Newton, Mass.; Hartford-Meriden Road at Wallingford, Conn.; Baltitown Road, Schenectady; New York City, Syracuse, N.Y.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Rochester, N.Y.

It is expected that this first Canadian installation at Three Rivers will be inspected by many Central Station and municipal engineers from other cities.

The sodium lamps were supplied by Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, and are rated at 10,000 lumens. They are mounted at a height of 25 feet and have a spacing of 220 feet between units.

Sodium light is monochromatic in character—that is, it glows in but one color, whereas daylight is made up of all colors. Monochramatic light is valuable in highway lighting, being especially useful in revealing the details of objects at low levels of illumination. Actually seeing is made easier because of the absence of glare and also due to the fact that the monochromatic light of sodium falls in a region near the maximum sensitivity of the eye.

The lamp itself is a gaseous discharge device, mounted inside a vacuum flask to conserve heat and maintain the sodium at a temperature of about 480 degrees. It is sixteen inches long with a maximum diameter of three inches, and fits closely inside the vacuum flask, which acts as a globe. The arc current is carried through the lamp by the gas itself instead of by a filament. The novel and unusual luminaire consist of both parabolic and plane reflecting surfaces. They are made of aluminum finished by an electro-chemical process that results in durable surfaces of over 80 per cent co-efficient of reflection. Another departure from conventional lighting practice is the horizontal position in which the lamp and flask are supported.

Toronto Sportsman And Distillery Head Received Kidnap Threat

Harry C. Hatch, president of Consolidated Distilleries and noted Toronto race-horse owner, has received a note threatening him with kidnapping. Although the threat, delivered by mail, was not taken seriously by Mr. Hatch who believes is to be the work of a hoaxer, it has been turned over to police for investigation. It was received since the abduction. It was received since the abduction of John S. Labatt, head of Labatt Breweries, London, Ont. Mr. Hatch, prominent sportsman and business head, is shown at (LEFT). (RIGHT), his Toronto, Ont. home.

KNEW LAUGHTER BORDERED TEARS

Marie Dressler Understood Her People, Says U. S. Paper.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 23 (CP).—Marie Dressler understood the technique of laughter and she knew enough about its philosophy to understand that those who laugh and those who cry are sometimes very close together, says the Baltimore Sun. "Whether she was a great artist or merely a great mistress of hokum is for the pundits to decide," the paper proceeds. "It was enough for her numerous audiences that she could entertain and amuse. That brought out the crowds and that gave the crowds something by way of relaxation and refreshment to carry home again.

"Whatever the verdict about her art, there was something highly admirable about Marie Dressler's spirit. Few women would have kept up their courage through the 14 long years in which she found herself cut off from the stage. The disappointments of that dark period would have wrecked the lives of most women and of most men. Perhaps it was her knowledge of the comic spirit that enabled Marie Dressler to come through. Perhaps it was sheer determination."

WELDING ROMANCE OF IRISH LEADER

Frank Aiken, Free State Minister of Defence, to be Married Next Month.

DUBLIN, Aug. 23 (CP).—Frank Aiken, the only bachelor member of de Valera's Cabinet, is to have a romantic wedding in September. His bride will be Miss Maud Davin, a young Dublin music tutor, whom he met during the Irish Civil War when he was a fugitive from the Army of which he is now political head as Minister for Defence. He is only 35 years of age.

Officers of the army who pursued him in the mountains of County Louth will be on the Guard of Honor at the ceremony.

Aiken was Commander-in-Chief of Anti-Treaty Forces during the Civil War and played a conspicuous part in the guerilla warfare prior to the signing of the Treaty. He managed to elude capture during the civil war and later on took the Oath of Allegiance and entered the Dail with Mr. de Valera. On the election of the Fianna Fail Government he was made head of the army and achieved great popularity with the officers and men as he set himself to remove their grievances. He is extreme to the point of fanaticism in the support of the Irish language and Irish industries.

Mr. Aiken's hobby is archery. He has recently adopted gliding as a second hobby and helped non-commissioned officers of the Free State Air Force to build practice gliders.

SITTING ON ICE LATEST CONTEST

One Girl Stands Test About Five Hours and is Crowned Queen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (CP).—This city's latest idea for a marathon is an ice-cake sitting competition for young women in bathing suits. The first one was held recently in an all-night cafe and proved a moderate success.

Six young women were chosen from the score or so of timid applicants who answered an advertisement for girls. The winner was to get a loving cup and a $10 bill, the losers cash prizes.

Sharply at midnight the half dozen girls marched out in their bathing suits. The band played. They sat down on the ice. Each had under three blocks of ice piled one on top of the other and standing about four feet high.

After the first 10 minutes a reporter walked up to them and asked how they felt. "Fine," said one. "Swell," said another.

After an hour and 10 minutes passed two of the girls got off the ice voluntarily. They said they were cold. Five minutes later a customer offered another $10 if she would get off the ice as a personal favor to him, and she accepted with lacrity. That left two competing for the trophy. At 4:46 a.m. one more abandoned her perch, leaving Barbara Searle undisputed queen of the ice-cakes.

AGED 60, ELOPED WITH 90-YEAR-OLD

This Course of True Love Led to Breach of Promise Suit.

BELGRADE, Serbia, Aug. 23 (CP).—Mehmed Meskovich, a 90-year-old Moslem widower of Derventa in Bosnia sought the hand of 60-year-old Meira Spoich, but her family's objection to the old man forced them to decide to elope, states a "Herald" Sarajevo correspondent.

Mehmed came to fetch Meira in an ox-cart to her home in the village of Begluka, and the two stole away unobserved. But the lovers' happiness was shortlived. Three days later Meira returned home alone, and the next day went to Derventa to consult a lawyer. The latter advised her to bring suit against old Mehmed for breach of promise, after she revealed that in three days he had tired of her and driven her away.

COTTAGE SET UP IN FAR COUNTRY

Capt. Cook's Yorkshire Hose Packed in Boxes, Arrives in Australia.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 23.—(CP).—Packed in 253 boxes and transported by 35 lorries, Captain Cook's cottage was taken through the streets of Melbourne on its arrival by the steamer to the Fitzroy Gardens, where it is to be re-erected in connection with the centenary celebrations.

Everything about the Yorkshire cottage has been preserved with amazing thoroughfares, even to the creak on the staircase, as one wit remarked. Stones for the walls, flagstones for the floor, joists, rafters and beams have all been marked and numbered.

A bag has been forwarded containing the original mortar which held brick and stone together, also a bag of nails which will not be much use for hammering in, but interesting as showing the type used.

The ivy alone will not be replaced in its original state. The quarantine authorities demand that it be fumigated, as a potential bearer of diseases. In exchange for the cottage, Cook's birthplace, Great Ayton, Yorks., is to possess a stone of obelisk modelled on the monument commemorating his discovery at Cape Everard.

See Fresh Impetus For Finger-Prints

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (CP).—Finger-printing experts were happy to find that the best efforts of John Dillinger failed to confuse their records or complicate his identification. His hands, which he had treated with acid to burn away the tell-tale lines, still carried the markings known to every police station in the land.

The triumph of this system of identification over the ingenuity of the most elusive outlaw in the country has given a fresh impetus to the move for civilian fingerprinting as the best method of positive identification.

Michigan already insists on fingerprints from all persons owning firearms. Los Angeles demands this record of all taxi drivers, junk dealers and persons carrying pistols or special police badges. In near-by Beverley Hills even deliverymen and canvassers must be fingerprinted.

Legislation is now being sponsored in Ohio toward general civilian fingerprinting.

Where East meets West!

The peoples of near lands and far lands foregather in friendly rivalry . . . in commerce and in sport, in the arts, the sciences, music and industry . . . at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Merchants are attracted from the bazaars and market places of distant Calcutta . . . from the potteries of Stoke-on-Trent . . . from the plantations of Ceylon and Sierra Leone. In an atmosphere of carnival gaiety and romance the enterprising strangers from abroad transact business and join their Canadian brethren in whole-hearted appreciation of the world's largest annual Exhibition.

From over the seven seas, from the Antipodes and the United States come athletes who strive mightily with Canada's best for world championships on land and water.

East meets west on common ground at the "Show Window of the Nations" where Toronto once again becomes "a place of meeting". This is the big year at your Exhibition.

TRIBUTE PAID CAVAN RESIDENT

Mrs. Emmeline Thorne Receives Honor on Her Eighty-third Birthday.

RELATIVES ATTEND.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Aug. 22.—A very pleasant surprise was prepared for Mrs. Emmeline Thorne, daughter of a pioneer family of Cavan township, when upwards of seventy five relations gathered at her homestead, south of the village, on Sunday afternoon, in honor of her eighty third birthday.

Mrs. Thorne, whose husband, George Thorne, died ten years ago at the advanced age of ninety two years, has been a life long resident of the township and is the mother of twelve children, all living; Mrs. Arthur Heeryt of Garden Hill; Mrs. Amos Strong, Carmel; Mrs. John Lunn, Millbrook; John H. and William, of Rosboro; Joseph, Arthur and Austin, on the homestead; George A., of Peterborough; Reginald T., of Cleveland, Ohio; Fred, of Kingston and Robert, of North Bay.

All the children were at home for the happy gathering with the exception of the four last named and the guest of honor was grandmother, mother, aunt or great aunt to all who made up the surprise party. The time passed happily with conversation and intercourse until the tea hour, when the ten oldest guests were seated at an attractively arranged table in the large dining-room, with Mrs. Thorne in the central chair, the handsome three tier birthday cake with its quota of candles centering the table. The service was entirely of silver, and near the chair of the 'birthday lady' were laid the lovely flowers, boxes of bon bons and other gifts she had received. A buffet supper was served the remainder of the large party.

When the meal was ended all gathered in the big room and Mr. George T. Thorne, of Port Hope, a nephew, spoke briefly, as did also Mr. Chas. Thorndyke, of Millbrook, another nephew, each congratulating Mrs. Thorne on attaining so advanced an age, mentioning particularly the manner in which she had fulfilled the duties of motherhood toward a large family and the happy visits they had enjoyed in her home from boyhood days onward. The eldest daughter, Mrs. Arthur Henry, then asked her mother to accept a day couch, handsomely upholstered, from all her children, with the urgent request that it be brought into daily use. Mrs. Thorne was much affected and expressed her gratitude in brief but feeling terms and among those who spoke briefly were H. A. Fallis, Edward Thorndyke, Kenneth Thorne, H. Henry, J. Elgar and others. The pleasant occasion was brought to a close with all joining hands and singing, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds".

Those from Millbrook attending the birthday party were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke and family; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Fallis and son, Aubrey; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Fallis and family; Mrs. G. McCorry, a niece; Mrs. A. Orr; Mr. and Mrs. George Thorne and family; Mr. Tom Thorne; Miss Martha and Mr. Will Lunn; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Elgar and family; Mrs. Edward and Miss Adeline Thorndyke; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Strong and sons; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henry and family; Mr. and Mrs. John Lunn and family; Messrs. Arthur and Earl Henry, all of Millbrook and its immediate vicinity. From outside points were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Thorne and Miss Mabel Thorne, of Omemee; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thorne, Rosboro; Mr. Robert Thorne, of Rosboro; Mr. and Mrs. George Thorne, of Port Hope and Miss Mary Sharpe of Mt. Pleasant.

GOLDEN PHEASANT
The Golden Pheasant that is such a drawing card at Bert Wainman's novelty bird showing at the Exhibition, has its counterpoint in paint. A very fine water-color sketch is on view at Mr. Wainman's section, painted by Miss Mamie McCarthy, and showing the bird in all the glory of his beautiful plumage.

He has a massive golden crest, orange and blue-black shawl, a deep crimson neck and body, brown and blue wings, golden rump, green saddle, brown and black tail with crimson feather on either side. The Golden Pheasant is considered to be one of the most beautiful of the brightly-colored birds in captivity.

CLUB TO DINE AT "EX."
The Kiwanis Club members will hold their annual dinner with the Fair Board at St. James' Dining Tent on the grounds to-morrow noon, it is announced. Art Moffat, who is in charge of the big horseshoe pitching tourney being run in connection with the Fair, is to be responsible for a guest speaker.

FOUR IN A COUPE.
Driving with four in a coupe can be a costly experiment, if the traffic officer "cops" you.

Clifford Vincent learned that lesson when Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., ordered him to pay a fine of $10 and $3.75 costs and suspended his license for one day, after he had pleaded guilty to such a charge this morning.

Dr. Hopper Secretary Of Marketing Board

OTTAWA, Aug. 23. (CP)—Dr. W. C. Hopper of Washington, D.C., a Canadian who has had a distinguished career in agricultural economics, has been appointed secretary of the newly-created Dominion Marketing Board, it was announced here to-day by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture. He will take over his duties shortly.

Born at Chelsea, Que., Dr. Hopper was educated in Ottawa and the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont. For some years he was chief assistant with the Field Husbandry Division of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Later he attended Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., and was graduated with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Dr. Hopper joined the staff of Cornell University, engaged as a marketing specialist on research and extension work. A few months ago he went to Washington as a member of the Roosevelt brain trust, being senior agricultural economist in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The Dominion Marketing Board, the first of its kind in Canada, was created at the last session of Parliament. It will administer the Marketing Act, under which producers may organize to produce orderly marketing of their own products.

CLAIM GHOST SOARED FENCE

Railing Nearly 6 Feet High Waterdown Youths State, Telling of Chase.

HAS PECULIAR LOPE.

WATERDOWN, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)—A weird touch was added to the Waterdown ghost mystery today when two young men informed police of an adventure which occurred outside the village last evening. They saw the ghost, and swear to the fact that it travelled at unbelievable speed and actually "took off" and soared over a fence nearly six feet in height.

The lads were walking along the Waterdown railway track about a half mile above the village when they saw a towering figure standing between the rails. It seemed to be garbed in a light grey cloak, with some sort of covering on its head, concealing the face. At the same moment, the ghost sighted the youths, and started to speed away.

The young men, who are good runners, took after it at full speed, but it travelled in peculiar loping bound which left them behind as though they were standing still. Suddenly it stopped and reversed its direction and speeded toward them. The young men were not daunted, but ran to meet it. The ghost stopped again, and then darted away, suddenly leaving the tracks and spreading its arms as though to dive, hurled through the air, clearing a fence as though there was no such thing as gravity.

The young men were insistent in their story that the creature travelled faster than they had ever seen a human being go.

Police yesterday stated that from information they had secured, the ghost had the ability of travelling rapidly on hands and knees.

VALLEY OF DEATH YIELDS RARE BORASAURUS SKULL

NEW YORK, Aug. 23, (CP).—From the Dinosaur "Valley of Death" in Wyoming has been taken the skull of a rare reptile that waded through the swamp 140,000,000 years ago. Announcement of the find came to-day from T. Trubbe Davidson, president of the American Museum of Natural History.

The skull is that of Barosaurus, a huge and little-known Dinosaur of which there is no complete fossil in existence.

With this discovery, reported to the museum by Dr. Barnum Brown leader of an expedition which is penetrating the sensational Dinosaur graveyard in the Big Horn Mountain region of Wyoming, science establishes the corpus delecti of Barosaurus.

Barosaurus was a semi-aquatic reptile, museum officials said. Its chief peculiarity was the extreme elongation of the neck vertebrae. They look like sections of a stove pipe.

The skull Dr. Brown's operatives excavated was comparatively small; it had an insignificant brain case. Like all Dinosaurs, Barosaurus was not very bright.

Grandstand Notes

Henry Cogert and Dick Motto, featured stars of "The Winter Garden Revue" proved to a packed grandstand last night their right to the feature billing and earned the title of headliners of the show in front of the grandstand. Henry Cogert is the Master of Ceremonies for the entire performance and it is to his credit that the show runs so smoothly from beginning to end with no dull moments whatsoever. Just as soon as one act is through, he makes his entrance, 'builds up' the applause and just as soon as the act leaves the platform, he announces the next number, sometimes pulls a joke or two to keep the patrons in good humor, and with a snap all his own he 'brings' on the next act. It is very interesting to watch him as he goes through these manouvers, and proves the vast improvement in show business, his mode is so different from the old-time ringmaster. His is snappy, peppy and entertaining. Cogert and Motto are recording artists of repute; they have appeared on the largest radio stations, have made talkies and have been featured in musical comedy and leading big-time vaudeville circuits. Special praise is due the boys for their hilarious 'take-off' on Mahatma Gandhi. Their wisecracks, showmanship, singing specialties, and witty repartee are surefire and must be seen to be appreciated. This may sound like the interviewer were I press agent for the boys but it is not so. I am not alone in my thoughts. The whole town is talking to-day about these two comedians, who are superior to lots we have heard over the radio. The boys are a show in themselves. Don't miss them! They are featured with The Winter Garden Revue in the big night show in front of the grandstand—I am going to see them again and again. I'll bet they have lots more stuff 'up their sleeves.'—H.R.

HEAVY CHARGE GIVEN YOUTH

GIVEN 300-VOLT CHARGE.

Saved from death by electrocution only by the quick action of a fellow workman, Walter Ward, 19, 143 Rubidge street, was recovering from shock and burns in Nicholls' Hospital to-day. A charge of 300 volts coursed through his body while he was working yesterday in the laboratories of the Canadian General Electric Company.

Ward was at work testing volt meters when the accident occurred. Holding one power lead in one of his hands, he picked up the second lead to apply it to a meter, unaware that the power was on. Alex Rahkonen, a companion on the job nearby, saw his body tense as the heavy charge shot across his chest and acted quickly when Ward slumped back in his chair unconscious. Cutting off the current, he called for aid and artificial respiration was begun immediately, several other employees assisting.

Ward regained consciousness within twenty minutes and Dr. H. M. Yelland ordered his removal to the hospital. Oxygen and other stimulants were applied and he responded quickly. This morning he was reported to have rested easily and to be well on the way to recovery. Burns about the hands were sustained.

The nieces, nephews and other relatives of the late Mathew James Ryan, who died at Victoria, B.C., on July 22, 1934, are requested to communicate with Messrs. Stewart & Stewart, Barristers, Fulford Building, Brockville, Ont.

SHOPPING WITH ANNE

They're here....The stores are just brimful of them—the Fall Hats—"Berets" full of French flattery. In lovely shades of browns, reds, wines and the ever popular black. Dressy hats in felt and velvet.... Large hats are good for Fall and early Winter...."Gainsborough" is proudly showing velvets with curled ostrich feathers encircling the crowns. They are for very dressy occasions—but how grand they make one look and feel....We admired a grey felt beret today in one of our leading millinery stores....It was a darling and should be worn straight and high up on a head of tiny curls....Another brown silk felt model had a little orange quill perched saucily on the centre crown....The one we went into raptures over and incidentally nearly bought was of black velvet—large—with a shallow crown—a decidedly turned-up back—which was intriguingly concealed by a drooping ostrich feather....It had an old fashioned air about it that we loved....There are little toques of felt and velvet....Styles and shapes to suit everyone....They are all here waiting eager purchasers.... You must have a Fall hat for the Exhibition....So do come down soon and see the new arrivals.

Imported English Cork Bags, which are a rich beige and banded in navy, black or red kid trim, are very smart just now.

Jersey—is a favorite material for the lovely autumn frocks....One and two-piece models of this lovely soft weave are being shown in the new styles....We admired a very smart one today in one of our stores....It was a beige jersey—simply tailored—with a monogram done in lovely brown tone....A brown hat, gloves and shoes would go charmingly with this frock to complete a Fall outfit. Equally charming were the blue, black and red dresses of this lovely material. ....They are astoundingly low in price which is a very attractive feature.

Fashion decrees that knitting is quite the thing this year. Therefore it is very smart to knit yourself something to wear. Many girls are knitting twin sweaters. We saw a lovely set the other day in white. The pullover was very lovely in plain knitting and a yoke of the block pattern. With this was a cardigan. The young lady told us that she completed this charming outfit in a very short time. Hand-knit frocks are ever so smart. Why don't you buy some wool and see what you can do? Knitted things are very very smart just now.

Tweed skirt and sweater is the classic costume for Fall golfing. But what do you think we saw today in our travels. A very smart flannel shirt-dress, with long sleeves. Over this was worn a wool cardigan, a felt hat, warm stockings, socks, and shoes of calf in two tones. It was the last word in smartness and comfort.

Don't forget this is our Exhibition week. Plan to attend as often as you can. The exhibits are finer than ever this year. The grand stand performance the best yet. The Directors have spared no effort to make this the biggest and best Exhibition Peterborough has ever had. Do your part by being there.

Crisp features such as ruffles in taffeta are smart on new velvet frocks.

Your Health

by DR LOGAN CLENDENING

Of all the people who complain of their stomachs and their digestions, very few of them have any organic disease of that organ.

The only common disease in which there is a structural change in the stomach is ulcer. The only other organic disease of the stomach that is even fairly common is cancer, and cancer of the stomach is comparatively a rare disease—at least, infrequent.

About 10 per cent. of the indigestion in the world is due to ulcer, the rest of the dyspepsias are functional. We do not mean at all when we say that an illness is functional, that these people imagine all their distress. We simply mean that in its secretion or in its movements, the stomach does not do its work smoothly, and hence produces symptoms.

There is no symptom of dyspepsia that cannot be associated with a purely functional disorder. Belching of gas, pyrosis or sour stomach, discomfort after meals, heaviness before and after meals, nausea, biliousness, many all occur without any actual structural disease of the digestive tract whatever.

People who are born with these badly functioning stomachs, or with low stomachs, are likely to make themselves worse with all kinds of faddy diets—separating the starches from the proteins, going on vegetable diets and buttermilk diets, and especially by trying to promote proper evacuation with diets high in roughage. What most of them need is a smooth, non-irritating diet, such as the following:

Fruit juices, eggs, bacon, white bread, toast, butter, milk, young carrots, cooked celery, Italian squash, turnips, mushes without bran, puffed cereals, cream soups, beef, lamb, whitefish, chicken, oysters, sweetbreads, liver, potato, rice, sweet potato, asparagus tips, beets, creamed spinach.

Purees of beans, peas, lentils, lima beans or artichoke hearts; noodles, spaghetti, macaroni, sweet corn passed through a collander, tender string beans, peeled tomatoes, raw or cooked; canned or cooked pears and peaches, and bananas, preferably cooked; cottage cheese, simple puddings, custards, ice cream, gelatin, plain cake, stewed fruit, baked apple, stewed prunes.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

C.M.L.: "During this summer our town has a disease among the children called 'impetigo'. Many would like to know a little about it, as it is quite contagious."

Answer: Impetigo is a pus infection of the skin, and is contagious only by allowing clothes or fingers which have been covered with the secretion from the eruption to come in contact with healthy skin. In children and infants it is likely to be chronic on account of the scratching and rubbing which the child does, and which infests the fingers and fingernails. The infection from the fingernails is then carried to other parts of the skin to set up new eruptions. Treatment is by antiseptics, particularly ammoniated mercury salve

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Be Beautiful

"Dear Miss Glad: Quite some time ago, I was told by a friend that Epsom salts in solution helps to correct enlarged pores. I am afflicted with rather large pores, and would like to try this. Could you possibly outline the procedure for me? LOUISA."

The Epsom salts solution not only aids in correcting enlarged pores, but also has tonic effect on the skin. To prepare the solution, dissolve six teaspoons of Epsom salts in a quart of water. Before applying it, first cleanse your skin well with cleansing cream and then with a bland soap. After the cleansing, lave the Epsom salts solution over your face repeatedly with a bit of cotton. After repeated lavings, pat off the excess moisture with a dry cloth. Then, if the treatment seems drying to the skin, apply a bit of nourishing cream to counteract any such effects.

"Dear Miss Glad: That reducing course in your 'New Figure' booklet has simply done wonders for my figure. I've lost 32 pounds through following it, and with the swimming season now in full swing, you can imagine how glad I am. However, you recently mentioned a special reducing lotion for heavy thighs. Could you repeat for me the manner of making and using this lotion? GRACIE."

The reducing lotion to which you refer is very simple to prepare. Take two squares of gummed camphor and cut them into fine shavings. Add the shavings to eight ounces of rubbing alcohol and shake until dissolved. Then add to the solution a tablespoon of turpentine and a teaspoon of powdered alum, and permit it to stand for 24 hours. This lotion should be patted on the thighs several times a day and permitted to dry. And if it tends to prove too drying to the skin, a bit of cold cream should be applied after its use.

"Dear Miss Glad: As I am quite a bit underweight, I'm going to try to increase my poundage by counting calories. I have a calorie chart, but don't know how many calories my daily diet should contain. Can you tell me how many calories my diet should amount to so that the weight of my body will increase? ANNE."

If you are a normally active woman, your normal intake of food should range from 16 to 20 calories a day for each pound of your weight. If your normal weight, for instance, is about 120 pounds, your diet, to supply the needs of your body, should be equal to from 1,900 to 2,400 calories a day. If you wish to gain, you should increase this number by 1,000 calories daily, until you have reached your normal weight. Do not make up this extra thousand calories with foods that are bulky and take up a lot of room. Make it up with foods that are high in calorie count, but are not very filling, and you will be able to do it without making yourself feel over-stuffed and uncomfortable.

QUAKER PRODUCTS BEING DISPLAYED

South Window of The Examiner Used by Quaker Oats Company.

"The March of the Wooden Soldiers" would be a splendid accompaniment to the presentation of the jaunty little brightly-colored marionettes that live in the south display window of The Examiner.

In scarlet, blue and yellow they jauntily touch off the charge which sends showers of "crispy, crunchy, delicious" puffed wheat and rice, soaring skywards.

They serve to advertise the worth of Quaker Brand Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice, "steam exploded eight times normal size" and "shot from guns."

Shot from guns is right as anyone who has visited the big Quaker plant can testify. The interesting operation takes place in an upper room, where, in a wired-off enclosure, wheat and rice rise in foamy showers as they emerge from the exploding mouths of teal guns.

Guaranteed to contain many of the vitamins which are so necessary to a well-rounded diet, Quaker Brand Puffed Wheat and Rice are delicious viands. They come in bright red, blue and yellow packages, "triple sealed for freshness," with waxed paper keeping them attractive at all times.

At the base of the window display appears a picture of the calm-faced Quaker who gives the product its name, complete with peaceful visage and broad-leaved hat with rolling brim. Quality was always the watchword of the ancient Society of Friends, and the Quaker emblem is well chosen for these carefully-wrought cereal foods.

FACTS AND FANCIES

How to Clean White Shoes

Important Note: All cleaners should be applied sparingly.

It is best to place the shoes to be cleaned on shoe trees, and with a dry cloth remove surface dust or dirt. Do not clean white shoes while on the feet.

Apply the cleaner sparingly to a clean white cloth, preferably toweling, and first clean the dirtiest spot, then go all over the shoe, using sufficient pressure to remove all spots and stains. Avoid saturating the leather, but apply evenly over entire area to be cleaned.

Permit shoes to dry thoroughly. Next rub the shoe briskly with a clean, dry cloth, removing all white particles of powder, and until the original sheen is restored.

In the case of white buck or suede shoes, a fine bristle brush will more easily remove excess powder and raise the nap of the leather.

A bag cleaner is the most successful for buck shoes. Grass or dirt stains are best removed with a liquid cleaner. Be sure to call for a cleaner without wax.

Do not use soap and water on elk shoes. Beware of a cleaner with so much alkali that repeated usage will remove the finish. This generally results in the hardening of the elk leather so that it cracks or shrinks.

Says a Mother

"My children couldn't reach the towel racks, so I painted snap clothes pins the color of the bathroom wall and hung them by tapes to the rods. I taught each child to clip his towel through the middle so that it would not drag on the floor."

FIND BONES OF SOLDIER DEAD 15 YEARS AT FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 23. (CP).—Police sought to-day to identify bones of a soldier found last night by a 13-year-old boy. The bones were covered with the remains of a khaki uniform. Among them was a whistle bearing a date, 1913, and a watch with the date 1916 inscribed on it.

Finding of the bones followed discovery Tuesday by Raymond Barnett, the boy, of a man's skull wrapped in a mouldy burlap bag. The boy returned to the scene of his find and located the rest of the man's skeleton.

Police said the watch found among the bones had been bought at a Niagara Falls store. They expressed belief the man had died or been killed at least 15 years ago.

OUR MAIL

Anne Wilcox,
Examiner.

Dear Anne.—After a long absence I am returning. It seems that we are all neglecting the page again. Perhaps for one reason we hate to stay in the house letter writing when we can get outside.

I have dreamed about you twice lately, Anne, and it has strongly reminded me to write again. I know, because you have often said so, that you love to have letters even from some of we old ladies, and we appreciate your reciprocation; to me it is a lovely thing to have the good will and friendship of my own sex. Only a short time ago I was introduced to a woman around my own age and almost instantly I sensed her good will for as she held my hands at parting I felt a genuine sense of friendship and though no word of understanding sympathy passed between us, there was all that in the way she closed her hands over mine; but sad to relate, such souls are rare. There are many women catty to their own kind, even cruel in their treatment of sensitive kindly souls, but we know that such wisdom as the apostle James says, "descendeth not from above but is earthly, sensual, devilish, but the wisdom which is from above" is first pure, then peacable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good works, without partiality and without hypocricy. May we all desire and seek the wisdom from above then we will not be trouble makers like you mentioned in your article the evening of Aug. 17th for as the same apostle says again "And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace."

The Summer is rapidy passing away; it has seemed short and we have to make the most of the season of growing things and lovely flowers, but some days have been extremely hot, that perhaps we shall even welcome for a change the bright frosty days of winter. Hope to see other letters soon. Kind wishes to all the neighbors and yourself, Anne,

I am,

Yours sincerely,

Water Lily.

Dear Water Lily.—It was lovely to get your letter. I have been really lonely this summer without the neighbors' letters. But now that we are drawing near the close of the holiday time and the extremely warm weather nearly over I shall look forward to many letters from the dear neighbors. I am sure the neighbors all feel the same. Later on I a going to suggest that we exchange ideas on homemaking, recipes, patterns, etc. —anything or everything that is dear to the heart of the real homemaker. Do you like the idea, Water Lily? If you have any suggestions I would be pleased to receive them.

You are right, Water Lily, some women (I a glad to say just a very few) are very catty and unkind. If they just stopped to realize that such actions warp their lives and souls and deprive them of the real joy and happiness of life they would not stoop to such things. Poor things, I do pity them, they are robbing themselves. It requires a noble character to overlook such meanness in others, and when we meet such women or people, the kindest way to meet them is to just overlook any meanness and catty uncharitableness and in so doing you enrich your own character, strengthen your soul and in this way you please your Divine Maker, who will deal with the unkind, mean woman in His own just way.

Do write again, soon, Water Lily, and we shall hope to hear from all the neighbors very, very soon.

A new silhouette—a new fabric—the two combined result in much charm.

Style No. 3024 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Window screens, like the windows themselves, need attention. They do not show dust and dirt as the panes of glass but they accumulate dust just the same, and this seeps through the meshes when the wind blows, and a film settles on the things in the room. There are several ways of keeping the screens clean, different methods being suited to varying conditions, such as situation of rooms, whether the screens are inside or outside the house, and whether the location of house is such that a hose can be played on the screens. In city houses built in rows this is not often feasible, while in suburban homes it is.

* * * * * *

The hose-cleaning method is recommended when possible. Shut the windows opening on the side of the house where the hose is to be played. Play the hose well on each window, especially the half where the screen is, since the force of the water will propect the dust on the screen through it and against the window. It is only when the window is spotless that the screen will be clean for the reason just given. By this method both screens and windows are beautifully clean after the washing.

* * * * * *

If screens are easily removable, as on inside windows, they can be taken out and washed in the kitchen sink. Dry well before replacing. Inside screens require much less care than those outside because they are not exposed to the dust from roads and driveways all the time. When windows are closed they are protected. On the other hand there is on cleaning days some dust raised indoors even when modern cleaning appliances are used. This dust gets into the netting and onto the frames.

* * * * * *

Brushing screens when in windows cleans the netting, but unless there is a strong breeze blowing out through the windows the amount of dust which gets into the rooms more than offsets the advantage of having screen clean. So be sure the wind is the right way before brushing screens thus.

* * * * * *

Wiping screens with a cloth moistened with kerosene is recommended for two reasons. First, the dust will be caught and wiped off rather than be scattered about, the second, mosquitoes will not try to get through kerosene tinctured netting. The odor of the kerosene soon evaporates as far as perceptible to those indoors but if a nose of a mosquito is thrust against it, there is little temptation to try to creep and crawl through meshes. It is a good thing to wipe the screens with the kerosene cloth at twilight, for mosquitoes begin to hum about more then than during the day. A cloth dampened with clear water only will gather up the dust excellently also.

ANNA STEN IN "NANA"

This picture, it seems, is based on Emile Zola's novel of the same name, and it enlarges upon the French idea in drama and fiction: woman's frailty and man's infidelity.

Colonel Andre Muffat (Lionel Atwill) described Nana, after he had seen her for the first time, as a "gilded fly"—hatched in the gutter and a carrier of poison. But he did not always retain that notion and their entanglement later, when he gave up his home and wife (a lady with the unlikeable name of Sabine) for the beautiful actress, was a tragic affair that ended in death for Nana, who does the logical thing finally and shoots herself, as the easiest way out of a mess.

The way a psychologist would describe Nana would be to term her a person with a lavender soul. That it to say, she has purple patches, but the satirical French method gives most of them a sad ending.

Anna Sten has something of Greta Garbo in her voice, a good deal of Marlene Dietrich in her rolling eyes, and a lot of Joan Crawford in her mouth. At most times, she over-acts.

Nana is a gutter snipe lifted to the rank of reigning actress of the Apollo Theatre because of an old man's senile love for the beautiful young creature. Richard Bennett is the impressario, Gaston Grenier. And she cares much for her two companions, Satin (Mae Clarke), and Mimi. It is Satin who intercepts her letters to her lover in Algeria and brings down tragedy on the head of the temperamental and passionate Nana.

Phillips Holmes, as Nana's young lover, Lieutenant George Muffat, has some big moments in this movie. It is a curious matching up of contrasting types, to make this typical American lad with the innocent face, play opposite the worldly-wise Russian actress, but he rises to heights in his intense presentation of passion. The lady, however, holds the stage at all times.

Satin, commenting in the Cafe of the Seven Trout, to her companion, Mimi, says: "It had to come. When you have soldiers, you always get a fight."

The comedy of the program is provided by the rotund Eugene Pallette and the wiry Walter Catlett, as fellow souses in "Making the Rounds." Catlett, in a scene with "Trixie," is at his best.—Jeanette.

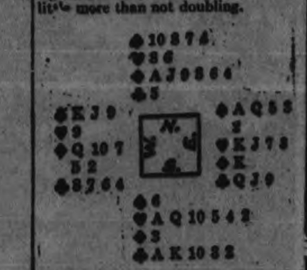
By E. V. SHEPARD

EAST BELIEVED IT IMPOSSIBLE

Here is rather a nice hand which I played recently, with results which East believed impossible to achieve. However, his double was a perfectly legitimate one, even if it cost him a little more than not doubling.



Both sides were vul erable. Bidding went: South, 1 heart; North, 2 diamonds; East, 2 spades; South, 4 clubs; to force partner to choose between suits; North, 4 hearts; East, doubled, ending the auction.

The opening lead was the K of spades. It held the trick. East signalled to come on, by playing his 5. The J of spades was led, and East completed his echo, by playing the 2. South ruffed.

It was too early for the declarer to judge what East held. He might have all the missing hearts, or West might hold those while East held a long line of clubs. South led the ace of clubs. Dummy ruffed a low club lead. East dropped the 9 on the first club led and the J on the second one. That might mean that West held all remaining clubs.

The 8 of hearts was led from dummy. East played the 3. The 10 won on a finesse, showing rather plainly that East held the K-J-7.

South led his only diamond. Dummy's ace won. The long K fell from East's hand. Doubtless he had expected to win a trick with it on a finesse. That was the sixth trick. Either East held for his 7 remaining cards 4 spades and 3 hearts, or he held 3 spades, 3 hearts and the Q of clubs. A spade lead from dummy would settle that question.

The 10 of spades was led. East covered with the Q, South ruffed. The 9 fell at declarer's left, showing that the doubler still held 2 spades, 3 hearts and the missing Q of clubs. It would have been useless for West to have played the 9 of trumps on the first lead if another heart were held.

The K of clubs dropped the Q at the right, as expected. East ruffed the 10 of clubs at the ninth trick, giving him his second defensive trick. Back came the ace of spades. South ruffed with the 5. He held only the A-Q of trumps and the 3 of clubs. East held the K-J of trumps and the 3 of spades. There was just one more trick coming to East. South led the ace of trumps, picking up the J. East ruffed the 3 of clubs with his K. South ruffed the last spade.

HITLER'S NEXT MOVES LIKELY TO BE PEACEFUL

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (C.P.-Havas).—Indications were growing stronger to-day that Adolf Hitler's next move on the German checker-board will be mainly peaceful in nature.

"Education" of the 10 per cent. of the populace who voted 'no' in Sunday's plebiscite will take no violent form, it appeared, but the reichsfuehrer reportedly will meet a stern soldier's justice to certain storm troopers who have been boasting that they were among those who said "nein" at the polls.

There was another report current to the effect that Hitler is dissatisfied with certain organizations within the ranks of Nazidom itself, and that a number of persons whose names are well-known will be read out of the party.

Amnesty will be continued for some time, it was believed. Following news of the release of former Communist Deputy Otto Neubauer, a defence witness at the Reichstag fire trial, it was reported that Karl Von Ossietzky will also soon be released from internment.

A new drive to relieve unemployment is understood to be contemplated, but details of the measures are not available.

SCIENCE AND SCIENTIST FOIL ATTEMPT TO ROB GOLD MINE

But What Would Robber Have Don't With $50,000 Brick?

ALWAYS INSURED

By A. F. ROBERTS
Central Press Canadian Writer

VANCOUVER, Aug. 14.—A daring attempt to steal gold bullion valued at nearly $50,000 from the Pioneer Gold Mine in the Bridge River district, was thwarted by the all-seeing electric "eye," and the would-be robber was nearly captured by Dr. Howard T. James, University of B.C. graduate who was recently appointed superintendent of the mine.

The attempted robbery took place at 1 o'clock in the morning and the robber cut through a metal wall in order to gain entry to the gold room where the bullion is poured for shipment to the mint in Ottawa.

A photo-electric cell which has been installed to guard the mine's product, gave the alarm when the man approached the bullion and Dr. James responded immediately. He struggled with the intruder who fired several shots, none of which took effect.

In the darkness Dr. James, a one-time U.B.C. rugby star, wielded a heavy flashlight as he endeavored to capture the would-be robber. The man escaped, however, when others hurrying to Dr. James' assistance, left the door unlocked. It was discovered the telegraph and telephone lines from the mine had been cut so that no alarm could be broadcast for some time after the robbery.

Some old-timers asked what a robber would do with a $50,000 gold brick. It is pointed out that such a brick, valued in gold $35 an ounce would make about all a man could carry. Where would he sell it? Who would buy it? General opinion is that such loot would be almost worthless to the robber, unless he had prepared well ahead for its disposal.

It is pointed out that the type of gold from Pioneer is well known to all who buy gold. Those who legitimately may buy or handle gold are few in number. At once the brick would be known unless the robber had remelted it and mixed it with enough alloy to change its general character.

Stage drivers on the Bridge River Highway handle millions of dollars worth of gold bricks as unconcernedly as if they were so much lead. The usual course when a brick is poured is to rush it to the post office, plaster about $75 worth of stamps upon it and send it on its way to the Ottawa mint. It is insured, of course, from the moment it is poured.

Revival Of Paganism Is Blamed On Hitler

By WALTER E. BROCKMANN
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN, Aug. 23 (A.P.) — The startling assertion that the revival of the pagan faith movement in Germany owes its conception to Hitlerism was made last night at a convention of the group.

"The nationalist socialist revolution," said P. Orlowsky, a paganist leader, "created the prerequisites for a revolution of lofty values known as religion. Acknowledgment of the sacredness of the German race and blood have alone made possible an objective attitude towards Christianity."

Strikingly parallel utterances by Reichsbishop Mueller and the Nazi pagan speakers tended to confirm reported advances made by the new movement.

Dr. Mueller, who is charged with unification of the German Protestant church, endorsed the Nazi creed of "blood and soil" and praised the Nazi revolution for having "opened new prospects for eternal folk values, above all for ties of soil and blood."

He indicated the government favored the Protestant over the Catholic church, ironically declaring "The evangelical church in consequence of its clos ebonds of unity with the national socialist third Reich canot enter into a concordat with the Reich—it could hardly sign a pact with itself."

SOVIET DEMANDS JAPAN EXPLAIN SUDDEN ARRESTS

Russian Officials Also Insist 88 Prisoners be Immediately Released.

CHARGE BRUTALITY.

MOSCOW, Aug. 23 (AP)—Soviet Russia presented a demand to-day to the Foreign Office at Manchukuo for an explanation of the arrest of 88 Soviet citizens and insisted upon prompt measure for their release.

Acting Consul General Rayvid of Russia, presented the demand at Harbin to Shi Liu Ben, representative of the Manchukuon Minister of Foreign Affairs in the city.

"The arrests were made without documents, accompanied by searchers of the apartments and offices of Soviet employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which have not been explained," Rayvid said.

A message to Tass, official Soviet News Agency, from Khabarovsk, Siberia, said Japanese gendarmes arrested 16 more Soviet citizens August 22, along the C.E.R.

Some of the prisoners were beaten by police, the Tass dispatch asserted and subjected to third degree methods by police and anti-Soviet White Guards.

(A Harbin dispatch of the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency in Tokyo to-day said 14 new arrests of Soviet employees brought the total held to 62. They are charged with plotting against Manchukuo and Japan and with sabotaging Japanese military trains).

Painful Piles

Go Quick—Prevent Cutting
No Salves

When sore and painful Piles distress and upset you, and salves give insufficient or only temporary help, and wish is to avoid operation; isn't it best to at once try HEM-ROID—the internal remedy for piles?

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was convinced early in his career that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find a remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefitting by Dr. Leonhardt's internal treatment so why doubt or delay longer when McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and other good druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money-back."

Weather Delaying Rescue Of 2 Pilots

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23. (CP). — Stormy waters of Lake Winnipeg to-day halted momentarily efforts to prosecute a search for George O. Mackie and Leonard Blackwell, missing five days on a flight into north-eastern Manitoba.

Misfortune attended the rescue of Scarr who was sighted at the mouth of the river on the eastern shores of Lake Winnipeg. His plight was discovered after four days by forestry officials, who dropped supplies and notified his home base.

Bill May took off from Pine Falls in a motor launch to render assistance and take up the search for Mackie. His boat became fouled in a storm last night and he was compelled to spend the night in a sheltered spot on the lake shore.

Northwest marine officials today were considering sending out a second plane to take up the search for Mackie and Blackwell who are believed sheltered at Black River, 25 miles north of Sandy River, waiting for the weather to improve.

FOREST FIRES SWEEP HAMLETS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Homes, Stores Wiped Out at Georgeville. Others Threatened.

ROAD TRAFFIC DETOURED.

Gangs Fight Losing Battle to Save Acres of Valuable Property.

(By The Canadian Press)

From Yarmouth County in the West to Antigonish in the East serious forest fires continued to eat into valuable timberlands throughout the mainland of Nova Scotia to-day after levelling ten buildings, rendering several families homeless and destroying hundreds of acres of woodland.

Flames threatened the existence of communities in Antigonish, Hants and Cumberland Counties yesterday. At Georgeville, on the northern shore of Antigonish, two houses, two stores and a barn were destroyed. The Roman Catholic church and the Glebe House, and several other buildings were afire and were only saved by frantic effort.

At Morar nearby, two vacant houses were razed. Four miles south of the shire town of antigonish, a new menace occurred when fire swept down on a tiny settlement and destroyed the house and barn of Angus MacDonald.

Fire apparatus rushed to Georgeville through roadways paralleled with leaping tongues of fire, at times nearly blocking the roadway. They reached the stricken village at a crucial time. Firemen went from building to building using axes, water and chemicals to fight sparks and flames. For a time it was feared their efforts to save the Catholic church would be fruitless. The Glebe House was partially destroyed.

Flames Leap Highway

Five miles of valuable forest land were wiped out in Cumberland County. Here, too, flames leaped across the main highway and traffic had to detour to avoid danger. Lawrence Stewart, near Oxford, lost his home and 25 head of cattle were feared burned in the holocaust. Three hundred men battled the flames throughout the night.

At Walton a fire raging out of control had burned up 500 acres of softwood lands and was approaching the village of Brockville. One hundred and fifty men were battling against almost unsurmountable odds to save valuable properties from destruction. Employees of the Parsons Lumber Company were moving cut pulp wood from the danger zone.

Hundreds of acres of timberland were destroyed in the vicinity of Kennetcook and flames menaced the settlement at Kennetcook Corner. Aided by a brisk wind, the fire got away from the volunteer workers yesterday and through the night it continued to burn furiously.

Near the town of Yarmouth, a fire broke out last night and crept up dangerously near homes scattered along the hard scratch road. Firefighters worked throughout the night to get it under control. They were hampered by the scarcity of water, a condition general throughout the province, and were carrying water from brooks left almost dry by weeks of drought.

Fire rangers in Colchester Country early to-day reported new outbreaks in Lorneville and Montrose fanned by a high wind. It was feared these would spread over a wide area.

GASOLINE RETAILERS TO FORM ASSOCIATION

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 23 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — To try and maintain uniform prices in the retail sale of gasoline and oils, and to avoid price-cutting wars which are detrimental to the business as a whole, and from which no person derives benefits, a new organization is being formed in Campbellford, to be known as the Gasoline Retailers' Association. Other matters in the interest of the dealers as well as the general public, will be on the agenda, and will be discussed at the regular meetings, which it is understood will be held monthly.

For breaking the law by keeping "the world's biggest pig weighing a ton" within 50 yards of a dwelling house, Major Henry W. France, manager of a "Fun Fair", has been fined at Bournemouth, Northern Ireland.

Fresh Meat

DANBURY, N.H., Aug. 23.—(C.P.) Arthur Hollenbeck, identified the thief who has been stealing his baby pigs. Between three and four o'clock every morning, he said, a large eagle, followed by six little eagles, swoops down on the farm, grabs a pig and flies away, followed by the little eagles.

GRIERSON WILL CONTINUE TRIP

Flier Forced Down in Isolated Greenland Fjord. Found by Eskimos.

OTTAWA HIS GOAL.

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, Aug. 23 (A.P.)—John Grierson, British flier, planned to-day to resume his month-old flight by stages to Ottawa, Ont., after his rescue by a half-breed Eskimo minister.

Grierson, lost, landed near this isolated settlement on the eastern coast of Greenland Tuesday and resigned himself to days of waiting before aid would come.

He sent out an SOS at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Eskimos here organized searching parties and the pastor, Rev. Rosing, set out Tuesday night in his motorboat.

After a long search Rosing and two natives found themselves cut off from the others by drifting ice. They crossed a small island on foot to the ice-free fjord in the vicinity. Grierson's plane was there, hidden by a knoll, but he sighted the little party and attracted their attention. He was found a 6 a.m.

Several hours later, with high water, Grierson proceeded to Angmagsalik, landing 15 minutes later.

He said he had no idea of his position on landing Tuesday and had not expected to be found within a week. His only food was pemmican, but he had a 10-days supply. He spent a chilly night in his machine, getting little sleep.

The flier hoped to get away shortly for Godthaab, on Greenland's west coast, and from there fly over the Atlantic to Resolution Island, Hudson Strait, thence to Ottawa and New York. Grierson cracked up at Reykjavik, Iceland, July 29, and was forced to return to England for parts. An accident last year at Reykjavik ended an attempt to fly the northern route.

CHINESE BEATEN ROBBED OF $200

Two Welland Men Arrested Following Taking of Victim for Ride.

DUMPED ON ROAD.

WELLAND, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)—Antonio Nero, Jr., South Main street, aged 22, and Alec Fedikow, aged 33, Wright street, Crowland, are under arrest here charged with robbery with violence; and Chang Lee, aged 47, Chinese, residing on Elizabeth street, Toronto, is nursing a broken head as the result of being taken for a ride from Welland into Port Robinson, near midnight last night and being relieved of around $200. The Chinese was dumped into the roadway by his assailants.

According to city police, Chang Lee came to Welland from Toronto last night on business. He arrived a the Michigan Central depot shortly after eleven o'clock and walked a few hundred yards to the intersection of South Main and Fourth streets. Here Lee was pulled into an auto by two men, slugged with the butt end of a revolver, taken to Port Robinson and there relieved of the money which was encased in the Lee's sock.

Chang Lee walked with difficulty to the Port Robinson canal bridge, and there a bridgeman, Arthur Fiest noticed his plight and called police.

After making investigation, Welland City police arrested Nero and Fedikow a few hours after the outrage occurred.

2 GIRLS, 3 MEN TRAIN VICTIMS

feet from the crossing a driver can see 900 feet north along the track. Engineer of an approaching train would be unable to see a car more than 25 feet from the crossing.

Thomas Schell, sole survivor is reported to have said that the car stopped just before reaching the track but that the driver evidently thought he could beat the train.

Apparently the auto was struck in the rear for the motor and front part was almost intact, while the rear was totally demolished. Wreckage was carried for 600 feet though the car chassis was thrown aside about 50 feet from where it was struck.

Bodies were carried for 25 to 30 feet past the car. The train was travelling at 40 miles an hour.

Indian First on Scene.

Ed Kyoshk, Indian who lives near the crossing, arrived before the train had stopped. Donald Schell, he said, was still breathing, but the other four were dead. Schell never recovered consciousness.

Remains were taken to Sudbury at six o'clock this morning. It is understood that they will be taken home by airplane.

Dr. H. M. Torrington of Sudbury, will conduct the inquest, while Provincial Constable E. Keen is conducting an inquiry.

The two ladies registered at the French River camp yesterday, while Roberts and Francis registered Tuesday.

TO TEST HONESTY OF BRITISH FOLK

Government to Monogram Its Pens And Stop Wholesale "Lifting."

LONDON, Aug. 23 (CP).—While the British General Postoffice may change from period to period the Postoffice public—the public using Postoffice pens—never changes and still goes on stealing the pens supplied at government expense. The government thinks it has now found a way to stop the practice.

Last year about 2,000 penholders and 9,000 stainless steel nibs were provided for the use of the public in 75 of the largest postoffices in London and other cities. After a month 1,200 holders complete with nibs had been taken. At Bournemouth, Cardiff, Croydon, Scarborough, Swansea, Torquay and Glasgow all the pens supplied disappeared. Chelmsford alone reported all its pens intact, but in Chelmsford the pens are chained to the wall.

The Postoffice, however, has not lost faith in the British people who use postoffice pens. In the near future they are supplying 10,000 special pens to postoffices in all parts of the United Kingdom. The new pens are described as of an attractive type, with holders specially moulded so that they will be easy to move. They are to be colored pillar-box red, bearing the General Postoffice monogram. The co-operation of the public has been sought to make the experiment a success. Losses will be notified and an "honesty competition" will indicate to the authorities which are least public-minded towns.

SAFETY SPEED COMFORT SERVICE

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Your Goodwill is the Aim of C.N.R. Employees.

Some people are inclined to think of the railway worker as just a cog in a great machine consisting of endless tracks and engines and stations and cars—as a being almost mechanical whose duty begins and ends with doing his appointed part in keeping the machine going. They incline to overlook the personal and individual interest he has in seeing that the utmost satisfaction is given to everyone, of whatever age or rank, who uses the services of the railway which he helps to operate. Such an attitude is not correct and leaves out of account one of the most important factors which contribute to the pleasure of travel.

An outstanding reason for the safety and comfort which the C. N. R. provides is to be found in its personnel. Each employee on whom the slightest responsibility rests is first of all an efficient worker—whatever his job he is qualified to perform it. But the C. N. R. requires that he be more than an efficient and dependable worker.

In all his relations with the public he is trained to be—and is anxious to be—of service to them: . . . to be helpful . . . to be thoughtful . . . to be courteous . . . to do all possible to make travel agreeable and pleasant. He is determined to obtain the goodwill of his company's patrons — the goodwill which is the lifeblood of a railway and all engaged in it.

There is real satisfaction in knowing that when your friends and relatives, young or old, travel by the C. N. R. they are not only having placed at their service all the resources of a great railway system, but they are also the recipients of the personal consideration of each railway worker or attendant with whom they may come in contact. And of course this feeling is not lessened when it is one's self who is travelling.

Travel by C. N. R. on your next trip—be it long or short—and see how highly your goodwill is esteemed. You will be pleased.

VETERANS OF THE WAR OF 1812 FIRST SETTLERS IN DISTRICT BUT FAILED TO STAY ON LAND

James Coons, of Murray Township, First to Make Clearing.

HARDSHIPS MANY.

Mrs. W. J. Northey Only One of the Real Pioneers Now Living.

(By Late Mrs. Margaret Coons.)

The neighborhood of Lakehurst is a corner of the Township of Harvey, isolated by being almost entirely surrounded by water. The first settlers in this district were army officers, veterans, I presume, of the war of 1812, pensioned by the government and given grants of land on the western shore of Sandy Lake. They made small clearings and built homes of some kind, as the ruins of stone chimneys, still to be seen, testify. They must have come by water in canoes or small boats as there were no roads, and most likely lived chiefly by hunting, fishing and trapping. No one now living in these parts know how long they lived here, when or why they left, or where they went. Afterwards, lumbermen came and cut the best of the pine, the only timber that was worth anything at that time.

About the year 1864 or '65, people from the front townships, chiefly from Otonabee and Smith, began to come and buy the land. The first clearing was made by James Coons, who came from Murray Township near Trenton. Like most young men, he had visions of a home of his own, and, being very fond of the wilds, he struck into this district, located his 100 acres, built his shanty and started cutting down the timber, —the first step towards clearing the land. During the first winter he lived and worked alone in the dense forest. For several years others continued to come: From Otonabee came the Brodies, Weirs, Nelsons, Smiths, Hickses, Nesbitts, Grahams, Clarksons, Tedfords and others; from Smith and other places came Northeys, Wilkins, Tarlingtons, Stewarts, Blewetts, Fortunes, Lennoxes and Johnstons. These were the real pioneers. As time passed a good many of these sold their clearings to others who came, also looking for homes; but the first few years were the hardest, and it is of the first settlers I wish to tell.

Dwellings Log Shanties.

Much could be written of their hardships and privations, and their undaunted courage and determination to hew out homes for themselves and families in spite of all obstacles. They were all either newly married couples or middle-aged people with families, some of whom were grown up young men and women. None of them had much of this world's goods—little money, a few simple tools, while their live stock as a rule consisted of a yoke of oxen (these were indispensable), one or two cows, perhaps a horse or two, a few pigs and some fowl. For the most part their dwellings were log shanties, and as lumber was hard to get, the roofs were made by splitting hollow basswood logs and placing them side by side, hollow side up, and turning a second layer over them, hollow side down. The furnishings consisted of only the most necessary articles—a few chairs, a table, stove, beds, supplemented by a few home-made benches, some shelves nailed to the wall to serve as a cupboard, &c. The homes were kept clean and sweet by having the ceiling and walls white-washed with pure white lime made by burning limestones on a log-heap until pulverized.

In winter the men cut down a few acres of timber, trimmed the limbs from the trunks, piled them in heaps, and in summer burned them. A fine day would be selected and the fire would run over the cleared space, burning the brush and a great deal of the smaller timber. Then each man would make a logging bee. The neighbors would come with their oxen and pile the big timber to be burned. Next day they would log another neighbor's fallow and so on. Sometimes two or three gangs would be working at the same time and in this way the logging was soon done. When the heaps were burned, all the odds and ends and fragments that were not consumed were drawn together into piles and burned. When these were finally cleaned up the land was ready to be sown with fall wheat. This was done by hand and harrowed in with an implement called a drag, made by joining three pieces of timber together in the form of a capital "A" with iron spikes; drag-teeth were driven through them and they were drawn by oxen. Much depended on how the crop turned out the next year. If it came through the winter all right, the price would bring many comforts to the home and also furnish means to buy some machinery to make work easier. If it was winter-killed, as sometimes happened, the year's hard work was practically lost. On the whole, the people were very optimistic, and if disappointed one year would still work away and hope for better things the next.

After a few years, Mr. Chase, another Otonabee man, built a small saw-mill at Gannon's Narrows and lumber could then be more easily obtained and the people built houses and barns finished with lumber and hand-made shingles. When the men made a logging bee or put up a log house or barn, several of the women would come to help get dinner and supper—most of them fine, capable, jolly women who tried to see a bright side of things, make a joke of their poverty, and treat hardship and privation as conditions that must be endured until time and labor would change them.

When they got a few sheep every house had a spinning wheel, and the women spun and colored the wool and knit all the socks and mitts for the family. The remainder was sent to the nearest weaver and woven into blankets and cloth from which all the working clothes of both men and women were made. In spring, maple trees were tapped, the sap caught in wooden troughs and made into sugar, syrup and vinegar. Many and varied were the schemes they devised to provide necessaries they had not money to buy.

The roads for a few summers were so rough that only lumber wagons could be driven on them, but in winter the snow made going easy, and a ride on a home-made jumper drawn by oxen was quite a pleasure. When the young folk went to a party a bundle of straw was thrown on the jumper and all hands sat on it; and if in going through some new clearing the jumper accidentally ran over a stump and dumped the whole bunch into the snow, it only added to the fun. I venture to say they had more real enjoyment with fewer headaches and less after-remorse, and their parents had far less anxiety, than the young people of to-day have with cars, dancing pavilions, cigarettes and pocket-flasks.

They worked hard and lived plainly. Serious illness was unknown and accidents were rare—which was certainly providential, as, situated as they were, it was almost impossible to get a doctor quickly. The first public building erected was a log schoolhouse, still standing, which also served as a place of worship for both Methodists and Presbyterians, the only churches that sent missionaries at that time. The children grew up strong, healthy and some of them very intelligent, capable of holding positions of trust and responsibility in the world, notwithstanding the fact that they had no chemically prepared foods, cereals nor pasteurized milk; but instead, had plenty of good home-made bread and butter, milk, eggs, good meat raised and killed on the farm, fruit and vegetables from the garden, with plenty of work and fresh air. The first post-office was kept by John Tarlington and mail was brought from Peterborough about once or twice each week if weather and roads would permit.

Only two of the real pioneers are now living: Mrs. W. J. Northey (who when a child came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Clarkson), and the writer of this article. All the others have long since gone to their long home, and in most cases strangers are now reaping the benefit of their hard toil. It is true, in material as well as in spiritual things, that "we labor, others enter into our labors." These were the people who, with untiring effort and unyielding courage, faced hardship, poverty, privation and disappointment, and laid the foundations of the Lakehurst of to-day—no longer a back-woods settlement but a prosperous community with good homes, good roads, schools, churches, and all modern conveniences.

"Cleopatra's Bob"

According to historians of ancient modes and manners, this is the way that Cleopatra wore her hair when she ruled as queen of Egypt many centuries ago. Evidently believing Cleo is good enough for them, the younger society set in Los Angeles, Calif., have adopted the coiffure and called it the Cleopatra bob. Ella Force, society debutante, is shown exhibiting the new style of hair-dressing.

AID TO BE GIVEN DROUGHT AREAS

Federal, Provincial Govt's and Railways Will Step in Western Situation.

MANY MAY MOVE.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23 (C.P.)—Government authorities and heads of farm bodies across the prairies today viewed with approval of a report the Dominion and Provincial Governments in co-operation with the railways planned to extend a helping hand to drought-stricken farmers desirous of moving to greener pastures.

Drought, hot winds, drifting soil and insects have created a situation that warrants assistance on a national scale in the opinion of farm leaders. Many crops in southern districts have failed for the fourth year in succession; many others will give little more than seed and, in addition, pasturage is burned out. Much of it has never been shown green this season.

A tripartite agreement under which farmers and livestock may be moved to fertile northern homesteads found favor with J. G. Taggard, Saskatchewan Minister of Agriculture. Under the agreement the railways would transport settlers, their effects, cattle and feed at reduced rates to be shared equally by the two governments.

All Aid Welcomed

Particular significance was attached to the announcement the Federal Government would consider taking over drought districts in the west. Saskatchewan authorities for some time have been working on a scheme to facilitate settler migration. They had no knowledge, however, of government drought-district administration.

Any scheme that would extend aid to farmers in unproductive areas of Alberta would be welcomed Norman F. Priestley, vice-president of the United Farmers of Alberta said. Hon. F. S. Grisdale, Minister of Agriculture, stated conditions were unfavorable in the south-central part of the province.

Over an area of 100 by 125 miles the harvest will give little more than seed, he said. Within this area alone are estimated to be 35,000 head of cattle for which feed would have to be brought in from outside sources. Thousands of head were distributed over every part of the south country.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If a frying pan is rubbed thoroughly with a little salt before anything is put into it to cook, the food will not stick.

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22.—Charlie Chaplin is almost as elusive as Garbo, but his fans caught up with him at Catalina the other day and sent the comedian scurrying to the shelter of his yacht.

It happened like this: When Charlie isn't philosophizing with Paulette Goddard and his small group of cronies he likes to fish. The comedian's yacht dropped anchor the other day at White's landing, which is far enough away from Avalon to escape the run of vacationers. Charlie and one of the sailors put off in a small boat to fish. Bites must have been good, for the comedian failed to notice until too late that he no longer enjoyed the privacy of the ocean.

Charlie Chaplin

Then, suddenly, a flotilla of small boats descended upon him. They were manned by excited youngsters. Charlie ordered the sailor to row away. But the pursuers rowed just as fast. In fact, they were almost up to the comedian when he reached his yacht.

Charlie probably is still wondering how so many kids materialized out of thin air. If it will help him any, they came from a Y.M.C.A. summer camp.

Hollywood's best-known women executives is to be married after a whirlwind courtship that reads like a movie scenario. She's Marcella Bannett, assistant to David Selznick at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and her groom will be Dr. Marcus Radwin, well known Los Angeles medico. The pair met only three weeks ago. Deborah Lewin, filmdom's ace woman insurance agent, introduced them at a party. It's all set for wedding bells Oct. 14. There'll be a month's honeymoon and then, at Selznick's urgent request, the bride returns to her studio job.

Laughs and thrills, with a sprinkling of believable drama, will be unfolded on the screen of the Capitol Theatre, Friday night. The picture is "Murder in the Private Car" latest product of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. The star is Charlie Ruggles, master of drollery, but the honors are about equally divided between Ruggles, Una Merkel, Mary Carlisle, Russell Hardie and some others of note.

Meritorious performances are contributed by Berton Churchill as the railroad magnate; Willard Robertson as the pullman conductor; Cliff Thompson as the stock broker who loves the girl; Porter Hall as the New York attorney, and a new colored thespian, Snow Flake, who plays a terrified pullman porter.

HELP, HELP.

TICONDEROGA, N.Y., Aug. 23.—(C.P.)—Arthur Fleury, recluse, was cooking a meal in his tiny shack when his trousers caught fire.

"Help, help, my pants are on fire," he yelped as he ran out the door. He succeeded in extinguishing the blaze and returned to his meal.

A few minutes later the village fire department arrived, sirens screaming. A neighbor had understood Fleury to say: "Help, help, my camp's on fire."

Yankees Gain Half a Game - Split Twin With Indians

SENATORS CUT TIGERS' LEAD TO FIVE GAMES IN AMERICAN

Earl Whitehill Goes Route as Washington Pounds Out 7-5 Victory.

YANKS SPLIT BILL.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Although the American League is known as much more of a "hitters' league" than its rival circuit, the pitchers seem to be deciding a lot of important things in the pennant race and in the lower portions of the standing.

For today the fans had before them such notable examples as the Yankee southpaw, Vernon "Goofy" Gomez, with his 21st victory of the year, won with a two-hit shutout, Wes Ferrell of Boston with his first triumph in 14 decisions and a couple of others who did first-class jobs of flinging yesterday.

Gomez, leading hurler of the junior loop, did by far the best hurling of the day as he brought the Yanks to a 9-0 victory over Cleveland in the first half of a double-header and enabled them to gain an even break for the day. He allowed only two singles, by Bob Seeds and Bill Knickerbocker, walked only one and whiffed six. The victory put him on even terms with Dizzy Dean, National League leader, in total games won.

Indians Take Second

The Yanks sewed the game up in the third and fourth innings as Babe Ruth belted a double with the bases loaded, then the Yanks hammered Monte Pearson out for four more tallies. The second contest was a different story as the Indians smashed three of New York's "second division" pitchers, Jimmy Deshong, Johnny Murphy and Johnny Broaca for 14 hits, including three homers, and won 10-4.

The split was enough to give the Yanks a half-game gain on the Tigers in the pennant race as Earl Whitehill led the Senators to a 7-5 victory over Detroit. Whitehill not only survived a four-hit four-run burst in the second inning but brought his team up from behind by knocking in three runs with a pair of timely singles. After the one Tiger rally he hurled hitless ball for five innings.

Wins Own Game

Ferrell, whose hitting ability is second only to his pitching, not only limited the White Sox to seven hits but produced a 3-2 10-inning victory with his bat. He clouted two home runs, one in the eighth to tie the score and another in the 10th to win. The feat doubled his home run production for the year and put him far ahead of all other major league elbowers in that respect.

Bill Dietrich of the Athletics turned in another of the day's fine flinging performances when he shut out the Browns with eight hits to win 2-0. Bruce Campbell made just half the Brownie hits. George Blaeholder and Paul Andrews limited the A's to seven blows but Doc Cramer and Bob Johnson got together on two occasions, Cramer scoring on Johnson's hits.

The National League schedule was a complete blank for the day, paving the way for a grand opening today of a "crucial" test for the league leading Giants. The New Yorkers open a three-game series today against the third-place Cardinals and the Dean Brothers, who have beaten them eight times running, then go on for four-games against Chicago's second place Cubs.

FANS THRILLED BY BIKE RACES

ON GREASY TRACK.

Despite a muddy track at the Exhibition yesterday afternoon, the two scheduled motorcycle races were run off. Both were from flying starts as it was deemed inadvisable for the push-start on a greasy track. This condition also made for slower times than usual, although the crowd was thrilled by the speed shown by the daring local riders on the half-mile oval. The cyclists were seen often to skid dangerously on the corner, a flat dirt track—with no banks on the turns—being a real hazard in speed racing.

They were late starting while efforts were being made to partially dry up the roadway. In both races, the cyclists were allowed a warmup lap and then came down the field bunched. The starter signalled with different colored flags whether they were to go ahead or come back for a better start. The races were three-mile affairs—six laps to a race—and the racers received a flag signal when they started their last lap and again at the finish. Some daring riding was shown in each run, it being a new and thrilling sport to most of the spectators.

They shot off to a good start in the first event with the five riders jockeying for the lead and each one holding it for a brief time. No. 3 looked like the winner just before hitting the stretch, but No. 4 blazed into a sprint that swept it to the front and the first three roared under the wire in a tight pack. The three finishing first were the prizewinners. This is the order of the finishes in the first race: 1, Sam Carewe on No. 4; Ronald Howell on No. 3; Jack Lee on No. 5; 4, Finlay Clarke on No. 1; 5, Ernie Beatty on No. 2. The time was 2.41.

It took considerable scoring to get the second race away but they got off to a good start eventually. Ernie Beatty's No. 2 rocketed well out in front and kept the lead for half the race but then Nos. 1 and 3 began battling for it. It was touch-and-go with the bikes skidding hard on the corners as the race grew hot till No. 1 took a good lead and raced home in front. They finished in this order: 1, F. Clarke on No. 1; 2, J. Lee on No. 5; 3, E. Beatty on No. 2; 4, Sam Carewe on No. 4; 5, Ron Howell on No. 3. The time was 3.31, ten seconds faster than the first. The crowd cheered the finalists each time as they chug-chugged past the judges' stand.

CLOCKMAKERS WIN 22-20 FROM LEAFS

Another free-hitting, heavy-scoring softball battle was dished up to the fans last night at the Ashburnham Bowl when Westclox tangled with the Maple Leafs in the Girls' Loop and won out, 22-20, after eight innings. The Leafs made their bid for victory in the first of the eighth when Eileen White, Leaf catcher, socked a homer with two on to take a one-run lead. The Clockers, however, came back strong in their half, and sent three counters over, on a walk, an error, a double by Grace Hawkes and a single by L. Chartren, and the game was called on account of darkness.

Barbara Blade hurled six frames for the winners, and held the Leafs to three singles, walking two and fanning five. Seven runs were scored against her mostly due to misues. Mildred White took the mound in the sixth, and was promptly touched for nine counters, resulting mostly from sloppy fielding. Four more counters crossed in the eighth. She walked two and allowed five hits. Genevieve Mann started for the losers and worked for four frames. She whiffed one, passed one and allowed twelve safeties. Agnes Sturgeon started in the fifth and finished the game. She walked three and was nicked for six hits.

Dot Merrett led the winners with a perfect night at bat. She hit a homer and four singles in five tries. Grace Hawkes had a homer, double and two singles in six, with Barb Blade adding another circuit clout and three singles in five trips. Eileen White led the Leafs with a double and homer, while Elise Foster in centre garden was the steadiest fielder on the team, knocking off four hard hit flies for a perfect performance.

The teams:

Maple Leafs: L. Cockerill, 2b; P. Rome, lf, ss; E. Sturgeon, 3b; H. Mann, 1b; E. Foster, cf; E. White, c; A. Sturgeon, ss, p; L. Trollop, rf; G. Mann, p, lf.

PREXY KNAPP WIPES OUT LOSS AGAINST ROCHESTER REDWINGS

Newark Bears Keep Pace by Taking 9-4 Decision From Albany.

ROYALS POSTPONED.

(By The Associated Press)

Newark Bears to-day found themselves in the rather odd position of being the victors in the only International League game played yesterday, but no further ahead of the second place Rochester Red Wings than before.

While the Bears were gaining through their batting power, which brought a 9-4 triumph over Albany Senators last night, Rochester profited through a decision by League President Charles H. Knapp.

The Red Birds had one game which already had been recorded as a defeat wiped off the books permanently when Knapp upheld their protest of a contest with Baltimore played Aug. 9. As the season's series between these teams has been completed, they can't play off the game.

Has Possibilities

Rochester might have done even better for the day, but its night game with Montreal was rained out. The situation still has its possibilities, however. If they should reach the end of the season with the same number of victories, the absence of the loss would favor Rochester.

The protest arose over an unusual play in which George Darrow, Baltimore pitcher, reached first safely but thought he was out and left the sack. He was tagged by Johnny Mize but Umpire Parker let him hold first, ruling that he had been unable to see the decision.

Newark sewed up its victory fairly early in the dragged-out game played on a wet field. Bob Olsen belted a homer with two aboard as the high spot of a five-run rally in the fourth and the Bears added another pair of counters in the next inning before the Senators staged their one uprising against Larocca, scoring all their points in the sixth frame.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.

Wes Ferrell, Red Sox—His two homers and pitching led Boston in 2 to 1 defeat of White Sox.

Bob Johnson, Athletics—Drove in both runs in 2-0 victory over Browns.

Vernon Gomez, Yankees, and Hal Trotsky, Indians—Gomez shut out Indians with two hits in first game, and Trotsky made four hits in five times at bat in second.

UNITED STATES RETAINS TROPHY

OFF ROCHESTER.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—Aided by bewildering vagaries of weather, Skipper Wilmot ('Rooney') Castle of the Conewago came from behind yesterday and sailed the Rochester Yacht Club Canada's Cup defender to an overwhelming and third straight victory over the Invader II. of Canada and retained for the United States the famous fresh water yacht racing trophy.

At the helm of the Invader, Skipper Tom Wade kept the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto challenger in front of the Conewago until the end of the fourth leg of the first round of the 21-mile triangular course, when the wind failed suddenly and left the eight metres almost becalmed.

C.O.B.L. standing to date:

Teams	P.	W.	L.	T.
Petes	21	12	8	1
Belleville	22	12	8	2
Oshawa	20	8	12	0
Kingston	21	8	12	1

Belleville Nationals and the Petes clash at three o'clock in Riverside Park this Saturday afternoon. It will be the Nats' last scheduled game here this season, and the leadership of the league will be at stake. The Nats and Petes are now tied for top place with only a week left before the C.O.B.L. playoffs. Both teams are practically in the playoffs, though each can be ousted by a mathematical possibility. They must lose all their remaining games — including the ties — and either Oshawa or Kingston must win all its remaining games, and then they could tie the Petes or Belleville. However, this seems improbable, so Saturday's game will be for first place. It will also give fans a line on how the playoff series ought to go. Williams and Deyell will likely pitch.

A slight earthquake shock was felt recently in Comrie, Scotland, an almost unknown thing in that country.

TRENTON COPS 18-10 VICTORY

BREAKS AGAINST THEM.

Trenton last night eliminated the Peterborough team from the O.A.B.A. junior race by beating them, 18-10, in Trenton. They had won the first game by a 16-7 score here, so the Trenton College Grads now advance against Livingstone in the next round of the playdowns. Pretty much the same lineups as took part in the first tilt tangled last night and it was an interesting scrap with the homesters getting the breaks. Twice the Petes had the bases full and drove out mighty clouts that looked like homers, but in each case spectacular catches by fielders going back fast robbed them.

The visitors used Ward and Reid on the mound, both going fair at times but being nicked for some heavy hitting also. Derry went the distance for Trenton and, despite wildness, went good in the pinches. Some good fielding was shown by both squads while Mitchell led the winners at bat with two homers and a double. For Peterborough, Vitarulli was the heavy slugger with four safeties. Mitchell in left was the fielding star of the game, this Trenton player repeatedly robbing the Petes of hits.

Score by innings:

Peterborough . . . . 022 120 104—10
Trenton Grads . . . 211 324 12x—18

Lawn Bowling BY Herb Martin

A Toronto sport writer commenting on the falling off of entries to the Dominion tournament asks what is the answer.

—o—

A Couple of Days ago we ventured to give some reasons for this decline, and again we suggest another reason: That, when bowlers drive anywhere from one hundred to two hundred miles they want to bowl—not sit around between games for eight hours, or attend pink teas.

—o—

Too Many side attractions caused a heavy slump at our mixed tourney last night. Still we can't kick, the attendance has been wonderful all summer.

—o—

Our Bowlers did very well at the out of town tourneys yesterday.

—o—

Down At Belleville, the rink skipped by G. Gimblett was successful in winning the consolation event. Besides winning the Riggs trophy each member won a Hudson Bay blanket.

—o—

While All This was going on another peterborough rink, skipped by yours truly, got second in the primary competition over at Hastings. This tournament was opened by no less than our old friend G. Stevenson, now reeve of the village. He gave the boys a real reception. Each member of the rink received an electric sandwich toaster.

F. Dearborn E. Sackville
W. Flannery H. Martin, sk.

While We Had three entries down at Cobourg, they all report a good time with the "Nothing doing" sign very prominent.

The Club Doubles will continue to-night.

Soccer Notes

To facilitate arrangements for the soccer players who are anxious to attend the Exhibition on Saturday, the Canadian General and the Canadian Packers have transferred the date of the Peck Cup final to FRIDAY EVENING. Kick off at six o'clock. Referee, Alex. McKinley.

On Saturday, September 1st, the Trenton team from the Airport will be the guests of Canadian General on King Edward Park. It is expected that the Canada Packers will make the trip to Trenton at an early date to play the Airport team.

Tuesday, August 28th, the Caledonians meet the Deloro team in a league match on King Edward Park.

To many soccer fans, the news that a Bay of Quinte League is being formed will be a step in the right direction, so that an Eastern champion aggregation can be decided.

Last Saturday, in Trenton, representatives from Belleville, Trenton, Warkworth, Picton, Brighton and Airport assembled and formed a Bay of Quinte soccer association.

It has been suggested that the winner of the Peterborough and District Football League and the winner of the Bay of Quinte League meet for the championship which will have to be confirmed at the meeting of the executive on Monday evening. The only conditions stipulated is that there be one game and that it must be played on neutral grounds. A cup will be given to the winners and the individuals will receive medals for their prowess on the field of play.

BOWMANVILLE EVENS SERIES

BOWMANVILLE, Aug. 23.—Scoring a 6-to-5 victory in a smart 11-inning game, Bowmanville defeated Cobourg, tied up the Lakeshore League play-off series and forced a third game in Bowmanville on Thursday night. With the score see-sawing throughout Bowmanville came from behind to tie the score in the eighth and forced two extra innings before they got into their stride and brought in the winning run in the last of the 11th. Bert Colwell on a smart bunt down the third base line scored the winning run with only one man out. Piper pitched five hit ball for the eleven innings.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By G. J. P.

Feeney Mills' Belleville Nationals will be up this way Saturday for a ball game. It will be their last appearance in a scheduled C.O.B.L. tilt this year, but not their appearance, we trust. In fact, we are pretty positive that we will be seeing plenty of them in the playoffs as the Nats and Petes are now tied for the loop leadership with just a week to go. Oshawa and Kingston are still fighting it out bitterly for the cellar, and we've got a couple of shekels to lay on the Ponies. They look like a sure thing for the "cold, cold ground" this year. Saturday's fixture here will be for the top rung and is therefore important. It'll also give us a line on how the playoffs may go.

• • • • • •

Having nothing much to do for a while at the Ex. yesterday, between acts of those pippins in the Revue, we mulled over the Petes' batting averages and found some interesting dope. Foley is still tops and the only one in the charmed circle, hitting .333, but "Willie" Calladine has snuck up to second position with a .326 mark, doing some noble clouting lately. Konopka has .286 and Hollingsworth .282 while Batten is bingling at the rate of .280. Ash is doing .267, Murray .263, Burton a point less, and Kitchen .250. Red Dallin with his .240 mark is the last one worth mentioning—the rest being less than .200. A glance over these figures show that, while few of the Petes are hitting very hard, they're all poking the pill pretty evenly between .250 and .300—and any batter is liable to come through with a timely hit at any time. They're not doing so badly at all with the playoffs approaching.

• • • • • •

The Kingston scribe—who used to jeer at the rest of us writers in other years and say we "couldn't take it"—is doing a lot of yelling over that Petrie, Oshawa, player, incident. He thinks Petrie isn't eligible to play for the Dukes, despite the fact that this club sponsored the junior team which Petrie played for—and he could therefore advance after July 15th. The funny part is that the mighty Ponies couldn't beat the lowly Dukes and are protesting a junior player! And Kingston didn't want a weak sister like Oshawa in the loop! It's a laugh, and they can squawk till they're blue in the face but if you can't win ball games on the field, you can't expect to have undeserved victories handed to you in the committee room.

• • • • • •

Quite a gang of folks watched Westclox nose out a 22-20 verdict over Maple Leafs at the Bowl yester eve. It wasn't much of a scrap what with both sides banging the oversized ball lopsided and the Alarm Lasses looking pretty terrible in the field. They were lucky to win out after Eileen White's homer with two aboard tied it up in the eighth. The Luckless Leafs aren't going anywhere but still they tossed a man-sized scare into the gals from Armour Hill. Tonight, it's Keene and Belleville in a tilt ala exhibish at 8.30 in the Bowl.

• • • • • •

The motorcycle races at the Ex. yesterday afternoon weren't bad at all, although a greasy track hampered things somewhat. It cut down the speed a bit and that caused fewer thrills. Still and all, some of the skids the boys did on the bends strongly reminded us of the times, years ago, when we'd make an icy slide on the sidewalk in winter and cover it over lightly with snow—then watching the passers-by doing their stuff. Some fun, what? No wonder we wound up writing sports. Anyway, we'd like to see more motorcycle races on a dry track, and so would a lot of people, the way the crowd down there cheered yesterday when the racers roared down the stretch.

Miss Gladys Carvolth, local star tennis player, is taking part now in the Toronto and district net tourney. Yesterday she played twice, losing in her senior match to Mrs. Wadden, 6-2 and 6-0; and winning in junior competition from Miss K. Hurst, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-3. Today, she meets one of the outstanding junior stars of Toronto, Miss C. Welsh, in the semi-finals. Miss Carvolth and "Army" Armstrong of Oshawa will team up in the mixed doubles and should make it plenty warmish for the opposition. Meantime, our own mixed doubles' finals are being help up till Miss Carvolth gets back as she plays with Jack Kirkwood.

• • • • • •

The Cogs' intermediates will hit into their O.B.A.A. playdowns Saturday, first game likely away. Cobourg was quite sure of knocking off Bowmanville in two straight but ran into a brick wall in Rubbertown last p.m. and took a 6-5 loss. It went eleven innings with Piper pitching five-hit ball for the winners. He's the classy hockey player who would like to come here. This series will be wound up Thursday night and the winner and Cogs will tangle Saturday.

• • • • • •

Doug Mowry's local O.A.S.A. outfit were eliminated yesterday from further competition when they dropped their second straight game to Trenton on the latter's grounds. The score was 18-16, but the locals made it plenty interesting several times. They state they did not get the breaks at all, twice being robbed of homers with the bases full, and not doing so well with the umpires either. We didn't see it, so can't say. However, the boys got started and no doubt learned quite a bit. Next year, a stronger team—one that is organized early in the season—will likely be formed for junior competition, and go places.

Sport hash: Napanee Gibbards won the Bay of Quinte League title last night by nosing out Picton, 4-3, Ernie Gibbard's perfect bunt squeezing in the winner . . . . And it was a nifty bunt that won for Bowmanville over Cobourg in their playoffs last eve . . . . An executive gals' loop meeting will be held at eight to-night in the "Y" to settle various matters . . . . Don't forget, some more classy harness hoss races are listed for tomorrow at the Ex . . . . Cobourg and Belleville lacrossers will meet in a two-game series at once, the winner to tackle Kiwanis in the finals . . . . Terriers and King Edward, local minor baseballers, are just marking time now, waiting for some O.B.A.A. competition.

COBOURG DEFEATS BAILIEBORO 24-23

Heavy Scoring Features Girls' Softball Battle at Highway Village.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 23.—Cobourg girls won a hard fought victory from the local girls in a seven inning game played on the local diamond on Monday evening and concluded the game with a score of 24 to 23.

Effie Brackenridge came to the mound for the locals in the third inning after the visitors had scored thirteen runs and after being out of the game during the past two years, came back to pitch a sterling brand of ball. There were weak places in the local fielding which gave the visitors the margin, but on the whole the Bailieboro girls were most effective at the bat.

The line-ups:

Cobourg—M. Austin, 3b; Smith, 2b; T. Morgan, lb, p; R. Hoskin, c; W. Hoskin, p, 3b; Young, M; Riley, ss; F. Austin, rf.

Cardinals And Indians Look Best For Finalists But Only On Paper

It is generally agreed among current ball players that the two best teams in the major leagues are the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cleveland Indians.

That is, of course, on paper.

But if you want to see the next world series your railroad tickets probably will read Detroit via New York and return.

The St. Louis Cardinals have cracker-jack fielding and plenty of power at the plate. Their pitching is excellent and they have a baseball-wise manager.

But the Red Birds have not flown near first place since the very early days of this season.

The Dean situation may be the answer. It begins to look as though matters are not as harmonious as they could be in the Card club house.

Cleveland began the season with plenty of batting power, a young infield of surprising excellence, a mound staff conceded to be the best in the American league and a popular idol for manager.

But Cleveland trails, more than a dozen games behind Detroit, because the Indians have been unable to convert this paper strength into actualy potency on the diamond.

It may be only a coincidence but both Cards and Indians have general managers whose authority, off the field, is greater than that of the field manager. Also interesting is the fact that the managers of the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers are absolute bosses—they make the trades, buy and sell players.

And the players know it.

SILVER SLIPPERS

CHAPTER 21

Giles, hunting now for Scripps in the rain, shrank from the memory of what had followed. Raymond had gone back to the front, and Scripps had soared to incredible heights, a war-bird looking for his prey, and Giles chafing at the inaction which his orders imposed upon him, had done his best to look after Amelie.

Then one day Scripps had come down with a crash, and Giles had gone with Amelie to see him in the hospital and had felt her shiver and shake before she entered the room, and had seen her courage as she knelt by the bed and kissed her lover's hand.

Her courage had held all through the dreadful weeks, but there had been sleepless nights, and a bit of nervous breakdown which had made the doctor anxious. "She can't stand much more," he had told Giles, "there's a touch of hysteria. And the war has done things to her."

It was to do more to her, for when news came from the front of Raymond's death, she went to pieces. "The shock has disturbed her balance," the doctor said cautiously.

"Mentally?"

"Yes."

Giles went to her at once. And when she saw him a strange thing happened. For she welcomed him not as Scripps' friend but as the brother she had lost. "They told me you were dead," she said, "I knew they were lying."

The obsession had persisted. Her marriage with Scripps was as if it had never been. When he came from the hospital, she met him merely as a friend of Giles. She tolerated his presence because Giles said she must. But she always protested, "I want no one but you."

The doctors said they had known other cases of the kind. Perhaps a slight resemblance between Giles and Raymond had started it, but more likely the cause had been in her need at the moment for relief from the deadening sense of loss. There was for a time trouble with the name: "You are not Giles, you are Raymond." But gradually she had come to accept this as one of the topsy-turvy things in this strange world in which she was living. There was so much she could not understand, and which hurt her head when she tried.

And so, when the war was over, Giles had brought her with Scripps to the island. There had seemed no other way in which to patch up Scripps' shattered life. There was hope, a great specialist had assured them, that the peace and quiet of the island would work a cure. But he promised nothing.

Amelie saw no one except the household group. The people of the town had been told she was the wife of Stephen and a nervous invalid. There was little gossip. Everyone knew Giles and respected him. They liked the fact that he had chosen to live among them, when he might have gone far afield for adventure.

Oh, well . . . Giles wrenched himself back to present realities . . . he had set his feet in a path and he would follow it. He could not now withdraw his strength from those two who needed him—no matter how hard the way, he must pursue it.

He found Scripps in a sheltered corner of the rocks—a dark shape in the gloom. "My dear fellow," Giles said, as he came up, "you've no business to do a thing like this."

"Why not?"

"It's cold and wet—you'll be in knots with rheumatism."

"If I died what difference would it make?" Scripps' voice was hoarse with despair.

Giles dropped a hand on his shoulder. "It would make all the difference in the world to me."

"Do you mean that, Giles?"

"You know I do."

They walked back together, and found the fire in the living room still glowing. They sat down in front of it and talked of Amelie in low tones. Scripps saw no light ahead. "She cares nothing for me."

"She is not responsible for what she does."

"I know. But I still—suffer . . ."

Neither of them wanted to go to bed. The storm, raging outside seemed to shut them away from all the world so that they were led to confidences which are given only at such times. And it was thus that Giles finally unfolded to his friend the story of the friendship between himself and Joan Dudley.

"She's a rare child, Scripps. A lamb among wolves," was the way he ended it. Scripps had been told of her engagement, of Giles' doubts of Drew, of the wicked old witch of an aunt, of Joan's need of a helping hand.

Scripps looking up from the fire with somber eyes, said, "You're in love with her?"

"Yes. But I'm asking nothing for myself."

"Why not?"

"I'm not cad enough to think she'd care."

"But if she did care?"

"It mustn't come to that."

"Why shouldn't it?"

Giles rose restlessly, and stood leaning on the back of his chair, "I shan't marry."

"That's nonsense. You know you will . . . or if you don't it will be because of Amelie and the . . . because we're a drag on you . . ." Scripps flung up his head in a wild gesture.

Giles said, sternly, "Stop that. And don't be silly. I'm sorry I told you about Joan. She's engaged to the other fellow and will probably marry him . . . It won't be easy for me to see her do it. I'd be glad to prevent it, because she won't be happy. But it's hands off, I suppose, even if I know her life will be wrecked . . ."

Scripps rose and stood beside him, "I'm a poor stick," he said, shakily, "and my troubles go to my head. But I love you."

"I know . . ." Giles put an arm about the other's shoulders, and they stood there together saying little because of the memories which gripped them.

After Scripps had gone, Giles sat in a big chair and gazed at the glowing coals. If he went to bed, he knew he would not sleep. He was still swept by the emotion which had mastered him when he had held Joan close—fragrant and white and exquisite, while the rain poured down upon them.

He reached into his pocket and brought forth a treasure which he had salvaged from that meeting. Going down the steps when he had left her and Hallam he had found a handkerchief which she had dropped. It lay now like a pink petal on his palm. It was a scrap of chiffon which had matched her gown and which carried the elusive scent of white roses which he always associated with her. He wondered if he should return it, then decided that he would not. Surely he might have this one token for remembrance, when Hallam had all the rest.

The next day and the next his restlessness continued. He had no word from Joan. As the week went on and he heard nothing it seemed as if he could not stand it. Scripps was aware of the change in him, and Amelie. "You're not like yourself," she said, "you seem to be thinking of something away from me, away from the island."

Well, he was thinking of something away from the island. Day and night. Night and day. Among his books she came walking in, lighting the dim room—only to vanish in a breath, leaving darkness behind her. When the others were in bed she sat by his fire . . . her face turned up to him . . . He bent down to her and she was blotted out . . .

There were times when on his knees he struggled with the thing that possessed him. "God help me. God help me," he would say, knowing even as he said it that what he asked was for strength to resist the temptation to go to throw himself at her feet, and declare himself her lover.

He had never believed that love would come to him like this. Yet here he was, mastered by it, feeling that his world would end if Joan married Drew Hallam.

ROBBED AND SLUGGED

WINDSOR—Slugged by a masked, armed bandit early this morning, Alex Duda, 24, of 948 Marion Ave., was forced to yield his wrist watch to the thug but quick-thinking saved his wallet, containing a small sum of money. Duda was held up as he halted his car to open garage doors at the rear of his home, about 1.45 a.m.

For Friday, August 24

This day may be said to be under a very dynamic vibration of the high-powered major planets. This sidereal situation will bring stagnant, crystallized and long-frustrated affairs to a head, but to make way for a radical change in the circumstances, with a force likely to have reactions on the far distant future. A complete upheaval may take place, with new environs, interests, associates and employment, all with excellent prospects for increase of fortune, enhanced popularity and position, but be careful as to a loophole for slander, deception or fraud.

Important Year

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very important year, with probably a complete reversal of their affairs, from one of stagnation and impediment to high activities and interests in new environs, with fresh contacts and ambitions. Progress and prosperity, high position and prestige should follow if such opportunity be safeguarded from fraud, slander, trickery and misrepresentation. It is a year of climacteric importance in the life. Manage it well.

A child born on this day should be excellently endowed for success, prosperity, adventure and real achievement, but it may have peculiar mental slants calling for supervision.

LEG-THEORY BOWLING PROGRAM SHOULD BE SETTLED AT ONCE

English Commentators Feel Controversy Must be Buried Before Next Games.

CAUSES ILL FEELING.

LONDON, Aug. 23 (C.P. Cable).—While congratulating Australia's fine cricket eleven under W. M. Woodfull on their victory in the deciding Test cricket match against England, and thereby recapturing the ashes, the majority of English commentators to-day agreed the problem of leg-theory bowling, or bodyline bowling, must be settled once and for all.

It was conceded that Australia sent over a superior team this season, and there was no stinting of praise for their great batting performances, which included in the last and decisive match the establishment by W. H. Ponsford and Don Bradman of a new partnership record in Test matches, 451 runs for the second wicket.

But the controversy preceding the match over fast leg-theory bowling was recalled. When the match ended yesterday some of the crowd shouted ironically, "We want Larwood; we want Voce," referring to Harold Larwood and William Voce, fast leg-theory bowlers, who proved disastrous to the Australian bowlers—but not in this season's Test matches, because they were not on the Test teams.

Australians Blamed.

The Australians were blamed by the crowd at Nottingham for forcing the withdrawal of Voce halfway through their match against the county team, after Voce had taken eight Aussie wickets for 66 runs less than two weeks ago, and the arguments arising from this rumbled right to the opening of the Test match.

The Times said that before England's team leaves for the next Test matches in Australia in the autumn of 1935, there should be an agreed pronouncement burying the controversy which has done much to spoil the game.

The Times referred to the long Australian demand for definite banning of bodyline bowling, to which the M.C.C. so far has conceded only a pronouncement that bowling obviously directed at the batsman is an offence to the spirit of the game.

The Daily Telegraph said the whole series of Tests had been played in an atmosphere of increasing doubt and distrust. The English elevens did not represent England, it added, and before another team was sent to Australia, the M.C.C. and the Australian board must reach a precise understanding as to what bowling is legitimate and what is not. "There must be no more mystery," said the Telegraph.

Swede Who Has Killed 200 Polar Bears Returns to Lonesome Life.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 23 (CP).—Making one of his rare visits to his home country, Andress Qvarnstrom, who is 70 years old and has spent the last 25 years in the Polar regions as fur hunter and coal-mine employee, has been telling the newspapers something of his experiences.

In the last few years he has lived the summer months as watchman at the coal mines in Spitsbergen, carrying on his trapping in the winter. He tells of long winter months spent in the frozen wastes without human companionship, of polar bears and Arctic foxes which have fallen to his rifle or been trapped by him. He estimates that he has secured the pelts of at least 200 bears.

Qvarnstrom has been shipwrecked in the polar seas. He has had to swim in icy water when his boat capsized, and when he reached firm ice, his clothes froze so quickly as he pulled himself out of the water that he he had to break the frozen cloth to be able to move his limbs.

In spite of his age and the hardships he has endured, Andreas is in the best of health. He still feels the call of the wild and intends to return to his lonesome life in the inhospitable regions beyond the Polar Circle.

GIBBARDS TAKE QUINTE LAURELS

SCORE ON PERFECT BUNT.

NAPANEE, Aug. 23 — Led by Pointer's sterling southpaw pitching, Gibbard Athletics defeated Picton, 4 to 3, in ten innings to capture the third play-off and the championship of the Bay of Quinte Intermediate "A" Baseball League. Gibbards rushed the winning run over in the tenth on four straight hits. Manager Ernie Gibbard coming up with the sacks loaded and laying down a perfect bunt for a squeeze play. The hit was so well placed that a play was not possible at any base and none was out as Hugh Brennan crossed the plate with the tally that decided the struggle.

French Net Star Hurt In Accident

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 23 (AP)—France's Davis Cup hope, 22-year-old Andre Merlin, has suffered injuries in a motorcycle accident which are expected to keep him off the courts for at least three months and possibly keep him out of further international competition.

Merlin was speeding between Deauville and Houlgate on his motorcycle Tuesday night, and while trying to pass an automobile, was struck by a car coming in the opposite direction.

Friends took him to a hospital where he underwent an operation on his knee. It was cut deeply and the ligaments were torn. The young star also sprained his right ankle.

Carpetmakers Beat Beverage Team 9-8

Taking part in the Field Day sports in Belleville yesterday, the local Brintons—with a few other players from here to fill out the team—defeated Belleville's O.A.S.A. entry, Canada Dry team, by a 9-8 score in a smart softball struggle. The Quinte outfit, now on even terms with a win and a loss in their O.A.S.A. playdown series with Trenton, battled hard but were nosed out. Butcher, Currie and Abbott all twirled for Brintons with Weir starring at bat with a homer, triple, double and single in five. Smith and Starr also hit hard.

STREET DANCE AND FIELD DAY DRAWS CROWD TO MARMORA

Tweed Captures Softball Honors by Nosing Out Havelock for Cooke Cup.

FINE EVENING'S PROGRAM.

MARMORA, Aug. 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — Marmora's annual street dance and field day, under auspices of its Agricultural Society, was held on Wednesday afternoon and evening under ideal weather conditions.

At the Fair Grounds in the afternoon, Tweed men's softball team secured the Hon. J. R. Cooke Cup by nosing out Havelock in the final after Havelock had defeated Springbrook and the cup winners had accounted for Madoc by narrow margins in well-contested games.

Results:

Havelock, 6; Springbrook, 5.

Tweed, 10; Madoc 6.

Umpires—T. Moffat at plate; G. Woodhouse, J. Brady and T. Hughes on bases.

Final

Havelock .....030 000 0—3
Tweed .....004 001 x—5

Umpires—H. Alcombrack at plate, G. Woodhouse and G. Kennedy on bases.

Teams:

Havelock—G. Kemp, rf; Hagerman, c; Matheson, 1b; Hunter lf; Chiles, cf; Hill, 3b; R. Kemp, ss; Brunton, p; Voyer, 2b.

Springbrook. — M. Heath, 3b; Mason, 1b; Bateman, p; Ryckman, cf; Williams, c; Ward, ss; Morton, lf; Brown, 2b; G. Heath, rf.

Sports Program

A small program of sports was also put on under supervision of E. C. Prentice and T. Cousins. Varied numbers were given by artistes of the evening's program from the bandstand. Marmora Women's Institute also served refreshments on the grounds.

The evening's program was entirely supplied by Affiliated Theatrical Offices of America; F. LaSalle acting as manager. Jack King and His Harvesters, heard on the General Motors Hockey broadcasts last season, furnished music for the round and square dances. Pearle and Sari with piano accordion and saxaphone selections were great favorites with the large crowd.

Belle Belmore, who has been featured in the Night Club Sweethearts on the R.K.O. Unit, was heard in a repertoire of modern and blue songs and also received an ovation. Bud Dowling, who travelled with Hurtig and Seamon's Revue, "Beauty and Cellophane," created roars of laughter with his eccentric dances. Pat MacIntosh, making his first Eastern appearance this month, revealed himself as a clever comedian, able to amuse with the use of various dialects and a rapid flowing patter.

Bingo games and refreshment booths operated by the Agricultural Society and Women's Institute did a large business.

GRAND FINALE PLANNED FOR "EX"

To-day

Short News Items Received By Examiner Over Direct C. P. Wire.

WINDSOR. — The old saw about people taking baths on Saturday night is a lot of tripe as far as the Windsor waterworks officials are concerned.

They say consumption of water is lower on Saturday night than at any time during the week. Monday, however, the traditional wash day, brings one of the greatest consumption peaks of the week.

GUELPH.—Guelph's garment strike has provided the city's juveniles with a source of entertainment and brought a new source of anxiety to parents.

The town lads have not only had considerable fun watching the picketing and fighting around the Superior and Popular Cloak Companies' plant. They have joined in by smashing numerous windows with catapults.

WINNIPEG. — Federal regulations limiting exports of hay and fodder except under license are expected to have little effect in the Prairie West, farm leaders believed to-day. Anticipated supplies are believed to be barely sufficient to provide for the needs of the drought-stricken areas in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. It is possible there may be some small surplus of higher priced alfalfa raised in the irrigation areas of Southern Alberta.

STROMBOLI ISLAND, Italy. — Frightened inhabitants of this and other islands of the Lipari group spent last night in fields, lest new eruptions from Stromboli volcano destroy their houses. Although the volcano has not erupted since Tuesday, repeated shocks yesterday and fiery discharges from the crater last night caused apprehension. A new flow of lava descended last night over an uninhabited area.

TOKYO.—The recent arrest of Soviet officials and employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway is entirely the internal affair of Manchukuo, Japan will inform the Soviet Union in her forthcoming reply to the Soviet protest, it was understood here to-day. The Japanese reply also will point out that the Japanese Government has no connection at all with the negotiations for the transfer of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

LONDON.—Word of the 10 per cent. acreage reduction in the United States for the ensuing year, instead of 15 per cent as planned, received London to-day as delegates to the adjourned World Wheat Conference opened private negotiations in an endeavor to settle the problems of export quotas for the current crop year.

NORTH BAY, Ont.—Illustrious Potentate Morley E. McKenzie, Toronto, is to be accorded a rare privilege this afternoon, when he will be allowed to see the famed Dionne quintuplets at Corbeil.

Shriners are staging a three-day celebration at North Bay.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—An unidentified negro lay dead to-day, the victim of an aroused citizen posse, after what police described as an attempted attack on three white girls in an East Birmingham park while they were on their way to a church meeting. The negro, with one bullet wound in his head, died in a hospital here.

CHICAGO. — Winter's advance guards—snow traces, frost and freezing temperatures — reached some of the northern points in the great central plains early to-day, Marshall and Sahish, N.D., reported thermometer readings of 28 degrees. Frost reports were general in Minnesota and North Dakota and another came from Hudson, Wis. There were no indications of damage to crops.

TORONTO.—The Imperial Bank of Canada to-day announced it would erect a new building here to serve as its head office. The new building, a six storey structure, to be built on the intersection of King and Bay streets, will cost about $1,000,000.

WINDSOR.—Families on relief in Windsor will no longer be furnished with ice and kitchen utensils, the committee of supervisors has ruled. Accounts already incurred in this manner were approved but the committee warned no further expenditures would be paid.

TORONTO. — Alwyne Thompson, husband of Toronto's "lilac bush" murder victim, appeared to-day before Magistrate R. J. Browne and pleaded not guilty to a charge of perjury. Thompson was alleged to have taken out a marriage license after his wife was missing and before her body was found beneath a lilac bush on a lonely road on the outskirts of the city; swearing he was unmarried. His trial is proceeding.

HAMILTON.—Two cases of typhoid fever, and three of infantile paralysis have been discovered in Hamilton, Dr. James Roberts, M.H.O. announced today, but there is no danger whatever of an epidemic.

WASHINGTON.—Collapse of the present negotiations for a settlement of a Soviet-American debts and claims was indicated to-day in a state department statement that "it is not possible to be optimistic that any agreement will be reached."

OFFICER STRUCK BY FLYING STONE DURING MELEE

Squad Forced to Use Fire Hose Twice to Clear Street of Strikers.

TRAFFIC TIED UP.

Trouble Flares After Arrested Man Appears in Court for Firing Gun.

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 24. —(C P)—Renewed violence flared in Guelph's strike dispute this morning when strikers stoned a car owned by Acting Chief of Police P. W. Hauck, shattering all the windows, and injured one special constable, K. Fach, who received a cut over one eye.

J. L. Cohen, Toronto barrister, L. H. Posluns and a number of others left the front door of a hotel with Chief Hauck, and as they appeared at the doorway, waiting strikers put up a barrage of stones which crashed through every pane of glass in the officer's car. Others ripped open the hood, and tore wires from the inferior. It was said that they were not aware it was Hauck's auto.

Police drove the strikers away, and fire hose used earlier in the morning were brought into action again.

Traffic was paralyzed between 10:30 and 11 o'clock as police herded pickets and curious residents along the upper section of Syndham street.

Counsel Surrounded

The trouble arose after Samuel Posluns, appearing in police court, to answer a charge of firing a revolver, had stated that his counsel, Mr. Cohen, could not leave his hotel because it was surrounded. Detective Hauck went up to escort the lawyer to the police station.

The cases of Posluns, and a number of strikers charged with damaging property all were adjourned for one week, the bench accepting the undertaking of G. B. Bagwell, of Toronto, law partner of Hon. Arthur Roebuck, that the men charged would take no part in picketing or trouble making.

SUSPECT FLIERS ON WORLD HOP

Yale Professor and Friend Turn Up in Labrador From Nova Scotia.

GREENLAND NEXT.

CARTWRIGHT, Labrador, Aug. 24.—(A.P.)— Dr. Richard Upjohn Light, Professor of Surgery at Yale University, and Robert French Wilson of New Rochelle, N. Y., who surprised their friends in the United States Wednesday by an unexpected flight to Cartwright, from Nova Scotia, to-day said they would take off for Greenland to-morrow.

Dr. Light acted as pilot of the plane and his companion acted as wireless operator on their flight here from Sydney, N.S. Wilson is a 1934 electrical engineering graduate of the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale.

The pair did not disclose whether or not their flight had Greenland only, as its objective or whether rumors that they planned a world-girdling hop were true.

When the men set out from New Haven it was understood they were only going on a pleasure jaunt.

Reports from New Haven, Conn., disclosed that Dr. Light had sought permission from Rome, Tokyo and other distant cities to fly over those places in a round-the-world flight.

QUICK N.R.A. AGREEMENT?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — Speedy agreement over the future of N.R.A. seemed likely to-day.

Hugh S. Johnson, Blue Eagle head, planned to fly back to Washington for a conference with President Roosevelt, Donald R. Richberg and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Some officials said difference over the reorganization of the Recovery Administration would evaporate and that a program for the future may be reached within 48 hours.

A Mascot

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Aug. 24 —(CP)—Kindly County Constable George James who settles troubles for man and beast has got himself into a mystery.

James, walking down a street on his beat the other night, met a ferret followed closely by a cat. He was not sure whether cats and ferrets mix so he took the ferret home. It was the smaller animal. Now he can't find who owns it.

LIGHT HORSES OF HIGH CLASS JUDGE CLAIMS

CLASSES WELL FILLED

Herbert Collacutt of Port Perry, who is again officiating as judge in the Light Horse show ring at Peterborough Exhibition, claims "this show is the best this side of Toronto, and it has Ottawa beaten so far as light horse entries are concerned." He expressed the opinion that both "the quality and quantity of the entries is of excellent standard."

Smith Milburn, a member of he committee, commented that most sections of the Light Horse class were well filled, and combined to make one of the heaviest entries in the history of the Fair.

Carriage and roadster classes brought out particularly heavy fields, and the judge and committee found themselves with a hard task in placing the awards. While saddle horses, ponies, and specials remain to be judged to-day and Saturday, yesterday's turnout provided the grandstand with a wonderful display of equine perfection and beauty, as the horses paced and wheeled on the track before Mr. Collacutt.

Chief among the prize winners in the carriage and roadster classes, so far judged, were the following well-known horsemen: Claude K. Bottum, Bobcaygeon; Allan B. Mann, Smith; S. S. Staples, Ida; G. H. Smtih and Son, Delhi; Stanley Blewett, Peterborough; George N. Graham, Peterborough; F. D. Marsh, Napanee; Sam Hastings; A. B. Weber, Kitchener; Lloyd Kennedy, Bethany; James N. Johnston, Frankford; W. J. Booth, Delhi; Ira Nattress, Millbrook; H. Jamieson, Ida, and W. H. Lindsay, Campbellcroft.

The judge placed the awards as follows:

LIGHT HORSES

Carriage

Foal of 1934—1, Allan B. Mann, Bridgenorth; 2, Claude K. Bottum.

Quintuplets Now Take Sun Baths

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 24. — (C.P.). — Five little bodies squirm and toss on a kitchen table while rays of nature's sun pour through the open window. The health bathers are the Dionne quintuplets.

Daily, providing there is sunshine, the famous babes bask in the sun. They are showing the results of the healthy practice, and their little frames are growing steadily stronger.

Cecille has now joined her heavier sisters, Yvonne and Annette, in taking daily soap and water baths. She also graduated from the incubator to the cot stage to-day. This leaves only Marie and Emilie in the "boxes." The mites enjoy their baths to the limit, and the nurses have to watch them closely as they plunge about in the tiny tubs.

FIRES BURN UNCHECKED

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Aug. 24.—(CP)—Rain which has fallen in this area almost every day this week has done little to dampen bush fires. Three new blazes were reported today in the Algoma Central Railway district while it was reported a 4,000 acre fire in Gillmor township had started again. This fire broke out a month ago and since that time 100 men with nine pumps have been trying to extinguish it.

RUMOR VALERA SEEKING PEACE WITH ENGLAND

Would Waive Right to Land Annuities if Ireland is Kept in Empire.

CABINET IN ACCORD.

Farmers Revolt Over Paying Land Taxes Even to Home Government.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (CP)—A Dublin cable to the New York Times to-day says efforts to re-open negotiations between the De Valera Government and the United Kingdom have been made during the past few weeks.

"Eamon de Valera, President of the Free State executive council, is considering the resumption of negotiations with England on the basis of document two. The right of England to land annuities would be waved if a satisfactory settlement which would keep Ireland within the British Empire were reached.

It is stated that a majority in the Free State cabinet are in favor of a settlement on these lines and that intermediaries have made several journeys between Dublin and London."

(At the time the Anglo-Irish treaty was negotiated by Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins put forward the basis of a proposed settlement known as Document Two, under which Ireland, while regaining independence, would enter into an association with the British Commonwealth of Nations, acknowledging the King as the head of the Commonwealth)

Wires Being Pulled

The cable to the Times goes on to say that while there is no confirmation of the Republic report that De Valera has reached the stage suggested, it is known in Dublin that influential persons have been endeavoring to re-open negotiations between the Free State and United Kingdom governments. How far these efforts have succeeded it is impossible to state now, the Times cable says, then adds:

"Farmers in many parts of the fire state to-day are in the throes of a new land war, in which they are offering resistance to the payment of annuities to the home government. The resistance has taken the form of blocking roads, cutting communications and in other ways trying to obstruct state forces, and sheriffs officers in the seizure of stock for non-payment.

"The farmers' contention is that they paid the annuities twice over to Britain by way of penal taxation and that, therefore, they should not be called upon to pay them to the De Valera government. Others declare that owing to depression prices and the loss of the British market they are unable to pay."

Owing to the unfavorable weather to-day Children's Day has been carried over for to-morrow and all the boys and girls can get into the grounds for 5c. J. P. Sullivan, manager of the Midway, will give 1,000 free tickets for rides and shows on the midway to the first 1,000 boys and girls topo through the gates in the morning. Gates open at 10 o'clock.

There is likely to be a big crowd to-morrow as every one is speaking well of this year's show and many who have seen it once are going to see it again. Entire change of program of Winter Garden Revue to-night and to-morrow.

ROWE AFTER 16TH WIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)— "Schoolboy" Rowe was described at Detroit headquarters to-day as "all set" to take his regular turn on the mound tomorrow in an effort to secure his 16th consecutive win and tie the American League record.

Friends of the pitching sensation said that an ankle injury had almost completely healed.

Arrests Follow Labor Troubles

Six arrests were made at Guelph, Ont., when striking pickeners clashed with police attempting to escort strikebreakers into a clock factory there. More than 1,000 people jammed the streets where the factories are located. While this strike was in progress, New Toronto, Ont., is also in the throes of labor troubles, police arresting eight picketers outside a shoe company plant, after warning them that picketing would not be tolerated. Photo ABOVE shows one picket in the grip of the law for allegedly throwing stones through factory windows in the Guelph outbreak.

FINE SHOWING IS BEING MADE HEAVY HORSES

Competition is Keen in Many Classes—Others Not so Well Filled.

AWARDS TO DATE

Peterborough's claim to one of the best agricultural fairs in the province, is not founded on its large exhibits of cattle, grain, root crops and dairy produce alone. Each branch of the agricultural industry is making fair contribution, and not the least of those who are throwing in their full weight, are the heavy horse breeders of the county and surrounding district.

This year particularly heavy horses make a splendid showing and Robert Cruickshank of Wingham as judge in this section, is finding the competition so keen in many of the classes that he is hard put to it in the making of his decisions. This is particularly true of the Clydesdale section, which paraded a fine field before the judge yesterday afternoon.

S. S. Staples of Ida and George McKnight about equally divided the high honors in the Clydesdale classes, with V. R. Hunter of Cavan and J. H. Forder also featuring prominently.

Thomas Graham, is chairman of the Heavy Horse Committee, with Messrs W. Roseborough, R. T. Lillico, C. Hanbidge, George Hooton, D. B. Falkner, W. Brown, H. McFarlane and V. S. Milburn as valued assistants.

Little competition was seen in the Percheron classes which were virtually cleaned up by Walter Moncrief. Among other classes judged up to yesterday that was a section of the Heavy Draft, which brought out some nice pairs of heavy draft fawn horses, and a string of mares or geldings, in harness.

Other classes to be judged today and tomorrow include, grade draft,

BESSBORO OPENS TORONTO'S FAIR

Expresses Hope British Empire Aspect Will Become More Prominent.

56TH YEAR FOR C.N.E.

TORONTO, Aug. 24. (CP). — Hope that the British Empire aspect of the Canadian National Exhibition will become more prominent in the future was expressed to-day by His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Bessborough, when he officially opened the 56th annual fair.

Lord Bessborough said the C.N.E. has always justified its claim to be considered in every sense a national exhibition.

"It provides, indeed—as do many features of Canada's national life—a striking example of how a population of varied stock, of varied characteristics and interests, can fuse itself into one harmonious whole, seeking to advance on a basis of he greatest good for the greatest number," he declared.

"Within these walls are collected exhibits which, in their infinite variety, show traces of the individual genius of many races, of the English, the French, the Scottish, the Irish, the Welsh, as well as of the Indians who roamed this continent for centuries before any European set foot upon it" the Governor General continued.

A Mixup

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 24.—(C.P.).—The mice have given the bugs a new lease on life.

On a shelf in the laboratory of Dr. Curt J. Drake, State entomologist, stood several bottles of fluid, concocted to exterminate farm insect pests in Iowa.

But when Drake went to get them, mice had eaten away their labels, confusing their identities.

WHIRR OF DRILL FOILS LOOTING OF BANK VAULT

WOUNDS ONE OF PAIR.

LENNOXVILLE, Que., Aug. 24. (CP).—The whirr of an electric drill biting through the steel doors of the vault in the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch here awakened Benjamin W. Draper, 30-year-old accountant living alone over the bank, before dawn to-day. Draper poked an automatic through a peephole and opened fire on the two men crouching at the vault door, wounding one before they fled. A short time later a man was admitted to hospital in Sherbrooke, Que., suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

The wounded man told police and hospital authorities that he had been injured in an automobile accident. He said he had been shot accidentally in an altercation with a friend. No charge was laid against him, but a police guard was placed at his bedside.

Arlie Fearon, who lives a mile from Lennoxville, was awakened by a man pounding on his front door. The stranger gasped he had been injured in an automobile accident and asked Fearon to drive him to hospital in Sherbrooke. Fearon took the man to hospital, where the bullet wound was discovered by doctors.

No money was missing from the bank, but examination of the vault showed the two holes had been drilled through the heavy doors preparatory to setting off a charge of nitro-glycerine in opinion of Sherbrooke police.

7 Inspectors Ousted Agricultural Board

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (C.P.) — Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario to-day announced dismissal of seven inspectors and valuators of the Ontario Agricultural Development Board.

The Premier said the government had adopted a policy of "easing up" on any further loans to farmers under the board.

He added he had asked Prime minister R. B. Bennett to institute provisions of the federal farm relief act in Ontario. The board of which W. B. Roadhouse is chairman will continue to function.

At the same time Mr. Hepburn announced Daniel W. Markham, Toronto barrister, has been appointed a member of the Ontario Minimum Wage Board and will serve without salary.

800 Feet New Beach Appears In Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 24. (C. P. Cable).—Following a strange subterranean upheaval, 800 feet of new beach appeared on the southern coast of Trinidad to-day. Inland the grounds sank, presenting an appearance of plowed fields. Trees leaned at odd angles.

The disturbance continued this afternoon between Chatham and Erin on Erin Bay, directly opposite the spot where an island rose mysteriously from the sea in November, 1909. A year elapsed before the island disappeared into the deep.

Gas pressure was given by authorities as an explanation for the phenomenon.

GREATEST SHOW HISTORY OF FAIR WILL BE GIVEN

Grandstand Performance Starts at Two—Big Parade at Three.

JUDGING OF HORSES.

Entirely New Performance Will be Given Before Grandstand in Evening.

The grand finale of the 89th annual showing of the Peterbbrough Industrial Exhibition tomorrow will be one of the greatest spectacles ever presented in this district. Everything will be combined to make it a fitting conclusion to the big fair.

The afternoon program at the grandstand begins at 2 o'clock and will provide new thrills, color and action for the audience.

George A. Hamid's mammoth outdoor extravaganza, which has the whole district speaking in its praise, will again present an entirely new program, more thrilling, colorful and laugh-provoking even than their show of the first three days of the fair.

The grandstand acts will be interspersed with horse racing — the finest array of trotters ever assembled in this district being ready to compete in the rich stakes.

At 2 o'clock the long parade of prize livestock will sweep past the grandstand. This huge livestock parade is annually one of the outstanding features of the exhibition.

During the afternoon, in the show ring, there will be judging of saddle horses, ponies; and in the heavy horse class, light delivery, feature commercial turnouts, and heavy horse specials.

No show in recent years has made such a hit with local audiences as Catharine Behnye's "Winter Garden Revue" with Cogert and Motto, who hit a new, high note in dazzling comedy. This show is studded with stars from the American stage, and features the dancing of 30 beautiful chorus girls.

Arthur Petley and his London Company will again shake thunderous rolls of laughter from the crowd.

Joe Mandis Company, formerly with Ringling Bros. Circus and starred on every vaudeville stage in America, will present new stunts.

Gains in paid admissions at both the gate and the grandstand over last year were enjoyed at the Exhibition yesterday. A total of 4,442 persons clicked the turnstiles at the gate and 2,706 were admitted to the grandstand.

Although the gate figure was still far from the 8,000 and 10,000 totals of prosperity days, the gain over Thursday, 1933, was almost 800. The grandstand gain was 530.

The grand total attendance for the week up to today is still short of last year at the figure 14,164. The 1933 total was 14,516.

Unidentified Man Found On C.N.R. Track

BODY IS FOUND NEAR HASTINGS BY TRAINMEN

Man is Said to be About Thirty Years of Age, Well Dressed.

CORONER CALLED.

Name B. Beman, Toronto, is Found on Inside Pocket of His Coat.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Aug. 24.—Some time Wednesday night or early Thursday morning a fatal accident happened half mile east of Hastings on the C.N.R. when an unidentified man lost his life. Engineer Reeves of Lindsay on a C.N.R. freight coming into Hastings shortly after dinner on Thursday made the gruesome discovery. He saw the body beside the tracks and on his arrival in Hastings notified the local agent, R. W. Johnson and the section men, the latter went immediately to the scene while the agent notified Coroner Dr. A. C. Armstrong of Warkworth who along with County Constable R. Kelley also of Warkworth were soon on the scene. Section men passed the spot where the body was found late Wednesday afternoon. How the unfortunate man met his fate will probably never be known, whether he attempted to jump from a fast travelling freight some time through the night and lost his footing or, fell asleep and rolled off. The back of his head and neck appeared to be where he received the fatal injuries.

Well Dressed

The man who was dressed well for a transient was wearing a dark suit with a pin stripe, a new grey cap, low shoes, white socks, white shirt and light colored tie. County Constable Kelly informed The Examiner that the man would be thirty years old, five feet, ten inches tall, weighing about one hundred and seventy pounds, full face, fair complexion, black hair, and a small moustache. He was wearing a plain gold ring on the third finger of his left hand. In his pockets was found a pair of pipers, a tape measure and thirty six cents in change. The only clue the authorities have to work on for identification is the name B. Beman, Toronto, which was on a ticket fastened on the inside pocket of his coat.

After viewing the body, the Coroner had it removed to Tedford and McEachnie undertaking parlors.

Coroner Armstrong with Constable Kelley are investigating.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP).—Word came from London to-day that a Kansas farmer's daughter—rosy-cheeked, dimpled Gene Dennis — is figuratively knocking the Britishers for a bally loop.

Gene has been in London since early spring and is known all over England as the American "girl psychic." She has appeared at three London theatres, has given "readings" at the afternoon teas of a big London hotel, has been interviewed on coming events by most of the large newspapers of England, and in addition has written a weekly article for the London Sunday Dispatch at a pay rate of £200 an article.

Prominent officials, Lords and ladies and big business men have sought her out for private interviews. Their names she is bound to keep confidential but Gene herself has been entertained by such people as the Bishop of London, the Russian Princess Youssoupoff and ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York at his home in Dorking.

The English public has always given a good reception to clairvoyants, psychics and spiritualists from the days of Saint Augustine to Sir Oliver Lodge and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, but they had a hard time becoming accustomed to this native daughter of Leavenworth, Kansas, when she went on the stage witout the usual "show business"—no blindfolds, no crystals, no trances.

DILLINGER'S ACE GUNMAN SLAIN ST. PAUL STREET

RELATIVES GIVE TIP OFF.

Gangster Facing Machine Gun, Rifles, Dies With Pistol in Hand.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 24 (A.P.). — Once more a woman has led a Dillinger gangster to the end of the outlaw trail.

Homer Van Meter, John Dillinger's ace gunman, walked into a police trap last night and fell, full of lead, in an alley. Dillinger himself was similarly slain July 22, baited to his death in an alley, too—by a woman.

Van Meter, the sixth of the Dillinger mob to die, was betrayed unwittingly by his interest in a woman. Her name is being withheld. Police said Van Meter had been "going around" with her and that relatives of the woman, suspicious of him, had gone to the police. A check satisfied officers that the man was Van Meter, and careful plans were laid for his capture, dead or alive.

Two weeks the hunt went on, secretly. Last night the law and Van Meter met, and Van Meter, quick-shooting gunman in many a foray against society, was shot down.

The end of the Van Meter hunt came near the downtown district. In answer to a command that he surrender, Van Meter whipped out a pistol and fired twice, harmlessly. Three policemen, headed by Chief of Police Frank Cullen, opened fire with rifle and machine gun.

A woman (again the outlaw's pattern of life, followed that of Dillinger) walked into the line of fire. Chief Cullen, aiming a rifle, held his shots. Detective Thomas Brown, however, continued firing a machine gun.

Seek Hideout.

Police hunted to-day for Van Meter's hideout and his companions and connections here. The last hes.l of "Baby Face" Nelson was Too Tempting

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 24.—(C.P.)—A blanket of bright green artificial grass that covered a mound of earth in a cemetery, proved too much for a herd of cows in a drought parched pasture nearby.

They stampeded through the cemetery fence and ran to the mound. Workmen were not able to drive them away until the animals had tasted the "grass."

PHEASANT EXHIBIT FEATURE OF FAIR

Artistic Garden is Laid Out at Rear of the Tent.

Through courtesy of Peterborough Lumber Company who supplied materials as local agents for the Johns Manville Company, an attractive setting is provided for the beautiful display of birds by Wainman's Pheasantry of Millbrook.

Bert Wainman, former resident of this city, has a noteworthy display which is attracting large crowds to the big marquee on the main avenue at Exhibition Grounds. Over a dozen pens contain colorful specimens of various varieties of pheasants, peafowl, wild ducks, doves, pigeons and silkies.

As an artistic background for the exhibit as a whole, F. Biddell, of 431 Rogers street, has performed some very effective landscape gardening work at the rear of the tent, providing an artistic garden for the model house erected by the Peterborough Lumber Company.

It is a noteworthy exhibit that has attracted considerable interest all week long, and one that will well repay a visit by newcomers to the grounds.

HITLER ISSUES COMMANDMENTS ON MATRIMONY

Select List of Ten Warnings Aimed to Guide Nazis Youth.

NATIONALITY FIRST.

Thou Shalt Not Remain Unwed If Eugenically Fit Says Second.

By WALTER E. BROCKMAN
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

BERLIN, Aug. 24. (AP). — The Nazi government has decided to put marriage on a "rational basis."

Eugenics officials issued to-day a list of ten commandments for the guidance of German youth when approaching the complex business of marriage.

It's all right to "marry for love" but first the young couple must consider whether their marriage "helps the nation." "Seek a mate—not a playmate—for matrimony," says one commandment.

It is also undesirable, warns another commandment, for anyone in good health not to marry. Not to do so would break "the chain of the generation."

"Remember always thou art German," says commandment one.

Number two urges "Thou shalt not, if eugenically fit, remain unmarried. He who without solid reason does so, breaks the chain of the generation."

"Hold thy body clean," said the third, which concludes with the injunction: "Remember you yourself are a German ancestor."

Pure Spirit and Soul

Number four—"Thou shalt keep the spirit and soul pure," warns against "alien influences" and observes "happiness built on lies soon collapses. You yourself must live up to whatever you expect of your mate."

"As a German choose a mate of equal or Nordic blood," is the advice of number five. Research has shown, it says, that the Nordic is superior and all German people are bound by ties of Nordic blood.

The sixth commandment warns "Never marry the one good person in a bad family," on the theory hereditary deficiency may crop out in the next generation.

"Good-health is a prerequisite for external beauty," says number seven. It advocates that no marriage be effected without the submission of a health certificate.

Nine emphasizes the desirability of permanent marriage.

Number ten says "The meaning of marriage lies in a healthy progeny" and patriotically closes, "you will die, but what you transmit to your descendants will live on: in them is your resurrection. Your nation will live eternally."

NO SLACKENING IN KIDNAP HUNT

Motorboat Seen Flashing Signals to Care Near Port Frank Aug. 16.

HINT RANSOM TRANSFER.

SARNIA, Ont., Aug. 24.—(C P)—The relentless police hunt for the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, London brewer, converged again on Sarnia today as mysterious activities of a speedboat on the Aux Sables River during the period the wealthy brewer was held captive came to light.

Several persons reported seeing a motor boat on the river flashing light signals to three automobiles grouped on the river shore near Port Frank.

Those who said they saw the craft and its signalling were Dr. Harold E. Clark of Detroit, James Armstrong of Toronto and Leo Wetsel of Port Huron, Mich. The boat was said to have been on the river the night of Aug. 16.

The report indicated that Mr. Labatt might have been taken in the motorboat from the kidnappers' hideout to the waiting automobiles and rushed from that point to the outskirts of Toronto where he was released early the following morning. An alternative explanation was that the reported $50,000 ransom was paid over to the occupants of the boat by men in the waiting cars.

Further unexplained occurrances in the district during the period of Labatt's captivity drew police attention. Dr. Clark reported seeing a fire on high ground in an uninhabited pinery.

It was the first fire seen on that location this summer. Provincial Constables visited the scene today but the result of their investigation as not immediately learned.

Soviet-Jap Split Nearing Showdown

MOSCOW, Aug. 25 (A.P.)—Years of differences between Russia and Japan over the Chinese Eastern Railway, key to a great slice of the Orient, came close to a showdown to-day.

Eyes of the Soviet and of foreign embassies here, intently following the incidents, were on Tokyo, to which Moscow has addressed a blunt protest for the arrest of scores of its citizens along the railway.

A note given Japan Wednesday by the Soviet ambassador said "similar, and of late often repeated, demonstrations of the Japanese war ministry, parallel with actions in Manchuria testify to the aggravation of the aggressive intentions of some official Japanese circles."

The government of the union of socialist soviet republics expects that the Japanese government will make all necessary inferences."

A similar protest also has been lodged with the "independent" state of Manchukuo, created by Japan out of territory taken from China.

Eight to Ten Provincial Police Available Where There Was Single Overseer.

EFFECTIVE END AUGUST.

Deputy Wardens on Voluntary Basis, Salaryless Not Included.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—An Order-in-Council yesterday effected the dismissal of 106 members of the "outside" enforcement service of the Department of Game and Fisheries. The reduction in personnel, which is to go into effect at the end of the month, is associated with the long-anticipated transfer of enforcement from the department to the Provincial Police. The resulting saving to the Government eventually will be between $150,000 and $200,000.

D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries, when questioned about the change last night, pointed out sections of the Provincial hunting grounds where from eight to ten Provincial Police would be available for the work done formerly by one overseer. "They will have to be pretty lax if they fail to provide more efficient enforcement," he commented.

Deputies Unaffected

Deputy Wardens, who serve on a voluntary basis and receive no remuneration from the department, are not affected by the changes. Acting as sources of information and as positive agents for better enforcement of the game laws, they are generally interested in their duties as conservation enthusiasts.

Toronto Livestock Review

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (C.P.). — Receipts too heavy for market requirements brought dull trading to the Toronto livestock market during the past week, with prices down 25 cents on all classes of cattle with the exception of fed calves.

Despite the sharp advance in Canadian bacon prices in Great Britain, hogs made a hard gain of only 15 cents during the week. Prices on veal calves and sheep remained unchanged with the previous week's closing level. Trading generally was on the dull side, with 800 head of cattle unsold at the close.

Cattle trading was steady on the opening market, with buyers paying steady prices for choice steers, cows and bulls, but the supply of plain quality cattle was so heavy that even the best kinds had declined by the close.

Exporters paid $6 to $6.50 for weighty steers and $5.70 for one top load. Plain steers sold down to $2.50. Choice handyweight steers sold at $4.50 to $5 on Monday, with a top load for export at $5.40. Butcher heifers sold generally at $4.25, with a few tops making $4.50.

Good butcher cows opened at $2.-75 to $3 and closed at $2.50 to $2.75. Canners held steady at $1. Good heavy bulls went for export at $2.50 to $3 with bolognas weaker at $1.75 to $2. Several lots of thin cattle of the boning class sold at $1.75 to $2.25. Fed calves held firm at $7 to $7.75 for choice with mediums weaker at $4.50 to $6.

Stocker trade continued dull. A few light stockers sold at $2 to $2.75 with one lot of good feeders selling at $3. There were several loads of western butcher cattle in the run as well as some stockers. Milkers and springers were firm at around $45 for top. Receipts totalled about 5,800 head.

Calf receipts were 2,400 head. Prices were steady on all grades with good and choice calves quite active at $5 to $6. Common vealers were a little slower at $3 to $4.-50 with grass calves at $2 to $2.75.

Hogs were again a very light run of 2,600 head. After a steady opening price on hogs gained 15c on Wednesday and closed at $8.15 F.O.B. for bacons $8.50 off truck and $8.90 weighed off cars. Selects brought the usual $1 per head premium. Cables from Great Britain report a shortage of Wiltshires with the present object being to hold the market steady for the next two or three weeks.

Sheep and lamb receipts were heavy at 6,300 head. Lambs dropped 40c during the week and closed uncertain at $6 for good ewes and wethers with culls and bucks at $5. Further declines were not improbable. Sheep were unchanged at $1 to $3 cwt according to quality with yearlings at $4.

Yes sir! There's never been anything like it in my memory—and that goes back a long way! It gives you so much more for your money that low-priced tires made to last year's standards are out of the running.

MADOC COPS CONSOLATION

HASTINGS, Aug. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—The most successful tournament yet was the opinion of the local bowlers in regard to the annual tournament held on Wednesday afternoon, when eighteen rinks from the following clubs in Central Ontario figured in the draw: Peterborough 3, Campbellford 2, Warkworth 2, Port Hope 1 Madoc 1, Havelock 1, Stirling 1, Norwood 1, Kingston 1, and five from the local club.

Under the direction of Alex. Wilson, veteran president of the club, the greens were all nicely decorated for the occasion. In spite of the fact the local president is in his seventy-ninth year, he was tireless in his efforts to make the day a success. He received his reward in the high praises sung by the visiting players of the hospitality of the local bowlers, and they were all quite anxious to return in the future.

Reeve G. B. Stevenson delivered an address of welcome, after which President Wilson read the rules to be followed.

The primary event produced the best bowling ever witnessed on the local greens. The first prize in this competition, a blanket to each member of the rink, was won by George Gates, veteran skip of the Kingston club. In the final he had a tough task on his hands to dispose of the crack Peterborough team skipped by Herb Martin. These two veteran skips gave a real lesson in sportsmanship to by far the largest crowd to ever assemble at Hastings greens. The Martin team received an electric grillette each as second prize. The semi-final between Mathieson and Havelock was also a treat to watch the old war horse from Peterborough winning by three points.

The brilliant bowling of the Stirling skip, W. Whitty, kept his rink in the primary for some time, his deadly accuracy being the best witnessed in these parts in a long time.

Wins Consolation Event.

Percy Gunn of Madoc, who alternated with Jimmie Watson in skipping, won the consolation from Mathieson in the wee small hours of Thursday morning. The same skip captured the consolation here last year. Before downing Mathieson, he had a close call with Kempt being tied on the last end, winning out on the extra end. Madoc rink received thermos jugs for the first in the consolation while Mathieson's rink got a half-dozen pairs of socks each.

Lady Luck did not shine on the Hastings teams, and the whole five of them landed in the hard luck, with "Jack" Sedgewick of Peterborough. The final in this event was played off between Lynch and Dodd of the local club just at the stroke of midnight. Lynch won and took the flashlights, leaving the jacknives to Dodd. The majority of the scores in this competition were low, as only six ends were played.

Warkworth (2).—W. H. Smoker, O. Phillips, Dr. Allen, B. Buchanan (skip); W. Herniston, P. S. Ewing, Dr. A. C. Armstrong, A. M. Smale (skip).

SALVATION ARMY UNITES IN PRAYER

Special Prayer Meeting Held for Coming International Meeting.

In common with the Salvation Army groups the world over, the local Salvationists last night held a special prayer meeting at the request of international headquarters.

The meetings were called throughout the world in view of the pending meeting of the High Council of the Salvation Army in London, England, on August 26, when the main item of business will be election of a new general.

Howard Young, corps sergeant-major here, said he had computed that the prayer meetings throughout the world would be held for seventeen hours continuously, taking into consideration differences in time.

England has just learned that in the first four months of this year it imported manufactured goods which represented full-time work for 230,000 persons for 12 months.

Exhibition Notes

Bert Arnott arrived back at the grounds last night with the news that the Peterborough Vegetable Growers' Association had been awarded fourth place and $35 in the display by members of the Provincial Vegetable Growers' Association at the Toronto Exhibition. This was the same position they won last year. J. H. Bell assisted Mr. Arnott in arranging the Peterborough exhibit.

A former resident of Millbrook who has retired to Peterborough was taken for three "bucks" yesterday in some game or other. And how his visiting friends from the village did chortle.

"I never saw better light horses at the Peterborough show than this year," Orme Ball of Cavan remarked to The Examiner yesterday afternoon, during the judging of carriage and roadster classes. The advanced dates appealed to horsemen from west of Toronto who came to Peterborough for the week going on to the Toronto Exhibition.

"We didn't know you had anything like this down here," one of them said. "And you can look for more next year if the dates are suitable."

Just One More Day

Saturday winds up the 1934 exhibition. With just one more day left for those who have not seen this year's show!

A capacity Grand Stand crowd last night added their approval and praise of the program that has won more compliments of the successful plans of the Attractions Committee than have even been heard before in recent years of the Peterborough Exhibition.

Opinion on this point is unanimous, and may be regarded as a solid guarantee for Friday and Saturday nights when the featured Winter Garden Revue will present a new program.

Members of the company rehearsed with the band for an hour after last night's show to accustom the instrumentalists to the music.

The directors made a special effort this year to provide a smart grandstand program, and they have succeeded so well that they deserve to see the stand filled for the rest of the week.

DILLINGER'S ACE GUNMAN SLAIN

last week at Sioux City, Iowa, authorities said.

Of Van Meter, the police wrote the final chapter of his record — $823 in 10 and 20 dollar bills in his pockets, a clip of bullets for his automatic, and an Illinois motor vehicle license registration card issued to "Henry Adams."

First knowledge of his predicament came as four officers, including Chief Cullen, left their car on the fringe of the downtown district and shouted for him to surrender.

Tramped and fully conscious of it, Van Meter, after firing at the officers, whirled about and ran, dodging in front of a woman, Mrs. Andrew Stedje, housewife. Then the gunman darted across the street while the four officers spread out, two running straight at him and two darting down the street to get clear aim as he turned and reached the sidewalk.

With the woman out of danger, Detective Thomas McMahon and Jeff Dittrich opened fire with their machine guns. Their aim was true, and Brown, who was nearest to the fleeing man, said he saw blood on the fleeing man's right hand as he slanted off into the alley.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1934

THE LAST TWO BIG DAYS.

With the two biggest days of the Exhibition left there is every reason to expect that the attendance figures will be materially expanded on Friday and Saturday.

The people of the city and district have it in their hands to pile up a new record and to ensure the financial success of the Exhibition by their attendance to-morrow and on Saturday, and with good weather conditions the patronage for the final two days of the 1934 show should be sufficient to send the event triumphantly over the top.

The satisfaction expressed by those who visited the grounds early in the week with the merit of the entertainment features and the all-round excellence of the Exhibition will be reflected, The Examiner is confident, in a notable attendance for the remainder of the week, and in a box-office success that will justify the decision of the management to hold the event three weeks earlier than usual.

The Exhibition is in every way worthy of support; as usual it is a well-balanced show, with fine exhibits and special displays and with a grandstand program more elaborate and effective than anything previously offered here.

The Exhibition Grounds will continue to be a popular place until after the final performance on Saturday night.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING.

Subjects of the greatest importance are to be discussed at the ninth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which is to be held in Winnipeg, September 10 to 13.

Two of Canada's most pressing problems are given a prominent position in the agenda, namely, the questions of a policy for national unemployment and a policy for sound public finance, surely matters that vitally concern every citizen of this country.

It is announced that recommendations are to be constructly considered by the delegates, under the leadership of men qualified to present phases of these questions, and moreover, several outstanding business leaders are to be heard during the convention sessions on live economic issues of the day.

"The conclusions to be reached by the Policy Committee," says the convention prospectus, "are to form the basis for sound national thinking and action."

As Canadian business has been on the fire from various quarters, this convention, which will bring together representative business men from all parts of Canada, should prove an unusually interesting gathering, and what is said and done at Winnipeg will be followed with a great deal more attention by the general public than has been accorded other annual meetings of this important Canadian organization.

Certainly the circumstances under which this year's gathering and the importance of the major topics to be discussed make the 1934 convention one of great public interest.

THE JUNIOR FARMERS' RECORD.

If the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition had never done anything more than to encourage the junior farmers' work in this section of the province it would have abundantly justified its existence.

It is a matter for satisfaction that this movement has grown so steadily since its inauguration, five years ago, that Wednesday, which was junior farmers' day at the Exhibition, saw all records broken with 189 entrants, representative of the counties of Victoria, Durham, Hastings, Northumberland, Ontario and Peterborough.

The value to agriculture in these counties of having nearly 200 young farm boys and girls enthusiastically engaged in making better farmers of themselves and in learning the technique of modern farming cannot be over-estimated, and in encouraging this rapidly expanding movement, in co-operation with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, the Peterborough Exhibition is proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that from the viewpoint of farm education it has a most useful field of service to perform, and that it is doing the job with complete success.

It is in this kind of work, even more than in the expansion of its entertainment features, that the Exhibition is scoring its greatest success, and that it has won the approval and support of both Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture.

The Examiner congratulates both the Exhibition and the young farmers upon the setting up of a new record, coupling with it the hope that the 200 mark will be surpassed when the 1935 shows rolls around.

Both the Exhibition and the farm boys and girls who participated in this year's competition have gained by the success scored on Wednesday, and permanent results of great value can confidently be expected.

EMPIRE TRADE GROWS.

Figures issued at Ottawa by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, make it possible to appraise the effect of the Empire trade agreements upon Canadian trade.

These statistics show that the total trade of the Dominion, inward and outward, increased by 132 millions of dollars in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1934.

Of this striking total increase augmented Empire trade accounted for 76 millions, or close upon 60 per cent.; imports of Empire origin increased in value over the preceding year by more than 16 per cent., while Canada's exports of her own produce to Empire countries increased in the same period by 25 per cent.

Thus it is evident that enlarged Empire trade dominated the general improvement experienced in Canada's commerce life, for the increase of Empire imports represented nearly 75 per cent. of the total value of all imports, and the increase of Canadian exports to Empire areas represented over 50 per cent. of the total increased value of our entire exports to all countries.

As might be expected, the United Kingdom was in the van in this pageant of expanding Empire trade relations, for in the last fiscal year our imports from Great Britain and Ireland increased from 66 million to 105 million dollars (32 per cent.), and the export of our domestic produce to the United Kingdom increased from a value of 184 millions to a value of 226 millions—or very close upon 23 per cent.

In the matter of these commodities singled out in the Empire trade products for new or improved preferential markets overseas, wheat, butter, cheese, fish and canned apples, canned pears, eggs and bacon, copper, asbestos, zinc and lead, fresh sea fish and canned salmon and timber, there has been a remarkable increase in every department in exports from Canada to Empire countries.

PUTSCH'S EXACT MEANING.

The word "putsch" is in these days seldom out of European news for long. But, according to a German scholar, it is being used wrongly, when, as has come to be a widespread practice, it is made synonymous with revolution.

It is correctly applied only to an attempted revolution which ends in a fiasco. That was the outcome of the affair at Munich in November, 1923, that brought Hitler to the fore and led to his arrest in a beer hall after which he served a year in prison.

It was in describing this abortive attempt at revolution that the word was first extensively resorted to in the dispatches. But the movement that made him Chancellor was certainly not a putsch in the original sense. That launched against Dollfuss had the term applied to it before there was any assurance either of its success or failure.—Edmonton Journal.

WHY JAPAN CAN UNDERSELL.

Of all the factors which contribute to Japan's industrial success the low cost of labor is the most important. It is due to the relatively simple existence to which the Japanese are accustomed, writer in Current History explains.

A Japanese family is able to subsist on a diet of rice and fish, with a few vegetables. Soya bean curd furnishes the necessary protein in the diet which American and some European workers find in a much more expensive meat diet. Food comes to the Japanese worker cheaply because it comes directly from the soil and the sea. Under an economy based upon a meat and milk diet, Japanese living costs and hence Japanese wages would be much higher.

For about $12 a month a family of five can rent a house of three or four rooms with a garden in the suburbs of Tokyo or Osaka. The sitting room is converted into a bedroom for the whole family simply by spreading thick quilts on the matting covered, straw stuffed mats. Furniture is conspicuous by its absence. No "flivver" stands before the door. A good silk kimono for dress occasions will last a lifetime.

It is quite meaningless to use the measuring stick of the wage level alone in attempting to analyze Japan's industrial advantage in industrial labor costs. Because a male worker in a textile mill in Japan receives only 56 cents a day that does not mean that he lives in the same way that a workman on such a daily wage would live in the United States or in many industrial countries of Europe. It is what the wages will buy in terms of the accustomed comforts of life in each country that should be considered. A Japanese worker can live just as happily and comfortably as an American workman who receives six times his wage.

BENEFITS FROM DEPRESSION.

Usually there is nothing but blame on the depression for unfortunate occurrences. It has, however, been effective in forcing certain reforms in human conduct and these beneficial results are now becoming apparent.

When prosperity was at a peak municipalities throughout this continent seemed to be unable to balance their budgets. A study of the balance sheets of a number of larger municipalities in the United States shows that tax collections are increasing, back salaries are being paid, some salary cuts are being restored and the municipal bonds are being issued at lower rates of interest, with some of them selling at a premium. Chicago is paying the back salaries of its school teachers. Philadelphia is reported to be in better condition than at any time since the depression started. There will be no deficit this year as compared with deficits for the last two years. The credit of the city of New York is so improved that the city has been able to sell three million dollars worth of sixty-day revenue bonds at an all time record low rate of interest of three-fourths of one per cent. New York long term bonds are at par again for the first time since 1931. Boston's interest on temporary borrowing is the lowest in twenty-five years. The collection of delinquent taxes in that city has jumped from $306,000 in 1931 to $11,344,000 last year. Kansas City has added a much better record than most of its sister communities. It has no unpaid bills and municipal salaries have been paid regularly. That city has shown a surplus each year of the depression. San Francisco reports it is in the best financial condition in ten years. Detroit has cut its operating deficit from $11,300,000 last year to $8,740,000 for the current year.

The improvement in municipal finances in the large American cities is a reliable sign that conditions have undergone an important improvement. These communities have to thank the rigors of depression for the adoption of the economies that are saving them from insolvency.—Sarnia Observer.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Make the last day of the Peterborough Exhibition the biggest of the week.

The Waterdown "ghost" is expected to be apprehended soon, but the Labatt kidnappers unfortunately are still at large.

If strike sympathizers from Toronto have been arriving in Guelph to take part in the labor troubles there, that is a situation that should engage the attention of the Attorney-General.

The members of the Maple Leaf Trans-Canada Tour are leaving Canada without having had an opportunity of viewing Peterborough's industries. We have many things here that we should have been glad to have shown them.

It is to be imagined that the selectors of England's cricket team for the final Test match would have some little difficulty in winning a popularity contest in the British Isles at the present time.

In Ontario they are called "beverage rooms," in Manitoba "beer parlors," but, in its customary direct fashion, Quebec calls a tavern a tavern.—Toronto Globe.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

CANADA.

THIS article does not belong to this department of the "Examiner". A promise made some months ago to write an occasional article on Canadian Affairs is the explanation.

Harry Stevens is in the center of the Dominion Government picture. A pamphlet written by him has aroused considerable discussion and some bitter criticism. The demand of the reader public for the pamphlet is some indication of its timeliness. Hon. Harry Stevens is Minister of Commerce and Trade in the Conservative Government. To follow custom in such political matters, Premier Bennet would be expected to use the axe and ask for his resignation. Hon. George Henry would be sure to give expression to some forceful anger. When Bennet acts it will be out of a fund of astute wisdom. He may let the incident pass. That will put the burden of the outcome on the writer of the pamphlet.

Hon. Harry Stevens alleges that an unholy alliance between big business and the government makes possible the exploitation of the workers, the farmers and the consumers. Facts are stated to prove his assertion. Packing houses are buying, killing and packing, and selling for the profit of the stockholders by paying miserable prices for western cattle and hogs. No wonder there is discontent among the Western raisers of cattle and hogs. Election returns reflect a rather radical sentiment.

He affirms that in several cities of the Dominion that needle workers are paid $4.00 to $9.00 per week. Out of the toil of these workers immense profits accrue to the employers. Stevens declares that the Canadian Anti-trust laws are recklessly broken. He lays bare the dishonesty of the promoters of the pulp and paper industry. The charge of corrupt over-capitalization was a factor in the elections in British Columbia and in Saskatchewan. That industry is bankrupt. The investing public was "left holding the bag".

ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE, JR.

YOUTH is seeking to find in our age a compelling challenge. No age ever kept pace with what needed most to be done. There has always been a human crisis. The undone has ushered in the crisis. The undone has been the left-over the older generation failed to accomplish. Youth has always been faced by the omissions of the fathers. The crying undone has often been the cradle of genius. Did Britain need a Wellington? Did Germany need a Bismarck? Both of these men were challenged to their best by the undone of a previous generation. Difficult environments disciplined. Both were cultured from without and from within into compact supreme qualities. Analyze their characters and heroism, and enthusiasm, and faith, and intelligence, and endurance, and an unconquerable will fitted them to meet successfully almost hopeless crises.

That Harry Stevens, the Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Canadian Dominion Parliament, should give to the public a pamphlet decrying an unholy alliance between the Government and big business is not a small matter. The pamphlet carries conviction.

That Robert M. Lafollette should undertake to set up a new standard around which members of Congress disgusted with corrupt politics practised by both the old parties, is heartening. He is a young man. When it is known that Robert M. Lafollette is to speak on an issue before Congress, the Senate Chamber is packed. Every member knows well that he will not play the game to his own advantage. He is earnest. He is genuinely sincere.

Had he chosen to go to the people on the platform of Progressive Republicanism at the coming election in November of this year, there would have been little doubt of the result. Wisconsin Republicans would welcome the opportunity to give him their almost unanimous support. But he has chosen otherwise. He has undertaken to form a new party. Under the banner of Progressives he has begun the campaign for re-election to the Senate. That he is in the midst of a political crisis is certain. He is the most promising man in American politics. His rectitude and his unselfish devotion no honest American doubts.

GERMANY — HINDENBURG.

HINDENBURG will be written into German literature as a great hero. Whether the new age will bestow upon him virtues he did not possess is an altogether different thesis. Napoleon when first written into history was lauded as a hero with all the virtues and talents. True, he was defeated. But defeat, the French people held, did not rob him of greatness. It cannot be denied successfully that Napoleon does not still wave a magic wand over his countrymen.

Hindenburg also failed when Germany needed victory most. Napoleon failed because he was out-generaled at Waterloo, and out-fought. Wellington was rugged. Napoleon had become uncertain of himself. He did not have the stability of his opponent. Napoleon had brains but he did not have character.

Hindenburg's appraisal of Hitler reveals a weakness. Hindenburg did not know men. Neither was he a military genius. The Hindenburg stone wall was misnamed. He was given the credit. Ludendorf was the strategist. For Hindenburg it was fortunate that Ludendorf and General Hoffman were assigned to him by Emperor William. When all the story is written it will be found that Hindenburg had the wisdom to listen to his subordinates in the person of Ludendorf and Hoffman. But as the war progressed it became all too apparent that his two subordinates were the outstanding leaders. Hindenburg must be given credit for nerve. He was never fussed. He never trembled in his boots. In himself he was a stone wall. The suspicion prevails that he was slow-witted. He was stolid. His face never paled. In discipline of the soldiers under him he was rigid. He was not loved by the army. Wellington was.

Ludendorf was brilliant. He gave leadership to Hindenburg. But that was not all. Like many a genius, he was not dependable. By his own acts he lost fame that ought to have been enduring. Hindenburg remained in the esteem of his countrymen.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

CHATHAM, ONTARIO.

This southern Ontario city rejoiced in the name of Raleigh before the present name was chosen. In fact, the post-office was known as Raleigh for 40 years after the name of Chatham was given the town.

Chatham actually received its name from Governor Simcoe in 1795, and was named for Chatham, England. It was incorporated as a village in 1850, as a town in 1855 and as a city in 1895.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Sinclin.)

THE STUFFED SHIRT.

The stuffed shirt is a curious creature. He doesn't know himself at all. He has no sense of humor. He likes to talk about his "dignity" and his place in society, and he clears his throat before he talks, and when he talks he always makes a speech. . . . His great dread is that he may ever be ridiculous.

The Stuffed Shirt has many capital letters in his vocabulary. . . . He makes frequent references to Home and Family and Honor and Patriotism and My Country and Almighty God, and he can make his voice tremble when he uses those words. . . . But his house is no Home and his Honor is self pride and his Patriotism is largely hate because he cannot love anything, and his idea of Almighty God is of a being whose highest duty in the universe is to look after his dearly beloved Stuffed Shirt.

The Stuffed Shirt divides people sharply into the good and the bad. . . . The good are all good, the bad are all bad. . . . It never occurs to him that there may be a considerable amount of good in the bad and a certain amount of bad in the good. . . . He believes in strict discipline for children, for all animals, for human beings who are not on his "social level". . . . He has been heard to say that any man who really wants a job can get one.

The Stuffed Shirt loves platitudes. . . . Every dog has his day. . . . Good will triumph. . . . It's a small world. . . The Stuffed Shirt has a highly developed talent for disapproval. . . . He is more likely to wonder how much money you have than what manner of human being you are. . . . He is very polite to women, but does not think they are the equal of men. . . . He follows all the conventions, and never does anything the best people wouldn't do.

The Stuffed Shirt's shirt front is stiffly starched, and so are all his ideas and emotions. . . . He acts as if he were alive, but he really isn't. . . . And you don't need to be sorry for him, because HE is sorry for you.

A Thought

THE IDEAL MAN

Of one man we may say that his life is a trampling and a triumph over thought; of another that his thought relegates life to the background, and that with him to live is merely to think, never to feel. The ideal man balances life and thought against each other and regulates his feeling by his thinking, his thinking by his feeling.

With most of us feeling dulls into thinking as we progress along the road, and woe to that man who has never learned, to think, for if he lives into old age he will be a plague to himself and a nuisance alike to those who think, or feel.—Eden Phillpotts.

Webb's Woodwork Highly Commended

A newcomer among exhibitors in the Manufacturers' Building at the Exhibition this year is William Webb, Jr. Having recently established a woodworking shop in the city with a view to catering to the specialized requirements of the public in the woodworking field, he is displaying his products for the first time.

The exhibit includes a number of pieces of unusual design in solid walnut. A combination smoking set is possibly the feature, with a stein set on a walnut pedestal winning also a goodly share of comment. A fireplace at the rear of the strikingly arrayed booth is the handicraft of the booth's sponsor.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

On this date in 1898, Toronto was shocked by the news of the death of Sir Casimir Gzowski, one of the most picturesque figures in our modern history.

Son of a Polish officer in the Imperial Russian Guard, Gzowski took part in the uprising which freed Poland.

Wounded, captured and sentenced to death he escaped with exile, through influence at court, making his way first to England and then to the United States, where he made a living as a civil engineer in New York and Pittsburg. But he did not like "America"; he decided that he preferred the freedom under the British flag and so came to Canada, where luck was with him from the start.

Lord Sydenham, who was then governor general of the Province of Canada, in his youth had been a clerk in the office of his father, an English merchant at St. Petersburg, and had there been the recipient of many courtesies from the elder Gzowski, which he had no opportunity to repay until the younger man called at the vice-regal residence at Kingston and old associations were recalled. Sydenham gave the young man a job on the engineering staff of the public works department. It was not much of a job, but it paid its way. What would have happened had Sydenham lived is uncertain, but he died and Gzowski lost his patron.

Gzowski was moved to Toronto. Within seven years he had so established himself that he was able to resign his government post and form a contracting company in association with A. T. Galt, David Macpherson and others. That firm built much of the Grand Trunk railway. Gzowski made a fortune. He was an officer of artillery; he was an A. D. C. to the Queen; he was made a Knight in 1890; and he was noted for his good works.

His sons and daughters have maintained his high reputation, both as engineers and as soldiers. The refugee from Warsaw became a Canadian national figure, whose memory deserves respect and whose good deeds live unto this day.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Grain markets were unsettled yesterday, weakness abroad, continued hesitancy of speculative interests and some bullish weather news complicating the sentiment.

Prices drifted lower, wheat losing about a cent, corn and oats fractions, rye 1¼c to 1⅝c, and barley 2c to 3¼c a bushel. Wheat returned to a level about on a par with quotations a week ago, while corn showed a net advance since Friday of about a cent.

Wheat showed net losses of ⅛c to 1¼c. December new deliveries closing at $1.04⅛ to $1.04¼, after reaching a high of $1.05⅝. May options finised at $1.05¼, down 1¼c from Wednesday.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter was again higher in price on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday, while the prices of other commodities remained unchanged from Wednesday's levels.

In carlots or less, fresh No. 1 butter brought 19c to 19¼c a pound, up ¼c. Quotations for small lots to the retail trade were 20c a pound for solids and 21c a pound for prints. Arrivals were 87 boxes.

No price changes were recorded on the cheese market. Ontario colored cheese was again prices at 10c to 10¼c a pound, and Quebec cheese continued to bring 9¼c to 9¾c a pound. Receipts totalled 4,193 boxes.

Eggs were steady in price, graded shipments in carlots or less from Ontario or the West being quoted at 22c to 23c a dozen for "A" large, 20 to 21c for "A" medium, 18½c to 19c for "B", and 17½c to 18c for "C". Arrivals totalled 499 cases.

New Quebec potatoes continued to maintain a level of 45c to 50c per 60 pound bag of No. 1 grade, and 35c to 40c per 80-pound bag of No. 2 grade. Old N.B. Mountains were also steady at 22c to 25c per 80-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Bullish aspects of cold weather in Western Canada, where frost menaced late-sown grains, failed to give more than a temporary lift to wheat futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, only a last-minute rally enabling values to close ¾-¼ cent higher.

Heavy buying that entered the market in the closing minutes lifted values from the low points, the October option closing at 83½c, December 86⅝ and May 89⅝c. Earlier, the pit had been swept by continual selling, mostly hedging sales against country deliveries of new crop wheat.

Two degrees of frost were reported from a wide area in the West that extended in a sweeping arc from Southwest Manitoba through Northern Saskatchewan to Northern Manitoba. Six degrees was reported from Swan River, Man., but the wintry touch at all other points was slight.

A one-cent advance scored on this development was not held. Weakness in outside markets and cheaper Argentine and Australian wheat offerings induced further selling in addition to hedging pressure and most of the gains were lost. The final spurt that enabled prices to close higher came only a few minutes before the final bell.

Export sales of Canadian wheat approximated 500,000 bushels. Little of interest was seen in outside news. Russia exported 192,000 bushels of wheat during the week, her first clearance in weeks, while 216,000 bushels were shipped from India.

An exhibit of the air and water cooled Alpha farm engines, distributed by the De Laval, is winning deserved attention, as well as a layout of the new "Buttercup" all-steel churns and other models of De Laval equipment.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP).—Mild rallying tendencies prevailed on the stock market today. Flurries were generally of brief duration but gains of fractions to around a point predominated among steels, grains, packing shares and others. The late tone was firm. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Wilson Packing "A", United Fruit and New York Central rose a point or so each. Transfers approximated 57,000 shares.

EARLY LOSSES ARE WIPED OUT

"Wet" Stocks Account for Most of Trading With Walkers Common Leading.

OIL GROUP STRONER.

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (CP).—Brightening up late in the day the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange today saw volume increase and early morning losses mostly wiped out. "Wet" stocks accounted for the bulk of the trading with Walkers Common a main centre of interest. Interlisteds drew up a little and oils developed a stronger tendency. Foods remained quiet, Weston's Common proving an exception.

Walkers common was again in heavy demand and appreciated a full point. The preferred sold close to the 15 mark.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol and brewers and distillers showed little change. Canada Bud featured the beer issues, selling up to 11.

Imperial and McColl Frontenac oil both scored a 1-4 point gains on light trading. International Petroleum dropped 1-4 to 28 1-4. Consumers Gas gained a full point at 185 and Bell Telephone added 3-4 at 117 7-8.

Farm implement stocks were slightly lower and foods followed an irregular course as did construction and heavy industrials. Goodyear Common finished 3 up at 123.

VENTURES LEADS MINING ADVANCE

Secondary Golds Again Centre of Interest in Toronto Trading.

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (CP).—Maintaining a fairly consistant level of prices throughout the day, the mining section of the Toronto Exchange today passed through a fairly lively session, secondary golds with a sharp rise in Ventures were prominent. Peterson Cobalt's popularity started other silvers in motion. Base metals were quiet and oils, although only lightly traded, dropped back. Teck Hughes proved most popular of senior gold issues.

Buffalo Ankerite was about 5 cents up on its final price of $3.70.

Peterson Cobalt shot up to 6 1-4, but later shaded a little. Eldorado shaded off a point or so.

In the oils Acme lost 1 1-4 points to 18. Chemical Research was down 1 at 1.30; Home Oil added a couple of points at 1.02.

$9,000 Mill Payroll Stolen In Georgia

ROME, Ga., Aug. 24 (A.P.) — Crowding a National City Bank car off the highway, two armed bandits to-day held up a $9,000 payroll of the Tubize Chatillon Mill which the bank car was transporting to the mill. Armed with a sub-machine gun the bandits obtained $9,785 in the holdup of two bank messengers transporting part of the weekly payroll of the mill.

Joe Palmer, cashier of the bank and Raymond Ford, bank employee, were in the car with the payroll. Palmer said the payroll was insured.

2 Suspects Arrested For $427,000 Holdup

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (A.P.). — Arrest of two Brooklyn men in Philadelphia on suspicion in connection with the $427,000 armored truck holdup in Brooklyn Tuesday, was reported to police to-day by Philadelphia police.

One prisoner had five $100 bills in his possession, the report received here said, and neither man would talk.

One described himself as Leonard Mego, 23, and gave three Brooklyn addresses. The other man said he was Armour Lee Phillips, 40, of Los Angeles. Police believed him to be the husband of Clara Phillips, hammer murderess. He gave a Brooklyn address. Both denied any participation in the truck holdup.

Ballot Box Contents Like Dog's Breakfast

TORONTO, Aug. 24. — (CP) — Contents of the ballot box from sub-division 21 of Toronto St. Patrick's riding in the Ontario general election looked like a "dog's breakfast" when it was opened by the returning officer, James D. Shook, organiser for Cl. Fraser Hunter, successful Liberal candidate, testified today before a commission inquiring into allegation of irregularity in the riding.

Shook said the box contained loose ballots and that there was "a bumble of pretzels, paper, string, sealing wax and books" in it. He said the ballot box from another polling station, No. 28, was in similar condition.

Belleville Changes Time For Town Fair

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 24. — (C.P.).—Daylight saving time in effect in this city since June 16 will be discontinued at midnight on Sunday, Mayor George O. Tice said to-day. It was felt as many nearby municipalities were still on standard time and the Fair was being held next week, it would be better to revert to the old time on Sunday next than to wait until Labor Day, on which date the proclamation ends. The Fair will be officially opened on Tuesday by Hon. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health and M.L.A. for West Hastings.

AFRICA DECIDES TO PAY BRITAIN HER WAR DEBT

LONDON, Aug. 24 (A.P.). — War debt discussion was revived here to-day in a new form, through the decision of South Africa to pay in full the balance of her war indebtedness to Great Britain, amounting to approximately £8,000,000 (about $40,000,000).

South Africa was the only section of the Empire which took advantage of the Mother Country's offer to suspend war debt payments to her in connection with the general suspension of inter-allies payments in 1931.

She already had made a partial payment, but her decision to clean up the whole obligation came as a surprise here and is attracting wide attention.

SMITHS FALLS.—James Richards, 17 year old English farm boy was killed to-day when gored by a bull on the farm of John Vickers near Lombardy village. He was leading the bull to a field when the catch attached to the animal's nose slipped. As the boy tried to re-attach it the bull swung up its head and one horn penetrated his throat tearing the jugular vein.

Willie Lamb Behind In Quebec Open Golf

Kanawaki Golf Club, Que., Aug. 24 (CP).—Willie Lamb, Lambton, Toronto, defending champion, seemed destined to lose his crown when the half-way mark in the Quebec Provincial Open Golf Championship was reached today. He shot a poor 81 for 18 holes.

Rain came on during the first round of the 36-hole test for titular honors, and Lamb was one of the players who had to play through it. Low scores in the round were: Jules Huot, Quebec, 71; G. Brydson, Mississauga, Toronto, 73; W. Smithers, Royal, Ottawa, 74; W. Wakelam, Gatineau, Que., 76.

REPORT FROST DAMAGE IN WESTERN PROVINCES

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24 (CP).—First reports of crop damage by frost here made today in the weekly crop survey issued by the Canadian National Railways.

"Frost damage was reported from northern Saskatchewan, the effects of which are still unknown," said the survey.

Cold weather ruled again over the prairie last night and more frost was reported. Traders in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, however, paid only slight attention to weather and at midsession outside forces ruled to cause slight declines in prices. The October future was selling at 84 3-4 cents a bushel, December 85 7-8 cents and May 89 3-8 cents.

The Canadian National Railways crop survey showed cutting of grains almost completed. Wet weather in many districts, however, had delayed threshing. Only light yields are being obtained from dry areas. Northern areas, however, are reaping average crops.

Yields of wheat are showing wide variations throughout the west, said the crop survey of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Wheat was running from a few bushels to 30 bushels an acre and generally the grade was high and weighing 58 to 65 pounds to the bushel.

P.E.I. Is Celebrating Jacques Cartier Day

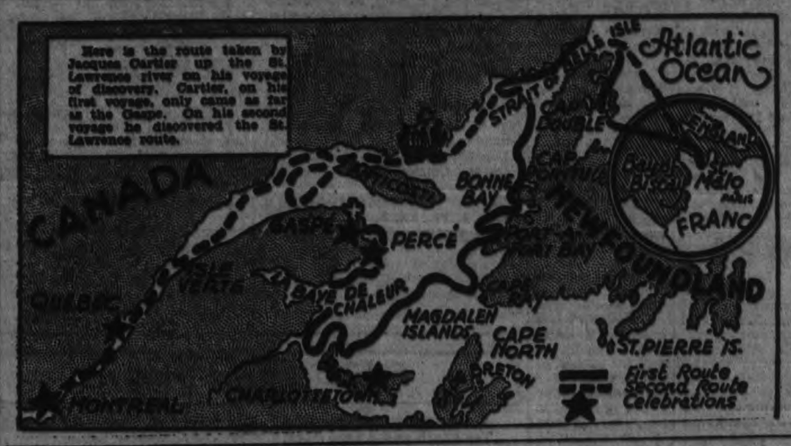
By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Aug. 24. —(CP)— Deep-throated artillery will roar out a salute today to ambassadors of goodwill from France to Canada—successors to the Jacques Cartier who laid the foundation for the Canada of today 400 years ago.

Over the ocean trail blazed by the French explorer they were coming to the land he discovered to join in recognition of his achievement. And Canada as symbolised by the presence of dignitaries of state and bench was prepared to enter into the spirit of celebration.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was not here in person, but his Minister of Finance, Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes was waiting to greet the French delegates. And with him were Canada's French-speaking Minister of Marine, Hon. Alfred Duranleau, and Hon. Dr. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health.

OTTAWA.—The English Arctic flyer Grierson to-day took off for Godthaab on the west coast of Greenland, the radio branch of the marine department was informed to-day by the Hudson Bay ice patrol boat, N.B., McLean.



MAIL ROBBERS SNATCH $50,000

Grab Cash on Truck Bound From One Bank to Another.

TRIO TAKE PART.

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 24 (A.P.). — Currency estimated by postal authorities at $50,000 was taken from a mail truck to-day by three armed men, who fled in an automobile.

The money, postal authorities said, was being sent by registered mail from the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank to the Lyndora National Bank at Lyndora, near Butler.

State police said the robbers stopped the mail truck driven by Milton C. Leckey, pointed revolvers at him, grabbed three mail pouches, ran back to their car and sped away.

The car driven by the hold-up men was found abandoned a short time later. It bore an Ohio license.

Postal inspectors began making a check, but outside the Lyndora shipment could make no estimate of the value of the rest of the mail.

Business Level Is Higher In Canada

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 (CP).—Business in Canada is on a higher general level than a year ago and all indices of trade reveal improvement over 1933, and some improvement over conditions of two years ago, it is noted in the Bank of Montreal monthly business summary issued here today.

General scale of production has been well maintained, the report continues. Hope of a bountiful harvest is not to be realized, but taking the Dominion as a whole, crops promise to equal perhaps exceed, those of last year, though prolonged drought over large areas in the western and central provinces has retarded growth and reduced production.

Wheat Situation Improved

Fundamentally the situation for Canadian wheat has improved markedly during recent weeks. The carryover announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, August 11, is 193,000,000 bushels in Canada alone, compared with 212,000,000 last year.

To August 11, car loadings were 217,229 cars in excess of 1933, and 94,414 cars in excess of 1932. Of this increase, 25,619 cars were in loadings of merchandise and 74,092 in miscellaneous freight. Movement of coal by rail has been heavy this year, requiring 170,916 cars, or 46,673 more cars than in 1933. In moving forest products, 61,963 more cars have been employed this year to August 11, and 15,588 more cars in moving ore.

Newsprint production continues to run high, that in July last being 208,236 tons, an increase of 15.44 per cent. over July 1933.

Hepburn Too Busy To Attend Exhibition

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (C.P.).—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn is too busy to attend the Canadian National Exhibition. Writing to the president of the C.N.E., Col. F. H. Deacon, the Premier stated he would be unable to be present at any functions.

"I wrote to Col. Deacon and explained that it was a physical impossibility for me to accept the numerous invitations I have received," said the Premier. "I have even refused to attend the opening of the Ottawa Fair. The only invitation I have accepted is the East Elgin Fair in my own riding. I regret having to do this, but I am keeping in mind the fact this government was elected to serve the interests of the people and those interests come before social obligations."

Women Artists Faint But Strike Goes On In Mexican Radio Stars' Fight For Wages

MEXICO, D.F., Aug. 24.—(A.P.) —Two women artists participating in a radio station hunger strike, fainted last night while trying to sing, but the programs and the strike went on to-day.

Some 30 announcers and artists have been 70 or more hours without food in their novel fight for back pay. Hundreds are watching them take turns before the microphone from outside the small building containing mechanical equipment of the station.

Nearly all managed to perform but more frequently the strikers are falling back on gramaphone records to keep the programs going. Doctors forced several to eat a little sugar, but they refused food offered by weeping relatives.

ALL CANADA'S FOREIGN MINISTERS REPORT IN DAY

OTTAWA, Aug. 24.—(C.P.)—All three of Canada's ministers to foreign countries reported personally to headquarters to-day. By a coincidence, two of the Dominion's diplomatic representatives called at the Department of External Affairs, while the third was in touch by long distance telephone.

Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian Minister to Paris, in Canada on leave, called on Dr. O. D. Skelton, Under Secretary of State for External Affairs.

Then, Hon. Herbert Marler, who represents Canada at Tokyo, dropped in for a brief call. Mr. Marler returned from Japan on leave some little time ago.

Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian Minister to Washington, called up the Department by telephone.

FAMILIES HEAD TO NEW FARMS

Over 405 Groups Expected to Leave Alberta Areas This Week.

TRANSPORTATION FREE.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24 (C.P.). — Movement of families from the dried out areas of Alberta will begin by the end of the week, Hon. George Hoadley, Alberta Minister of Health and Telephones, stated here to-day when he passed through on his way from Ottawa to Edmonton. The families will be transported to other districts mostly in the north, where feed for their livestock is plentiful.

About 405 families have already applied to be moved, Mr. Hoadley explained. Each family will be taken on passenger trains and provided with two freight cars where two are needed, to move livestock and other belongings to the new home.

The land left vacant in the south of the province by the movement of farmers northward will be taken over by the Provincial Government, the Minister explained. It will be leased to those farmers remaining for ranching. It is believed by the process the land will provide livelihood in the future for those smaller number of settlers who continue in those districts.

In 16 of the districts affected they have had complete crop failures for five years or over. In 17 others they have had complete crop failures for two years or over.

GRATEST SHOW HISTORY OF FAIR

The Royal Buccaneers will present their thrilling act.

The Five Buccoes give their daring performance.

Palmer's Trained Animal Circus will delight everyone in the audience.

What a cast! What a show! Don't miss it. The evening performance is entirely different than that of the afternoon. And Saturday night there will be a full two hours and a half of wonderful entertainment.

Kiwanis Luncheon

Kiwanians and Fair Board directors came into intimate contact with a group of clever performers from Catherine Behney's Winter Garden Revue under the big top of St. James' Church Dining Tent at Exhibition Grounds to-day.

Following the usual annual custom of Fair week, Fair Board directors and Kiwanians gathered together around the luncheon table, and guests included a bevy of five beautiful girls from the chorus ensemble, besides Cogert and Mott, inimitable comedians of radio and recording fame.

Dick Lush, introduced the performers, and the first item on an entertaining program staged under certain difficulties, was a song and dance number by the charming Young sisters.

Nadine Saunders, platinum blonde member of the Revue, who has "doubled" for Jean Harlow in a talkie production, presented another song and dance number that was one of the features of the entertainment.

Eddie Behney presided as accompanist and also gave a well received piano solo.

President A. B. Gates of the Kiwanis Club voiced the appreciation of the club and of the Fair Board directorate to the performers, and announced that plans were completed for the big Kiwanis Karnival in aid of underprivileged children, to be held at Brock Street Summer Gardens on Thursday next.

play of the work of a single great nation, a visible proof of Canada's independent nation-hood," Lord Bessborough said.

The Governor General noted that the Exhibition's opening his year coincided with the celebration at Gaspe to-day of the 400th anniversary of the first contact of this country with the culture and civilization of Europe.

"The historical results which followed Jacques Cartier's landing are, of course, a familiar theme," he said. "But it is appropriate to recall to-day that equally important and results ensued, for the subsequent growth of the arts and crafts, the manufacturers and the commerce, of the new country which Cartier first introduced to the world as Canada.

WORLD'S FAIR IS IMPRESSIVE

Canadian Week Made One Feel Proud of Being Canadian.

REVIEW OF FAIR.

(By Bessie G. French, Examiner Correspondent.)

TRENT RIVER Aug. 24—"Canadian Week" made one feel proud of being a Canadian, especially when the chief attraction was the 48th Highlanders, 340 strong, and the noted Canadian movie star, Mary Pickford.

The grounds cover some 460 acres, situated along the shores of Michigan Lake with the central business district in the background. The administration building near the entrance is a modern structure which houses the administration and executive offices of a century of progress. Passing through an avenue of flags—a stately promenade walled by forty-eight tremendous banners, waving from their seventy-foot poles and creating a symphony of color.

Sears, Roebuck and Company Building can be seen where sales method tells the story of retail success. The Illinois Host Building, headquarters for official guests of state, with exhibits of Illinois historical events in stained glass. The thirty-seven World War Regimental flags hang in the grand hall of this building. Some of the countries of the world, represented, can be seen for a small admission fee, the characters and customs of each country.

Italia houses official exhibits of the Italian Government. Czechoslovakia shows interesting and unusual merchandise and art from central Europe. Towering 628 feet into the heavens, two towers of steel give a magnificent view of the Fair. Cars are at the disposal of visitors for a sky ride from one tower to the other, across the lagoon. These cable cars bear the names of "Amos 'n Andy," "Lightnin'", "Brother Crawford", "Landlord" and "Kingfish".

These rocket cars of the sky ride afford a supreme thrill for those who travel the 1,800-foot cable span between the giant towers. Thousands of visitors embark daily at this dizzy 210-foot level.

The Japanese Pavilion is an example of Nipponese architecture, housing an exhibit of the art and industry brought from the islands across the Pacific. The Hall of Science is a startling vision of color and modern architecture, a full week could be spent in this building studying the discoveries of the sciences and their application. The Hall of Science at night shows gleaming and variegated lighting effects of amazing beauty.

In the General Exhibits Group is a general presentation of the products of the foremost American industries, professions and arts—a stupendous panorama of manufacturing achievement.

In the Hall of Religion, the story of religion is told and relics of captivating interest are shown. The prehistoric dinosaurs of the Sinclair exhibit are re-creations of the strange, huge beasts that populated the earth in the mesozic age. They move, roar and breathe as though they were alive.

In the General Cigar Company building, a demonstration of cigar-making by automatic machinery is almost an unbelieveable accomplishment.

"City of New York" is the actual ship on which Admiral Byrd took his first voyage to America. In "Meet Me in Paris" you go up the gang-plank, and on board the French liner for a brief ocean voyage to the streets of Paris, through which can be seen the strolling cigarette and flower vendors at a corner in Paris.

The charm of Old Spain with its costless and historical shrines and cathedrals, bright costumes of dark-eyed senoritas, music, dancing and gaiety, creates a characteristically Castilian atmosphere. Historical spots of Old England gathered into an interesting and picturesque group can be seen in the English village.

The Golden Temple of Jehol, an exact representation of the original, made of 28,000 pieces brought from China, the summer home of the Manchu Emperors from 1714 until 1914. No nails are used to put the temple together, each part fits in like a Chinese puzzle. The roof is of gold leaf, valued at $250,000. This temple will be taken apart and taken back to China at the close of the exhibition.

The midget village is a colony of Lilliputians, living in miniature houses furnished with tiny furniture. The midget folk tempt the appetite with their culinery skill.

"Fort Dearborn", the cradle of Chicago, reproduced from the original fort, which was built in 1803. Old Fort Dearborn was burned in 1812 and its inhabitants massacred. Here can be seen Abraham Lincoln's birthplace and his Indiana Home.

The Ford exhibit, a building of colonial design, where the story of the Ford Motor is told to thousands of visitors daily.

The Mayan Temple, reproduced from the original dates back to about 1,200 A.D.

The Chrysler Motor exhibit building is of outstanding interest, showing hair-raising feats of automobile driving. General Motors exhibit, where automobiles are assembled. A visitor may select materials for his car in the morning and the completed car will be delivered to him the same day.

Travel and Transport building shows every phase of land and air travel in its progressive stages. The romance, thrill and tragedy of the winning of the West is depicted in "Covered Wagon Days". Hollywood street scenes—where thousands flock to see "movies in the making".

The Horticultural exhibit is a fairy-land of flowers, trees and shrubs. Here are to be seen more than 9,000 rose bushes.

The Enchanted Island—the million-dollar playground for children—where magic mountain, with its miniature castle, child's ferris wheel and a tiny railroad are the chief attractions.

In the Electrical Building, the harnessing of electrical energy in all its phases can be seen. In the Communications Hall can be seen equipment and operation of all forms of transmitting human intelligence — radio, television, telegraph, telephone, cable, etc.

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doping myself with pills and other dopes for constipation.

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months."—Thos. F. Little (address furnished upon request).

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

AN EXHIBIT THAT IS A REVELATION

Globe Trotting, Laundering and Food Preservation Combined in a Pleasing Whole.

ELECTRICITY IS KING.

One of, if not THE, oldest exhibitors in the Manufacturers' Building at the Peterborough Exhibition, Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., occupies this year their original section selected when this building was first opened. Their floor area, however, has been considerably increased to permit of effectively displaying those models of modern commodities, apart from the ever world famous pianos, today included by this enterprising firm in their every day commercial operations—radios, refrigerators and washers. But dominating all other exhibits by Heintzman & Co., lovers of first hand music are arrested by the magnificent Boudoir Grand Piano in English ground mahogany; this instrument, in both mechanical construction and beauty of tone, measures up to that classical perfection that has made and still makes Heintzman & Co.'s superb Concert Grand the choice of the world's leading artists.

Radios.

In Radios, Ye Olde Firme's exhibit includes a splendid Stromberg-Carlson in a strikingly lovely three-tone inlaid walnut, cabinet, and demonstrating a marvelous clarity of tone. Then one's sense of beauty and miraculous achievement is irresistibly attracted to the harmoniously decorated Victor Globe Trotters, extraordinary new machines which enables one to trot to the four corners of the world fo new kinds of entertainment that fascinates. This outstanding achievement by the Victors is called the Magic Brain because it has the human-like ability of directing the performance of all wavs receiver to new high standards of efficiency and perfection.

Electric Washers.

The showing of a popular modern household servant in the Connor Electric Washer has attracted the interest of hundreds of visitors. Here is a machine of proven worth in eliminating all drudgery from the Monday or other day washing—a servant backed by its makers to give a lifetime of economic service. It is sold on a 12 years' protection guarantee, and is now used in thousands of homes throughout Canada.

Westinghouse Refrigerators.

And last, but a long way from being least, comes the Westinghouse Refrigerator, built to give satisfactory, efficient service for a lifetime without worry or attention. The fundamental features of this machine are: Ideal storage space for small and frequently used articles, built-in electric lighting system, rolling shelf, large vegetable crisper, automatic defrosting operation and faster all-round service. This is the only dual-automatic sealed refrigerator, built and guaranteed by Westinghouse with a background of forty-eight years' electrical and engineering experience.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS IN THE SHOW GAME

Ralph Webberley, tall, strapping Texan, to-day recounted for the Examiner some of the highlights of a lifetime in the show world.

For four years he has been stage manager for Catherine Behney of the Winter Garden Revue, now playing the grandstand at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and for many years formerly he was connected with other branches of the show game, more particularly with circuses.

When he was nine years of age, Webberley recalled, he ran away from home in search of adventure. Life on a Texan ranch, which would probably provide adventure aplenty for the average boy, proved too dull for him. As his first entry into the show business he worked an advertising stunt for the great Houdini, putting on a bicycle act in a drug store window.

One of his most thrilling recollections, he said, was of a fire that broke out in a crowded circus tent while the show with which he was engaged as "bull master" was playing in Mexico. In the panic that ensued the herd of five elephants stampeded, and a chase of 57 miles followed before they were eventually rounded up.

In the stampede the elephants created about $5,000 damage to property, and ripped up trees on boulevards, besides sending pedestrian and vehicular traffic to cover.

"Yes, sir," Mr. Webberley remarked, "that sure was a tough job."

It made some of the other thrilling experiences he encountered in Shanghai, Honolulu, London and other parts of the world seem tame in comparison.

A part from his varied experience of circus work and as stage manager with various theatrical companies, Mr. Webberley, who is one of the live-wides behind the scenes of the Winter Garden Revue, appeared at San Francisco at one time as a stunt artist, performing daring parachute jumps as a means of livelihood. He also did parachute jumping acts in Ohio.

He confessed that he much prefers working among the present troupe of girls he is with than all the elephants in "circusdom"—and his interviewer fully appreciated his preference.

OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can put your digestive and eliminative system out of kilter, by refusing to pour out its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels! You won't completely correct such a condition by taking salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage. When they've moved your bowels they're through—and you need a liver stimulant.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

AUDITOR FINDS $1200 SHORTAGE IN AIR RECORDS

NO AUDIT AT SAULT.

TORONTO, Aug. 24. — (CP). — Aeroplane expenditures and bookkeeping methods were discussed yesterday as the probe into the Ontario Government air service resumed here under D. W. Lang, of Toronto.

J. B. L. Smith and James A. Seddon, auditors, were on the stand and were questioned by Chief Counsel D. J. Coffey. The probe was adjourned until Monday when Capt. Roy D. Maxwell, director of the air service, will probably give evidence.

"There has been no audit of the books at the Sault by the Government," said Mr. Smith. "Nor was any audit made by the accountable warrants." Headquarters of the flying service are at Sault Ste. Marie.

Witness said he had found a shortage of about $800 in the directors' accounts and of about $400 in the storekeeper's warrants in investigating the accountable warrants.

"I would say there is a great deal of overlapping and duplication here in keeping the records," said the auditor, discussing records in Toronto. The system was a "very difficult" one in a case of trying to obtain any specific information. Some information had to be got through the audit department.

Mr. Seddon detailed from accounting papers figures from the air service books kept in Toronto, which he had investigated. Sum of $40,000 was charged to equipment during a 10-year period, he said. Addition of expense for floats and other extras brought the sum to $603,000.

Figures for the purchase of planes in the year ending Oct. 31, 1932, were in excess by about $500 of the amount shown in the public accounts, he said. For 1932-33 there was a difference as against the public accounts sum of about $4,500.

In connection with charges for flying time of Canadian Airways, Ltd., certain vouchers were omitted, Mr. Seddon said. This accounted for the difference between the public accounts figure and that reached by the auditors.

Cost of purchase of a seaplane from Vickers was given by witness as $19,600 in the public accounts of 1929-9. Payment of $6,280 was made to Great Lakes Airways for an option on a Fairchild plane, he said. The plane subsequently was turned back to that company.

These amounts were charged to forest fire-fighting, camp accounts and to miscellaneous expenses. Witness explained he was told the original appropriation for the Vickers plane was made under these heads.

No Record of Balance.

Concerning balancing, no actual record of balance was on hand. It was not possible to tell the value of the parts on hand at any time, Mr. Smith told Mr. Coffey. Value of the inventory of the accessories was not listed.

At the end of each fiscal year, said witness, a stock-taking is made to check on the quantity of accessories.

"I could not find any of the records of the parts disposed of," said Smith. There would be no way of ascertaining the value of the parts disposed of, he said.

There was evidence in the cost accounting that certain Liberty engine parts had been reconditioned.

An exhibit gave the cost of reconditioning six Liberty engines.

"Are there any records showing what parts are in store at other bases than the Sault?"

"At the Sault they keep a record of all parts shipped out," said Smith.

"Did you make any investigation as to gasoline purchases and disposal of gasoline?" asked Mr. Coffey.

Witness said he would not be able to determined whether or not gasoline was wasted.

"They keep a record of the gasoline at the different bases and caches through the north country," said Smith. "In one cache a shortage of over 500 gallons was found when the cache was visited in the spring."

Engines $2,850 Each.

Concerning the cost of reconditioning the Liberty engines, Smith said he had inquired into this. Engines originally cost $2 850 each, an aggregate for the six of $17,100. Total cost of reconditioning those motors was $6,860, said witness. Cost of changing planes from short floats to Eon floats was brought. Cost of conversion of several Moth planes for period Jan. 1 to May 1, 1934, was $33,574. That included cost of new engines installed in planes, said witness. Additional cost involved in making conversion was $7,260, said Smith.

Estimated gasoline carry-overs were dealt with. Witness had to go through books of the Department of Lands and Forests at Sault Ste. Marie. He investigated the period 1932-33-34. In the fiscal year ending Oct., 1932, there were an aggregate quantity of 956 gallons of gasoline left over. For 1932-3 there was 756 gallons carried over. For the year ending Oct., 1933, there was an amount of 17,562 gallons carried over on the books.

CHECKING UP.

WINDSOR, Aug. 24.—(CP).—Re-registration of persons on welfare was begun to-day by regular investigators of the welfare department. The work will be completed by Sept. 1, J. D. Clark, welfare director, stated.

Grandstand Notes

DID YOU KNOW?—

THAT Arthur Petley, the cleverest artist in his type of work, considers his art second to his golf, fishing and hunting? You can see him in the wee hours of the morning driving them out on the green behind the grandstand stage. He has no children, so he may not be a "par"; he likes to "niblick" on "mashie" potatoes, and being English, he certainly likes his "tee". I could keep on writing all day long about his accentricities, but what "fore"?

THAT Ralph Webberly, the handsome stage manager of the Winter Garden Revue, was once the boy friend of Miss Sally Rand, the famous fan dancer?

THAT Dell Young, one of the charming Young Sisters of the revue, is engaged to an undertaker in Reading, Pa.? Well, she's certainly sure of getting a cheap funeral, and that's sumpin.

THAT Mary Marley has won more beauty contests than any other girl in the revue? See her in the "Parade of the Birds" number Friday nite and you will find out just why.

THAT Ponyboy, the Shetland in Palmers' great animal act, was purchased for $17 about five years ago —and that he has earned more than 1,000 times his purchase price since?

THAT Tiny Sutton, the sweetest kid in the gang, has been offered screen tests from several companies, but is remaining loyal to her present employer, Miss Catherine Behney?

THAT Dick Motto and Henny Cogert, featured comedians of the Winter Garden Revue, first met in high school, were the battery of the class ball team, graduated together and then separated—only to be employed by the same insurance agency some months later?

THAT John Jackson, the "bread puncher" of the Peterborough Rangers, is growing a "moostash"—at least that's what he thinks?

THAT Bill Behney made a first-class "haul" yesterday — result, everybody had fish for dinner.

THAT Dick Lush, Bell Telephone man and hustling man in charge of the grandstand show for the Exhibition, is a great magician? There are a few things I wish he'd make disappear—especially the rain on Exhibition nights.

THAT Nadine Saunders and Bill are going to do the same waltz they did in the Metro picture, "The Whirl of Madness," in which picture Nadine doubled for Jean Harlow? Yes, sir, they do this Friday night! Don't miss it.

THAT Stan. Peryer, son of Lieut. Bill, who directs the Peterborough Rangers, is a champ wrestler and does a swell impersonation of "Pigskin Peters"?

THAT you cannot afford to miss to-night's show in front of the grandstand?

—Henny Cogert.

Weddings

ELLIOTT—RUTHERFORD.

OMEMEE, Aug. 24. —(Examiner Correspondence.)— On Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 22nd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rutherford, Omemee, the marriage of their daughter, Florence Annie to John Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Elliott of Dunsford, was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. Reddick. Miss Lily Race played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a simply made gown of moire satin and conventional bridal veil. She carried pink Butterfly roses and white heather. She was attended by Miss Mildred Elliott, sister of the groom, who was gowned in yellow georgette with touches of brown velvet. Her picture hat was of yellow mohair and she carried a nosegay of yellow roses and sweet peas. Two small cousins of the bride, Hertha and Norma Skuce, were flower girls and wore quaint dresses of green and mauve organdy and carried sweet peas. After the ceremony Miss Caroline Balfour sang 'The Day of the Golden Promise.'

The happy couple left for a motor trip to Kirkland Lake, the bride wearing a navy blue ensemble with white accessories. On their return they will reside near Dunsford.

MRS. FRED WALDON IS 87 YEARS OLD

Aged Lakefield Resident Observes Anniversary in Company With Family.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 23. (Examiner Correspondence). Surrounded by her sons and daughters, grandchildren and great grandchildren, Mrs. Fred Waldon celebrated her eighty-seventh birthday at her home on Queen street on Tuesday, August 22nd. Mrs. Waldon was born in Devonshire, England and there she married the late Fred Waldon, leaving directly after the wedding to make her home in Canada. The family have resided in or near Lakefield and are very well known and highly regarded. In spite of her advanced years, Mrs. Waldon enjoys good health and is a favorite with young people who delight in her cheery disposition and her understanding heart. 'Mother's birthday' has always been an honored anniversary in the Waldon home and absent members of the family plan to return for the occasion. The family circle has narrowed with the passing of time gut the festival is still marked and is 'Mother's Day'. There are two daughters—Mrs. Thomas Cheyne and Mrs. Harry Penberthy, and two sons—Ernest and Trude (Detroit). Last January Mrs. Waldon had the misfortune to break her arm but, in spite of her advanced years, she made a complete recovery.

Long Motor Tour

Mrs. A. E. Dawson and her daughters, Barbara and Darrell, and son Kenneth, have returned from a delightful motor trip of twenty-seven hundred miles. The party motored to Quebec where they spent some time in the wonderful old city, turning south they motored through the New England States to Boston where they took the boat to Yarmouth, N.S. They motored along the south shore to Lunenburg where the first person they saw in the street was Mrs. Cameron of Lakefield, who is summering there. They remained for some time there enjoying the sea bathing, the wonderful harbour and attended church in the second oldest Protestant church in America, (the Anglican church in Lunenburg). The material was brought from Boston, which was then a British possession. The children were enthralled by the ox teams and the ox carts with the bells. Going on to Halifax they visited Dartmouth, going over by ferry and enjoying the surf bathing. They saw the Empress of Britain sail and were taken over the wonderful ship. From Halifax they motored through Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, up to Riviere de Loup, Quebec, and home. They met Mr. Dawson at Riviere de Loup motoring to meet them and the party returned home on Saturday from a most delightful trip which was not marred in any way by accident or bad weather. A camera, purchased at Quebec en route, proved to be a real asset and has meant that the Dawsons have a collection of excellent pictures of their holiday trip, including the breakers at "Seabreeze and the surf gathing. They are enthusiastic over the pleasure of the trip and hope to repeat it at some future date.

In later years he was umpire for a long period with the Central Ontario Baseball League, and latterly umpired in the East Peterborough Baseball League.

Just a day over a week prior to the evening of his lamented death, Mr. LeBarr umpired the juvenile playoffs between Terriers and Oshawa here. Shortly afterwards he was taken so ill that he had to return home from his employment at the Canadian Nashau Paper Company, and take to his bed. Dearest Olive, how we miss you
Every day since you are gone;
Many a silent tear has fallen
When we thought we were alone
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But Death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

CANADIAN BOYS WIN THIRD AWARDS

$17,000 in Scholarships Won by Canadians in Fisher Body Contest.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—Eight Canadian boys earned $17,000 in scholarship awards—a third of the total distributed in North America by the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild in its annual model coach building competition.

Announcement of the success of the young Canadians was made at Chicago last night by W. A. Fisher and R. S. McLaughlin, presidents of the American and Canadian sections at the International Award dinner held in the Stevens Hotel and attended by Guild members and leading educationists.

To J. Ross Parquharson of Vancouver and Harold Rasmussen of Regina went major honors— first senior and junior winners respectively of $5,000 each. Other Canadian winners and their awards were: Senior, Allan E. McLean, Collingwood, Ont., $2,000; Lawrence Drebert, Edmonton, $1,00C; Vernon M. Parriah, Medicine Hat, $500; junior, Nicholas Dudkoff, Verdun, Que., $2,000; Andre Leprohon, Montreal, $1,000 and Jerome Lanouette, Quebec City, $500.

In a quaint mediaeval setting, an exact replica of the Ancient Guild Square in Brussels, the young craftsmen gathered after a joyous two-day convention in Toronto. It was the scene of the Annual Guild Banquet and the boys thrilled to the glamor of the occasion, proudly accepting the congratulations of R. S. McLaughlin and listening to the descriptive broadcast by Edwin C. Hill over an international hook-up.

HEALTH BOARD SCORES M.O.H.

North Monaghan Willing to Look After Her Own Health Affairs.

NEED NO OUTSIDE AID.

A meeting of the Board of Health of North Monaghan was held on Friday. Present: Reeve Hy Wood, chairman; H. Clark; Dr Morgan, M.O.H.

Dr. Morgan reported that there were no infectious diseases except a few mild cases of chickenpox.

Specimens of milk have been collected from the vendors and listed. Some vendors have been warned to improve the condition of the milk.

It was recommended that toxoid be given in the schools during the Fall.

A report in The Examiner of the proceedings of a meeting of the Peterborough Board of Health concerning a bake shop in North Monaghan was discussed, and the Board of Health of North Monaghan think it is entirely out of the jurisdiction of the Peterborough M.O.H. or Sanitary Inspector. If they will in future look after their own duties, we will try to look after ours. If, however, we find we are unable to do so we will be only too glad to ask the aid of these gentlemen, was the feeling of the board.

Magistrate's Court

When William Weatherspoon imbibes beer he likes nothing better than to take a nice long taxi ride.

He won't ride in any more taxis for a least 15 days. Magistrate Langley saw to that to-day when he sentenced Weatherspoon to jail.

Weatherspoon, aged 57, who refused to tell police his address, arrived in the city yesterday. After visiting several beverage rooms, he hired a taxi and ordered the driver to show him the city. Four hours later Weatherspoon said he thought he had ridden enough. When the taximan presented his bill, the passenger would not pay.

Police were called and Weatherspoon became belligerent, removing his coat and vest the better to beat up Constable Jack Stevenson. However, the constable whiffed him off to the station.

He pleaded guilty to intoxication this morning.

Lady Sharpshooters Compete At Canadian Bisley

Shooting over the Connaught Ranges, Ottawa, in the annual meet of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association—the Canadian Bisley—are some of Canada's finest sharpshooters, among them several women who have proved themselves crack shots in competition. Upper layout shows New Brunswick's contingent of women snipers led by Mrs. Dow, veteran of the ranges, who has attended the Bisley meet in England. Left to right, Mrs. Dow, Saint John, N.B., Miss Philbrick, Mrs. Wetmore and Mrs. Bonnell. Below, Mrs. M. J. Watson of Toronto, sights down her rifle barrel during the contest. Inset, Cyril Proctor, 14-year-old, youngest marksman on the range. He is a signaller in the Ottawa 3rd Division Corps and his shooting has attracted the attention of veterans.

Police suspect underworld vengeance as the motive. Picture shows the spot where Soulgikoff fell, riddled with bullets. Twenty Years Ago They Were In Ranks; To-Day They Lead

BENITO MUSSOLINI ADOLF HITLER JOSEF V. STALIN

Twenty years ago this August when war and rumors of war were just beginning to set the world afire these three men were rather obscure figures in their respective countries. Today they are the dictators upon whom attention of the world is fastened. Mussolini was then the editor of a radical newspaper; Hitler an undistinguished corporal in the Austrian army, and Stalin of Russian was in exile in Siberia. Photos show them as they looked in 1914 and today.

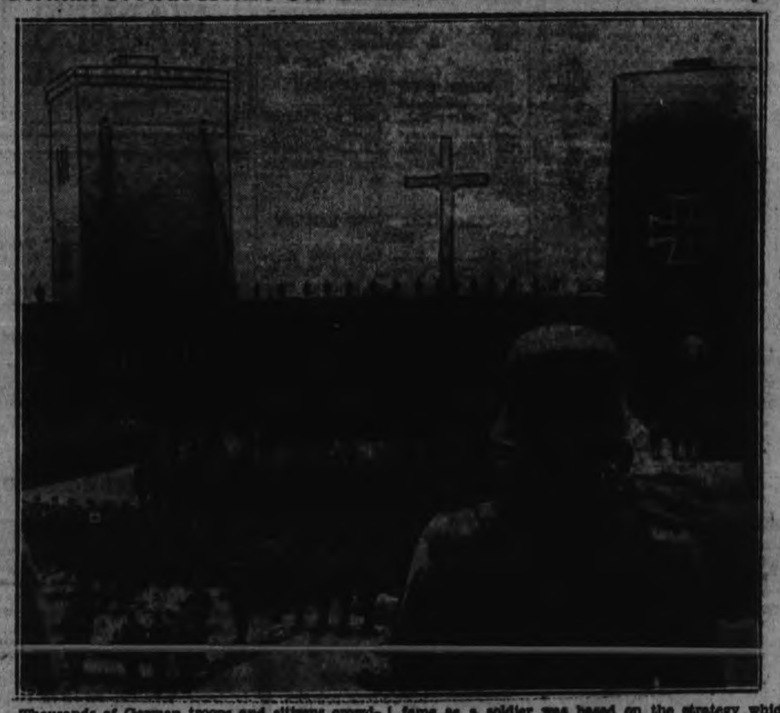
German Crowds Honor Old Soldier At Scene of Greatest Triumph



Thousands of German troops and citizens crowded around the Marshals Tower on site of the historic battle of Tannenberg, to hear Chancellor Adolf Hitler deliver the funeral oration just before the burial of late German President Paul von Hindenburg, whose fame as a soldier was based on the strategy which won the overwhelming victory in Tannenberg marshes during World War. Remains of the old soldier and statesman were buried in the Tannenberg memorial.

DAISY VIOLET POWELL

Surgeons believe that a large growth on the side of Miss Daisy Violet Powell of Richmond, Va., is the body of a twin sister. A surgeon who studied the case died before he had devised a way to remove the growth without injuring the girl. Now Richmond doctors have decided to operate.

Cyclonic Wind Leaves Trail Of Debris In Ontario

Roaring out of the northwest in the form of a funnel-shaped cloud at the height of an electrical storm, a cyclone swept a path 100 yards wide through the little village of Guthrie, Ont., levelling barns and buildings, uprooting trees, flattening fields of grain, and leaving a trail of debris in its wake. Wreck of the barn on the farm of Alec Campbell is shown in the centre picture, after the wind had taken its toll. At right is shown one tree hurled to the ground when the steel skating rink at Guthrie was blown down and across the orchard. Lower right shows a section of the heavy galvanized steel wrapped around a tree trunk by the force of the wind.

Be Beautiful

By GLADYS GLAD

The beauteous Claudette Colbert, I hear, was greatly relieved to learn that she will not be forced to endure the ordeal of a bathing scene in the shooting of her forthcoming picture, "Cleopatra." Claudette, you know, had to take an elaborate milk bath when she played the part of Poppea, Nero's wife. Claudette didn't mind that so much, for she considers milk an excellent skin beautifier. But the scene had to be reshot so often, and she had to remain in the bath so long, that she couldn't stand even the sight of milk for some time afterward.

As I told you, milk really is an excellent complexion beautifier. When taken internally, in the manner I suggested, it helps to clear the skin and to eradicate blotchiness and sallowness. But milk can also be used externally as a skin beautifier. And the best way to employ it externally is to use powdered milk, and to incorporate it into a face mask.

The powdered milk mask is really very simple to prepare and to administer. The skin should first be thoroughly cleansed with a pure, bland soap and tepid water, and then with a liquifying cleansing cream. Remove the cleansing cream, next, and apply a rich nourishing cream to your skin. Allow this cream to remain on your skin for a few minutes, and then remove it with tepid water and a soft cloth.

To prepare the mask itself, mix a heaping tablespoon of powdered milk, which can be procured in any well-stocked drug store, with enough cold water to form a smooth, creamy paste. If your skin is excessively oily, you may substitute a good skin tonic for the water. Apply the paste generously over your face, and permit it to dry. Lie down and relax during this period of time, if you possibly can.

When the mask is thoroughly dry, remove it with warm water and a soft cloth. And, as the final step, apply a mild skin tonic or astringent, in order to tone up your skin. This mask has a bleaching effect on the skin, helps to refine its texture, and leaves it feeling soft, smooth and velvety.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Coiffure

Helen R.: If your face is round and full, you should keep the hair off your forehead, bring it forward on your cheeks, and keep it flat over your ears. A side part is best.

Jean: If you follow the manicuring instructions in my article on "Care of the Hands and Nails," you should be able to make your fingernails look beautifully groomed. The exercises for shaping and molding the hands are also contained in this article.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Parents and school teachers or any person whose duty it is to govern others, whether children or adults, gain their respect and love or esteem, as the case may be, if they are good disciplinarians. They may even be strict, good disciplinarians are apt to be, but they are also prone to be just. There is a vast difference between being severe and being strict. In the first instance there may be no measure of justice, or actual relation or balance between the offense and the punishment. It is particularly noticeable in governing children, where it will be found that a slight unruliness often brings an unmerited, severe correction, and a real offense goes with but slight punishment. The state of mind of the parent or teacher, often has as much to do with the lightness or severity of the punishment as the misdemeanor itself.

When a person is a good disciplinarian there is not found this fickleness. Children and others know where they stand. Consequently they consider whether or not it is worth while to do the thing which will bring down upon them a severe punishment. What is more they will be inclined to realize their wrong doings would deserve the penalties meted out to them. There is a fine sense of justice in children. There is also an inbred respect for authority, until they find it is mis-applied, even when the rules seem arbitrary rather than, to them, reasonable.

Parents do well to recall families in which respect and genuine affection exists between children and their fathers and mothers. They will find in most instances that the discipline is good. It is just, and it is respected.

It is very hard on children to be subject to the whims and the tempers of parents. One time the youngsters can do almost anything they like and it is unnoticed, or brings very slight punishment. Again they do the smallest prank, it may be in pure mischievousness, and with no wrong intent, and they get a punishment so severe that it is far from just or right.

There is nothing harsh or unkind in the idea of good discipline. There is nothing picayune or trifling either. Good disciplinarians appreciate the fine qualities of those whom they are guiding. Commendation should go hand in hand with correction. Both are needed to bring out the best in children. It is when they receive the right measure of each that young folk understand that justice is the foundation of their management and that affection is the ruling power.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

A RARE PLAY

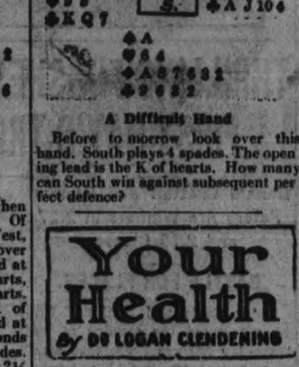
There are many plays used frequently and to good advantage by experts, with which average players are wholly unfamiliar. One of these is illustrated to day.

Both sides are vulnerable when South dealt the following hands. Of course he passed. Bidding went: West, 1 heart; East, 2 clubs, to discover whether the hand should be played at hearts or no trumps; West, 3 hearts, settling that question; East, 4 hearts.

The opening lead was the K of diamonds. South was an old hand at the game. His side held top diamonds and dummy and he held top spades. Evidently to have the customary 2¼ quick tricks—or even 2 quick tricks, for that matter—West must hold the A Q of a long heart suit, while declarer and dummy must have solid clubs. The only tricks North and South could win must be 2 diamonds and 1 spade, unless he or his partner could obtain a ruff. North could not be void of either black suit, or West would have had a second suit to show. The only possible chance which South could see for defeating the contract, was to obtain a ruff in spades. The only method of obtaining this was for him to overplay his partner's K of diamonds with his ace.

South won the opening lead. Then next he leads his lone Ace of spades he led back 8 of diamonds. North's J won the trick, and he led back a spade which South ruffed, hiving his side the one extra trick required to defeat the contract.

There is another play similar to the one made by South. Sometimes when partner has bid a suit, if you make the opening lead, the one way to save game is to lead a singleton side ace, then lead your partner's suit in which you are long. Partner will win your lead of his suit, then give you a ruff. You again lead his suit and obtain a second ruff—provided all goes well.



A Difficult Hand

Before to morrow look over this hand. South plays 4 spades. The opening lead is the K of hearts. How many can South win against subsequent perfect defence?

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

One disadvantage of most reducing diets is that they do not give a sense of fullness. The patient who starts to reduce is usually breaking a habit of years. It is, therefore, very difficult for him to start in on a diet which does not give a sense of satisfaction. "I am so hungry!" is the pitiful wail.

For this reason, a diet which has considerable fat in it is valuable, on account of what is known as the "satiety value" of food. The trouble is fat is the most fattening of foods: if you include fat in your reducing diet for its satiety value, you no longer have a reducing diet. It is a common observation that the banana is a filling food. Notwithstanding this, however, the banana has almost no fat content. The combination of milk and bananas is simple, palatable, and has been introduced as the latest reducing diet.

It may be used in one of two or three ways. First, milk and bananas may be used for one or two meals, with moderate restriction for the third. Second, they may be taken as the entire diet for ten to fourteen days, and then exchanged for a more varied diet. These alternate periods of starvation and restricted diet are considered safe, harmless and effective.

When used as a diet in the moderately restricted way, one or two large ripe bananas and a glass of cold milk are used for breakfast and lunch. For the evening meal, clear soup, a little lean meat, and vegetables containing only 5 per cent crabohydrate, such as lettuce, cucumbers, spinach, asparagus, rhubarb, sauerkraut, cabbage, radishes and leeks, are used.

The strict diet consists of a daily consumption of six large bananas and four glasses of skimmed milk. They can be divided into three meals in any way that suits the fancy: a banana and a glass of skimmed milk for breakfast, two bananas and two glasses of milk for lunch, and three bananas and a glass of milk for supper; or two bananas and a glass and a half of milk for each meal.

The nutritional value of this diet is 182 grams of carbohydrate (the average normal diet has about 400 grams of carbohydrate a day); 44 grams of protein (normal about 100) and four grams of fat. It furnishes 940 calories, about one-third of the amount that the average person eat.

Most people will lose about two or three pounds a week on this diet.

This diet has been used and was reported by Dr. George A. Harrop of Baltimore, Md., and has been referred to several times in inquiries to this department as the "Harrop Diet."

and Mickey Neilan are working a terrific rib on Mack ("Killer") Gray, George's man Friday. The Killer is THAT excited. He's stalking Harry Revell all over the Paramount lot trying to get the song.

The funny part of it is the laugh has just died down at another rib at Mack's expense. They offered him a part several months ago, handed him the script, and told him to go home and study it.

The Killer came back the next day and refused to play the part. His character had only one line, and Mack indignantly refused to speak it. Namely: "Im the Fairy Prince."

Leafs Drop First Game of Buffalo Series

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

THE REGULAR race track muckers who follow the hides from day to day and who are sometimes known as touts are finding the going tough these days on account of the scarcity of the Ol' Cobalt. This item brings to mind an incident that happened at the recent meeting of the Hamilton plant. It goes like this. A certain young man wandering aimlessly around the Hamilton club lawns with perhaps fifteen or twenty smackers burning holes in his jeans' pocket and with the faintest traces of that "bored with life" expression on his pan, which seems to be so easily cultivated by our young people of today is approached by a member of the "sucker-money gentry."

Posing under the name of Harry Giddings, trainer of the famous Hatch stable, the tout quickly convinced the "lone talent" on his knowledge of the racing game, and to make a long story short, Mr. Sucker gave him a ten spot to bet for him on a sure thing, and also thanked "Mr. Giddings" for taking such a personal interest in him, a total stranger.

SO FAR our story has been running true to form and speaking of form we will go even farther and say that as usual the horse lost which is always the way when a tout hands one out. The client after first getting over the shock of losing three or four day's hard earned sheckles in the matter of a few moments, though at first it was just the way of the racing game that he had heard so much about until he bought a sporting extra just before the last race went to the post and in big headlines over a picture of Harry Giddings it announced that how that same afternoon he had waddled a winner at Saratoga. And believe you us, the facial likeness was vastly different from that of our friend, Mr. Tout.

But our tale does not end here, feeling plenty burned up about the affair and particularly at himself, for he, a wise guy having been taken into fold, he started out through the crowds trying to locate his new found friend which he did and right away the tout began to make excuses, telling him about the saddle slipping and only for that his information would have been ace high. But by this time the client was at a white heat and he let a right go straight from the heels and it landed on the would-be trainer's jaw following which the tout took what is known in pugilistic circles as the Tunney long count. This is a crude way of dealing with this form of gentry but it was effective and the sporting world may rest assured that the event will be chalked up by both under the heading of experience. To one, the loss of his ten smackers and to the other a bunch of hard packed fives wrapped around his kisser.

BISONS RALLY IN LATE GAME FOR 9-6 WIN

Montreal Royals Bunch Runs to Defeat Rochester Redwings 5-0.

FRITZ ALLOWS NINE.

(By the Associated Press)

It begins to appear as though the three-club struggle for the fourth berth in the International League playoffs is going to continue right down to the finish line—17 days away.

All three of the rivals — Albany Senators, Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals — chalked up victory yesterday and left battle line just as tightly drawn as ever with Albany holding a game and a half lead over the other two, who are locked in a tie for fifth place.

Art Herring pitched steady ball as Albany tripped league-leading Newark 4-3. Herring allowed but seven hits and had the Bears beaten 4-1 until the pace-setters rallied for two runs in the eighth. The Senators grabbed 11 hits off the combined offerings of Hank McDonald and Marvin Duke.

Leafs Fall to Bisons

Buffalo spotted third place Toronto four runs in the first inning and then came back to win 9-6. Roy Spencer's line drive double off the left field fence with the bases filled featured a four-run splurge in the third which gave the Bisons a lead they never thereafter relinquished. Ollie Carnegie later walloped his 26th home run with a mate on base.

Rochester remained three games behind Newark as the Red Wings suffered a 5-0 shutout at the hands of Ray Frits and Montreal Royals. Frits allowed nine hits but two double-plays and fine fielding otherwise behind him saved him from trouble. A hit, two walks, two sacrifices and Ray Harrell's wild throw on a bunt gave the Royals three runs in the second.

Takes Two From Stars

Baltimore, doing its best to escape from the cellar, won two games from Syracuse, 2-1 and 5-1, behind excellent pitching by George Granger and George Darrow and moved to within 4½ games of the seventh place Chiefs. Granger slightly outpitched Jimmy McCloskey in the opener and won out on John Kroner's homer in the third and Woodley Abernathy's triple in the ninth which followed a single by Keith Molesworth.

THRILLING FINISHES FEATURE FIRST DAY'S TROTTING EVENTS

BATTLE FOR PLACES.

Large fields and thrilling finishes featured the opening of the three-day harness horse race meet yesterday at the Exhibition here. Eleven horses went to the post in the 2.27 class, while ten faced the barrier in the 2.15 race. They had to be started in tiers, which sometimes necessitated considerable scoring before they got off to a fair start. Four heats were run in each event before the winners were determined.

With some of the finest racers in Ontario competing, nearly every heat wound up with several top-notchers fighting it out every foot of the way down the stretch and shooting under the wire bunched with a matter of inches, in some cases, separating the prize-money horses. Some of the times made were extra good for such large fields. The first three heats of the 2.27 class were particularly close.

Art Blade was starter and got the fields off to good starts. Judges were Dr. McElroy and Eddie Jones; the timers were Lou Ferguson and Stan Lowe, while the clerk was Dave Fleming. Purses of $200 were put up for each race, first four horses in each getting a percentage of the money.

BAY OF QUINTE GOLFERS WIN.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 24.—Golfers of the Bay of Quinte Country Club defeated a team from Cobourg at the West End course by a score of 32 to 23 yesterday.

QUINTE GIRLS EASY VICTIMS

Keene Softball Team Romps Home With 12-2 Victory in Exhibition Tussle.

BUNCH HITS COUNT.

Keene girls proved too classy for the Belleville Fruit Co. team last night at the Ashburnham Bowl, when the two teams hooked up in an exhibition tussle, and the Ruralites won 12 to 2. This game was the second of a home-and-home series, the first played in Belleville resulted in an 8-8 tie.

The winners exhibited a more finished brand of ball than the opposite and bunched their hits with runners on the bases, while Belleville played ragged ball in four of the eight frames, kicking in with ten miscues. Besides this the infielders failed to knock down hard hit balls that gave Keene extra bases. Molly Gray started for the losers, and pitched steady ball for 7 1-3 frames. She fanned three and walked one, but was given ragged support. Babe Louis went to the mound in the eighth with one out and four in. She fanned one and allowed no hits. Marilyn McCarthy went the route for the Keene team, pitching fair ball. She fanned five and walked seven. The players behind her played a bang-up game, having just two errors. Grace McCarthy with six put-outs in centre, was the fielding star. Irene Short and Grace McCarthy both hit two homers for the winners, while M. Kellegher with three singles and P. Tuttle with a triple and single were the best for Belleville.

The teams:

THREE SURVIVE IN U.S. DOUBLES

AFTER 2ND CROWN.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.— The victorious march of Lester Stoefen and George Lott in quest of their second straight United States doubles tennis crown took the giant Californian and the crafty Chicagoan safely past the semi-final barrier into the championship round yesterday, but their greatest opposition still remains ahead.

Although the make-ups of the combination which will oppose the American Davis Cup aces in the final round Saturday still is to be decided, the defending titlists knew last night that the duo they will oppose will represent the cream of an international field of 32 teams which began play Monday.

For, while Stoefen and Lott are conquering the fast-moving Eastern veterans, Berkeley Bell of New York, and Gregory Mangin of Newark, N.J., 10-8, 6-1, 7-5 yesterday to slip into the finals, the surviving invading threats, Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia, and Vernon Kirby, South Africa, strode successfully over the quarter-final barriers.

The victory of the invaders was over the United States Davis Cup singles players, Frank Shields and Sidney Wood, in five bristling sets, 3-6, 13-11, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, chiefly by the splendid volleying work of Kirby.

Moore's Homer in Final Wins For Giants—Dodgers Beat Cubs.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Giants finally have succeeded in beating one of the pitching Dean boys from St. Louis and that, in the light of what has gone before, seeks to rank as one of the season's major achievements.

The feat was enough to give the league-leaders a margin of 6½ games over the Cubs and seven over the Cards as they pulled out a late minute 5-3 decision over Paul Dean, the younger of the pair. At the same time the Cubs took it on the chin by a 9-4 count with Brooklyn Dodgers administering the blow.

Paul and his big brother, Dizzy, had bowled over the New Yorkers eight times in succession up to yesterday, each of them winning four games and for a while it looked like another Cardinal triumph. The Cards, aiming for second place, maltreated Carl Hubbell, whom they had beaten three times, to score all their three runs in the first five innings.

As "Hub" went out, the Giants started scoring but it wasn't until the ninth that Joe Moore provided the winning clout. A run behind starting the last inning, the Giants got two on base when Harry Danning and pinch-hitter Hank Leiber hit singles. Then Moore slammed a drive on to the roof of the right-field pavilion for a home run that won the game. Earlier in the contest Danning had belted a homer while Spur Davis hit one for St. Louis.

Even after that smash the Giants had some trouble. Herman Bell, fourth flinger for New York, let Chick Fullis open the last half with a double and Fred Fitzsimmons was called in to retire the Cards.

The Cubs were no match for Brooklyn despite a one-man uprising by Babe Herman, who drove in three runs with a triple and homer, and scored the other. The Dodgers smashed over five runs in two innings against Bill Lee, then finished by pounding Charley Root and Bud Tinning when their lead was in danger.

The Yankees reversed the process in the American League by cutting Detroit's lead to four games, a reduction of a full game. New York hammered Cleveland pitching for a 9-2 victory behind Charley Ruffing, who made two hits and scored three runs in his own cause besides pitching six-hit ball.

The Tigers suffered their second straight defeat at Washington, 3-1, when Bob Burke limited them to five blows. The Senators assaulted Tommy Bridges for all their runs in the fourth when manager Joe Cronin singled and Cliff Bolton, Fred Shulte and Pete Susko hit two baggers in rapid succession.

Buck Newson of St. Louis and Ted Lyons of Chicago turned in a pair of brilliant pitching feats to win the other American League games. Each allowed six hits, Newson fanning ten batters to shut out the Athletics 3-0 and Lyons stopping the Red Sox 7-2 as Al Simmons and Luke Appling backed him with three blows each.

PITCHERS' DUEL SATURDAY'S TILT

Williams and Deyell Will Do Mound-Duty in Crucial Series.

Jack Williams and Archie Deyell are expected to hook up in a pitching duel tomorrow afternoon at three in Riverside Park when the Belleville team is here for its last scheduled game of the season. With the Nats and Petes tied now for first place, and only a week to go, the game is highly important with first place at stake Saturday. And, as these teams will likely meet in the C.O.B.L. playoffs, a huge crowd is sure to turn out to look them over to get a line on how the big series will go. There is always plenty of interest in a Belleville-Petes' tangle, and tomorrow will no doubt find this truer than ever.

Peeney Mills' gang is hot after the top rung all by themselves, and this is the reason why the Chief will likely be named to hurl. The veteran Indian southpaw has been doing some grand flinging on his comeback this summer, his pitching alone being the reason why Belleville is up there on top. He lost the last time he faced the Petes, but will be tougher to take this time. The fact that the Petes are better on the road than at home may make it hard for them here tomorrow. Deyell, who has been hurling fine ball all along, is almost sure to get the assignment in this tilt, with Calladine possibly being used in the field for his hitting.

South-End Review

Albions drew first blood in the Southend League play-offs last night by taking Cogs into camp by an easy 15-1 win in the first game of the series between the first-place teams of each half. The winners garnered four runs in the first frame and coasted home behind Cavanaugh's four-hit pitching. Ridley started on the mound for the Cogs out was pounded freely and was relieved in the seventh by Todd who went better. Pryde led the Albion attack with four hits while Burke and Mowry starred in the field. The teams:

The first play-off game between the second-place teams of each half, played Thursday night, was called in the sixth with the Nats leading Orioles 14-7. It will be replayed to-night with the second game moved on to Tuesday.

In order to get these games over, it has been found necessary to move the starting time on to 5.30 p.m. Players are reminded that it is imperative that contests start on

MAROONS PLAY INITIAL HOST TO CHIHAWKS

Chabot, Who Cavorted in Canuck Nets Last Season May Tend Montreal Nets.

CUDE WITH CANADIENS.

Dandurand After Services of Joe Primeau, Would Trade Howie Morenz.

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 (C.P.). — With citizens still travelling to lakeshores on week-ends for relief from the summer heat, plans are being laid for the opening of Canada's national winter pastime.

Last night official announcement was made the National Hockey League would open its 1934-35 season here Nov. 15, with Montreal Maroons playing host to the world champions, Chicago Black Hawks.

Thus rivalry begun late last year will be renewed as the hockey season gets underway. It was the Black Hawks who put out Montreal Maroons in the Stanley Cup finals.

If the tentative dates suggested, it was learned, are decided on, the Canadiens will open their season here Nov. 17 against Detroit Red Wings. Canadiens will have a former Red Wing in their nets in this game. Wilf Cude, the sensational youngster who was loaned by Canadiens to Detroit in the middle of last season, and then went on to establish himself as one of the most brilliant net-winners in the game, will be wearing the red, white and blue of the Flying Frenchmen against his old team-mates.

AFTER JOE PRIMEAU.

Montreal Canadiens adhere to the decision made last spring that "Howie" Morenz's services will be traded if any club can offer a suitable player in return, but, unfortunately, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers and Maple Leafs are not a a position to supply the demand.

Joe Cattarinich and Leo Dandurand would like to secure Joe Primeau in such a deal, their reasons being that Primeau would be popular with the French fans and would continue to be a stand-out performer when flanked by Auriel Joliat and Johnny Gagnon. The Canadien wingers would get a lot of points with Playmaker Joe out there in centre ice.

Morenz, of course, is a lot older than the local star, and Conny Smythe, who has no intention of allowing Primeau to depart, cannot be censured for refusing to break up the famous "kid" line for even such a tried and colorful campaigner as the "Stratford Streak."

That Morenz would be a favorite locally goes without saying. He has always been popular here, his thrilling dashes and reckless attacks being features of the Flying Frenchmen's play. Imagine if you can Clancy, Conacher, Jackson, Day, Kilrea and Morenz on the same team. Action every minute, speed galore.

Montreal Maroons have taken out an option on Goalkeeper Lorne Chabot's services, and will probably exercise it. New York Rangers and Detroit are also interested. "Porky" Levine, Jewish net-guardian from Kansas City, is slated to play for the Chicago Black Hawks if Joe Stark of Toronto fails to make the grade.

Canadiens may sign Kenny Farmer, the McGill University player, who was born in London, England, and Farquharson, another Red and White star. Their names are on the Canadien negotiation list, but they haven't been approached yet. Maxie Bennett, who will play for the Falconbridge seniors next season, will try out with Canadiens in the training grind at Kingston.—Toronto Globe.

WRAY'S RINK WINS TROPHY.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 24.—R. J. Wray, veteran bowler of the greens, with his rink won the Riggs Trophy, primary competition of the annual bowling tournament, here yesterday, the last game being played after 2 a.m. He defeated Jack Derry from Kingston in a spirited contest that was not decided until the last two ends. J. Fitzpatrick of Peterborough carried home the Ritchie Trophy, given in the consolation, defeating C. N. Sulman of this city. In the hard luck series, Chris Scopis and his rink won from Wally Walshe in the final match.

Aston Villa Pays $50,000 for Allen

LONDON, Aug. 24. — (C. P. Cable.) — The record breaking player transfer in the English Football League will be seen in effect Saturday when J. Allen, formerly of Portsmouth, takes the field for Aston Villa against Birmingham. The Villa paid a little more than $50,000 for Allen.

Willie Copping of Leeds United, for whom the champion Arsenal eleven paid a $40,000 transfer fee this summer, will be in the Arsenal line-up at Portsmouth.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

And so Belleville comes to town tomorrow. Yet Nats prance into the old home bailiwick at Riverside Park with the C.O.B.L. title at stake, and it's just a tossup on whose dome the crown will rest by tomorrow eve. Big Chief Jawn Williams and big boy Archie Deyell are slated to do the flinging on opposite mounds and this should be worth seeing. These teams will tangle in the play-offs in September so the fun will start tomorrow. And just for a change we'd like to see the Petes knock off a win on home grounds and give their hundreds of followers a break.

A big crowd took in the gate' tilt at the Bowl yester gloaming and saw a pretty fair struggle ala exhibish. It wound up with a 12-3 win for Keene over the Belleville Fruit Co. lassez, proving no doubt that an apple a day does not keep the defeats away. The tutti-frutti damsels looked pretty weak in the field, and we still don't know how they tied Keene 8-all even on their home park. Must have been an off-night for the Keene clan. Keene is slated to go to Omemee for a tussle Monday.

The harness hosses did their stuff in a big way yesterday at the Ex. and a real flock of hoss fans also did their stuff in the stand. Two mighty large fields raced in the 2.15 and the 2.27 classes, ten in one and eleven in the other. With the class of Ontario battling for good dough, they were bound to be exciting affairs, and practically every finish was a honey. Donald Grattan of Rigden copped the heavy sugar in the .27 race while Norman Peters headed the .15 field three out of four heats to grab first dough. Both races ran four heats.

* * * * * * *

A couple of bad actors kept Starter Art Blade scoring plenty at times but the crowd didn't mind it too much. It's no cinch to get a two-tier field away to a perfect start and as long as the hosses are fairly well bunched and on their stride, the drivers don't object when the yell "Go!" is given. In fact, some of them tell the starter it's okay by a nod of their heads as they come down toward the wire trailing by several lengths. The positions are all drawn for beforehand, so the hosses in the second tier aren't to be pitied. Just the breaks of the game.

* * * * * * *

Don't think the drivers were not in there fighting hard. They were very suspicious about going down any distance before turning and coming back at the start, and this caused some delay. And several hot verbal arguments were heard between drivers crowding each other on the track. Then, two of them came up after the first heat to the judges' stand squawking about a semi-collision on the back stretch. They nearly came to blows over it, too. Yeah, they're scrapping for everything. Some swell horseflesh was seen in both races, and today and tomorrow should see the same. Saturday, it's the free-for-all and the 2.24.

The executive girls' softball meeting last night decided to shelve the two disputed Westclox games till the end of the schedule to see if they had any bearing on the playoffs. Playoffs will be two out of three to declare half-winners, and three out of five for the finals, home and home games with first one at the Bowl. This means that if Keene and Westclox were in the finals, first game would be at the Bowl, second at Keene, etc. Playoffs are nine frames if possible, but seven constitute a game. All tilts in future start at six sharp. Revised schedule is: Aug. 24—Keene at Sixth Line; Aug. 27—Keene at Omemee; Aug. 28—Sixth Line at C.G.E.; Aug. 29—Keene at Westclox; Aug. 30—C.G.E. vs. Cobourg (exhibition); Aug. 31—Sixth Line at Keene; Sept. 4—Westclox at Keene; Sept. 5—Omemee at C.G.E.

Baseball around here has lost a mighty good friend in the sudden death last evening of Edgar (Curly' LeBarr. This popular umpire in the East Peterborough League—and for years on the C.O.B.L. staff—was a swell fellow. A keen follower of various sports, baseball was his love. And he knew the game as few in Peterborough did. He was one of the very few arbiters who seldom had a player or fan criticise his judgment. They realized he was competent and impartial. He declined to accept a position on the Central League's umpiring staff this year because it interfered too much with his work. We liked the unassuming and pleasant Curly and will miss him a great deal. So will baseball here. A sportsman and gentleman is always missed.

The event was forced to four heats, with Raider taking the second in 2.03, followed by J. E. Vonlan and His Majesty. The final quarter was done in 28½ seconds in a blanket finish. His Majesty did 1.59¾ in the first heat. Raider was driven by Childs under the colors of the Almahurst Stable at Lexington, Ky.

GEORGE DUNLAP IN GOOD SHAPE DEFEND HONORS

U. S. Amateur Golf Champion in His Element in Match Play.

PRIME OF GOLFING LIFE.

Sometime during the day of Sept. 10, George Terry Dunlap, Jr., will stride up to the first tee at Brookline, Mass., grab himself a driver and take a sound whack at a golf ball.

Young Mr. Dunlap will be launching his defense of his most prized possession—the American national amateur championship.

Now the odds are against George to retain his title. They are even more so against any one individual to take the crown away from him. Thats the reason tournament golf is so exciting.

However, four very important factors are on George's side to repeat. So don't sell him short.

They are:

1. Match play is George's meat. He loves the clash of individual combat. And this amateur tourney is the first of its kind to be all-match play.

2. George is reported in prime physical shape. He has been taking matters easily and getting a complete rest. Many a spectator will be more jittery than George when the big battle begins.

3. Dunlap is extremely fond of the course, Brookline. It has been kind to him. In the last Walker Cup matches (which were played over Brookline) George turned in a blazing exhibition of hot golf. Memory of that will strengthen his morale. As he treads the fairways of the Massachusetts course his feet will feel they are on friendly soil. Make no mistake about it—that will be a big mental help.

4. He's at his peak at 23—the prime of a golfing life.

Aside from this George is a pretty fair sort of golfer, anyway.

BOBBY PEARCE DEFENDS TITLE

Canadian National Exhibition Will Launch Sports Program To-day.

AQUATIC EVENTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (C.P.)—Canadian National Exhibition's sports program will be launched to-day with the professional sculling championship heats a feature of the events which will include diving performances, amateur swimming races and the professionals marathon swims for men and women.

Bobby Pearce, husky Australian who makes his home in Hamilton, Ont., now, will open defence of his world sculling crown against the pick of empire and United States to-night. Pearce with Olympic laurels to his credit turned professional last year to take the pro crown from Ted Phelps, Englishman, by a quarter of a mile margin.

Eric Phelps, Ted's brother, will be Bobby's opponent in the first heats to-night, slated to start at 6.30 o'clock. The draw has placed Pearce next the seawall with Phelps rowing in the outside lake, considered by the experts as an advantage.

In the other heat to-night the United States star, Bill Miller of Philadelphia, former American amateur champion, will face Bert Barry of London, England, a former world's title holder. Barry has drawn the outside lane in his race over the three-mile course with Miller.

Canadian diving girls and boys appear in the evenings with 14-year-old Linda Adams of Vancouver taking part. Linda is enroute home from the British Empire Games in England where she captured fourth place in fancy diving art. Others to perform include Alfred Phillips, Toronto. Canadian champion; Doris Ogilive, Canadian springboard champion who also competed at the British Empire Games, and Marjorie Stoneburg, Canadian high diving champion

Professional marathon swimmers will indulge in five-mile and 15-mile crawls. The men will take to the water for 15-mile swim Aug. 29 when such noted athletes as Marvin Nelson, Fort Dodge, Iowa, winner of last year's marathon; George Blagden, Memphis, Tenn.; George Young, Philadelphia, formerly of Toronto, and Giani Gambi, Italy, will be seen in action. Lady swimmers from all over the continent plunge into Lake Ontario's cold waters the following day for the five-mile grind.

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Every talk I have with my friend, Gene Sarazen, makes me wish that the golfing public knew him as I do.

Particularly do I wish all my readers could have a few hours with us on the practice tee.

Gene has done some worth while thinking about golf technique and he's more of a stylist than anyone has ever credited him with being. His build causes critics to overlook many fine points about his swing.

Gene's left side is just as active as Bobby Jones', just as powerful and if Gene had a tall, slender figure, it would be the talk of golf fans.

The next time you look at pictures of his swing just imagine him as being built like, say, young Johnny Fischer, and look over his left side carefully.

Charlie Foy, son of the late Eddie Foy, of show business fame, and Sammy Lewis, both theatrical friends of mine, have just taken up golf.

I've tried to teach them something about the swing, but they're more anxious to get out on the course and play. They figure that they can pick up their golf, cafeteria style, as they go along.

Lewis tries to make the right swing with every club he uses and he uses the proper club for each shot. Foy tries to play every shot with a No. 1 or No. 2 iron. Foy can't use the rest of his clubs successfully.

Lewis is on the right track because his attempt to use the right club for each shot makes him put forth an effort to execute the correct swing.

The player who must rely on favorite clubs will never improve his swing.

MILLBROOK TEAM CONNAUGHT RANGES

Boys Win $40 in Prize Money, One Medal and Number of Badges.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Millbrook team, entered in the D.C.R.A. Miniature Match at the Connaught Ranges, Ottawa, motored to the Capital City on Sunday, and returned with approximately forty dollars in prize money, a medal, and several badges, making much the best showing they have ever accomplished in this competition.

The team consisted of Captain Joe Thorndyke, who was attending for the third consecutive year; Robert Dunford, Allen Winslow, and Harold Howson. Contestants have to be under 18 years of age, and there were between sixty and seventy in attendance. The local team practices at the Armouries, and at the ranges shooting is in the open air, which is naturally somewhat of a handicap especially as two of the days were quite windy. Their instructor, Lieutenant B. B. Dawson, accompanied the boys, and the trip was through the courtesy of Mr. Walter Widdis who drove the party to Ottawa in his car.

In the "Extra Series" at 100 yards, Joe Thorndyke won first prize, and Allen Winslow third; in the "Extra Series" at 80 yards, Captain Thorndyke came second; and in the "Green Shot Match" R. Dunford won third place, and received a medal. The boys won 12 other prizes in various events, receiving badges, and in the Inter-Corps Team Match the Millbrook Team took seventh place; honors going to Joe Thorndyke, who made the highest score on the range, a total of 99 points.

Unfortunately Joe will be over age to enter the D.C.R.A. competition in the Cadet events another year.

SILVER SLIPPERS By Temple Bailey

CHAPTER 22

The week passed, and it was on Sunday that Giles decided on a trip to Portland. An old library was being sold, and there were books that he wanted.

He closed the shop. "What do I care for the loss of a few customers," he said to Scripps. On Monday he put up a sign. "Will return on Wednesday." He motored up the north shore in a trim little car. He felt that perhaps if he kept moving it would ease the pain in his heart.

It was on Monday, that a customer came to the shop and saw the sign—"Will return on Wednesday."

Joan read it again. It seemed incredible that he had gone, when she needed him so much.

For he was her friend. He had told her that. Perhaps if she had not felt sure of it she would not have gone away. The thought of him had given her courage. She had felt his commendation. She had indeed followed his advice. And now he was not here to know it.

She had burned all her bridges behind her. After that interview with Adelaide, she had risen from her bed and had packed her bag. She had put in a little trunk the things she wanted sent after. She had some money, and decided that she must take it. But some day she would pay it back.

She had bought her ticket and knew where she was going, and she had come to give Giles Armiger the address. There was no need any longer to shut him out of her life. If Drew followed her, she would make her own terms with him. He must trust her . . . there must be no more jealousy. Happiness was founded on perfect faith.

As she still stood at the window, looking in, she thought she saw someone in the back of the shop. She tapped on the glass, and tapped again. The man inside came to the door and opened it. He stood well back in the shadow. She knew at once it was Scripps.

"What do you want?" he asked.

"I want to leave an address for Mr. Armiger. I am going away." She said it boldly. He would of course think it was about books.

But Scripps knew it was not about books. His mind was whirling. This lovely thing in her gray coat and little violet hat was Joan Dudley. She was going away, and Giles loved her . . .! Inevitably he would follow!

And some day she would love him. It was ridiculous to think that she wouldn't. Perhaps she did already. And if she did, their world would crash —Scripps' and Amelie's. They wouldn't be wanted. As for himself, he could stand it. But Amelie? Condemned to poverty. To some public place of detention . . .! The thing was unspeakable!

He found himself saying slowly. "He is kept at home by illness."

"You mean," her breath was short, "that he is ill?"

He shook his head. "No. It's Amelie . . ."

"Amelie?"

"His wife."

The color went out of her cheeks. She waited a moment, then said: "Perhaps I'd better write—about the books. And will you tell him . . . I am sorry . . . that she's . . . ill . . .?"

She turned and walked away. Scripps looked after her until she was out of sight. Then he went down to old Peter and his shoes. And it was while his master worked on a pair of seaman's boots that old Peter heard a harsh sound in the silent room. "I'd do it again," Scripps was saying. "Nothing can hurt those two, as I have been hurt . . . and Amelie . . ."

The thing happened, Penelope Sears often said, like a miracle. On the third week in August a telegram came to the last of her paying guests, apprising them of the death of a relative. They packed and went at once. Penelope was left, therefore, high and dry in her great house on the bluff, with no one to keep her company. She cared little for that, however, and with characteristic energy decided to begin her fall housecleaning. She would strip the beds, take up the rugs, wash the curtains. The air was like wine, with the tang of autumn in it. She felt the uplift of it, as she went busily from room to room, the old cat, Muffet at her feet, and a dancing prancing quartet of kittens following after.

It was nearly noon, when coming to the east chamber, she saw the fog stealing in. "The wind has changed," she told herself, and watched the gray curtain blot out the sea and the sands, roll above the bluff, past the garden, and towards the house. The sun darkened and quite suddenly and unexpectedly she was aware of her loneliness, of the coming winter, of the deep snows which would shut her in, of the emptiness of her life . . . with all those gone who had once made this old house alive with happiness.

Muffet, the cat, leaped to the sill, to escape the mad rioting of her offspring. "Even old Muffet has something which belongs to her," was Penelope's envious thought, " and I have nothing . . ."

From downstairs came the chime of the hall clock, "I have nothing, I have nothing . . ." was the sound it made in Penelope's ears.

She wrenched herself away from her morbid mood. "It's striking 12, Muffet. Come on down and we'll have lunch—there's cold fish for you and the kittens."

The pussy cats made a royal meal of it, and licked their chops afterwards and washed their faces and slept in a rapturous heap in front of the kitchen stove. Penelope ate little, and when she had washed her few dishes, she still felt unbearably the emptiness of the house. She put on her sweater and went into the garden. The day was still dull with the grayness of the fog, all the world was heavy with wet, the bright colors of the flowers were blurred. There was a salt fragrance in the air and a stillness. Now and then from far away came the muffled sound of the fog horns, like the cries of strange beasts.

Penelope set herself sternly to the sweeping of dead leaves from the path. And it was while she swept that a car stopped at the gate.

She could see only the outline because of the mist. Few cars motored over the rough roads through the forest. From the snort of the engine, she decided it was the station taxi from the nearest town.

She went towards the gate, and met the rush of a slender figure which caught at her with eager hands, "Mrs. Sears . . ."

"Joan Dudley!"

"I'm running away from everybody. You told me I might come . . . May I stay with you a bit?"

"My dear child . . . you may stay forever."

In a moment Penelope's world changed! The fog was forgotten. Joan's breathless explanations, when they had dismissed the taxi, the almost aching charm of her in her gray coat and violet hat, the child-like confidence with which she crept into Penelope's arms and cried on her shoulder, came after the desolate morning, like balm to a wound.

They went finally into the warm kitchen, and Penelope made a cup of tea. "The chances are you haven't eaten a thing," she said, and set forth cake and cream cheese and bread and butter.

Joan protested, "I'm not hungry."

"You know you are. Run up to your old room and take off your coat, and by the time you come down the water will be boiling."

Upstairs, the fog was rolling against the shut windows. Joan stood very still, with pain knocking at her heart . . . Drew . . . Drew . . .! She wondered if she had been wise to come to this place with all its memories.

When she went downstairs, she told her story, with Penelope sitting on the other side of the kitchen table, sympathetic and understanding.

"I had to get away," Joan said, "you don't blame me, do you?"

"You should have come before."

"If they care for me," Joan said, "they won't let me go. And I couldn't keep my self-respect and live with Aunt Adelaide. Nancy Hallam told me I was as mercenary as any of them, I don't think that is true. I really love my aunt."

"And you think Mr. Hallam will follow you?"

"Oh, he must—if he cares."

Penelope's heart was shaken, "Dear lamb," she said, "how little you know of life."

Joan looked at her with troubled eyes, "Do you mean you think he won't?"

"I think you mustn't expect too much of him."

"But is it too much to have him want me for myself?"

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 25

According to the lunar and mutual aspects dominating the affairs of this day, the unusual, unexpected and sudden are still being precipitated in the run of daily doings. A radical change is imminent, with much commotion and excitement, which it were wiser to engineer into calmer grooves, as loss menaces with rash, imcetuous, quarrelsome or speculative deals and indulgences. It would be well to be on guard in negotiations with mergers, rings or secret organizations, since there is hint of treachery or double dealing. Keen mentality should operate favorably.

Abrupt Changes

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the unusual, abrupt and unexpected, with change, travel, new associations and interests of importance calling for wise decisions. The mind will be found keen, shrewd, and adventurous, with an element of the original and independent actuating affairs. But deal shrewdly and warily with corporations, mergers and secret societies. Shun speculation.

A child born on this day should be talented, adventurous, original and independent and may have a spectacular career. It should shun gambling and speculation.

Trent River Mecca For Visiting Anglers

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—A fine big maskinonge, tipping the scales at 20 pounds, was hooked Monday morning by Enck Shafer, of Holliday's Cove, West Virginia, guest at the Sedgwick House.

The length of the fish measured 43 inches; girth, 12 inches. Bait used was a silver pikey. The "muskie" was caught near the southern end of McCulloch's Island in the main channel. Mr. Shafer, in company with Dr. Z. W. Wyatt, of Weirton, W. Va., and A. R. Neiderheiser, of Holliday's Cove, W. Va., all guests at the Sedgwick House for one week, and in that time have caught 10 maskinonge and several fine pickerel.

Notables From Five Nations To Gather In Eastern Provinces To Celebrate 400th Anniversary Of Landing Of Jacques Cartier, "Discoverer Of Canada"

Four hundred years ago, Jacques Cartier, intrepid French explorer, sailed across the Atlantic in search of a passage to the east. Instead, he found Canada. This year, in many parts of eastern Canada, celebrations will be held during the latter part of this month, and, in September, from Niagara Falls to Prince Edward Island, commemorating the deeds of this great explorer. Here is an artist's conception of the landing of Cartier at Perce in the Gaspe peninsula during his first voyage.

Montreal, as well as other cities and towns in eastern Canada from Charlottetown to the Gaspe, to Quebec, will this month celebrate the voyage up the St. Lawrence and the founding of Mount Royal (Montreal) by the St. Malor sailor, Jacques Cartier. It was four hundred years ago that Cartier made his voyage. Here is an artist's drawing of Cartier and the Indians landing at the Indian village of Hochelaga, near the site of what was to become the largest metropolis in Canada.

Halogens is the name given to the four nonmetallic elements—fluorine, chlorine, bromine and iodine.

"EMPEROR OF GERMANY" IS NEW AMBITION OF CHANCELLOR HITLER

Plans to Set Himself on Throne by Grace of Popular Will of People.

IS WAR MOVE

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—Adolf Hitler, erstwhile Munich house-painter, has the intention of proclaiming himself kaiser in the near future. This plan has ripened so far that the title has already been decided upon. Herr Hitler will not be German emperor, as the Hohenzollerns were, but emperor of the Germans, Kaiser de Deutschen. In well-informed circles here in Vienna, who stand in direct communication with Berlin, I was informed, that the plan is no longer a secret, and that Herr Hitler is only waiting for the appropriate moment to carry out his plan, which ex-Kaiser Wilhelm has dreaded right along, as I stated in a dispatch from Holland several months ago.

On January 30, 1933, the day when Hitler was appointed chancellor by President Hindenburg, Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief editor of the Voelkische Beobachater, wrote: "Today the Fuehrer has covered the first stretch of the road that leads to the palace."

Voting Will Be Censored

These words, which sounded mysteriously a year and a half ago, assume new significance now that Hitler has clothed himself with a well-nigh almighty power, such as never even Napoleon possessed. This seizure of supreme power upon Hindenburg's death was ratified by a plebiscite, the outcome of which was doubtful to nobody.

Hitler has the ambition to be a "Volkskaiser", my informants declared, that is an emperor by grace of the popular will and not by divine right as the Hohenzollerns. The popular will could not fail him, considering the manner in which the plebiscite was prepared. Votes by well-known Marxists or Liberals were simply not counted. The imperial proclamation will not be long delayed, my informants believed, since the plebiscite shows strong approval of Hitler's assumption of the presidential power. That the Fuehrer refused the title of president, saying that it should be allowed to die with Hindenburg, is taken as an additional indication that Hitler plans a bigger honor for himself.

Sceptical as I was upon learning this news, which I first thought to be a mere canard, I received more convincing proof when I learned authentically that feelers have been thrown out from Berlin in Austria in an effort to learn what reception "Kaiser" Adolf will have among the leaders of the Heimwehren association in Vienna.

Appeal to Austrians

The persistent rumors that Otto von Hapsburg is negotiating directly with the Austrian government about a restoration of the monarchy and that he and his mother, the ex-Empress Zita, are to have a conference with Chancellor Schuschnigg in Italy, under the aegis of Signor Mussolini, all this has seriously alarmed Herr Hitler and his advisers. For once a Hapsburg is back on the throne in Vienna, the chance of a union between Germany and Austria will greatly diminish. By proclaiming himself emperor of the Germans and not emperor of Germany, Hitler expects to make a strong appeal to the Austrians, who are full-blooded Germans, although they are not living within the confines of the present German empire. In other words, Hitler intends to steal a march on the Hapsburgs and on Mussolini.

According to the same reliable sources, Hitler has been urged to assume imperial power by General von Blomberg, the minister of war. By elevating himself to the position of kaiser, Hitler would rise above the internecine intrigues of the various cliques and clans in the Reich, it was argued and become a symbol of national union. The position and role of His Brittanic Majesty, who stands above parties, and who is often referred to as the link which binds the various parts of the empire together, served as a model of emulation in the discussions of the Nazi chiefs and the military authorities.

Hohenzollerns Not Wanted

A timid suggestion by General von Fritsch that if the monarchy is to be restored Wilhelm II. might be recalled, was abruptly dismissed by Goering. Goering argued that none of the former reigning families in Germany was eligible, as they were too heavily loaded with the past. A new man was required who had no traditions to uphold.

I learn further that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm in Doorn is fully informed of the projected Nazi coup. He is resigned to the idea that he himself will never ascend the throne of Frederick the Great again, but he fears that if Hitler carries out his plan, he will so compromise and degrade the imperial dignity, that the monarchial sentiment will be forever killed in Germany.

The disastrous economic situation of the Reich, which is not showing the slightest improvement, but which is to the contrary constantly getting worse, requires ultra-heroic measures. All observers are agreed on this. The gravest fears are held out for next winter. Within four months Germany will have no cash available to purchase raw materials. The gold coverage in the Reichsbank has further dipped, and now stands at 2.1 per cent. Hitler declares that German chemistry will prevent an actual famine, but more objective onlookers are not so optimistic. Grave moments unquestionably lie ahead, unless Hitler can secure a big loan somewhere.

Moving Toward War

The imperial proclamation, which will be accompanied by colossal celebrations all over the Reich, is to divert attention once more from the disastrous condition of the German people. Hitler as emperor and savior is to buoy their hope once more. Spectacular events at home have alternated with risky adventures abroad in the Hitlerites' program all through the last eighteen months. Now Hitler is about to stage a new diversion. The next after that, the great and last diversion, which cannot be delayed for long, is war. The evolution of Nazi politics moves inexorably towards that dreadful culmination.

Fishermen of north Jutland in Denmark are to release homing pigeons for practice flights in exchange for the privilege of sending by the birds news of the fishing fleet's catches.

TWISTED DEBRIS INCREASES FEAR FOR LOST FLIERS

Aviators Press Search Inland Hoping Pals May be With Indians.

SEARCH PARTY OVERDUE.

All Groups Victims of Terrific Storm That Raged Week.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (CP)—Bill May, pilot of the Northwest Aero Marine Company and missing with three companions in a boat searching for lost fliers, were located today in the Lake Winnipeg region 100 northwest of here.

POPLAR POINT, Man., Aug. 25.— (CP) —Pieces of water-soaked aeroplane fabric today spurred on anxious searchers who feared for the safety of George Mackie and Leonard Blackwell, missing northwest aero marine flyers.

Wreckage of their 'plane, its twisted fuselage broken on the rocky shore-line of Lake Winnipeg, near here, brought fear the two who set out from Winnipeg eight days ago with repairs for a grounded mate had run afoul of an angry lake storm.

The fear was heightened by discovery of the body of an unidentified man on the east lake shore, one mile south of here. The body was believed to be that of Harry Sigurdson, 36, missing from his home at Fine Falls, Man., for the past 10 days.

Meanwhile no trace had been found of Pilot Bill May and three companions who assayed a lake crossing in a motor-boat with repairs for the damaged plane of Charles Scarr. Scarr was flown out from Black River, 25 miles south of here by a rescue plane, Thursday night.

Frantic signalling of Indian fishermen led Pilot Travers to the broken wreckage of Mackie's 'plane Friday afternoon. The machine lay in three feet of water. Its engine, propellor and pontoons were missing and its wings twisted corkscrew fashion. It appeared to have been hurled ashore by a mad storm and

CROSS-PETITION FOR LANCASTER

Three Peterborough Conservatives Allege Corrupt Practices by Liberals.

FYLED ON FRIDAY.

Three Conservative electors of this riding have fyled a counter-petition under the Controverted Elections Act alleging corrupt practices by James Hawthrone and his agents in the recent provincial elections in which T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., was returned as member of the Legislature for Peterboro.

Acting in behalf of James Juby, Ernest S. Mitchell and Joseph E. Gregson, the petitioners, J. F. Strickland, K. C., deposited yesterday with George J. Sherry, local registrar of the Supreme Court of Ontario, the cross-petition which is based on virtually identical grounds with the allegations cited in the protest fyled in behalf of Mr. Hawthorne on August 3 alleging that Mr. Lancaster was not duly and properly elected. The charges mention alleged bribery, undue influence, meals to voters, hiring of vehicles and other practices included in the general category of corruption.

The Liberal petition asks that the election of Mr. Lancaster be declared void, and that he be disqualified from sitting and voting in the Legislative Assembly. The three Conservative electors who have initiated the cross-petition against the return of Mr. Hawthorne as representative of the riding set forth the alleged illegal practices by the Liberal condidate and his agents and claim the Peterborough seat for Mr. Lancaster

FIRE AND RIOT SWEEP PRISON AT GRATERFORD

Patrolmen, Special Police Are Rushed to Buildings Near Philadelphia.

ALL ROADS BLOCKED.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25. —(A. P). — A fire and riot at the Eastern Penitentiary at Graterford was reported to police to-day.

A call for aid was sent to the state police at Harrisburg. State Highway Patrolmen said "There's a riot and that's all we know. We are going up there now."

The trouble broke out some time after 11 a.m.

The penitentiary is in Philadelphia. It was said that a number of guards and a doctor were rushed to Graterford, which is known as the "farm" of the Eastern Penitentiary.

Ten automobiles filled with state policemen were dispatched from Harrisburg.

Graterford is situated in the centre of a large farming area and latest available records show that 1,500 prisoners are confined there.

No Details

A man telephone operator at the institution flatly refused to divluge the nature of the trouble and refused to let reporters talk with an office. They are " in conference," he said.

While newsmen were enroute to the scene, the Penitentiary farm refused to say whether the outbreak had been quelled. The warden "can't be disturbed—orders," a reporter was informed.

State police and highway patrolmen blocked roads leading to Graterford, making their stands about a mile away. Only officers were allowed through the lines. Although unusually large volumes of smoke were seen issuing from the penitentiary, it was apparent no fire apparatus from nearby towns responded.

Chapleau Wet Rule Puzzling Hotelmen

CHAPLEAU, Ont., Aug. 25 (C.P.). —Hotel men here to-day said they were puzzled whether they will be allowed to sell anything stronger than 4.4 beer even if a plebiscite to be held October 10 results in a vote for public sale of beer and wine.

The reason for their doubts, the hotel men said, was that Chapleau was built on a Canadian Pacific Railway grant on condition that if liquor was sold in the town ownership would revert to the railway. The town is a railway divisional point.

Some pointed out the railway had made no objection to holding of the plebiscite although the restriction against sale of liquor applies to every building in town. This led to the belief the railway would not enforce its restriction.

Chapleau went dry in a local-option plebiscite in January, 1916. The dry law became operative in May of that year. First break in the drought came in 1928 when residents voted for establishment of a government liquor store. The vote was 415-116.

This month the Town Council received a petition signed by 400 persons, asking for the plebiscite. Number of persons entitled to vote is 1,200.

OTTAWA. — Dr. Richard Upjohn Light, Yale University professor and Robert French Wilson of New Rochelle, N.Y., will not take off from Cartwright, Nfld., to-day, the radio branch of the Marine Department was advised to-day by the Hudson Bay ice patrol boat, N. B. McLean. Unfavorable weather will hold them on the ground, preventing a take-off for Greenland on what may be a round-the-world flight.

HITLER INVADES SAAR IN DRIVE TO SWING VOTE

Over 200 Special Trains Roll Through Germany Towards the Rhine.

LOYALTY DISPLAY.

Reich's Ponderous Propaganda Machine Turns Forces Into Region.

Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—(AP)— More than 200 special trains rolled through Germany toward the Rhine today for a great mobilization of loyalty to the Saar territory tomorrow.

This section, immensely wealthy in natural resources, votes Jan. 1, 1935, whether to return to German sovereignty, remain under the mandate of the League of Nations, or be attached to France.

The mobilization recalls the celebration of the evacuation of the Rhineland four years ago, but this time it is on an infinitely bigger scale. Chancellor Hitler will speak.

Celebrations in 1930 hailed the departure of the last French troops from Rhineland cities. Tomorrow's loyalty demonstration is designed to foreshadow the march of German sovereignty into the Saar.

The Reich's ponderous propaganda machinery, which just a week ago overwhelmed the nation with suggestions, admonitions and commands to vote "Yes" is hurling its whole weight into the task of concentrating the nation's emotion on the Saar.

Millions who voted then in support of Hitler's assumption of presidential powers will tomorrow think and feel the Saar. Literally hundreds of thousands of them are traveling in the general direction of the disputed section, by train, steamboat, automobile, bicycle and afoot.

SMITH'S CANOE BEING RETURNED

Canadian National Railways Bring Back "Pride of Peterborough" to City.

BODY NOT RECOVERED.

At the request of Earl Smith, brother of the ill-fated trans-Atlantic canoeist, John Smith, arrangements to bring back to Peterborough the abandoned canoe "Pride of Peterborough" found on the coast of Newfoundland this week are being made by the Canadian National Railways.

The battered, canvas - covered craft is being held at River of Ponds, a small isolated settlement on the west coast of the island pending instructions for its disposal. Unable to ascertain the exact location of River of Ponds or discover if the Newfoundland railway touches the point, C.N.R. officials here have put the matter in the hands of their agents in St John's, Newfoundland. The canoe will likely be brought across Newfoundland to St. John's, shipped by steamer to Halifax and thence by rail to this city.

Badly Battered

Informed that the cost of bringing the craft back will probably be very close to its actual value, Earl Smith intimated that sentimental motives are behind the move. It is understood that the red canoe with its name proudly emblazoned on its bows is considerably the worse for wear after its rough passage down the St. Lawrence and out the Gulf.

The canoe is thought to have drifted awash for many days in the waters of the Gulf before it was cast ashore at Point la Fontaine. That any of his equipment will ever be found is improbable.

Hope that Smith will be found alive is definitely gone although his body has not yet been found. Fishermen in the area, believing that he was drowned within a day after his departure from Gaspe on July 21, are convinced that the body will never be located.

Toynbee Hall, in England, was the first social settlement in the world, founded in 1884 by Canon Samuel A. Barnett.

1,245 Feet Above Street Level

Thousands of people looking up at the Empire State building were "on edge" when they saw this little stunt in progress 102 stories above the street level. They couldn't have been any more on edge than this acrobatic trio. On the thin rim of the parapet they are performing an intricate and dangerous combination handstand. The skyscrapers of midtown New York furnish the background. Incidentally this is believed to have been the highest (1,245 feet) point from which this stunt has been performed. The acrobats are Jarley Smith and, holding him, Jewell Waddek and Jimmy Kerrigan.

THREE MAKE DATES WITH DEATH BUT ONLY TWO KEEP RENDEZVOUS

FUTURE FOR SAULT.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 25.—(C.P.)—A vision of Sault Ste. Marie as the "Pittsburgh of Canada" and a day when the major part of the nation's population will live in the north and be engaged in mining development and operation was given here in an address by Judge Uriah McFadden of Kent county before the Kiwanis club.

Canada's great need, the Judge said, was a greater population.

Poison Climaxes Beer Garden Night for One—Leap Off Ferry Takes Second.

ANOTHER'S JUMP FAILS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP).—Three women had appointments last night with death. Two kept the rendezvous. The third—most eager of all to die—failed.

The women:

Mrs. Ruth Hoag, 28, who "had a few beers."

Mrs. Mary Connelly, 26, who toasted death in poison.

Marie Basse, 59, no home, no friends, no funds, and "nothing to live for."

The First

Mrs. Hoag was aboard the ferryboat Dongan Hills, running between the Battery and St. George, Staten Island. She had gone aboard with her husband to escape the night's heat. They had a few beers and were leaning over the rail. Suddenly she pulled away and leaped overboard.

She had no reason to want to die. It was an impulse. The water looked so cool, perhaps; and she had "had a few beers."

The Second

Mary Connelly sat in Minelly's Beer Garden, held her glass high, and toasted death.

"To-night I'm going to kill myself," she cried, but she would not say why.

Others in the garden sought to cheer her. Soon she walked out.

NEW BREWERY KEPT SECRET

50 Acres of Building Outside London Mystery for Six Months.

ESCAPE IRISH TAX.

LONDON, Aug. 25 (C.P.).—One of the best-kept commercial secrets of recent times has been the intention of the famous Dublin firm of Guinness, brewers of stout, to establish a second mammoth brewery in London.

For nearly six months huge buildings of steel and concrete have been rising at Park Royal, an extreme northern suburb of the Metropolis, railway sidings have been constructed, and yet there was complete ignorance on the part of the public of the nature of this project until the Earl of Iveagh, chairman of Guinness, revealed the company's plans at the annual meeting.

The Dublin brewery is believed to be the largest in the world. The new London brewery will cover 50 acres, and in addition there is to be a model village for workmen, which will contain about 1,500 workers' homes.

This new enterprise has naturally aroused the liveliest interest in Dublin. Apprehensions that the 5,000 Guinness workers in the Irish capital will be unfavorably affected are said to be groundless. In transferring a portion of their business to England, however, the company will save a large sum—

Missing Boy Found Asleep In His Bed

TORONTO, Aug. 25. — (CP) — Joseph Falconer, seven, who ran away from home because he was spanked for getting his clothes wet in a swimming pool, returned home early today while his distraught parents searched for him.

They found him in bed when they returned, worn out by two days and nights of constant search. Joseph had climbed in a window and crept to bed, afraid of another spanking.

He said he had slept Thursday night at the home of his grandmother.

MUNICIPALITIES RELIEF HEYDAY OVER SAYS CROLL

All Must Face Concrete Facts —and Pay Their Share.

IN FORCE FIRST OF YEAR.

Arrangements Available for Those in Serious Financial Difficulties.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 25. —(CP)—"The honeymoon is over; they have got to start facing real concrete facts."

This was the response of Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Municipal Affairs and Public Welfare, today when asked to elaborate on his edict that no longer will the Ontario government pay the full relief costs of municipalities in financial difficulties.

Mr. Croll stated this will apply to all parts of Ontario, save the unorganized territories where the government will still continue to bear the full burden. He expressed the opinion that there are many municipalities well able to pay their share but at present not contributing a cent for this purpose. He placed Windsor in this category.

The new policy will not go into effect until the beginning of next year, at least, the Minister said. He explained it will be necessary to give the municipalities ample time to make provision for rthese expenditures in their estimates.

Mr. Croll frankly admitted he expects there wil lbe a storm of protest fro mmany sections of the province. He intimated that an examination of their bank balances would show clearly that the province is not justified in carrying the whole load.

Aid Available.

Municipalities that are really in serious financial difficulties can seek the assistance of the Department of Municipal Affairs in finding a solution to their problems, the Minister said, pointing out that arrangements can be made fo rrefinancing their share of the cost.

The welfare of its people must be regarded as the first charge upon the municipality, Mr. Croll asserted. This policy, he said, will be

Make Latin Optional High School Course

TORONTO, Aug. 25—(CP)—Hon. J. L. Simpson, Ontario Minister of Education, said today he had before him a new educational plan for this province that may result in making optional the study in high schools of latin, geometry and trigonometry.

The plan, he said, contains provisions to emphasize the study of arithmetic. Idea behind the plan is to provide more vocational training.

Dr. Simpson said the plan would be studied for several months and will not be made effective before September, 1935.

EACH INDUSTRY WILL HAVE OWN MINIMUM RULE

Replaced Regulations Will Apply to Men as Well as Women.

REGARDLESS OF AGE.

Province to be Split Into Zones —Employers, Workers to Set Hours, Wages.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(CP) — The present Ontario Minimum Wage Law will be abolished and will be replaced by a minimum wage schedule for each individual industry, James W. Marsh, Ontario Deputy Minister of Labor, announced today. The new law will apply to men as well as women regardless of age, he said.

Ontario will be divided into zones for various industries, Mr. Marsh intimated, and within those zones conferences of employers and employees will determine the minimum wages, maximum hours and working conditions in each industry.

Attendance at "Ex"

The drizzle of rain yesterday morning and afternoon cut down the admissions at the gate and grandstand. Although very few were at the exhibition in the afternoon and the wet condition of the track made necessary the postponement of the day's racing, still a large crowd turned out in the evening.

However, the Exhibition Board was hoping that yesterday would have sent the attendance figures above last year. The bad weather prevented this. It is hoped that the attendance to-day would skyrocket this year above last year in paid admissions.

REPRIMANDED PASSENGER SLAYS TROLLEY OPERATOR

BUFFALO, Aug. 25. (AP).—Robert Johnston, Sr., veteran trolley operator, was found slain to-day, his skull crushed because, police believe, he reprimanded his assailant for insulting a woman passenger.

Johnston, married and father of two children, was battered to death in the view of several passengers. His body was found lying between the two front wheels of the car in an outlying section of the city near Lackawanna.

The assailant, police said, escaped two men attracted to the argument. He was stoutly built and wielded an "iron bar" they said. The iron bar, authorities believe, probably was the control lever from the trolley. This is missing, and police were in search of it to-day.

Nothumberland Liberals Nominate W. A. Fraser, M.P.

LIBERAL PARTY IS RE-ORGANIZED OFFICERS NAMED

FORM LADIES' BODY.

Short Addresses Delivered By H. N. Carr, M.P.P. and J. J. Duffus.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 25.—William A. Fraser, M.P., Trenton, received unanimous nomination as the candidate of the Liberals of Northumberland county in the next federal elections at their annual meeting here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Fraser was proposed by Ira Solomon of Brighton, seconded by Frank Hart of Colborne, and in an outburst of enthusiasm and acclaim the convention immediately declared the nominations closed.

The town hall was crowded to the doors with men and women from all parts of the riding, who remained until six o'clock adopting a new constitution, electing officers and organizing a new and separate Liberal Women's Association with complete autonomy and with an executive framework similar to the Men's Association. As a result of the special business of the afternoon there was little time left for political speeches, short addresses by Harold N. Carr, M.L.A., Campbellford, J. J. Duffus, Peterborough, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, and Mr. Fraser being sandwiched into the nomination periods.

New President Elected.

Joseph Dixon of Warkworth was elected president of the Liberal Men's Association, succeeding J. Frank Wilson of Colborne; Archie Cochrane of Cobourg was elected vice-president, and Ross Douglas of Campbellford was returned as secretary-treasurer.

The Liberal women of the riding chose Miss Madeline M. Rooney of Cobourg as their first president and Mrs. Sam Dudley of Colborne as vice-president and Mrs. Neil Morrison of Campbellford as secretary-treasurer.

According to the new constitution the members of the two executives are to be elected by September 25 from the constituent township and town divisions of the riding.

Mr. Dixon was elected president of the Men's Association in an elimination contest with J. F. Wilson and Fred Slade of Fenella former vice-president.

Others who were proposed for the presidency were George Taylor of Cobourg and Walter Wiggins of

SEEK HIDEOUT OF SLAIN BANDIT

Woman Who Led Van Meter to Death Believed to Have Given Valuable Tips.

LETTERS ALSO AID.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Police pressed their search for the hideout of Homer Van Meter, slain Dillinger gangster, to-day in the hope it would lead them to George 'Baby Face' Nelson, new public enemy No. 1.

They also continue to question the woman companion of Van Meter, whose friendship with him led to his death at the hands of police Thursday night.

Statements made yesterday by the woman, Opal Melliga, known also as Opal Mulligan, St. Paul waitress, sent Chief of Police Frank Cullen and Detective Thos. Brown, who killed Van Meter, on two secret missions.

While the persistent questioning of the woman apparently had failed to reveal details of Van Meter's recent life, Chief Cullen said letters and papers found on the body were regarded as important clues.

Van Meter's body was borne from St. Paul late Friday in a motor hearse, en route to Fort Wayne, Ind., his childhood home, where relatives said he would be buried probably late to-day.

The police said they believe John Hamilton, another member of the Dillinger mob, is dead.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDERS ISSUED AMONG TEXTILES

Will Hit 600,000 in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, N. Jersey, N. Carolina.

SHOOTINGS OCCUR.

Plumbing Factory Denies Labor Charges it is Training Private Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (CP).—Strike leaders of United States spread out along the Atlantic seaboard to-day to issue instructions for the approaching cotton textile walkout, while the "supreme court" of labor disputes here sought to preserve peace.

Representatives of the United Textile Workers of America met for orders in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey and North Carolina. They saw the strike will involve 600,000 employees. Cotton textile workers, 300,000 in numbers, are to be called out within a week.

The United States Labor relations board took up the role of peacemaker after the strike committee had bluntly declined the "good offices" of the cotton textile industrial relations board.

Silk dyers in Paterson and East Paterson, N.J., struck in sympathy with workers who walked out at Williamsport, Pa.

Deny Private Army

Sharp denial met union labor's charge that the Kohler Company is training a well equipped "private army of 600 at its plumbing supply factory in Kohler, Wis. former Governor Walter J. Kohler, head of the company, and the village president disputed the statement, made in a telegram warning President Roosevelt that "civil war" impended.

William Brune, labor organizer at Orlando, Fla., leaped to safety while bullets spattered the doorway of his home last night. He laid the assault to "an Orlando element who oppress labor."

Strike clashes kept Milwaukee police on the jump. Federal emergency relief administration pickets checked work at four projects and demonstrators in the baking trade dispute overturned two delivery trucks. The federal strike spread northward into Ozaukee County.

The National Council of Aluminum Workers quickly accepted an invitation to meet labor department officials in Washington in an effort to end the aluminum strike. No statement had come from the Aluminum Company of America, at Pittsburgh.

Turn Inland

Flight Lieut. David Harding, R.C.A.F., joined three other 'planes to-day in pressing a search inland. Indian and Icelandic fishing camps will be visited in the hope the flyers may have landed and sought shelter from a storm that has raged for more than a week.

Parts of the 'plane that remained were carefully examined to-day. Inspection revealed nothing that would suggest either Mackie or Blackwell were injured in a crash that tossed their machine where it was found by searchers.

Indian fishermen were recruited to press a vigorous search for May and his companion. A careful hunt of all secluded coves that honeycomb the lake shore was planned in the hope their 35-foot motor launch may have outridden the storm and found shelter.

The storm had subsided to-day but evidence of its terrific force was seen everywhere. Huge trees were snapped off at the roots and lake waters driven inland. Poplar Point appeared to be the converging point of two storms, one coming up the coast from the south and the other sweeping in from the northwest.

Direct Descendant Laura Secord, Killed

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (C.P.). — A direct descendant of Laura Secord, heroine of the war of 1812, John Secord, K.C., Regina lawyer, was killed in an automobile accident near Portage La Prairie, Man., according to word received here.

Mr. Secord's car hit loose gravel when he attempted to pass a second machine and turned over.

Of a prominent family of United Empire Loyalist traditions, Mr. Secord was born in Tilsonburg, Ont., April 12, 1878, the son of John Secord, Q.C. His father went to Regina in 1883 and became one of the first practising lawyers in the new prairie town. He later became a member of the territorial legislature and a member of the North-West Territories Executive Council. He also served as town clerk for the Regina Council.

Surviving the younger John are his widow, two sons, John and William, and two daughters, Mrs. James Hind and Mrs. Jack Cara, both of Regina.

Recently he has been active in President Roosevelt's "New Deal" campaigns while his daughter spent months seeking his whereabouts.

RAIL VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED TORONTO MAN

LOOKING FOR WORK.

Believed to Have Lost Footing and Fallen From Fast Moving Train Near Hastings.

HASTINGS, Aug. 25. (Examiner Correspondence).—The body found along the C.N.R. tracks on Thursday afternoon was identified on Friday night as Sydney Shergold, aged 37, a carpenter, of 8 Moreland avenue, Toronto.

Being unemployed and the building trade quiet in Toronto, Mr. Shergold left home on Wednesday morning to try his luck in Belleville first and then Peterborough.

A man whose thoughts were always of his home and family, it was his custom to always 'phone home or get word to his wife somehow to let her know where he was. When no 'phone message or word came by Thursday night Mrs. Shergold became alarmed and in company with four of the children and a life long friend of the dead man, B. Beman, she motored to Belleville. After a fruitless search there she drove to Peterborough. On arrival there Mr. Beman on looking around, heard rumors of an accident story in The Examiner. He immediately secured a copy and the shocking news was the first thing he saw.

The name B. Beman which was on the inside pocket, made the anxious searchers sure that Mr. Shergold had been the victim of an accident. Mr. Beman a had given him the suit a short time ago.

Coming to Peterborough

Judging from what information The Examiner could obtain, Mr. Shergold got to Belleville and after an unsuccessful attempt to find employment there to try Peterborough.

In order to make his money hang out as long as possible it is thought he hopped a freight at Belleville sometime Wednesday night, and not being accustomed to riding the bumpers, he fell off and received the fatal injuries.

The late Mr. Shergold leaves a widow and six small children, two of whom only left on Friday morning for a fresh air camp. He was the only son of Major and Mrs. Shergold of Long Branch. He served for four years in the Great War.

A coroner's jury under Dr. C. C. Armstrong of Warkworth was empanelled on Friday afternoon. The jury: Dr. J. H. Hess foreman, L. E. Kelley, P. Barry, Wm. Wellman, J. F. McCarthy, S. Watherly, W. R. Learmonth, T. A. Walsh.

Fire In London's Famous Crockford Club Fails To Ruffle Hard Bitten Card Players

LONDON, Aug. 25 (A.P.). — Fire broke out early to-day in Crockford's Club, London't famous card-playing centre, but it takes more than a fire to stop British card-players.

The conflagration started in the club's restaurant and spread so rapidly that some of the resident members who had gone to bed had to scamper outdoors in their night clothes.

Many of the players, however, were too much engrossed in their games to do any hasty moving. Some carried their cards out with them, and at least one set of players, ignoring the general excitement, finished their interrupted game out in the street.

Firemen had the blaze under control, and most of the premises which are located in the aristocratic Carlton House terrace, were unharmed.

June 17, 1927, kicked into unconsciousness; October 12, 1928, kicked out of bed; February 19, 1930, face disfigured with hot poker; February 18, 1930, threatened with death by shooting; March 21, 1930, disfigured by finger nail polish; March 22, 1930, forced to leave."

GALT EXPLAINS PROTEST TO SHARING RELIEF COST

Not Fair When City Manages Own Expenditures By Voluntary Donations.

GALT, Ont., Aug. 25.—(C.P.)—In connection with the Galt Welfare Board's interview with Hon. David Croll in which the minister stated that in future all municipalities would be treated alike and those in financial difficulties would have to pay their share of their own relief, the same as others, more information about the interview was given out here to-day by Welfare Board members.

The Galt argument was that a municipality like Galt which raised all its relief expenditures by voluntary subscriptions for three years should not in fairness be called on to pay in the form of provincial taxes any part of the relief of the municipalities for which the province was assuming the whole burden.

The Galt people asked why in many of the embarrassed municipalities the citizens themselves did not raise a voluntary fund as Galt had done to pay the municipality's share of relief. They contended that there were in Windsor, Niagara Falls and in the townships surrounding Toronto just as many well-to-do people and others who could help voluntary relief funds as there are in Galt. However as long as the government would pay the full shot for relief, Galt people felt that the people of the municipalities in question would not consider raising a relief fund to help themselves.

LIBERTY LEAGUE CONFLICT NEAR

President Roosevelt Implies Property is God of the New Group.

DOESN'T GO FAR ENOUH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—President Roosevelt's faint praise of the American Liberty League—with biblical reservations — may hasten an answer to the question: "Are the new deal and the league in for a knock-down, dragout scrap?"

The president left no doubt how he views the new non-partisan United States organization, in implying late yesterday that property is its god as against the emphasis he places upon human rights.

President Jouett Shouse of the League, now on Cape Cod, has insisted repeatedly that it aims not to hamstring the administration but to help.

That he soon will amplify this position, in the light of shortcomings the White House attributed to the League, is expected.

The Roosevelt position is that the League is a fine thing, so far as it goes; but it falls some 9-10 short.

The president painstakingly — and not without flashes of smiling irony—developed his thesis that the League's announced purposes cover only a part of the 10 commandments.

He read these purposes slowly to the 150 or so reporters present:—"To teach the necessity of respect for the rights of persons and property" and "to teach the duty of the government to protect individual and group initiative."

An organization should go the whole hog, he said, not just pick out "Love thy God" and "Love thy Neighbor."

With that, he gayly remarked that a humorous friend had defined the league commandments as "love thy God (property being God in this case)" and "Ignore thy Neighbor."

COLD WAVE HITS MID WEST AREA

FROST, SNOW IN PARTS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—They stoked the furnaces in the mid-continent last night against what some of the old settlers predicted would be an early and severe winter.

Unusual cold descended suddenly in sections which only recently had been besieged by protracted heat waves. Fires were kindled in many homes and a few office buildings. Frost whitened fields in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Iowa. Snow flurries, reported at Billings, Montana, grounded a plane at Big Timber.

C. A. Donnel, Government Meterologist at Chicago, respectfully declined to side with the Prairie prophets, who claimed to have detected signs of a long winter. There was no scientific method, he said, of making a long-range prediction. He stated the early visitation of the cool spell was extraordinary. The forecaster predicted low temperatures would be routed shortly in the North Central States, but the possibilities of overnight light frost existed for lower Michigan, Wisconsin, North Central Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Thoughts turned to top-coats as these minimums were established yesterday: North Dakota, 38; Minnesota, 34; Yellowstone Park, 36; Iowa, 36, and Wisconsin, 37.

Diesel engines are being used in cars which will compete in a test run from Moscow, Russia, to Tiflis and return.

MEXICAN RADIO STARS WEAKEN

Claim Record for Group Hunger Strike, But Stick to Guns.

PART BACK PAY OFFERED.

MEXICO, D.F., Aug. 25 (AP) — A physician announced over the air from Mexico's radio hunger strike station to-day that a majority of the strikers were "prostrated" and showing symptoms of weakened hearts and general nervousness.

The diagnosis of the physician, attached to a Red Cross tent set up outside the emergency station, came just after the employees claimed two records as they entered their fourth foodless and sleepless day.

This morning the artists, announcers, electricians and mechanics had been broadcasting nearly 100 hours and had been without food and sleep for 97 hours. This, they said, was a record for a group hunger strike.

A cheque, understood to be for 4,000 pesos (approximately $1,800), was furnished by the Pan American Radio Company for payment of part of the back salaries for which the workers are striking. The company was reported to have offered to pay the balance of approximately 9,000 pesos within eight days—but the strike went on.

FIRST WESTERN WHEAT PROVES OF HIGH GRADE

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (C.P.). — A high protein content and a large percentage of high grade wheat is contained in early arrivals of the 1934 crop of Western Canada returns of the grain inspection department and the laboratory of the board of grain commissioners for Canada, showed to-day.

In the reports from both sources, it is pointed out receipts are mostly from the southern sections of the western provinces and results obtained apply only to a small part of the crop. As more wheat is inspected these results may vary upward or downward.

Inspection returns show that in the first 300 cars of red spring wheat inspected, two-thirds graded No. 1 hard or No. 1 northern, the former totalling 86 cars and No. 1 northern 152 cars. Only eight cars of No. 3 Northern appeared in the first 300 and only one of No. 4 Northern. The balance was tough and smutty wheat.

Nothumberland Liberals Nominate W. A. Fraser, M.P.

LIBERAL PARTY IS RE-ORGANIZED OFFICERS NAMED

FORM LADIES' BODY.

Short Addresses Delivered By H. N. Carr, M.P.P. and J. J. Duffus.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 25.—William A. Fraser, M.P., Trenton, received unanimous nomination as the candidate of the Liberals of Northumberland county in the next federal elections at their annual meeting here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Fraser was proposed by Ira Solomon of Brighton, seconded by Frank Hart of Colborne, and in an outburst of enthusiasm and acclaim the convention immediately declared the nominations closed.

The town hall was crowded to the doors with men and women from all parts of the riding, who remained until six o'clock adopting a new constitution, electing officers and organizing a new and separate Liberal Women's Association with complete autonomy and with an executive framework similar to the Men's Association. As a result of the special business of the afternoon there was little time left for political speeches, short addresses by Harold N. Carr, M.L.A., Campbellford, J. J. Duffus, Peterborough, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, and Mr. Fraser being sandwiched into the nomination periods.

New President Elected.

Joseph Dixon of Warkworth was elected president of the Liberal Men's Association, succeeding J. Frank Wilson of Colborne; Archie Cochrane of Cobourg was elected vice-president, and Ross Douglas of Campbellford was returned as secretary-treasurer.

The Liberal women of the riding chose Miss Madeline M. Rooney of Cobourg as their first president and Mrs. Sam Dudley of Colborne as vice-president and Mrs. Neil Morrison of Campbellford as secretary-treasurer.

According to the new constitution the members of the two executives are to be elected by September 25 from the constituent township and town divisions of the riding.

Mr. Dixon was elected president of the Men's Association in an elimination contest with J. W. Wilson and Fred Slade of Fenella, former vice-president.

Others who were proposed for the presidency were George Taylor of Cobourg and Walter Wiggins of Woman Who Led Van Meter to Death Believed to Have Given Valuable Tips.

LETTERS ALSO AID.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Police pressed their search for the hideout of Homer Van Meter, slain Dillinger gangster, to-day in the hope it would lead them to George 'Baby Face' Nelson, new public enemy No. 1.

They also continue to question the woman companion of Van Meter, whose friendship with him led to his death at the hands of police Thursday night.

Statements made yesterday by the woman, Opal Meliga, known also as Opal Mulligan, St. Paul waitress, sent Chief of Police Frank Cullen and Detective Thos. Brown, who killed Van Meter, on two secret missions.

While the persistent questioning of the woman apparently had failed to reveal details of Van Meter's recent life, Chief Cullen said letters and papers found on the body were regarded as important clues.

Van Meter's body was borne from St. Paul late Friday in a motor hearse, en route to Fort Wayne, Ind., his childhood home, where relatives said he would be buried probably late to-day.

The police said they believe John Hamilton, another member of the Dillinger mob, is dead.

The president painstakingly — and not without flashes of smiling irony—developed his thesis that the League's announced purposes cover only a part of the 10 commandments.

He read these purposes slowly to the 150 or so reporters present:—"To teach the necessity of respect for the rights of persons and property" and "to teach the duty of the government to protect individual and group initiative."

An organization should go the whole hog, he said, not just pick out "Love thy God" and "Love thy Neighbor."

With that, he gayly remarked that a humorous friend had defined the league commandments as "love thy God (property being God in this case)" and "Ignore thy Neighbor."

HAM AND EGGS

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25—(C.P.)—While civic leaders puzzled over what reakfast dish to offer Prince and Princess Tsunenori Kaya, visiting members of the Japanese imperial family, the royal couple made their own selection.

They chose ham and eggs.

Only Fooling

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 25. —(CP)—A Reading Company express train ground to a stop within 50 feet of three boys lying with their heads on the rails.

The boys jumped up, thumbed their noses at the engineer and fled—but not quite fast enough.

It was all a "joke," Donald, 15; Thomas Beach, 16, and Charles James, 14, told Squire Otto Meyer of Royersford.

COLD WAVE HITS MID WEST AREA

FROST, SNOW IN PARTS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—They stoked the furnaces in the mid-continent last night against what some of the old settlers predicted would be an early and severe winter.

Unusual cold descended suddenly in sections which only recently had been besieged by protracted heat waves. Fires were kindled in many homes and a few office buildings. Frost whitened fields in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Iowa. Snow flurries, reported at Billings, Montana, grounded a plane at Big Timber.

C. A. Donnel, Government Meterologist at Chicago, respectfully declined to side with the Prairie prophets, who claimed to have detected signs of a long winter. There was no scientific method, he said, of making a long-range prediction. He stated the early visitation of the cool spell was extraordinary. The forecaster predicted low temperatures would be routed shortly in the North Central States, but the possibilities of overnight light frost existed for lower Michigan, Wisconsin, North Central Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Thoughts turned to top-costs as these minimums were established yesterday: North Dakota, 26; Minnesota, 34; Yellowstone Park, 36; Iowa, 36, and Wisconsin, 37.

Diesel engines are being used in cars which will compete in a test run from Moscow, Russia, to Paris and return.

MEXICAN RADIO STARS WEAKEN

Claim Record for Group Hunger Strike, But Stick to Guns.

PART BACK PAY OFFERED.

MEXICO, D.F., Aug. 25 (AP) — A physician announced over the air from Mexico's radio hunger strike station to-day that a majority of the strikers were "prostrated" and showing symptoms of weakened hearts and general nervousness.

The diagnosis of the physician, attached to a Red Cross tent set up outside the emergency station, came just after the employees claimed two records as they entered their fourth foodless and sleepless day.

This morning the artists, announcers, electricians and mechanics had been broadcasting nearly 100 hours and had been without food and sleep for 87 hours. This, they said, was a record for a group hunger strike.

A cheque, understood to be for 4,000 pesos (approximately $1,800), was furnished by the Pan American Radio Company for payment of part of the back salaries for which the workers are striking. The company was reported to have offered to pay the balance of approximately 9,000 pesos within eight days—but the strike went on.

FIRST WESTERN WHEAT PROVES OF HIGH GRADE

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (C.P.). — A high protein content and a large percentage of high grade wheat is contained in early arrivals of the 1934 crop of Western Canada returns of the grain inspection department and the laboratory of the board of grain commissioners for Canada, showed to-day.

In the reports from both sources, it is pointed out receipts are mostly from the southern sections of the western provinces and results obtained apply only to a small part of the crop. As more wheat is inspected these results may vary upward or downward.

Inspection returns show that in the first 300 cars of red spring wheat inspected, two-thirds graded No. 1 hard or No. 1 northern, the former totalling 58 cars and No. 1 northern 153 cars. Only eight cars of No. 3 Northern appeared in the first 300 and only one of No. 4 Northern. The balance was tough and smutty wheat.

THE ROSE, THE THISTLE AND THE SHAMROCK

(BY DEAN O'SULLIVAN)

A brief summary of the development of government in Canada since the Treaty of Paris may be thus set for: the coming of the United Empire Loyalists who settled chiefly in Ontario; the necessity arising from this of a separate legislature which was brought about by the Constitutional Act of 1791, which divided the province into Upper and Lower Canada; the arrogant attitude of the Family Compact in Upper Canada, which led to the Mackenzie Rebellion of '37; the sending to Canada as a result of this uprising of Lord Durham, whose masterly report paved the way for responsible government, which became an accomplished fact during the term of office of his illustrious son-in-law, that noble scion of the house of Bruce, Lord Elgin; the passing in 1841, as a result of the Durham Report, of the Act of Union by the Imperial Parliament, uniting Upper and Lower Canada and thus forming the nucleus of Confederation; the test of strength between the Tory diehards and the popular party led by Baldwin and Lafontaine anent the Rebellion Losses Bill, which provided compensation for those in Lower Canada who had suffered loss during the uprising of '37; the passing and the signing of the bill by Lord Elgin which led to the once-popular governor's being hooted and jeered at, the parliament buildings burned at Montreal, and a petition circulated, headed by the Molsons and the Redpaths, looking to annexation with the United States; the final triumph in 1850 of Lord Elgin and the Baldwin-Lafontaine ministry wherein for the first time in the history of our country we find a cabinet representing the people and taking office under a Governor willing to accept their advice as the constituted guide in the government of the nation; lastly, the British North America Act of 1867, which made the dream of Confederation come true.

As the part played by the English, the Scotch and the Irish in those eventful days is set forth in our histories, a mere general estimate will suffice.

As was the case in the Old Land, the men from the Celtic fringe played the chief part in this nation building. The early English settlers, many of whom had seen service with Wellington on the Continent, were given large grants of land, and reproduced here the "ancestral homes of England" which still stand in so many of our towns and villages, and even in the countryside. They were a fine class of men and exercised a steadying influence in the various communities. As squires, magistrates and councillors they introduced British law and practice, which made for order in civic government.

In Canada the Scotch played a part altogether out of proportion to their numbers. Their names are on our mountains and our rivers; we may not wash them out. The Murrays and the Elgins, the Selkirks (Thomas Douglas), and the Mackenzies, the Smiths and the Simpsons, the Campbells and the Camerons, the Macdonalds and the Frasers were among the chief builders of our nation. When they abandoned political life to embark on commercial enterprises, Canada was the poorer for it; for they were men of rugged individuality, men of vision, men who were governed not by expediency but by Christian ethics, men who had been taught religion in the schools of Scotland, and who for that reason, unlike so many of our public functionaries of to-day, had a reverence for the Ten Commandments, though they may have broken some of them sometimes. Their attributes may be best summed up in this tribute paid to one of the greatest of them, Lord Elgin, by Sir John Bourinot: "He possessed in a remarkable degree those qualities of mind and heart which enabled him to cope most successfully with the racial and political difficulties which met him at the outset of his administration, during a very critical period in Canadian history. Animated with the loftiest motives, imbued with a deep sense of the responsibilities of his office, never yielding to dictates of passion but always determined to be patient and calm at moments of violent public excitement, conscious of the advantage of compromise and conciliation in a country peopled like Canada, entering fully into the aspirations of a young people for self-government, ready to concede to French-Canadians their full share in the public councils, anxious to build up a Canadian nation without reference to creed or race—this distinguished nobleman must be always placed by a Canadian historian in the very front rank of the great administrators happily chosen from time to time by the Imperial State for the government of her dominions beyond the sea."

While the Irish may have played a minor role in our nation building, yet it is interesting to note that it was an Irishman who was the chief actor in the three most important epochs since the cession in 1763. The first of these was Sir Guy Carleton, who was the successful leader of His Majesty's forces until, through jealousy and calumny, he was superceded by that blundering individual, Burgoyne, who made such a mess of things at Saratoga. It was Carleton who was responsible for the passing of the "Quebec Act," which more than anything else consolidated the British conquest in Canada.

Again it was another Irishman who triumphed over the Family Compact and gave us representative government in 1851. Strange to say Robert Baldwin was a descendant of the Cromwellian settlement in Ireland, but having breathed in his youth the air of liberty which ever hovers over the hills and valleys of the Isle of Destiny, and had nourished the spirit of heroism in the breasts of those whom his forbears had persecuted, he became more Irish than the Irish themselves in his zeal to throw off oppression.

In the volume of "The Makers of Canada" dealing with Confederation, the name of D'Arcy McGee appears but once, and that merely in an enumeration of the Macdonald Ministry. Yet it was McGee who was the brains of Confederation. It was his genius that conceived it; it was his eloquence that put it across. Let us trust that on the occasion of this Centennial a due meed of praise will be given to that genial orator, philosopher, poet and statesman whose beautiful tribute to Jacques Cartier still fortunately remains in our school readers, and which for us of the older generation calls up so many pleasant visions of the past, as we see them reflected in the moonlight of memory.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

We need to remember again and again that the unfoldment of the technique is different from any other kind of growth. We cannot register our progress day by day like a student in art. It has nothing to do with that culture which is often only a synoonym for arrogance. Neither brilliant accomplishments nor social prestige will provide the asptrant with a passport. It is no respecter of persons. . . . The thing that avails is a fervent soul. LEARN TO SERVE. The adept is a servant. The crucifying struggle of life around you, inscribing the sign of the cross indelibly in the brow of humanity, is it anything to you? Is the sombre panorama of the human soul, passing and repassing between the two eternities, anything to you? Because here is the basis of the technique. The human soul must draw you irresistibly. To be, to know—these are the angels of aspiration which must stir the waters of life within and urge you to activity. The suffering of the soul must become personal to YOU. And the initial step lies in the cultivation of the fullness of a broad humanity. A head full of theories will make you a tinkling cymbal and known of men but only from real depths of nature proceeds an understanding sympathy. . . . The aim of the technique is to make the aspirant a spiritual artist, possessed of an intuitional awareness of inner processes. . . .let the aspirant fear no criticism. The voice of criticism will have lost the power to wound, because his thought has blended silently with the cosmic purpose, in whicht here is no variableness, neither shadow of turning—From "The Technique of the Master," by Raymund Andrea, F.R.C., Grand Master of the Rosicrucian Order for Great Britain. "DELIVER US FROM EVIL"

By PROF. HAECKEL

Condensed From Die Aussese by Magazine Digest.

These lines were written by the famous scientist and philosopher in 1904. At the time he was violently attacked for his materialism and atheism. We are now reproducing the article in view of the extraordinary importance and timeliness of the problem raised therein.

EVERY day millions of Christians pray to God that He may "deliver them from evil." This prayer is, in fact, one of the mainstays of the Christian catechism.

Luther's explanation of these words is this: we pray to our Lord in heaven that He may deliver what is good and honorable from the evils of soul and body and that when our hour strikes He may take us away from this vale of tears into His heaven.

Analyzing these words in the light of the modern monistic doctrine, we must, of course, depart from the medieval superstition which made our ancestors of only four hundred years ago combine their faith in God with the picture of the immortal soul in His palace-paradise. It is the "deliver us from evil" that is eternal in the prayer.

The number and variety, the extent and cruelty of these evils have increased enormously in our civilized nineteenth century, side by side with a remarkable advance in science and art and many momentous reforms in our social and private life. Culture in the higher sense has benefitted immensely from the fact that in the age of the steam-engine and electricity, time and space have acquired a different meaning. We can now organize our domestic and social life much more profitably and agreeably and derive much more spiritual enjoyment from life, than could our forefathers of a hundred years ago.

But parallel with this improvement there also goes a much greater consumption of nervous energy. Brains get worn out quicker and much more thoroughly, the bodies are more irritated and overworked than a century ago. So-called cultural diseases are on the increase at an alarming pace. Especially neurasthenia and similar derangements claim ever-growing numbers of victims. Every year the lunatic asylums of all countries increase in size and number. Everywhere sanitaria and resting-homes spring up in which the hunted and harassed civilized man seeks refuge and cure from his troubles, many of which are unfortunately incurable.

Many of these people are slowly but surely approaching death, sometimes under unspeakable sufferings, and the only thing they long for is to be "delivered from evil," to see the end of their torture.

Are we, as kind and sympathizing human beings, justified in satisfying their desire and abbreviating their period of suffering? Have we a right to do so? The question is of the greatest importance for practical philosophy, as well as for the medical and legal practice. And since the opinions on this subject differ widely, it is perhaps opportune to look more closely into the matter.

To my mind, pity and sympathy are not only among the highest and noblest functions of the human brain, but the first essential condition for the social life of the higher animals. The commandment of loving one's neighbor as oneself, which the Gospel places at the head of all ethics, was not originally discovered by Christ, but it was successfully preached and applied in practice by Him and His Apostles at a time when subtle egotism was rapidly pushing the over-refined Roman civilization toward collapse.

The commandments of sympathy and altruism existed in human society thousands of years before the advent of Christ, and not only in human society, but also among the higher animals living in herds. They are rooted in the sexual propagation of the lower animals, in sexual love and the care for the offspring, upon which rests the preservation of the species.

The widely held view that man has the duty under every circumstance to preserve and even lengthen life, although it is a source of misery and pain to himself and his surroundings, should be treated as a traditional dogma and as such repudiated. Hundreds of thousands of incurables, insane, lepers, etc., are artificially kept alive in our so-called civilized countries, their pain is carefully tended and kindled like a precious flame, without any advantage to themselves and society. There is nothing more appalling than the statistics of all countries on the growth of the number of asylums and their inmates, thousands of whom are incurable.

What a terrible amount of pain and suffering these figures represent! What anxiety and worry for other thousands and thousands of people who see their dear ones suffer! What a heavy drain on private capital and national resources! And what a lot of it could be eliminated by a little dose of some drug!

It stands to reason that such a decision could not be left with one physician alone, but should be made by a commission of experienced, reliable and conscientious medical men.

The ancient Spartans owed much of their remarkable physical beauty and efficiency and of their spiritual energy to their custom of killing all sick and crippled children immediately after they were born. This custom is still current among many primitive peoples whom we call barbarians. But every time I have pointed out the advantages of a Spartan selection and its usefulness for the improvement of the human race, a storm of indignation has broken out as happens every time when pure reason dares face prejudice and tradition.

Of what good is it to mankind that thousands of cripples born every year, the idiots and deafmutes and those afflicted with incurable hereditary diseases, should be artificially kept alive? What does life hold in store for these pitiable creatures? Wouldn't it be much wiser and kinder to close the door before them right away?

The usual objection is that religion forbids this course. This is not true. The Christian doctrine commands us to spare the life of our brethren and to throw away our own if it is a useless source of suffering to ourselves and our dear ones. It is not true religion which opposes this only sensible course, but sentimentality and tradition, the all-powerful, behind which religion so often hides. The same is true of our social customs and usages, from which all our law-codes are derived. But sentiment should never be allowed to defeat reason where questions of such high ethical importance are involved.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered

By DR. WYLIE CLARK

Why should we say "Grace" before our meals? Is it not either a bit of superstition or a frill for the occasion?—W.G.N.

Even supposing it were only a superstition or a frill, yet it is rather a nice way to begin a meal — much nicer than just to begin to eat — it helps to separate us from the lower animals.

Dr. Wylie Clark

But it is neither a superstition nor a frill, but a proclamation of who and what we are. We are divine in our origin and in our inheritance. We acknowledge and own our allegiance to the Almighty and give thanks for His mercy and goodness.

This attitude is good for our souls and serves as an act of worship so that three times a day we pay our vows unto our Heavenly Father and receive His gifts.

Grace, reverently and regularly said, stimulates faith and gives renewed assurance of God's presence.

How far have we come to the full measure of life's opportunities?—R.E.S.

No one can say how far we have come nor how far we may go in our adventures in the realms of life.

This we do know, we have come a goodly way in understanding the world we have to live in, and also in knowing about ourselves and our relationship to the past and future.

We can also be sure that there is still a long, long way to go before we will have a perfect understanding of all things. It can be safely stated that the way ahead is much longer than the way behind, and the unknown is vastly greater than the known.

It will be a long time before knowledge shall be exhausted and we will go into mourning because we have reached the limit of our capabilities or come to the end of our opportunities.

If we have opened the gates into the fields of material things and made some progress, we have done but little in the spiritual where unlimited riches await us.

What does it mean by the vision of the New Jerusalem coming down from heaven to men?—O.E.

It must be remembered that the New Jerusalem though described as a city, is really a figure, not a place, but of a people. It is not the final abiding place of Christ's followers. It is the followers themselves. Whatever description is given of the city is one of the true believers in Christ.

The question is one as to time and place. It is the description of the followers when they are here upon the earth or after they have died and been glorified.

Surely it was to be upon the earth that they were to realize the power of Christ and they themselves to be His Kingdom. Wherever there was a redeemed soul here was the Kingdom, and where the Kingdom was there was the glory of God manifested.

Of course, interpreters are not agreed as to the meanings to be given to this figurative language of the Book of Revelation.

Should we pray that life should be made easier? Is it not better for us to have it as hard as possible?—S.L.

In making roads we are always trying to do away with sharp turns and steep hills, because these slow up the traffic and hinder progress. At times we feel like praying: "Lord, do not hurry us too much on the hard parts of the road and give us time to get our breath where the hills are at their worst." That would not be refusing the road nor turning back, but simply asking for a tender consideration for our weakness and showing our determination to ever keep pushing onward and upward.

Easiness never seems to develop any of our finer possibilities or strengthen us to meet our daily duties.

On the other hand, we do not want to be fool-hardy and try impossible things. There is no place where common sense is more required than in prayer and in right living.

A Healthy Countenance

It may be well occasionally to gaze appraisingly into our mirrors—not to consider the physical features, but the expression of the face which is often an index to the state of our thoughts. In this way we may ascertain whether love or some of its opposite qualities are uppermost. A great man once wrote: "The beauty of expression in the face which we all enjoy must come from beauty in the mind. If we could always turn away and forget everything we thought ugly, we should be much more handsome, all of us." Grace of line or contour and symmetry of features are not alone essential to a beautiful countenance. We have but to take stock among our friends to realize that those faces convey to us the most inspiration, and faith, radiating courage and cheer, may or may not be handsome from a material standpoint.

Someone may argue that he has a right to think as he pleases, provided he does not impose his troubles audibly upon others. Should we not remember that, in a sense, our faces belong to all who may have to look upon them during the daily routine? Sometimes we inflict pain on the loved ones with whom we are in contact because our faces register definitely the petulant, fretful anxiety which we do not voice. Considered in this way, have we always a right to "think as we please" Have we the option to dishearten another by a sneering, impatient or doleful countenance? Have we a right to be silently sulky or morose? Sensitiveness and selfishness are off the same branch of mortal thinking. Indolence and personal advantage may choose to submerge themselves in tears and sullenness rather than make the mental effort necessary to active generosity and friendly service. Thoughts actively engaged in constructive, self-improving, far-reaching modes of giving light our faces with compassion and healing for our fellow-beings. — Christian Science Monitor.

Hosea Preaches God's Love

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

—Scripture—Hosea, chapters 6, 11, 14.—

Hosea was a prophet of God for 40 years to the northern kingdom of Israel. He preached at the time of Amos and while Isaiah and Micah were preaching in the southern kingdom of Judea. Jereboam II was king of Israel. It was a time of great national wickedness.

Hosea's home life was very unhappy because his wife, Gomer, was a very wicked woman. But in spite of her unfaithfulness Hosea loved her, and when her other lovers cast her aside and sold her as a slave, Hosea bought her and made her his wife again.

Hosea's unhappy life helped him to understand God's grief over the spiritual adultery of the nation, and helps us understand his cry: "How shall I give thee up, Ephraim? How shall I cast thee off, Israel? My heart is turned within me, my compassions are kindled within me."

But Hosea's message was unheeded by the nation as it rushed on in its sin to the destruction and captivity he predicted. "Ephraim was joined to his idols," and yet God loved these people as Hosea loved Gomer in spite of sin.

ONE LAST CHANCE.

There remains one more opportunity for Peterborough citizens to boost the attendance figures at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and that is provided by the fact that the final grandstand performance, including all the features that have proven so popular during the week, will be held this evening.

This should be the gala night of this year's Exhibition and bring out a record last performance attendance, inasmuch as the merit of the whole bill has been commended by everybody who saw it, and with the revue program completely altered from the beginning of the week many Exhibition patrons will be back to-night for a final glimpse at the color and beauty of this fast-moving spectacle.

This chance to spend an enjoyable evening and at the same time to give the Exhibition management a final pat on the shoulder with a worth-while last night attendance should not be missed. Let us make getaway night a memorable one in the annals of the Exhibition by packing the grandstand for the last big program of the 1934 show.

WHY THE LANDLORD?

Members of the local Unemployed Association are reported to have staged a protest demonstration in front of the home of a William street resident recently, because the William street man was the owner of a house in the township of North Easthope from which a man and his family had been evicted.

While appreciating the feelings of the unemployed at seeing one of their fellows of the county ejected from his home and placed, bag and baggage, by the side of the road, we fail to see why they should take out their spite on the owner of the property.

A good many property-owners in town and country to-day are property poor. It keeps them scratching to accumulate sufficient money to pay their taxes and keep their properties in repair. Tenant after tenant, through no fault of his own, has fallen down on rent payments, leaving the property-owner holding the bag. When tax payment time comes around the fact that a tenant has fallen behind in his rent is a pretty lame argument to offer the collector for being unable to meet the taxes. The municipality looks for its taxes just the same.

It has been said, in this particular instance, that the landlord has been offered money to retain the tenant, but that he does not care to have him in the house. That, too, should be the owner's prerogative, for he eventually has to foot the bills for unkeep.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The Peterborough Health Association is appealing to the public for financial support, and The Examiner has no hesitation in recommending this most worthy organization to the generosity of those who are in a position to help.

It is surely not necessary to say a great deal about the work that is being carried on by the Health Association; citizens of Peterborough know what is being accomplished by the district nurse, and are thoroughly acquainted with the health camp work, with the chest clinic and other activities of the association, and they realize that it is contributing a very useful service to the community in a field that is not touched by any other available machinery.

To a major extent the organization has to depend upon the support of the public, and a large number of public-spirited citizens have faithfully subscribed to the funds of the association; unfortunately, however, while the calls upon the organization have multiplied during this prolonged period of economic stress, at the same time some of those who have generously assisted in the past are no longer able to do so and the revenues have been reduced to that extent.

The work must go on if many of those who are being helped by the Health Association are not to be thrown upon their own resources and forced to fend for themselves; those citizens, therefore, who have the means to make donations to this most meritorious cause will have to assume the responsibility of seeing that the sinews of war are provided.

DELUDING THE PUBLIC.

Disclosures made during the current investigation into the management of the publicly-owned Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway have been a shock to the people of the province, who have been under the impression that the T. and N. O. was in splendid financial condition and that it had been earning substantial surpluses.

The evidence given during the probe show that this idea was almost completely erroneous, for while the enterprise has been turning over cheques to the Government nearly every year as the profits of operation, it has now been revealed that interest owing to the province on its investment has been withheld until it reached a total of over $8,000,000 at the end of the last fiscal year.

Thus, according to an auditor who testified before the commission, there was, taking into account interest charges that were not paid, an actual deficit of over $742,000, while a surplus of $63,000 was reported in 1932, and last year, instead of the announced deficit of $18,000, the shortage really amounted to $1,176,340.

The fact would seem to be that instead of devoting operating surplus to meeting interest charges the commission has been turning these profits over to the Government, and thus an entirely false picture of the T. and N. O. has been created year after year.

The public, in short, would seem to have been systematically and grossly deluded by the glowing reports issued annually and only now is learning the truth.

It is a jolt to find out that the publicly-owned railway has not been nearly so successful as was generally thought, but it is better to have the facts out in the open and the actual situation disclosed.

A MAJOR ERROR.

The threatened dismissal of game and fishery overseers in Ontario has at last materialized, and The Examiner has no hesitation in reiterating its former statement that this drastic action in doing away with the whole field force and putting the responsibility of enforcement upon the provincial police is a major error.

We have been hopeful, especially since the appointment of D. J. Taylor as Deputy Minister, that Ontario could count upon a progressive and intelligent game and fish policy, but the step that has now been taken dashes that hope to the ground.

At a time when a vigorous policy of conservation is indicated, if this province is to continue to count upon revenue from tourist traffic, and at a time, too, when a number of American states has demonstrated the value of a wideawake game administration, Ontario, the banner tourist province of the Dominion, has slipped far backward and, in a mistaken attempt at economy, has virtually left our fast-dwindling reserves of game and game fish at the mercy of the lawbreaker.

We have every confidence in the provincial police, but they have many other duties, and to expect them to give the same enforcement of game laws as a full-time game overseer is asking the impossible.

How in the name of common sense can a provincial police officer charged with maintaining law and order over a large area be expected to devote the time necessary to provide anything approaching adequate protection of our fishing resources during the spawning season, for example?

Even a game warden with nothing else to engage his attention has an almost impossible task in trying to cover his territory during this important period, and it is silly to think that the provincial police, unless they let everything else slide, can begin to guard the fishing areas against poachers.

It is all very well to claim that a saving has been effected by this action; the sad part of it, however, is that the saving will be made at the expense of resources that bring in millions of dollars of revenue every year, and in the final analysis may prove to be a heavy loss.

MORE ABOUT KIDNAPPING.

Mr. Roebuck, as Attorney-General of Ontario and therefore the official director of its machinery for the enforcement of law, naturally is greatly concerned with the kidnapping of Mr. Labatt. He has two distinct objectives; capture of those who kidnapped the London brewer and presumably collected a large ransom; prevention of similar crimes in the future.

These are both laudable aims, and Mr. Roebuck properly is giving them close attention. On the first count it is obvious that a more centralized control over the various police organizations is imperative in dealing with such a situation as existed last week when Mr. Labatt was missing. The air was then full of rumors, and the confusion was such that Mr. Labatt called at a Toronto hotel swarming with detectives and reporters, picked up his brother, drove away in a car, and was back in London before the police knew he had been released.

Everyone will agree that in this matter Mr. Roebuck is on safe ground. In other directions his position is more open to question. He proposes that the Legislature pass a law "giving the police authority to close the bank deposits, seal the deposit vaults, and generally take 'protective control' of all in a position to pay ransom," while his unified police force chases the kidnappers. The theory is that if it can be made impossible for wealthy persons to pay ransoms kidnapping will disappear with the incentive to it.

If the thing were as simple as it sounds no one would need to worry any more about the evil designs of bad men on his wealth. Unfortunately, however, there are so many difficulties in the way that one wonders whether, like many of us, the Attorney-General isn't inclined to talk first and think afterwards. Let us suppose Mr. Roebuck's law is in effect, and wealthy Mr. A. is kidnapped. A demand is made for ransom, and Mr. A. is to be killed painfully if the money is not left in a hollow tree by Friday at midnight. The courts seal Mr. A.'s wealth. But Mr. A.'s wife or brother or father or cousin may have much property, or at least credit with the banks, and family solidarity is powerful in a crisis. How will he prevent relatives from going to the rescue? Or wealthy friends of the kidnapped man? Is he to seal with seven seals the resources of all who might be assumed to have an interest in the safe return of Mr. A.? Unless he can go that far the remedy would be about as useful as publishing a stern notice in the newspapers that Mr. A. must be returned at once.

And when a child is kidnapped would Mr. Roebuck deny to the parents the right to use their own money if the refusal of ransom were likely to cost the child's life?

Unswerving righteousness, defiant refusal to treat with crooks, is a splendid quality in theory, as the Journal remarked yesterday, but the human factor enters into all such cases and makes complications the Attorney-General will find it almost or quite impossible to solve by legislation. If, for example, a kidnapped child were killed because the Government refused to permit its parents to pay a ransom, the outburst of public opinion would be something extraordinary.

And what would Mr. Hepburn do about insurance against kidnapping? This advertisement has just appeared in a reputable Quebec newspaper, on the heels of the Labatt case: "Kidnapping Insurance for Self and Family. Policies issued up to $100,000 covering ninety per cent. of ransom paid. Full protection, highest security, low rates." Would he seek to sequestrate the company's resources, classify kidnapping insurance as an illegal business allied with crime? To be consistent he could do nothing else.

Perhaps Mr. Roebuck has thought of all these things—or perhaps he hasn't. All of us see evils which we think could be remedied by passing a few laws, and Mr. Roebuck now is in a position to try out his pet theories. But we are strongly of the opinion that the cure for kidnapping lies in the police and the courts rather than in the Legislature.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Hydro probe is over—it only remains for the commissioners to bring in the verdict which may or may not agree with the opinion of the public in the matter.

With a new revue program offered the final performance of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition to-night should attract a record last night crowd.

The Peterborough Industrial ends to-night, thus paving the way for the Canadian National Exhibition, which, we may remark in passing, is a good fair, too.

The introduction of American gangster methods into Canada, as exemplified by the Labatt kidnapping and the murder in Montreal of a prominent crown witness, is a challenge to constituted authority.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

Geo. Gimblett, our hustling fire chief, has been re-elected treasurer of the Fire Chiefs' Association of this fair Dominion, this being the 2nd time he's had the honor of holding the bag for the same. Congratulations, Geo., say we enthusiastically.

The Sellats folks from Montreal, east of here, is going to open a new general store in the berg, middle of next month, they locating in Turnbull's old stand just where Frank Mitchell's horseless buses meet. You can't hold this place back, chortle we.

A colored ball team played the local lads at Riverside Park here last Sat. and the Hall of Wisdom philosopher remarked that it looked black for the visitors right from the start.

Now the fall fair is about to pass into history, the folks in these parts will begin to get ready for the next big doings, the Kiwanis street fair, the end of this month. It looks like a hummer, neighbors, say we.

Mitch Hepburn, premier of this fair province, was given a bid to open the Agricultural Society's show here, but Mitch was so busy firing folks, and holding by-elections and such, that he never did get around to visiting the berg this week.

It looks like our ball club and the Bellevilles, east of us, will play off for the league pinware, so the customers kin look forward to some lively doing at the old ball orchard, opine we.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

President Roosevelt Aboard the Cruiser Houston.

The motive of the cruise was for the health of the President. The American people heartily wished him bon voyage. He needed the rest and recuperation. As the Cruiser Houston took its course from the Annapolis Naval Academy out through the Chesapeake Bay and westward to the Pacific Ocean only a few of the people caught the implications.

As the Houston journeyed through the Panama Canal, Roosevelt was busy weaving new bonds of friendship between the United States and all Central and South America. Since the days of William Jennings Bryan there has not been an American statesman more gifted with the power of friendship making than Roosevelt has proven himself to be on this tour.

To the inhabitants of the islands of the Caribbean Sea his visit will long be memorable. It will be written down in American history. The assumed protectorate by the United States of certain of these islands has cost the American Government heavily in money and blood.

The Houston made a stop at Cap Haitien. The occasion became historic. For many years the Haitiens have protested the presence of the United States Marines. On the islands of the Caribbean stable government was an uncertain quantity. Trade requires peace and good government. The evolutionary spirit unsettles commerce.

The United States stay in the Caribbean has in part been to prevent intervention of any European power, threatening coercion methods, to collect loans. While the Marines remained in Caribbean waters American citizens have collected the customs and have handled the finances on behalf of the Republic of Haiti's creditors. A treaty recently made provides for the withdrawal of the Marines by November 1st. The President, using a slang phrase, beat the treaty to it. He made the announcement that the Marines would be withdrawn in six weeks. The Haitiens immediately began to make preparations for the celebration of the withdrawal on November 1st. A sense of freedom, and self-respect, and independence has swept over the whole area of the Caribbean Sea. Affect one of these islands and all are affected. If stability of government follows this action and foreign obligations are promptly met by the Haitiens not only theirs but all foreign markets will be benefitted. How foreign nations will react is a matter of speculation. Some of them have threatened to use coercive methods to collect financial loans. The Haitien Republic has not repudiated the obligations. Nor will they. If given time they will pay in full. President Roosevelt is confident that the Republic of Haiti will discharge all her debts to other nations, and that she will measure up to the expectations he holds.

On to Cartagena.

Cartagena is a very old city. It is as quaint as it is old. Ancient fortifications spiculate all about this capital of Colombia. Buccaneers found here a safe retreat for a long era. Many a ship treasure laden from Spain fell into their hands. Publicity never fails President Roosevelt. News that he was on the way to Cartagena preceded the Cruiser Houston. Seldom has the city assembled such a crowd as was at the pier to give him welcome.

Colombia for years harbored a grievance. Acquisition of the Panama Canal Zone during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt made Colombia sore. This was international news. Thus the recent visit of the present Chief Executive of the United States took on international significance. Quick to make the most of his visit to Cartagena to promote the growing friendship between the United States and South America he took occasion to say, "We, the citizens of all the American Republics, are at the threshold of a new era. It is a new era because a new spirit of understanding, which is best expressed in the phrase, 'Live and let live,' and every one of us, live and let live."

The Colombians will not forget for many a day Roosevelt's condemnation of the practice of nations exploiting one another. He spoke plainly. "We shall, all of us, find methods for the development of commerce and resources, but we shall do this in a spirit of fair play and of justice."

Japan and Pacific.

Health-seeking and sowing international good will sailed away to the Hawaiian Islands in the person of Franklin Delano Roosevelt on the Cruiser Houston. That he should seize the opportunity to make a pronouncement upon peace in the Pacific will have far-reaching effects. In view of the coming naval conference there is need that all movable obstacles to understanding and friendship between United States and Japan be removed.

Methodism Championing Rights.

Foremost among the champions of Eastern Rights has been the Methodist Church of the United States. Strong men have been kept on the Eastern field. Among them have been Frederick B. Fischer, and Dr. Stanley Jones, and Bishop Herbert Welch.

When President Coolidge was in the White House, Frederick B. Fisher was resident in India. He was invited to a conference with Coolidge. Fisher presented the cause of all nationalities of the East, regardless of color or blood. He spoke of the wrongs done peoples of Asia by American immigration laws. He called attention to the difficulty of naturalization. Coolidge was sympathetic. Softly, gently, but coldly, President Coolidge told Bishop Frederick B. Fisher that "he could go only so far as the people decided to go with him." Franklin D. Roosevelt listened to Stanley Jones and decided on action. Immigration and naturalization laws will be revised when Congress meets again. Asiatic national relations as pacific as the ocean are on the way.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 82c to 83c; oats, 25c to 26c; barley, 58c to 60c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 55c to 57c; buckwheat, 58c to 60c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

A buying rally just before the closing bell saved the wheat market from a dismal performance yesterday. Gossip of the Pit attributed the closing spurt that advanced price for a net gain of ⅛ to ¼ cent to a turn for improvement in stocks and little inflation chatter.

After hovering about Thursday's finish, boosted 55 first by strength at Liverpool and then weakened by liquidation and profit-selling, wheat finished at the day's high point. December new, $1.04⅛ to $1.05. All deliveries showed more than a cent gain from the low. May finished 5⅛ $1.03⅛ to ⅜, and September new at $1.03⅛ to $1.04.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Butter continued its advance on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday. Other prices were unchanged.

Butter rose ¼ cent to 19½ cents a pound for fresh No. 1 in cartons or less. Small lots to retailers were sold at 20 to 21 cents a pound for solids and 21 to 22 cents a pound for prints. Receipts were 1,094 boxes.

On the cheese market, prices continued at 10 to 10½ cents a pound for Ontario colored and 9½c to 9¾ cents a pound for Quebec cheese. Arrivals totalled 4,106 boxes.

The egg market was a little more active, with prices unchanged. Graded shipments in cartons or less from Ontario or the West brought 23 to 26 cents a dozen for A-large, 20 to 21 cents for A-medium, 16½ to 19 cents for B and 17½ to 18 cents for C. Receipts totalled 359 cases.

Potato prices were also unchanged, New Quebec's No. 1 being quoted at 45 to 50 cents per 80-pound bag and No. 2 sold for 35 to 40 cents per 80-pound bag. Old N.B. Mountains were priced at 30 to 35 cents per 80-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Purchases of Canadian wheat by foreign importers, almost the sole support offered the market, failed to offset the steady hedging pressure of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Wheat futures prices closed a dull session ⅛c to ¼c lower.

Trading yesterday was the slowest in weeks, and the market lacked feature. Values finished near the day's "lows." October at 84⅛c; December, 85¼c to 85¾c, and May, 89⅛c to 89¼c. The export sales totalled 500,000 bushels, but this was insufficient to bolster prices against the inpouring offerings.

Operations generally were of a local nature, and the offerings again came largely from elevator companies hedging against receipts of new-crop wheat in the country. The wintry weather in Western Canada appeared to have been discounted Thursday and had no effect on the market to-day.

Wheat shipments from Australia increased sharply this week, the total exceeding 3,000,000 bushels. More than half or this was booked for the Orient. Argentine clearings approximated 3,500,000 bushels, showing little change from the previous week's shipments.

Loadings of two cargoes of Durum wheat, presumably to the United States, stimulated interest in this variety in cash grains. Durum spreads closed 1c advance, but other varieties were practically unchanged. Coarse grains futures duplicated the action of wheat.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE CENTENNIAL OF GLENGARRY.

On this date in 1834 the people of the county of Glengarry held festival in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the foundation of that great Scots' settlement in Upper Canada. The celebration extended over two Sundays, and, as befitted the traditions of their race, the people began, and ended their festivities with prayer and thanksgiving. Just as in the days of foundation, Bethune, the Presbyterian, and Macdonell, the Roman Catholic, worked together for the good of their community, so one hundred years later Protestants and Roman Catholics united in honoring the memories of their forefathers.

It was a great week. At a social union in the old Manor House the walls and stairs built by Sir John Johnson were admired; the story was told of the first Scots' church, built in 1887, its "pews" being planks on cedar blocks; and from the "new" church (finished in 1815) there rang out the tones of the bell on which is the inscription:

"1806 Thomas Mears and Sons, of London, Fecit. The Gift of Sir Alexander Mackenzie to the Presbyterian Church of Glengarry, Province of Upper Canada, North America. The Rev. John Bethune, Minister."

There was a service in Gaelic at which all the old Bibles and prayer books for generations were used. On United Empire Loyalist day there was a service in the old burying ground when the graves were decorated and an oration was delivered by Donald MacMaster, then a British M. P., after having represented his native county at Ottawa for several years.

The majority of those who attended that celebration have passed, but there are a few who retain memories of that wonderful week when the deeds of the founders were recalled and thanks given to the Maker of all things for the harvest which He had permitted to grow out of the seed sown by those Scots who abandoned comfort in New York to come north in order to conserve their liberty and retain their allegiance to their king and their duty to their flag.

PUBLIC BUYS WHEN PRODUCT IS RIGHT

Is the Experience of the Canadian Shredded Wheat Company.

"Maintain a high standard of quality in a product, advertise it consistently, and people will value it and be faithful to it in good times and bad." That in a sentence, is the experience of The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company, Ltd.

In line with this experience during the past forty years the company has again widened the scope of its advertising messages and sales of Shredded Wheat are already mounting in consequence. This product, prepared entirely from the finest "number one" Canadian wheat, with nothing added, and nothing taken away, conforms to the medical advocacy of whole wheat served with fruit and milk or cream as the ideal summer diet. This combination provides the elements necessary to build and maintain health.

The company is one of Canada's most consistent newspaper advertisers. In its forty years of existence it has used over a billion sales messages estimated on the basis of the total circulations of the mediums it uses, and the frequency with which it advertises in them. To-day there is hardly a place in Canada where Shredded Wheat is not enjoyed daily in most homes.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

GRAVENHURST, ONTARIO

This town in the lovely Muskoka district owes its name to the fact that a clerk in the postal department happened to be reading Bracebridge Hall, by Washington Irving, at the time a request was made for an official name.

Bracebridge, on the north fork of the Muskoka, was founded about the same time as Gravenhurst on the south fork. In the early days the former was known as North Fork, while the latter was known as South Fork.

Irving's book mentioned the fact that two towns in England were situated in almost the same manner as the northern Ontario towns, so he suggested Bracebridge for one and Gravenhurst for the other. His suggestion was adopted.

Workers in Chile are complaining that wages and salaries have not increased in line with rising living costs and price levels.

THE BROWSER.

Long time ago the stars fell on Alabam'. Stars fell on Georgia and on Mississipp' and stars fell on South Caroline. . . . And since those stars fell, say the Cajans of Alabama, there's been an enchantment and a sorcery over the states where they had that great fall of stars. . . . That's the meaning of Carl Carmer's book, "Stars Fell on Alabama". He says it's a land of "moons, red with the dust of barren hills, thin pine trunks barring horizons, festering swamps, restless yellow rivers. . . . an emanation of malevolence that threatens to destroy men through dark ways of its own". . . . And he's written a book about that state—tales of pirates, of outlaws, canebrakers, alligator hunts, and feuds and river baptisms and lynchings and barn dances . . . and also of duels and conjure women. . . . And the Browser like it. . . . Funny thing about books. Sometimes the Browser simply can't get himself interested in a book that other people are talking about. He could never read Charles Morgan's "The Fountain" (and whatever did happen to HIM). And this summer he hasn't been able to read "Seven Gothic Tales", that probably is a best seller. The other day Marie asked him if he had a copy of that book and could she borrow it, because somebody told her it was the most fascinating book ever. The Browser said yes he had a copy and she could have it, he'd give it to her, because he himself couldn't read it. So she took it, believing despite the Browser, that she would like it because HE liked F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Tender Is The Night" and she didn't. . . . But one came into his office the next morning and told him magnanimously that she couldn't read it, either. . . . So they fell to talking about it, and he said he has difficulty reading any book that is too foreign to the life we are living today. He doesn't like fairy tales any more. He wants a little mental exercise, at least, in anything he reads. . . . But, of course, the Browser doesn't specialize in consistency, either. Next week you might find him talking endlessly about some book that is over the hills and far away from strikes, riot, industry, the changing scene, or anything else we talk about today.

Scott Fitzgerald has been in a hospital, ill. . . . E. Phillips Oppenheim is now the man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo. . . . Irvin Cobb has bought a house in Hollywood. . . . Gertrude Atherton doesn't like Celine's "Journey to the End of the Night". The other day she wrote that he wrote filth for filth's sake. . . . But the Browser knows a clergyman who didn't like the book, either. But he read it through to the bitter end. . . . Among the best sellers at the moment: Caroline Millet's "Lamb in His Bosom", "Anthony Adverse", Josephine Lawrence's "Years Are So Long", John Erskine's "Bachelor of Arts", Alice Hobart's "River Supreme" and Robert Graves' "I, Claudius". . . . Others are "Stars Fell on Alabama", Woollcott's "While Rome Burns", Pitkin's "Life Begins at Forty" and Dr. Edmund Jacobsen's "You Must Relax". . . . The Browser wonders if his life will begin in a little while when HE is forty and if it doesn't begin until then, what has he been doing all this time? . . . Dr. Logan Clendening was in the office. A fine looking doctor who doesn't look as if he'd advise anybody to give up everything he liked just because he isn't feeling very well. . . . Even though Dorothy Canfield Fisher wrote the introduction to "Seven Gothic Tales" and raptured over them, the Browser still can't get enthusiastic. . . . H. L. Mencken is writing another revision of his "American Language". . . . Christopher Morley will be editor of the eleventh edition of Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations" and he should include some from his own books. . . . The Browser has the page sheets of Evan Evan's "Montana Rides Again", and he starts tonight to read this sequel to the best western adventure story he ever read. . . . Eugene Manlove Rhodes is dead and he asked his people to bury him on the top of San Andres mountain in New Mexico, "forty miles from nowhere". . . . Gertrude Atherton has signed a contract for a book of two novelettes and two short stories; title, "The Fog Horn". . . . A Scotch member of parliament has asked the British attorney general why he doesn't do something about A. P. Herbert's "Holy Deadlock," which holds up his majesty's judges and courts in matrimonial cases to "public ridicule and contempt". . . . Happiest title of the year: Bernard Devoto's "We Accept With Pleasure". . . . And that's about enough from

TREASURES RELICS OF MOUND BUILDER

North Bay Man Has Curios From All Corners of Earth.

NORTH BAY, Aug. 25 (CP).—Forty years at his hobby gathering together odd articles has given D. J. Elliott, of this city, the most valuable collection of curios in Northern Ontario.

Knives and coins form the chief part of Mr. Elliott's display. His most treasured knife is a relic of the Mound-builders, who are said to have inhabited this country before the Indians. They are supposed to have lived around Lake Superior, and the hammered piece of copper in the shape of a knife now in Mr. Elliott's possession was taken from the waters of that lake.

There is also a head hunter's knife, inlaid with copper rivets, each rivet said to represent a battle fought or a head taken by the former possessor of the instrument. Other weapons include a black notch Irish shillalah, a Malay kris, a Turkish dagger, a Jugo-Slavian knife, a South American machette, two Japanese dirks—one ancient and one modern—a Turkish scimitar, and several Italian stilettos.

There is also an ancient Spanish battle-axe, inlaid with silver, and an English sword cane, used in the last century. A perfect specimen of an Indian pipe-tomahawk is another feature of the collection.

About 1,500 coins from almost every country in the world are also in the collector's possession. The oldest are a group of Roman coins, dating back to 304 A.D. Mr. Elliott has a complete set of the old Hudson's Bay Company coinage.

Apart from his knives and coins, Mr. Elliott has a collection of miscellaneous curios. Chief amongst these are 10 dozen silver spoons, so small that the entire 10 dozen will easily fit into a cherry pit. They came from India.

HAMILTON.—Beatrice Botka, nine, was in hospital here to-day undergoing treatment after swallowing the crystal of a watch. Doctors said they would not attempt to remove the glass with instruments for fear of breaking it in the girl's stomach.

Gangster Killing Is View Held By Montreal Police

Because he "squealed" to authorities who were investigating dope and silk smuggling activities around Montreal, Charles Feigenbaum met a gangster's end at the hands of gunmen whom police believe were imported from United States. The gang allegedly involved is said to have ramifications extending into New York and reports indicate that the slayers are attempting to escape below the border line. Photos show police examining Feigenbaum's body and bloodstains on the roadway in front of his brother's home in Montreal, with crowd pressing around the scene.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. —(A.P.)— The stock market backed and filled rather indifferently during most of to-day's brief session. Resistance was shown to scattered profit taking, however, and in the final half hour there were some fairly substantial advances. The close was steady to firm. Transfers approximated 470,000 shares.

TORONTO MINING.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(C. P.). — Bright spot in to-day's abbreviated session of the mining section of the Toronto Exchange was the continued strength and heavy trading in ventures. It led the rest of the board in volume. Other secondary gold stocks to feature were Central Patricia and Siscoe. Senior Gold continued rather dull.

Yesterday Ventures gained 8 cents to close at $1.09. During the session to -day it hovered around the same mark. Central Patricia held fairly close to its previous close of $1.12 and Siscoe also wavered only slightly, God's Lake was unchanged.

More movement took place in Dome than for some days past. Its price level, however, showed only slight variation from previous quotes of $4.00. Teck Hughes tended to lower levels from its former mark of 6.90.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS.

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (C.P.).—Volume on the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange reached the year's lowest level for a Saturday at the week's closing session to-day. Not a single stock crossed the 1,000 share mark. Prices held fairly firm with yesterday's levels.

The alcohol group, despite Ottawa reports of an almost 100 per cent. increase in value of July alcohol exports to work upon traded lightly. In the beer stocks Canada Bud showed considerable action, shooting to 11 for a ¼ point gain on rumors of high earnings and a possible dividend.

Interlisteds were slow under the New York influence. C.P.R. remained unchanged at 14, and Ford 'A' didn't appear in any quantities worth mentioning. Nickel gained slightly at 25¼ and Smelters added a full point to 142.

STRATFORD.—Major G. L. Money, charged with being an accessory after the fact in connection with the ejection of Isador Minster, Workers' Unity League worker from the city more than a week ago, appeared before Magistrate J. A. Makins here this morning and elected trial by judge and jury. The preliminary hearing is now in progress, with Minster as the first witness.

MUNICIPALITIES RELIEF HEYDAY

given strict recognition in the future.

"I am not prepared to say at present how much the municipalities will be required to pay," said Mr. Croll. "This will be announced at a later date."

"But I am prepared to say this much," he proceeded. "The purpose of the municipality is to look after the welfare of its people. That is why municipalities incorporate. The needs of the people are the first charge upon the assets of the municipality.

"What about the municipalities that say they simply can't pay?" he was asked.

"If they are in financial difficulties we have a department, the Department of Municipal Affairs, to assist them in refinancing and ease up the burden," was the reply.

"The matter of relief is a joint responsibility; we all have to make some sacrifices in order to assist those who are really up against it," continued the minister.

"Then you do not agree with the contention that the matter of relief is a national problem and the cost should be borne entirely by the Federal Government?"

"Read the B.N.A. Act," replied Mr. Croll. "If you can convince Mr. Bennett that his government should bear the full cost, then I am ready to agree with you."

Little Hope of Saving

"Will this mean a saving to the province?" was another question put to Mr. Croll. "How can it?" was his rejoinder. "With the Dominion Government walking out, we can't possibly save any money. We are letting human responsibilities take precedent over financial responsibilities.

"Most entirely they can," was Mr. Croll's response when asked if he believed if certain of the municipalities could assume this responsibility."

As to voluntary subscriptions for relief work as reported in Galt, the Minister said, that was purely a local matter.

NEW BREWERY

unofficial estimates put it at $160,000 yearly—in escaping the Free State Corporation profits tax of two shillings in the pound. The new brewery will also be closed to the Kentish hop fields. The cultivation of more than 5,000 acres of hops is necessary to supply the present demand of the Dublin brewery.

KITCHENER WOMAN JOINS GOLF'S HOLE-IN-ONE CLUB

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP) Mrs. Wilfred Schlee of this city today held the unusual distinction of being a member of the "Hole-in-One" Club.

Playing a twosome with her husband at the Grand River Golf and Country Club yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Schlee dropped her tee shot on the 140-yard second hole. She used a mashie.

Marsh Brubacher and Rance Bricker who had driven off No. 3 tee were passing No. 2 green at the time and turned around just in time to see the ball roll into the cup.

Local golf authorities believe Mrs. Schlee is the first woman in Ontario, if not in the Dominion, to have an ace to her credit.

TOLL GATE LOWERS MARITIME RECORD

Former Kingston Pacer Shows Heels to Fast Field in Three Straight Heats.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Aug. 24.—(C.P.)—Toll Gate, swift pacer imported from Ontario this season by H. M. Sweeney of Bridgewater, N.S., lowered the Prince Edward Island exhibition track record to 2.05¾ yesterday and showed his heels to a fast field in three straight heats to win the free-for-all.

The old mark of 2.07¾ was bettered in every heat of the race and the new record was set in the second.

Guy the Tramp, W. C. Crummer's fast stepper from Chatham, Ont., ran second in each heat.

Star G., owned by J. H. Breen of Halifax, took first money in the 2.19 trot and pace after placing second to Miss Crummer of Chatham, Ont., in the opening heat. Miss Crummer took second money.

3 MAKE DATES

A man followed her, saw her enter a drug store and saw her buy a bottle of poison.

He took it from her. He returned with her to the beer garden.

"To-night I am going to kill myself," she repeated.

The man induced her to play pinochle with him. During the game he got up and went to the bar to get beer.

Snatching the bottle of poison, Mrs. Conelly twisted off the cap, swallowed the potion.

Before a doctor arrived she, too, had kept her date with death.

The Third.

Back to the ferryboat, Dongan Hills, Marie Basset had made three trips, building her courage to the point of jumping overboard. She did not know Mrs. Hoag. She did not know, even, that Mrs. Hoag had leaped into the harbor. She knew only she had a rendesvous—there in the water—with death.

She jumped. No one observed her.

Unknown to each other, the two women, one young, one old, leaped overboard. Boats were lowered. They were hunting Mrs. Hoag, for they did not know anyone else was in the water. While Officer Bocrun was struggling to bring in Mrs. Hoag, a small boat came upon Marie Basset. She was pulled aboard.

Eager to die, she lives to-day.

She, of the three women who hunted death, failed to keep the rendesvous.

Full Program At Ex. Is Set For To-Night

One of the best crowds of the entire Fair week occupied the grandstand at Exhibition Grounds last night, and showed their approval of the Winter Garden Revue Extravaganza and vaudeville acts, with frequent outbursts of spontaneous applause.

Catherine Behney's Winter Garden Revue has the whole district speaking its praises, and with the promise of fine weather, it is expected that the grandstand will seat a capacity audience to-night. It is the last chance and one that should not be missed, by any lover of clean, wholesome, satisfying entertainment.

No show in recent years has made such a decided hit with the pleasure-seeking public. Cogez and Motto, star comedians of radio and recording fame, hit a new high note in dazzling comedy, while the ensemble of beautiful girls in gorgeous colorful and fantastic numbers are in a class all by themselves.

One of the feature numbers in the "girl" show is the daring fan dance by Nadine Saunders, platinum blonde star of the revue.

Other circus features and thrillers complete the sparking entertainment.

Arthur Petley and his London Company of clever trapeze performers will again shake thunderous rolls of laughter from the crowd. Joe Mandis and Company, formerly with Ringling Bros.' Circus and starred on every vaudeville stage in America will present new and sensational stunts.

The Royal Buccaneers will give their thrilling acrobatic presentation.

The five Buccoes will give their daring performance and Palmer's Trained Animals will delight everyone.

There will be two and a half hours of wonderful entertainment. Don't miss it!

Garden lovers in Glasgow, Scotland, must obtain a city license before using a hose to spray their flower beds and lawns.

NATIONALS TAKE ONE GAME LEAD

Replay of Tuesday's Game Ends in 10-6 Setback for Orioles.

OVERCOME EARLY LEAD.

Nationals of the Southend Softball League defeated Orioles, 10-6, in the first game of their playoff series last night, a replay of Tuesday's struggle. Behind the sterling pitching of Mel Hunter, who let the Nats down hitless the first four frames, the Birdmen took an early lead but saw it wiped out in the sixth, when the Nats bunched four hits along with a couple of costly miscues. Hunter was nicked for ten hits, walking three and fanning two. Wedlock of the Nationals settled down after a shaky start to hurl seven-hit ball, fan eight and issue five free bases. Manager C. Smith went good at third and was the only one of his team to collect two hits. E. Reynolds and Parsons were the pick of the winners. Monday night the Cogs tangle with Albions in the second game of their series, Albions having won the first, 15-1. Tuesday, Orioles and Nats meet again, both games at 5.30 at Brinton Field. Wheat Futures Dip Under Hedging Sales

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (C.P.)—The prairie grain farmer, the man perhaps most vitally interested in fluctuations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, was the largest factor on the market during the past week as what futures dipped 1 ¾ to ¾ cents under the weight of hedging sales against country deliveries of new crop grains.

At today's opening October option showed the least decline for the six-day market week at 84½ cents. December wheat ended the week at 85¾ to ¾ and May at 89¼ to ¼ cents. Compared with the corresponding date a year ago, however, the market was 14½ cents a bushel ahead.

Export buying of Canadian wheat during the week was appreciable but was not sufficient to take care of the daily hedging pressure and the speculative public was absent. Weight of hedging sales was not lightened by a contrary weather man who served up snow and heavy frost for western Canada in the wake of sweltering heat.

Export demand continued to hold cash grains at good premiums. Coarse grains displayed independent strength during the week, oats advanced 4¾ to 5¼ cents; barley gained 5¼ to 5½, flax 2½ to 1½ and rye 1¾ to ¾ cents per bushel.

Mad with thirst monster rats have invaded Essex villages in England, and one rodent killed weighed 24 pounds.

LONDON PRESS ATTACKS WHEAT GROUP'S FIGURES

Says Totals For World Surplus Higher Than Trade Circles Recognize.

EFFORTS NOT SERIOUS.

LONDON, Aug. 25 (CP-Havas)—The statistical methods of the Wheat Advisory Committee, which adjourned yesterday until November, were criticized by The Manchester Guardian to-day.

The grain expert of the newspaper wrote:

"The statistical methods of the Wheat Committee arouse various comments. The figures given, like those of the world's surplus, are much higher than those generally recognized in trade circles.

"If the figures of the secretariat were to be accepted as exact, the wheat price could not have risen as it did. Generally, the conference appeared not to be pressed to do its best in facing the situation.

"The proposals which will be examined in Budapest next November tending to establish a system of export quotas and to give the secretariat of the conference discretionary powers over them do not convince the grain trade.

"There is no reason for which a country like ours grant the secretariat such a dictatorship over our breadstuffs.

"It is evident that the adjournment is designed to give time to reflect and to resolve the uncertainties with regard to the crop in the Southern Hemisphere (Argentina).

"There is probably a method to save face."

International Adjustment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—Henry Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, expressed belief to-day that the world is headed toward an international agricultural adjustment administration for wheat.

Despite the adjournment of the International Wheat Advisory Committee in London with little apparent success, the secretary said he had "substantial hope" the international agreement of adjustment production to world demand would be extended into 1936 and subsequent years.

He hopes the next meeting of the committee, in Budapest Nov. 20, will succeed in adjusting differences.

"Should an agreement be reached by the exporting and importing countries, either at the November meeting or later this winter, to continue restrictions of wheat acreage for next year's crop, the United States would, of course, take whatever action would be necessary to comply with its commitments under the agreement," he said.

DECIDES AGE 87 TIME TO RETIRE

Hardy Snow Plodder of Meaford Takes Pension After 47 Years in Canada.

ARTHUR, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP).—Familiar figure about the streets of this Western Ontario village Peter Peterson, 87-year-old Danish Canadian once the centre of province-wide interest for a mid-winter trek through 25 miles of snow-filled highway from Guelph to Arthur, has finally decided it's time to retire.

Having no immediate relatives here he will spend his declining years in the Wellington County Old People's home near Elora, supported by the old-age pension earned after 47 years hard work in the land of his adoption.

They still tell of Peter's adventure in the stormy winter of 1929-30. Business in Guelph necessitated his going to the county seat. He purchased a return railway ticket. Arriving in Guelph he decided the train too late to wait for, so he started the long walk in sub-zero weather.

It was a year when government engineers could never keep the Guelph-Arthur road open for any length of time. Snow was piled high on either side of the highway and driving through the deep gulches was at times impossible. But Peter plodded on despite the heavy going. After a little over five hours he arrived in Arthur suffering no ill effects.

Small in stature, Peter never appeared a powerful man, but innate Scandinavian hardiness kept him in perpetual good health. His bent, grey-thatched form was a common sight about town in all sorts of weather. Everyone had a word of greeting for him and it was always returned.

Now Peter Peterson can roam the broad acres of the attractive home near the banks of the Grand River and enjoy a life of ease. He is not not very far away from his former friends. They will visit the kindly old man and help to brighten his remaining years.

They began a surprise flight at New Haven, Conn., early Monday, lifting their pontoon - equipped plane from the water at New Haven Harbor at 2 a.m. They landed at Sydney, N.S.

Liquor Racketeers Demand Toll

RACKETEERS IN LIQUOR TRADE POWER BEHIND KIDNAPPINGS

Demand Toll From All Exporters Seeking U. S. Markets.

BREWERS PAY.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 25. — (By Central Press Canadian).—Canada has to-day on record two major kidnappings. One is official, recognized as a definite abduction involving intensive police investigation in a frantic manhunt. The other is not.

Nevertheless, in these two incidents when United States gangland methods have invaded the Dominion there appear to be definite parallels. The victims on both occasions were members of the Canadian brewing industry. The search in both instances spread outside the Dominion, across the Detroit River, battleground of many a bitterly fought, undercover rum-running war.

In September, 1933, Sam J. Low, chief sales agent for Carling Breweries of London, Ont., was reported kidnapped. No police were called in. Low returned apparently unharmed, but men along the waterfront say he promised to pay $25,000. Whether he actually paid is not certain. He revoked, was one later report.

Last week, John S. Labatt, head of Labatt Breweries, also of London, disappeared. He left Sarnia to drive to London. He did not arrive. His car did—with a note inside demanding ransom of $150,000 on pain of death. Three days later he was back in the bosom of his family.

Blame Liquor Tolls.

Again there were rumors along the waterfront. It has long been conceded that there are tolls, illegal, but none the less collectible, on all liquor entering the United States. Where the cash goes is another matter. That is not revealed.

Rumors say that John Labatt never was reconciled to payment of the levy. Why should he pay a rake-off to enrich someone else? It can be legally sold across the line.

But the men who once enjoyed the lucrative rum-running industry are not so easily side-tracked.

One theory for the ordeal to which the London brewer has been subjected is that it was a disciplinary measure. That the ransom was secondary—better if collected, of course, but that a lesson was needed. Reports also circulate that it has been threatened for some time, that Labatt was followed last year by a fast motor launch on the Detroit River. That he put back to the United States shore and received an escort home.

Not Uncommon.

Kidnapping of men engaged in the liquor industry is not new even to Canada. In the heyday of the export game it is conceded that more than one leader was removed by a more domineering rival to give point to a warning not too carefully heeded. Ransoms in some cases were collected; in other, compromise or promises were sufficient. At the time of the Low affair reports allege that two Windsor dock owners were also held captive. Walter and Sydney Nathanson were the names. Both denied ever being kidnapped. Whispers said their liberty cost $50,000.

United States liquor rings have long been held responsible for many sensational crimes of this nature, but the higher-ups are always cleared. They can afford to pay others to do the jobs, men who will keep their mouths shut.

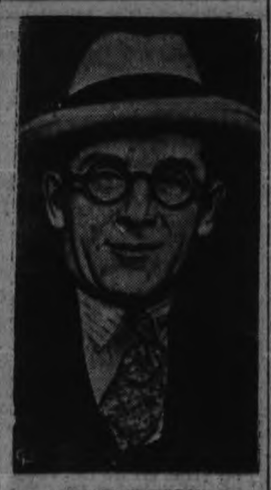
When William Hamm, millionaire brewer of St. Paul, Minn., was seized on in June, 1933, as he left his office, and his release failed to follow immediately upon the throwing of a package containing nearly $100,000 from an automobile on to a lonely road according to instructions, rival brewing interests were blamed for intercepting the ransom payment. Eventually Verne Sankey, who committed suicide when involved in the Boetcher kidnapping later, was charged with the crime, tried and acquitted.

Demand "Good Behavior."

Undoubtedly the Lindbergh case is the most sensational of all the dastardly crimes which spot the snatch racket. The seizing of the baby son of the world-famous flier in an effort to extort money roused the entire world. The finale—so far—is history. Lindbergh is said to have paid a fortune in his effort to secure return of the tiny tot—the baby who was already dead. No one yet has faced a court for that crime, but it resulted in a tightening up of laws and penalties.

Recent records show that United States police have scored heavily against those who seek to live by extortion and kidnapping.

But across the river, along the waterfront, in the haunts of the rum-runners and liquor magnates, kidnappings, even of the "big shots," are too common to be brought to light. That they occur is never doubted. Ransome is paid, whether it be in cash or in "good behavior"—to play the game according to the rules.



TERRY DRUGGAN

Information that Terry Druggan, one of Chicago's first beer barons, has been secretly released from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, has been received by Chicago authorities. Druggan was sent to prison in February, 1933, for two and a half years for income tax violation.

KIDNAP PLANS INVESTIGATED

Bound Man Claims Gang Questioned Him About Rich Detroiter.

CLAIMS HE WAS DRUGGED.

DETROIT, Aug. 25 (AP)—A purported plot to kidnap Robert Oakman, Detroit financier and real estate operator, was being investigated this morning by Detroit and Windsor, Ont., police.

Police information was supplied by Peter Kungel, 36, of Windsor, who was found tied hand and foot in a clump of bushes near the Detroit River here this morning.

Kungel told police he had been abducted, taken for a ride and drugged by a gang that had tried to persuade him to disclose information about Oakman.

Kungel until recently was employed at a boat livery near Riverside, Ont., not far from where Oakman's yacht is moored.

Kungel said he was picked up near Riverside by an automobile load of men who asked him if he wanted a ride. He said he was given several drinks and finally an anaesthetic when he told police, he insisted he knew nothing about Oakman's movements. Finally, Kungel said, he was placed in a speedboat and eventually tied and left in the bushes where he was found early to-day.

Kungel was treated at receiving hospital and detained for further police inquiry. At the hospital it was found that an anaesthetic definitely had been administered.

Oakman is 74 years old. He has made a fortune in real estate, developing suburban additions.

CATTLE SURPLUS IRISH PROBLEM

Comprehensive Plans Drawn Up to Restore Market Includes Free Meat.

FOR POOR PEOPLE.

DUBLIN, Aug. 25 (CP).—What to do with the Free State's surplus cattle is the toughest problem confronting President Eamon de Valera's government just now, according to Dr. James Ryan, the Free State Minister for Agriculture. The 26 county area has far too many cattle for home consumption, quota restrictions are contracting the British market and alternative outlets on the Continent are well nigh impossible to arrange.

The government's cattle and meat plan which came before the Senate in the form of a bill this month is the most comprehensive attempt Mr. de Valera has yet made to find a way out of the impasse, but some of its features are not expected to draw a great deal of applause from the Second Chamber.

It is proposed to license all sellers of meat in the Free State and to compel them to keep elaborate returns of the prices they pay for cattle intended for home consumption, together with the names and addresses of purchases of the meat by retail. At the end of each month, the butcher will pay into the Department of Agriculture fund a levy of about $5 per head of cattle and $1.20 per head of sheep slaughtered during the month. The proceeds of this levy will be used to finance the free meat proposals which are expected to cost $2,000,000.

A small army of inspectors will be appointed to visit every farm in the Free State and tattoo the cattle there with a mark showing the earliest date on which each animal may be marketed. This plan is aimed to prevent a glut of animals coming on the home market and depressing prices. Heavy penalties will be imposed for the purchase or sale of unmarked cattle or for the marketing of marked animals before the date tattooed on their ears.

The Minister for Agriculture will compulsorily fix prices of cattle for the home market at rates corresponding to those obtained in the export markets and it will be illegal to sell or buy cattle under the stipulated price.

Meat contractors will be appointed in every town and village in the Free State for the supply of free meat to poor or unemployed persons. The government anticipates that in this way the home market will be considerably improved and that public health will benefit by the improved diet of the poorer classes. All poor persons will be entitled to weekly vouchers which they will present to the contractors in exchange for the meat supply and steps are being taken by the government to ensure that only good quality meat will be distributed in this way.

Powers are to be given to the police to superintend the working of the new plan and to deal with complaints by farmers and poor people.

Striking Galaxy Of Home Conveniences

Important Part Electricity Plays in Human Affairs Intelligently Demonstrated.

General Electric Exhibit.

Impressive indeed, and to the average visitor enlightening as to the important part electricity and its mechanical satellites play in the everyday lives of human beings, was the huge exhibit of the General Electric Company at the local exhibition. For there one saw gathered together in a spacious marquee practically all the marvellous electrical inventions of the age for catering to man's comfort and pleasure. And perhaps it is not too expletive to say that visitors were dumfounded at beholding attractively displayed and demonstrated so striking a galaxy of electric conveniences from hot pads for warming the bed to radios for bringing to one's fireside world-wide news and entertainment.

Then, of course, the interest was enhanced by the revelation that all these exhibits—Hotpoint ranges, Mazda lamps, Hotpoint table and cooking appliances, Hotpoint heating pads, self starting electric clocks, washers, radios, wringers, refrigerators and water coolers—are products of the General Electric Company with mammoth plants in our own city of Peterborough.

The Electric Kitchen

But the most arresting of this exhibit of exhibits was the compact model General Electric kitchen, which compelled the attention of visitors and told its own wordless story. The color scheme was cream and light blue with black where cooking would be done. Its equipment consisted, in part, of automatic range, refrigerator, china cabinet, electric dishwasher, plenty of cupboard containers for bread, flour and other cooking ingredients and appliances, together with a capacious Monel Metal Sink. This whole pleasing picture for housewives and cooks was appropriately finished off with an electric fan, electric clock, service table, 'phone and General Electric radio.

An outstanding feature in this model kitchen was the Monel Metal Sink, which sets a new note in beauty and convenience. It will not rust and resists corrosion. It is solid metal with nothing to chip or crack. Because it is resilient and sound deadened it lessens dish breaking and dish clatter.

Triumph of Research

This whole exhibit was a triumph of engineering research, bringing electric cookery and refrigeration within reach of modest homes. New features of the refrigerators are lowest operating cost, five years' protection, all-steel "Liftop" cabinet, more room and convenience, and wider variety of uses. The electric ranges are automatic, simple and compact, with top and front of "Stainless" gleaming white porcelain. There are three surface units and an extra large oven.

From the position the body was in on the north side of the feet about three feet from the rails, the opinion of the jury was that he could not have fallen from the top of a car, he must have either attempted to jump or lost his footing and fell. There were several bruises on the body and according to Dr. C. C. Armstrong thte man's neck was broken.

WOMAN FOUND SHOT

EDMONTON, Aug. 25. —(CP)—Alma Armstrong, 23, today was in hospital here and Thomas W. Higginson, 48, real estate company employe, was held on a charge of attempted murder as a result of a shooting in Higginson's home.

The woman, shot through the shoulder near the neck, was reported to be in a serious condition.

Higginson, police said, denied the shooting. He said he went out to his garage to get his car, heard a shot, and returned to find the girl lying wounded on a bedroom floor.

FROCKS WITH TOUCH OF CONTRAST SURE TO MAKE HIT AT COLLEGE.

WHAT SHOULD you look for in autumn clothes, whether you're the home girl or the college-going maid? White collars with touches of black; dresses that fasten in the back; high necks; stand-up collars; jabots and ruffles; Peter Pan collars—they're ever so smart — monograms individualising frocks, big buckles; lots and lots of buttons.

These are just a few of the highlights.

You'll be at the head of the class in chic if you decide on the two-piece knitted frock, sketched at the left. It's in a ribbed material, the blouse with turn-over collar and two contrasting silk bows.

And you are sure to make a hit in the angora wool frock, right. Everything about it is new and smart—high neckline, touch of white, buttons on the shoulders, four pockets, wide armholes, and braided belt.

Brown comes first in color popularity, after black, green next, and red will be very popular.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 25. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The Mill clinched another win over the Clerks last evening when they counted a 12-6 win in the Campbellford town softball league playoffs. Played on the school grounds before a large crowd of fans the game was a tight fielding affair with the Mill taking the breaks and holding the Clerks to five blank innings.

Pitching was good, both Holmes and McComb doing excellent work on the mound. The teams:

LIBERAL PARTY IS RE-ORGANIZED

Campbellford who asked that their names be withdrawn from the ballot.

Mr. Fraser's Acceptance

In acknowledging his unanimous nomination as the federal standard-bearer of the Northumberland Liberals, Mr. Fraser pledged himself to throw into the Dominion election, which he said might come this year, every energy he could command, and on that promise he appealed for the same loyal support which he had received in the past.

"So long as the people of this county extend to me the loyalty that secured victory for us in the past, so long will I be willing to make the sacrifice necessary to become your representative."

Mr. Fraser declared that he was delighted with the results of the provincial election, and especially with the wisdom shown by the electorate in sending to the Legislature a man of the outstanding character of Mr. Carr.

"I just leave this thought with you," Mr. Fraser remarked. "If the Henry goverment had been returned what would have happened to this province in the next four years?"

A voice from the audience—We'd be bankrupt.

"I think the people of this province realize more than ever today." Mr. Fraser continued. "that politics is their business. It literally means the spending of money out of your pockets and mine. They came to the realization that it was absolutely necessary to put a new president and board of directors in charge of the business of Ontario, and I feel sure that the people generally are reassured by the way Mitchell Hepburn and his Cabinet have taken things by the neck in this province.

Tribute to Duffus.

No platform in this district, and may I say anywhere in Ontario, would be complete without the presence of my good friend Joe Duffus of Peterborough to expound the principles of Liberalism. And I am glad to take this opportunity of thanking him for the time, the energy and also the money he has contributed to the cause of Liberalism in Central Ontario. You are all aware of his activities as president of the Central Ontario Association, and I migh say that the Association in this district provided the inspiration for the larger organization throughout the province which resulted in the election of Mr. Hepburn. The Central Ontario Association was the model for other groups of Liberals."

Mr. Fraser said that the occasion also called for a warm acknowledgment of the assistance that had been given to Liberal candidates in the riding in recent years by so many ardent helpers.

"From my experience I don't think there is any other constituency in Canada where you can find a more loyal body of supporters than right here in Northumberland. The people of Northumberland are determined that the Tory forces will never again be permitted to dominate their lives in this riding.

We are building up the ranks of democracy in Northumberland by the influx to our party of broad-minded citizens who realize that only by the democratic principles of Liberalism can they secure the fullest measure of Canadianism. Liberals and Conservatives alike have taken new heart by recent events, and so we are submitting the new constitution which places political autonomy in the first place upon the people of every polling subdivision. That should provide direct representation by the people and for the people. No one has any greater rights than the man or woman casting their ballot."

Says Liberals Ready

Mr. Fraser stated that the last four years had demonstrated the failure of the promises made by the Hon. R. B. Bennett in the last federal elections. The Liberal party under the leadership of the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King was already prepared with a program to present to the people as soon as the next federal campaign opens.

Two vicious policies of the Bennett government would be attacked, high tariffs and high money rates a combination which, Mr. Fraser said, was retarding the progress of this country.

"We are utterly opposed to the Bennett principle of hog-tieing Canada to the Empire. We believe in the good old Laurier policy of giving the Mother Country the trade preferences which built up the exchange of trade between Canada and Great Britain. We don't believe in going to the Old Country with a gun in one hand. The policy of the Liberal party is to do business with those countries that are willing to do business with us. We contend that Canada should divorce itself from the ultra-nationalistic policy of the Hon. R. B. Bennett. We are convinced, and the world is realizing it more and more every month that this policy of utra-nationalism is one of the greatest factors in causing the conditions that exist today.

We want to build up foreign trade wherever we can find it, and the success of the Liberal policies in the past is a guarantee of the success that will return as soon as the people get a chance to put a new administration at the head of Canada's business at Ottawa.

Nations cannot live to themselves alone. That is one of the lessons of the last few years. Utranationalism is contrary to Liberal thought and practice. When we get a chance to remove once more the obstacles that have been erected in the channels of trade by the Bennett Government we will be starting out again on the road to that prosperity which, as Mr. Duffus has said, has always been experienced in this country under Liberal governments."

Harold N. Carr

As the successful candidate in the July elections, Harold N. Carr was given a rousing reception when he was called upon to address the meeting. He thanked the people of the county for the confidence they had demonstrated in him, and renewed his promise to do his best to represent their interests in the Legislature as they expected of him.

Mr. Carr briefly reviewed the house-cleaning process which the Hepburn government was carrying on at Queen's Park. It was necessary, he said, to find out exactly the conditions of every department of the provincial affairs, and revelations which had already been brought out must have been a surprise to Conservatives as well as to Liberals.

"The administration of the affairs of this province is big business," said Mr. Carr. "Some persons may be impatient here and there that some things which seem important to them have not yet been started; but, the Hepburn policy demands that we must know first where we stand. You must realise that the disease of heavy debt that afflicts this province has been developing for twenty-nine years, and no one can reasonably expect that a remedy and cure can be applied in a few weeks. Before things are undertaken now, the approval of every department must be received."

The Hydro changes, the kindly spirit in which the so-called hunger marchers had been received in their petition to the Government, the revealing light that had been thrown upon the methods of the Victoria Park Commission at Niagara Falls under the Henry administration, the discoveries that had been made recently in regard to Hydro, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway affairs, the Northern Airways service, and the demand for cheaper money from the banks and financial interests were all evidences, Mr. Carr declared, of the prompt and business-like manner in which the Hepburn government had applied themselves to fulfilling the promises made to the people of Ontario in the election campaign.

He also expressed his approval of Hon. Mr. Roebuck's plans to raise the standard of the police courts of the province. The fee system by which many magistrates were paid had many objectionable features and required some radical change. Mr. Carr believed there had been too much interference with police courts, and it was the Attorney-General's desire to provide in these lower courts justice for every citizen.

"During my term as Mayor of Campbellford I consistently refused to be a police court fixer, believing that an innocent person had nothing to fear. The Hepburn administration is receiving the approval of fair-minded Conservatives, many of whom have said to me that they voted for the Henry administration but they were not proud of it now as they realize more and more the necessity of the changes that have taken place. The Hepburn government has a keen desire to give you an administration that will be above reproach, a record that you will be proud of four years from now. That is the aim of all of us."

J. J. Duffus.

In the provincial campaign, J. J. Duffus recalled, the Henry government advocates had tried to make the people believe that Mitchell Hepburn had no platform and no policy. Recent events had proved the truth of the Liberal assertions that the Hepburn platform was something real, and that Ontario needed it.

Premier Hepburn had promised to cut in half the annual cost of government, and already had made a reduction of $3,000,000. Nobody could honestly object to what had been accomplished in that direction, Mr. Duffus said, and a great many Conservatives were in accord with most if not all the economies that had been put into effect.

Mr. Hepburn had promised that public accounts should be public property, and he was proceeding along the line that the people should know how their money had been and was being spent. Hydro management was in good hands, Mr. Duffus continued, and there was every confidence that under the leadership of Stewart Lyon it would be brought back to the original conception of the late Hon. Adam Beck.

"We should be most grateful to those Conservatives who gave us their support in the provincial elections, Mr. Duffus concluded. "They were dissatisfied with the former administration, and consequently the great change. It should be the aim of the Liberals to deserve their co-operation in the future."

Frenzied by floods a tiger sprang on a raft floating down a swollen river at Singmari, in Assam, and kept the human occupants in terror until it leaped into an overhanging tree.

ENVOYS OF SALVATION ARMY GATHER TO NAME COMMANDER

$100,000,000 EMPIRE

By Central Press Canadian.

LONDON. — Almond-eyed Japanese clad in kimonas, Hindus wearing turbans, Africans with bushy hair, Chinese, Swedes, Danes, North Americans, Persians, Argentinians, and scores from other lands are converging by steamer, plane, railway and hoseback.

The first high council in five years for the election of a new commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army has been summoned and for months delegates from faraway ports in 82 lands, have been making their way to London.

Back in 1877, William Booth, whose great mane of white hair, and long beard, gave him the aspect of a biblical prophet, gave the name of Salvation Army to the missionary organization that worked in the poverty-devasted districts of this city.

Music, uniforms and drill were embodied in a militant battle with the devil. The idea was new and spread to the world's remote corners. A special flag was created for the army, and poke bonnets, severe visored caps and military clothes of blue were adopted. The tambourine became a symbol of mercy.

$100,000,000 Empire.

The Salvation Army virtually is a world empire, with hospitals, hotels and industrial enterprises circling the globe, and valued at nearly $100,000,000. National headquarters in 82 countries and colonies head an evangelistic force of more than 30,000 full time workers. The 14,000 outposts or chapels are stations for hundreds of thousands of volunteers.

On street corners in Osaka, Paris, Chicago, Warsaw and Stockholm, the brass instruments of the army can be heard. Their activity is a veritable "league of nations."

But the organization that that brought the name of the bearded founder to world fame, and made him a friend of kings and statesmen, has been a source of frustration and bitterness to his sturdy family of eight children who followed in the army.

For General Ballington Booth, who was sent to America to organize posts back in 1904, army activities resulted in hostility with his father, which finally led to his resignation. He organized a rival army, the Christian Volunteers.

Succeeding him as U. S. commander, his sister Evangeline, by brilliant industry soon made her territory the wealthiest of the army's sectors. Her coal-scuttle bonnet with its big red ribbons, became a familiar sight during great charity campaigns. Under a New York law, she and four trustees are solely responsible for the organization's millions of assets.

In 1929, the first rumble against the Booth dynasty sounded and Gen. Bramwell Booth, first reigning heir over the holy war storm troopers was forced to resign after a long rule.

Report Dissension

Edward E. Higgins, commander in Canada, was chosen in his place, amid scenes of excitement and alleged "wire pulling" by various influential officers. Open dissension was reported in the Booth clan. Stories that founder William Booth had left a will arranging for the succession to the 'throne' arose, but were proved fiction.

Because the Salvation Army's domain is so extensive and the calling together of a high council so tedious, it is the policy to select a leader to govern for quite a number of years. This probably will rule out most of the older candidates who are already nearing the retirement age of 73. Various dark horses are frequently mentioned. Booth, regarded as one of the favorites, and her niece Commissioner Catherine Bramwell Booth, who it is asserted, believes she should have succeeded her father. But there is said to be a prejudice against the selection of a woman.

Outside the Booth dynasty, there is Commissioner Henry Mapp, the chief of staff, and a member of the army for more than 50 years. The commissioner has had long experience in handling foreign outposts from the London headquarters. Age and a reported autocratic manner stand in the way of his election.

Much younger and well liked by most of the higher officials is Commissioner Samuel Hurren, chancellor of the army's exchequer, who may be the winning candidate at the council session soon to be held.

Bandits Roast Alive Man, Seeking Money

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, August 24 (A.P.).—Roasted alive by torture bandits, Dimitri Radioyevich, a farmer of Golubais, was at the point of death to-day in a local hospital.

In an effort to save his father from the horrible torture, Radioyevich's son, who was bayoneted in cold blood by the bandits and seriously wounded, finally revealed the secret of the hiding place of his father's money. The family hoard totalled $140.

Police investigation disclosed the bandits had strapped the aged Radioyevich to a long pole, then turned him over repeatedly on a fire.

H. G. BRADY WINS BARNYARD GOLF EASTERN TITLE

Fenwick Veteran Wades Through Stiff Opposition to Take Horseshoe Honors.

AT LOCAL EXHIBITION.

H. G. Brady, of Fenwick, a veteran of the horse shoe courts and several times Western Ontario champion, sailed through a day of stiff competition with a group of the Dominion's headline tossers to win the Eastern Ontario horse shoe pitching championship at the Exhibition yesterday. He defeated Fern Ladoucer, 13-year-old boy wizard of Toronto, Ernie Nicholls, Bobcaygeon youngster, and George Craggs of Toronto, Ontario champion, in the final battle for the trophy.

Ernie with his brother, Len Nicholls, captured the doubles' championship with Brady and George Wiley, St. Catharines veteran, making a strong bid for the honours in taking second money. Craggs and Ladoucer finished the final round robin in third place and Lloyd and Frank McKay of Reaboro showed fourth.

Bert Courtney, Lindsay, defeated Len. Nicholls 25-10 in a final elimination match for the singles Class B title of the tournament—the class for pitchers below the championship grade of proficiency.

Twenty-eight Men

In all, twenty-eight men took part in the tournament which was sanctioned by the Dominion of Canada Horse Shoe Pitchers' Association. Sixteen competed in the Class A singles, twelve in he Class B' singles and twelve teams batted it out in the doubles. Having been held in Ottawa during recent years, it was the first holding of the Eastern Ontario championships at the Petergorough Exhibition.

The horse shoes commenced flying on the newly-prepared group of eight courts shortly after 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon and the last toss was not made until close to the midnight hour. A drizzle of rain interfered during the afternoon and discouraged quickly the sizeable audience on hand. But the pitchers followed through despite the fact that the cold, wet afternoon made first class tossing a difficulty. As dark fell, the tournament continued under artificial light, the rain gone but the cold remaining.

A Revelation

For spectators who had never seen a championship meet, the sight of pitchers nonchalantly dropping four, five and six ringers in succession over the pins was a revelation. But it was all in a days' work for men such as Brady, Craggs, Milligan and Wiley. Brady has been a consistently steady tournament player for the past 15 years. Cragg won his Ontario championship last year at the Owen Sound Provincial Plowing Match. Milligan and Wiley are both veterans who have been through many big tournaments.

The work of the two youngsters, Ladoucer and Ernie Nicholls, against the older men was a constant source of astonishment. Neither lad looks husky enough even to toss a shoe the full distance, much less score a ringer. Yet the play-off of these two lads against each other in the final round robin of the class A singles was one of the feature matches of the day. Time after time, four ringers resulted in no-score ends. Slightly steadier work toward the end gave Ladoucer a hard-won 35-29 victory.

Ladoucer, soon to be 14 years of age, has been tossing for three years. As well as holding Toronto district honors, he won the Central Ontario championship at Orillia the other day. Ernie Nicholls is 15 years old. Having pitched only for two years so far he has not yet had time to clean up any big meet but made a fine showing at the last Royal Winter Fair in Ottawa.

Headliners

Among the other headline contestants in the tournament were Ernie Beamish, Oshawa, a prominent contender for Ontario and Dominion championships during the last two years, Tom Drum of Roseneath, Ed. Ray of Reaboro, A. Cameron of Orillia and Jack and Robert Smith of Burketon.

Bert Campbell of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Dominion of Canada Horse Shoe Pitchers' Association, supervised the tournament, assisting Art Moffat and his Exhibition comaittee. Others officiating were Don Campbell, Percy Reid and Bry. Fleming. William Craggs of Toronto was official scorer.

Election Guns Boom In Australia

With Australia on the verge of a general election, political leaders of that continent are preparing their policies. Three main parties will contest the election led by the men shown above. LEFT is John T. Lang, premier of New South Wales and leader of the extreme left wing of the Labor party, main body of which recognizes James T. Scullin (LOWER RIGHT), former premier of Australia, as its head. Dr. Earl Page (UPPER RIGHT) heads the County party, representing the agricultural element. He contends that tariffs are the root of financial troubles and advocates loans to rural debtors. Premier Joseph Lyons, leader of the United Australia party is a strong protector of the big banks opposed to labor who advocate nationalization of banking institutions.

A goodly thing it is to meet

Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

MILLBROOK

A Muskoka branch of the Women's Institute, which meets monthly in a comfortable hall, it has helped materially to buy and furnish, and which is of course also used for other community gatherings, political and otherwise, social dances, and so forth, for its August meeting discussed, "National Flowers," a summer visitor, of which Muskoka has so many just now, supplying the talk.

"I do not need to tell you that the Motherland's beautiful symbol is the Rose, but perhaps you are not all familiar with the fact that it was adopted by Edward I in memory of his mother, who was known as "the Rose of Provence." A double bloom, showing a white rose within the red, was taken by Henry VII, who called his badge the 'Tudor Rose.' The Thistle of bonnie Scotland was chosen after the Danes had made a night attack on the Scottish camp, and a bare-footed soldier cried out after stepping into a clump of prickly thistles, making the enemy who drove out the invaders, and adopted the plant as their national flower 'forever' after as the story goes.

What shall we say of Ireland's Shamrock? It is declared to have derived its name from the Celtic 'seamrog;" you will recall how St. Patrick, when trying to explain the mystery of the Trinity used the little three-leaved clover as a symbol. The good saint had been almost in despair, but the people grasped the meaning as he showed the three leaflets on one stalk, and many embraced Christianity; so it became the National Emblem.

The Leek, a plant closely related to the onion, is the Welsh national flower, and surely it should be the symbol of a strong nation. How it came to be chosen is a matter of tradition: Edward, King of Northumbia, was about to join battle with Cadwallan, the Welsh leader, and the former ordered each of his own men to wear a leek in his helmet that he might be able to distinguish them in the fight. The Welsh won and ever after claimed the leek as their country's flower.

Many legends explain how the fleur-de-lys came to be France's national blossom; it is really an iris and the most sensible tradition is that the early Franks used this flower in their coronation ceremonies; the king chosen was carried among the people holding an iris in his hand, as a sceptre. For thousands of years the Lotus of Egypt has been used to represent that land—it is the oldest by far of any of the national flowers. Travellers in the Alps know the dainty edelweiss of Switzerland, and the chrysanthemum, Japan's national flower has been grown there for centuries, though why it was originally adopted is not known.

From 'down under' we find that the wattle was chosen by Australia in 1911, and they celebrate a special day, September 1, as "Wattle Day;" while New Zealand's emblem is the fern which flourishes so luxuriantly in that favored country. Sweden has the amaranth, which we call by the strange name of 'love-lies-bleeding,' and India the jasmine; Holland claims the orange lily; the blue cornflower is very dear to Germany, and Spain has adopted the pomegranate. The 'why of these choices not always clear, but the story so far as Germany is concerned goes like this: During the Napoleonic wars when France threatened Berlin, Queen Louise, of Prussia, fled with her children from the city. The royal mother hid her children in a cornfield to save them from the French cavalry, and amused them by weaving crowns from the blue cornflowers that grew all around. Her son, Kaiser Wilhelm I., Germany's first emperor, recalled the incident and hence the choice of this blossom to represent his land.

Why Canada chose the Maple Leaf is not familiar to me, nor why the United States has no national flower, though the golden rod is often stated to have this position. It would be worth while too to speculate why some nation has not chosen the lovely pansy, the sweet pea, th lowly vicolet, or the fragrant carnation."

A social hour, with the service of afternoon tea, closed the gathering.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 25.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Misses Mary and Roberta Wood acted as hostesses to the girls of the local softball team and other friends at a corn roast held on their farm on Wednesday evening.

The location was quite ideal for the occasion as it was choosen on the banks of a large creek which flows through the farm and at the edge of a woods, which made a beautiful background when the clear full moon shone brightly.

About thirty of the young people were present, including Mr. and Mrs. L. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brackenridge, Misses. M. and R. Wood, P. Carl, B. and A. Barnard, M. Whittington, M. Hall, Messrs. M. Wood, J. Varcoe, K. and S. Lang, S. and L. Johnston, R. Larmer, H. Lang, N. Fry, A. Brown, J. Ackison, K. and J. Barnard, T. and M. Jewison, F. Barnard, H. Jewison, J. Henry, W. Howson.

The evening was pleasantly spent in a social hour around the fire and playing games.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Elliott, of Hamilton, spent a few days this week the guests of friends in the district.

Mrs. A. B. Byers has been on an extended motor trip with Mrs. H. Perrin, of Peterborough.

Mr. H. C. Howson was a visitor to Guelph on Wednesday.

BUSINESS IMPROVING IN ENGLAND SAYS VISITOR

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—(C.P.)—An improvement in economic and business conditions in England was remarked by E. C. Young, publisher of the Guelph Daily Mercury, Guelph, Ont., when he arrived from England to-night on the liner Duchess of Atholl.

"Industrialists in England," he said, "while they are not over-enthusiastic about business conditions, see a great improvement." He stated that he had spent only a short time in England and had not had time to investigate the conditions in the country thoroughly, however.

"They are not claiming that full prosperity has returned," he continued, "but they see it is not far distant."

He left for Guelph immediately after the boat docked.

GOING TO HAMILTON.

Fred T. Hart, senior weights and measures inspector of Belleville division is to be promoted to the district inspectorship at Hamilton, according to intimation received by him from the Weights and Measures Inspection Service at Ottawa. The transfer is to take effect on September 1, and he is to be succeeded here by T. J. Fleury of Belleville.

Mr. Hart came here from England twenty-one years ago, and has since spent a greater part of his time as resident of this city. He is not only well-known and highly regarded in the city, but throughout the wide district in which his duties took him with periodical regularity, and which includes Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton and North Hastings counties.

Before going overseas with the 39th Battalion, Mr. Hart was employed with the Canadian General Electric Company, but since demobilization has been in the civil service for which he qualified by examination.

When overseas he was transferred to the 21st Battalion, and was wounded at Arras in May, 1916. Since his return to civil life Mr. Hart has maintained steady allegiance to his former overseas unit. He was vice-president of the 21st Battalion Club, and secretary-treasurer and circulation manager of the 21st Battalion Association.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(C.P.) — Bernard Train, youthful runaway of Fort Erie, Ont., will be sent back to his parents early next week officials of the Furness, Withy Steamship Line announced to-day.

Train, son of a Canadian customs officer at Fort Erie, stowed away on one of the company's vessels at Trinidad but was apprehended by United States' immigration officials when the ship arrived here.

TIGHT STRUGGLES MARK FIRST ENCOUNTERS OF SOCCER YEAR

Arsenal, 1933 Champions, Held to 3-3 Deadlock at Portsmouth.

SPURS ALSO TIED 1-1.

LONDON, Aug. 25 (C.P. Cable).—The long English football season got under way to-day with large crowds turning out to greet the return of their favorites.

Some close struggles marked the initial encounters. Arsenal, champions for the past two season, went to Portsmouth to meet the losers in the Cup final, and were held to a 3-3 tie. At White Hart Lane Tottenham Hotspurs were kept to a 1-1 tie by Everton, which has Dixie Dean back as captain of the eleven. Manchester City, the Cup-holders, were also unable to do more than split the points in a 1-1 battle at West Bromwich.

The two teams promoted to the First Division this season clashed in their first engagement, and Preston got the better of Grimsby Town by a 1-0 count.

Meets First Defeat.

GLASGOW, Aug. 25 (C.P. Cable).—Glasgow Rangers, champions and Cup-holders, took their first defeat in four starts in the Scottish Soccer League to-day, losing by the odd goal in five at Dundee.

As a result, Clyde, lowly eleven last season, jumped into undisputed leadership of the League by one point, with a 2-1 victory over St. Mirren at Paisley. St. Johnstone and Hibernians, hitherto deadlocked with Clyde for second place, fell back, St. Johnstone getting a scoreless tie with Celtic, while the Hibs lost to Aberdeen, 3-2, on their own grounds.

There were also in the sanctuary, Most Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Peterborough, who was assisted by Rev. Father McFadden of Downeyville and Rev. Father Guiry of Port Hope. With bidding opening at $6 per cwt., Canadian Department Stores buyer made closing bid of $8.10 per cwt. for a first prize pen of 5 Shropshire market lambs exhibited by J. M. Fisher of Woodville. He also secured a third prize pen of 5 Shropshire market lambs at $6.40 per cwt. exhibited by Bowles Brothers of Ida.

Robert Dale, Rubidge street paid $7 per cwt. for Charles Whittington and Sons, South Monaghan, second prize pen of 5 Shropshire market lambs; and also secured the prize winning pen of 8 Tamworth market hogs, exhibited by Newton Taylor of Burketon, with a top bid of $6.75 per cwt.

A bid of 96 per cwt. by Graham Eastwood secured for Canada Packers Limited a choice pen of 8 Leicester market lambs from John Cullis, Oakwood.

In opening the sale Vivian Milburn, managing director of the Fair Board, said that the rule requiring market lambs and hogs to be sold at auction for slaughter was inaugurated last year, and had been designed to encourage farmers to enter the market classes. It had been felt, he said, that formerly the breeders had been taking "all the plums." The Board, Mr. Milburn stated, were anxious to see increased interest on the part of the farmers in the market classes. Personally he felt it was one of the worthwhile things about the Fair.

CAFE REFUSES TO SERVE HEIR TO ROTHSCHILD BARONY

Jew Asked to Leave by Manager of Fashionable Road House

DOESN'T WORRY HIM

London.—Victor Rothschild, 24-year-old heir to the Rothschild barony, has disclosed an extraordinary story of racial prejudice at a fashionable London road-house.

The matter was raised yesterday at the Liberal summer school when Miss E. L. Josephy, secretary of the League of Young Liberals, said that "a well-known rich young Jew who married a society girl had been refused a meal at a road house because he was a Jew."

Mr. Rothschild, later admitted that he was the "young man" referred to.

"Some friends and I were passing the road-house and decided to drop in for some food," he explained. "Soon after I had entered a man whom I took to be the manager came up and said: 'Excuse me, sir, are you a Jew?' My appearance, in any case, is hardly Aryan. I told him that I was a Jew. He then said that he was sorry but in that case he could not serve me and I should have to leave. No explanation was offered. food is just as good," Mr. Rothschild declared.

"Personally, I was not in the least worried about the matter. There are plenty of other road-houses where the food is just as good," Mr. Rothschild declared.

COLLEGE DON APPEALS FINE FOR OBSTRUCTING

Claims No Intention To Keep Police Out Following Bottle Throwing

Cambridge.—Two university dons were summoned for obstructing a police sergeant and a constable.

They were Rev. Harold Edward Wynn, dean of Pembroke College, and Aubrey Leonard Attwater, an assistant tutor.

After an absence of 35 minutes the bench decided by a majority to fine Mr. Attwater and to dismiss the case against Mr. Wynn. Formal notice of appeal was given.

F. D. Ivey, prosecuting, said the case arose out of an incident on the last night of the Cambridge races when Pembroke finished head of the river. Following the usual bump and supper a Mr. Snaith was standing outside the college about 10.45 p.m. when a glass fell at his feet and he kicked the broken pieces into the gutter.

Directly afterwards a bottle also fell from the same window. Mr. Snaith saw a man take deliberate aim with another bottle at a constable who was directing traffic. The officer was struck on the wrist and the bottle fell and was smashed.

The constable went to the college to seek information and a number of undergraduates came down, but on the arrival of Mr. Attwater they dispersed.

The police constable, said Mr. Levy, was told by Mr. Attwater that he had no right to come into the college without a warrant and that the police might leave it to the college authorities to deal with the matter.

Both defendants were told that the facts would be reported to the authorities.

Mr. Attwater said he had no intention of obstructing the police. He dismissed the undergraduates before he spoke to the police sergeant and before he knew the reason for the presence of the police.

Mr. Wynn said he arrived at the front gate of the college after the undergraduates had been dismissed. In his opinion the police were not entitled to enter further into the college, but he could not have prevented them had they demanded to do so.

SHIP ALTERS COURSE TO RUSH MEDICAL AID

Vessels Meet in Mid-Atlantic Saving Officer's Life

Plymouth. — How two ships arranged to meet in mid-Atlantic so that the life of a ship's engineer might be saved was revealed when the Dutch liner Venezuela from the West Indies put into harbor here.

The chief engineer of the London cargo steamer Maidenhead, bound from the United States to West Africa, was taken suddenly ill while the ship was in mid-ocean.

The Venezuela was in mid-Atlantic when she picked up a radio message from the Maidenhead asking for medical advice for the officer, who was suffering from serious internal trouble.

"We have no doctor on board," tapped out the message.

Dr. Van der Sluys of the Venezuela wirelessed advice that certain drugs should be used and fresh fruit given the patient.

The reply came that the Maidenhead had neither drugs nor fruit on board. The captain of the Venezuela then arranged that the two ships should meet at a certain point in the Atlantic.

The ships met, Dr. Van der Sluys boarded the Maidenhead and treated the patient, who was in a critical condition.

The treatment gave immediate relief and the doctor left the necessary drugs and advice for further treatment, which resulted in the life of the engineer being saved.

CROPS DEFY DROUGHT

London.—This year's grain harvest in the British Isles promises to yield better crops than anybody expected from the great drought.

Winter barley, wheat and oats, now being gathered in the southern half of England, have not been seriously affected by the lack of rain.

WAVES THREATEN LOWESTOFT HOMES

Building "Defences" to Check Ocean's Inroads

Lowestoft. — By the end of 1934 nearly $1,250,000 will have been spent by Lowestoft in an effort to save its coast from erosion.

At the north end of the town $1,000,000 has already been spent in "coast defence."

The town council is now awaiting the ministry of health's sanction of a $250,000 scheme for saving the Pakefield area.

"There are houses in this area which 14 years ago were 20 yards from the sea. They are now only inches from the cliff's edge and in constant danger of toppling," an official said. "We are considering building a concrete wall 250 feet long. Already steel work in front of the proposed wall is being erected, so urgent is the need."

Meanwhile, residents further along the coast are living in dread of the gales to come. They are demanding government action to help save their land.

METHODISTS AGAINST WOMEN IN PULPITS

Vote Down Proposal That Females Enter Itinerant Ministry

Leicester.—A proposal that women should be admitted to the Methodist itinerant ministry was rejected at the Methodist conference.

The question was placed before the conference in the form of a recommendation by a committee in favor of their admission, and an amendment expressing the opinion that there was not sufficient support for the scheme to justify proceeding with it at present was carried by 180 votes to 159.

The conference, however, decided to appoint a committee to consider developments of the existing ministry of women.

In presenting the report of the committee which made the recommendation to admit women to the itinerant ministry Rev. Hickman Johnson said he felt it would be against the mind of a strong section of the church if women were refused entrance.

Marriage, he said, was regarded by the committee as equivalent to resignation from the ministry.

"The motive behind the movement," he added, "is not a question of women's rights. It is not a feminist movement. Sex is neither a qualification nor a disqualification for the ministry."

Rev. J. H. Rattenbury (moving the amendment, which was carried) stated that at present sex, without any denial of sex equality, could prevent women being in particular professions. He believed in sex equality, but did not believe that sex equality "made it suitable for a woman to be a miner or an engine driver."

Mrs. Duncan Leith said: "We know you would not take us on because we are cheap. We are not seeking the ministry because it would give us a better economic position. We are content to receive what every minister is content to receive, a living wage."

DOCTORS MAKE SOCKET OUT OF ORDINARY BONE

Cripple Walks After Six Years as Unusual Operation Successful

London.—A seven-year-old girl who seemed doomed to remain a cripple is to-day running about and playing with other children in consequence of a remarkable operation performed at Victoria Hospital for Children.

The child, Gwen Jenkins, was taken to the hospital nearly six years ago. She was then sixteen months old and had been born without a socket to one of her hips.

For two years the child had her hips in plaster of Paris. Then a remarkable operation was performed.

The surgeons took a piece of bone from the sound limb, fashioned it into a socket, and placed it in the crippled hip, which was then again placed in plaster of Paris.

For two years the plaster remained and then in May this year the doctors decided to free the limb. They discovered that the operation was successful—up to that point.

The socket worked naturally, but it was not strong, and a daily course of exercise and massage was begun.

Then recently the child's joy was made complete. She was placed on the floor, and after a little hesitation she began to walk.

Brighton. — When a man named Jackson, on holiday here from Birmingham, heard cries for help from a boy bather in difficulties near the Palace Pier, he jumped fully dressed into the sea and swam to the boy's assistance.

Only when he had brought the drowning boy ashore did he find that he had rescued his own son, aged 6.

OFFICIAL CIRCLES ALARMED AS VALUABLE PAPERS LOST

Locate Naval Reports in Railroad Yards After Day's Search

FEAR SPY CHAIN

London.—Scotland Yard, the admiralty section of the secret service and police forces up and down the country for 24 hours searched for a box containing naval secrets. It was found in a goods yard at Hebburn-on-Tyne.

They were reports on the trials of two 35-knot destroyers launched this year on the Tyne.

Anxiety over the disappearance of the papers was increased owing to the known existence of an international spy organisation which sells the secrets of any nation to the highest bidder.

Details of the performances of the two destroyers would have been of great interest to foreign naval powers, for the vessels are the most modern destroyers in the British navy.

But—the box containing the documents was found in a goods yard at Hebburn-on-Tyne.

It had apparently travelled 340 miles in the luggage vans of various trains.

ONE LOOK OUT WINDOW 'REMOVES' TOOTHACHE

Sign "Prepare to Meet Thy God" Enlightens Dentist

Dundee.—A Dundee dentist — the story was told at the British Dental Association's conference — wondered why so many of his patients suddenly left the chair and never returned.

It was particularly noticeable with those to whom he was about to administer gas. They sat down, then, without warning rose, said they would not take gas that day and walked out.

One day he sat in the chair himself and looked through the window.

On the opposite wall, on premises occupied by the Salvation Army, was the message, painted in large letters: "Prepare to Meet Thy God."

CLERIC BANS WREATHS WORN BY BRIDESMAIDS

Handkerchiefs Replace Adornments and Wedding Proceeds

Lydney.—Two bridesmaids arrived at a wedding at St. Mary's church wearing wreaths on their heads.

At the church porch they were stopped by the vicar, Rev. L. P. Jones. There was a hurried conversation. The best man and a sister of the bride joined in.

And when the bridesmaids walked down the aisle, their wreaths had been replaced — by just ordinary pocket-handkerchiefs.

The vicar had refused to allow them to enter the church without more substantial headdress.

BOY, ASLEEP, FALLS INTO RIVER BLYTH

Carried by Tide, He Is Then Rescued

Southwold.—Screams from the river Blyth in the middle of the night led to the dramatic rescue of a boy scout, aged 11, who after walking in his sleep 600 yards from a tent had fallen over the unprotected quayside into the water.

The lad, Cyril Freeman, who lives in West Norwood, S.E., was with a large party of scouts from all parts of England in camp at the harbor mouth.

His disappearance between one and three o'clock, was not seen by officials or boys.

Cyril, who cannot swim, awoke on striking the water, and had the presence of mind to turn on his back and let the tide, which was running in, carry him up the river. He was rescued by Peter Remblance and George May who heard his cries.

STATE MAY CONTROL COAL OIL CONTROL

Miners Anxious to Have Government Establish Extraction Plants

London.—National control of the production of coal oil is being seriously considered by the government.

It is probable that when parliament reassembles in the autumn a special bill will be introduced to empower the board of trade to establish extraction plants in most of the big coalfields.

Such a scheme would serve a double purpose. It would stimulate the coal industry in many areas and would also meet the demand of the Conservatives for a war reserve of home-produced oil.

The matter has been under discussion by a cabinet committee which is considering the reports of the special commissioners who recently visited the derelict areas.

If the government decides on a big oil drive they will have the enthusiastic support of the miners, who passed a strong resolution on these lines at their annual conference at Edinburgh.

It was on this very issue that the miners abandoned their free trade principles and declared for tariffs on foreign oil.

Dublin.—Miss Fay Taylour, dirt track rider and trick driver, won the Leinster trophy 100-mile handicap race over the Skerries circuit.

The only woman competitor in a field of 29, she drove a German Adler, winning by a minute from Austin Dobson, driving an Alfa-Romeo.

Miss Taylour averaged 61.20 miles per hour. Dobson's speed of 72.40 miles per hour was the fastest in the race.

"SELF-MADE" MOVIE ACTRESS SOLD RAZOR BLADES TO LIVE

Theatre Magnate's Daughter Renounced Wealth to Realize Ambition

TIRED OF SOCIETY

London.—Tired of wealth and the monotonous round of society life, a beautiful Australian girl set out to gain success as a "self-made" girl.

She renounced money and position and sailed for Britain penniless.

Here she sold razor blades and silk stockings to earn a living—not a very good living, and for a time she had to live on hot milk and biscuits.

Off to Hollywood

To-day she is a film star, bound for Hollywood.

Her name is Carol Coombe, daughter of Sir Thomas Coombe, rich Australian theatre magnate.

Her three years' struggle to make good had ended with a contract with Universal pictures. Her performance on the west end stage in "Finished Abroad" established her as a first-class actress.

"I lived in a tiny bed-sitting room," she said. "Every morning I got up at six o'clock and wandered down Baker St. with a large brown paper parcel, containing sandwiches and film make-up, to visit the studios. Then I got a job at Olympia, and for ten hours a day I stood by the stall using all my acting powers to sell razor blades. Two months ago I made a film test of a scene in "Finished Abroad." The reel was sent to Hollywood. At last the contract came—and it all seemed too marvellous."

HUMAN CHAIN CHEATS QUICKSAND OF VICTIMS

Two Persons Disappear From Sight When Rescuers Arrive

London.—Paddling in the sea at a quiet spot near the Burnham-on-Sea, Somerset, lighthouse, a London man, his wife and daughter, were caught in the quicksands.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Cox and their daughter, who are touring Somerset by car.

All three were taken to the Burnham hospital, where Mrs. Cox and the child recovered after treatment, but Mr. Cox was detained suffering from shock.

With the child between them Mr. and Mrs. Cox, neither of whom can swim, had just reached the water when suddenly the sand beneath them began to slide away.

They continued to sink and soon all that could be seen was the woman's upraised hand and arm. The husband and child were not to be seen at all.

Mrs. Cox was eventually pulled out in a semi-conscious condition. The man managed to take hold of the child's hand.

His struggles, however, took him further out to sea and there, in a short time, he came to the surface. A human chain was formed of the crowd that gathered and Inspector Higgins, of the Llanelly police, who was on holiday, plunged into the water and pulled Mr. Cox and the child to safety.

PARISH CHURCH IN DANGER

Worshippers to Raise Funds to Restore Beetles' Ravages

Creech St. Michael.—This Somerset village of 915 people, most of whom work on the land, has set itself the task of raising £5,000 to save the parish church, which dates back to the twelfth century.

The death watch beetle has been active, and an architect has reported that "the chancel arch and walling over may collapse at any moment."

ROPE TRICK DIES WITH ILLUSIONIST

Death Intervenes as De Biere Nearing Fame

London.—Arnold de Biere, king of illusionists, is dead and the secret of the Indian rope trick died with him.

For years he had studied the problem from every angle. His search for the knowledge of the fakirs had taken him all over the world. Recently he declared that he was within sight of success. "By the autumn," he said, "I shall be able to do it. I shall perform it in the open air, and I am certain that it will deceive everybody."

A friend said that Mr. de Biere's secret had died with him. "Even if he has left material dealing with the subject," he said, "it was his own genius which would have carried it to success."

SALES-CLERK CLAIMS RELATIONSHIP TO KING

Official Records Fail to Prove Girl Is His Majesty's Cousin

London.—Miss Pansy Caroline FitzGeorge, who works in a gown shop in Sydney, Australia, declares she is a cousin of King George.

She arrived in Sydney a few weeks ago from New Zealand to work at a modest salary.

Miss FitzGeorge, who uses her mother's surname and is known as "Pat" Reid, declares that her father, Frank Augustus FitzGeorge, was the son of Frederick FitzGeorge, the second Duke of Cambridge, commander in chief of the British army until he retired in 1895.

She possesses her own birth certificate and the marriage certificate of her parents.

It shows that the marriage took place at St. George's church, Thames, New Zealand, on April 25, 1906, when Frank Augustus FitzGeorge, gentleman, aged thirty-nine, married Lilian Esher Whitehead, spinster, aged twenty-four, according to the rites of the Roman Catholic church.

Giving particulars of his parents, the bridegroom stated that his father was "Frederick George, field-marshal, British army."

Frederic and George were actually two of the names of the second Duke of Cambridge, and he was a field-marshal in the British army.

Her father is dead. Her mother, who has married again, is living in New Zealand.

She secured the certificates of marriage and birth from the registrar-general's office in New Zealand.

She believes that her grandfather was the Duke of Cambridge, who outraged tradition by marrying Miss Fairbrother, an actress, against the wishes of Queen Victoria, who never recognized the marriage.

Miss FitzGeorge's claim is not corroborated by official records.

SUNDAY DINNERS COLD WHEN HEATING FAILS

Homes In 10,000 Sq. Miles Affected By Power Break-Down

London. — Ten thousand square miles of southern and eastern England was affected by a recent breakdown of the electricity grid system.

The breakdown covered London and 16 counties, with a population of nearly twelve millions.

With London as the centre the affected area stretched to King's Lynn in the north, Yarmouth in the east, Basingstoke in the west and Eastbourne in the south.

All London tramways and several electric railways stopped. Crowds besieged other forms of transport.

Traffic lights failed, police were called out. Radio sets and electric clocks stopped. Thousands of Sunday dinners spoiled in hospitals, restaurants and homes where cooking is done by electricity.

Electrically pumped church organs were silenced. Garage pumps would not deliver petrol. Some telephone exchanges out of order.

The breakdown began at 11.45 a.m. and it lasted for periods varying from half an hour to three hours.

The failure was at the huge $30,000,000 power station at Battersea, which was opened last year.

GIRL SERVES IN CREW OF TRAMP STEAMER

"Miss Bourne an Excellent Sailor," Testifies Captain

Falmouth.—High up in the rigging of a racing windjammer rounding Cape Horn in a gale, the bravest "man" of the crew was a girl of 25.

Tall, trim, brunette Pamela Bourne, the beautiful daughter of the former defence secretary of South Africa, the late Sir Ronald Bourne, has gone to sea as an A.B.

Out of Wallaroo, South Australia, with a cargo of wheat, she took her place on deck with the toughest salts of the seven seas, though she had never seen a sailing ship before.

She clung suspended on a plank under the bows in mid-ocean and chipped paint from the Herzogin Cecilie's figurehead and repainted her—13 times.

After 117 days afloat Miss Bourne landed at Falmouth, bronzed, healthy, and full of stories about cohorts of whales and the wonders of the Southern Ocean.

Once a society reporter, she now carries in her handbag a sailor's discharge on which Skipper Erickson has written—"Miss Bourne is an excellent sailor."

GANG MEMBER REVEALS HOW REICHSTAG FIRED

Fellow Conspirator Drops From Sight After Refusing to Take Oath

ONE ESCAPED HITLER

Paris.—Ex-Storm Trooper E. Kruse, membership No. 134,822, who was personal servant of the executed Capt. Roehm, has written a sensational letter from Switzerland, where he fled after having escaped during the Nazi "clean-up" in Munich.

Describing himself as the last surviving incendiary of the Reichstag, he gave a detailed account of the way in which the German parliament was fired on February 27, 1933.

He announced that he is forwarding documents about it to the British government, and he has sent a copy of his letter to three newspapers in neutral countries, including the Deutsche Freiheit, of Saarbrucken.

Kruse says that on February 10, 1933, Roehm, Heines and Ernst (all shot in the "clean up") had selected a group of eleven reliable S. A. men who were summoned to a secret meeting at which plans for the arson were explained.

Everyone was sworn to secrecy and told to wait for further orders. One of the S.A. men, named Lobike, refused to take the oath and was taken away and never heard of again.

Kruse gives the names of all the other nine men, and explains how Van der Lubbe was told that he would be arrested and sentenced to satisfy public opinion, but later would be released secretly and sent to America with a large fortune.

The ten sworn men had to take part in two rehearsals for which they gathered in the cellars of Goering's presidential palace, walked through the underground passage to the Reichstag and were shown the places where they would have to lie down inflammable material.

On the evening of February 27 they were each given a bag of explosives, attached to which were celluloid strips, and went to the Reichstag, where Heines and Ernst lit the celluloid after Lubbe was in his place.

Kruse says that of the thirteen men involved, one after another mysteriously disappeared, except Roehm, Heines, Ernst and two S.A. men, one named Nagel—a friend of Heines—and himself.

At the end of June Roehm had threatened to reveal the truth of the fire if Hitler disbanded the storm troops, and it was merely by chance that he was not in Roehm's house on the night of June 30 that Kruse succeeded in escaping the "Leader's" vengeance.

Nazi leaders who have fled to the Saar to escape the "clean-up" confirm the existence of a storm trooper of the name and detachment, but have no knowledge of his present whereabouts.

MILLS CLOSE; 15,000 IDLE

FLOODS ENDANGER BEAUTIFUL GARDEN

Locale of Song, "Pale Hands I Loved," Proves Refuge

Kashmir.—The Shalimar Garden—immortalized in the song "Pale Hands I Loved . . ." has narrowly escaped ruin by flooding.

It is one of the loveliest gardens in the world. The fountains of the garden are fed by melting snows of the Himalayas.

But this year's abnormal weather has sent millions of tons of melting snow sweeping down from the hills.

The garden, which was laid out centuries ago by invading Persians, was in grave danger for some time.

Kashmir is a land of lakes and rivers. Many of the people live in houseboats. In storms they take refuge in the lovely garden.

ONE LIFE OF KITTY SPLITS PARTNERSHIP

Chow, Fong, Low and Ah Disagree With Court Referee

Shanghai. — Chow Loon, Fong Kwai, Low Sing and Ah Quong, merchants, went into partnership.

They took a warehouse. There were rats.

They bought a cat to kill the rats. They agreed to share the ownership of the cat—a leg each.

One day the cat cut a leg. It was Fong Kwai's leg. He bound it with a turpentined rag.

The cat knocked over an oil lamp, which set fire to the rag.

The rag set fire to the warehouse, which was gutted.

Fong Kwai's partners sued him for the damage, but the judge said that although Fong Kwai was responsible, it was an undeniable fact that a cat could not walk on one leg alone. So, he said, all four were equally responsible.

MIKLOS WOULD BEAT DILLINGER'S RECORD

Bucharest.—The shade of John Dillinger is going to have a challenger if Roumania's "Public Enemy No. 1," Miklos Veres, keeps his word.

Captured by police when drunk, after a 10-year hunt, he warned the examining magistrate of his intentions.

"Wait till I've sobered up," he said. "After my next escape I shall go to America and knock Dillinger's record flat."

Veres already has four escapes from jail in his record, as well as 11 murders and 142 cases of housebreaking.

FIRE ROCKET TO MOON IS PLAN OF SCIENTISTS

Will Ascend To Stratosphere To Shoot Missile From Balloon

Brussels.—"A rocket to the moon," is part of the plans of Max Cosyns and Nerse Van der Elst, the Belgian scientists, when they make their ascent into the stratosphere some time before the middle of September.

The rocket, weighing two pounds, will be released when the balloon reaches the stratosphere and will be shot upwards by means of a series of powder explosions.

It is claimed that fired at an altitude of twelve miles the rocket, owing to the lower pressure, would travel at vastly increased speed and would reach the moon in a few hours.

Both men are waiting for favorable conditions to take off. Their 14,000 cubic meter bag has been fitted with a stabilisation cylinder which will allow the stopping of the balloon at different heights so as to study the cosmic rays.

This year's flight is not intended as an attempt to beat the altitude record but purely as a scientifical flight to verify a theory of American scientists that cosmic rays are the source of world energy.

PATIENT FIRES AT DOCTOR

Paris.—A patient in a Paris suburb fired point-blank at his doctor during a consultation because the physician said that he was cured!

The patient, an Austrian named Franz Hauser, had been under treatment for some time, and had been pronounced completely cured by his doctor.

Hauser, who considered himself incurable, continued to demand treatment, and the doctor consented to examine him. While the doctor was busy at his work, Hauser drew a revolver and fired at him, fortunately missing his aim.

Other patients rushed in from an outer room and succeeded in disarming the assailant.

ROCKEFELLER DRIVER TO BE FORCIBLY FED

Protests "Injustices" of Family for Whom He Worked

Monte Carlo.—Emile Ammann, a former chauffeur for the late Mrs. Edith McCormick Rockefeller, Chicago millionairess, is on hunger strike here to protest against "Rockefeller injustices."

The manager of a fashionable Monte Carlo hotel where Ammann is living notified the police that although he has been paying full board the man has refused to take any food.

A doctor ordered Ammann's removal to hospital. There he declared he had made up his mind to die by hunger, because he is "exasperated by a life of many vicissitudes." He will be forcibly fed.

A few years ago Ammann wrote a book containing "the inside story of my years in the service of Edith McCormick Rockefeller."

CLAIM 'SUPER-ROBOT' CONTROLS AEROPLANE

Pilot Needn't Touch Controls, Inventors Announce

Paris.—A "super-robot," which, it is claimed, will ultimately enable aeroplanes to be flown by wireless without pilots, has been invented here.

The invention, the outcome of secret work by four scientists—Major d'Algullon and MM. Aveline, Bernady and Grenier—has been thoroughly tested on all types of aeroplanes.

By the mere pressing of a button a pilot is able—by a simple gyroscope system, to stabilise his aeroplane in taking off and while alighting.

The Matin says: "Not only have the inventors solved the problem of complete stabilization in flight, but they have realised what the majority of experts deemed an impossible dream—automatic taking off and landing without the pilot having to touch the controls."

EINSTEIN'S DAUGHTER DIES IN STRANGE LAND

Expresses Wish To Be Buried in Holland Where People Befriended Her

Amsterdam.—Two years ago Professor Einstein and his wife fled from the anti-Jewish terror in Germany. A year ago their two daughters, Elsa and Margot, were forced to follow their parents out of Germany.

Elsa took refuge in Holland and her sister in France. Later Elsa went to Paris. Elsa died in Paris recently. She remembered the kindness of the Dutch people during the early days of her exile and almost her last words were a wish that she should be buried in Holland.

Her mother had hurried from Princeton, U.S.A., where the professor has decided to spend the rest of his life.

Mrs. Einstein was in time to see her daughter, but not in time to save her life. She brought the body of her daughter to Haarlem, where it will lie among the people who cared for her when she was in need.

The last tangible sign left in Europe of one of its greatest families will be the grave of Elsa, in Haarlem.

All the other members of the family will be in exile 2,000 miles away.

This is the first year that Mrs. Blowers has entered the Toronto Fair competitions, and her work, therefore, must be of a high-class order.

3052

A great deal of interest is centered in black and white woolen for early fall wear, as shown in today's model. The bodice of the dress and flattering bow is black satin crepe. And the wee jacket doesn't hide it either, for it is the collarless youthful boxy type.

This little costume is also stunning caried out in black satin with the dress bodice and bow of tucked net.

Angora plaids in bright colors of crepe marocain would be lovely, too. There's a lovely bit of technique in lining the bow at the neck, to get the little trick of turning it back to the right side and keeping it smooth.

Style No. 3052 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material with 1⅝ yards of 39-inch contrasting.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It is the fashion to collect glass. The articles may be general or they may be specific such as bottles, pitchers, etc., or some particular make of glassware. They may be examples of different designs, or colored or pressed glass may be featured. But whatever the sort the interest is inclusive, even if not for the special collection. The fashion is one of those worthwhile kinds which broaden interests and acquaint collectors with works of bygone days and of present times. The curious and fascinating historic and biographic facts that are accumulated along with the glassware cannot fail to increase one's knowledge of world affairs.

* * * * * *

This is one of the sidelines which an element attaching itself to all collecting, as history is wrought into and about the works of the times. Collecting is more than acquring definite things. It affords one of the best avenues of getting acquainted with the people and progress of the civilized world. It quickens the interest, and one grows unconsciously by finding out about each piece acquired or by studying those one has.

* * * * * *

Glass is one of the most elusive wares to collect as its means of designation are indefinite. For this very reason it seems to have an especial charm for some persons. There are patterns which are characteristic of glass made in specific areas. This may be due to ingredients used in the composition of the glass, or to color mixtures introduced by makers and which were difficult to get identically by others, or which were not sought by other firms which had their own specialties.

* * * * * *

Apart from these peculiarities which gradually become engrossing to those who find themselves delving into the intricate problems, as fascinating as they are elusive, there are points every collector can grasp without difficulty.

* * * * * *

One is knowing how to test glass to find if it is perfect, when spherical. Hold the pieces by the base or let it rest on a table, and snip it. If it gives a resonant ringing sound it is unbroken.

* * * * * *

Another is the appeal of the pattern regardless of names. The Rose in the Snow pattern for instance is handsome. In this the ground is irregular and not polished, but misty like the appearance of falling snow, which is sparsely dotted with full blown wild roses. This is but one of hundreds, even thousands, of beautiful designs, some geometric, like the hob-nail, the diamond, etc., from which to make selection according to their appeal and to the ability to procure pieces.

* * * * * *

Glassware with slight roughness on bases, when these are due to process of manufacture, are either old glass or faithful reproductions, generally so made to delude buyers, although not always. This is certainly true when the shopkeeper frankly tells customers that the glass is reproduced in exactness for perfection of reproduction, not to puzzle buyers.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR GENERAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

A DIFFICULT HAND.

South did not have a double dummy problem to solve, even if the correct method of play is difficult enough for a double dummy study. South had to solve his problems at the table, and he did it correctly.

Bidding went: South, 1 spade; West, 2 hearts; North, 2 spades, rather than bid his weak club suit; East, 3 hearts; South, 4 spades. Both sides were vulnerable. East doubled, as is often done, on a gamble, but neither member of the declaring side ventured to redouble.

The opening lead was the K of hearts. East signalled to come on, but West thought his only chance to defeat the hand was to obtain a club ruff. He led his 4 of clubs. The declarer immediately identified the lead as a singleton. There appeared to be no other reason for stopping heart leads.

Dummy's K won the trick, for two reasons. The declarer wanted to be back of the club honors which he calculated East held, and he wanted to at once lead trumps from dummy. If West held the missing K of spades, South would be down. He had to lose a diamond trick and at least one club trick. Two major suit tricks would defeat his contract. The J of spades held the trick. The 5 of spades brought out the K. The ace picked up the last outstanding trump.

The 10 of diamonds was led, finessed, and lost to East's Q. East led the Q of hearts. Declarer ruffed. South proceeded to strip the hands, ready for an end play, which he regarded as his only hope for fulfilling the doubled contract.

South led his last diamond. Dummy's ace won. The declarer led back dummy's last diamond and ruffed. East's last diamond also fell. This completed the eighth trick.

A low trump put dummy in the lead with the 9, for which that card had been reserved. East had to let go his lowest heart. Dummy's last heart was led. On it went East's last heart. The declarer ruffed with his last spade. Below are shown the last 3 cards held by dummy, East and South, respectively, in clubs.

Dummy—10 9 7
East—Q J 8
Declarer—A 5 3

Two tricks had already been lost. South gave East his last trick, by leading his lowest club. Dummy's 9 forced East's J. That player had to lead up to a tenace, giving the declaring side the last 2 tricks, and doubled game contract. South played the hand beautifully.

A number of inquiries about hypnotism which have been coming to this desk, indicate that interest in the subject is reviving. They can perhaps best be answered in the form of a questionnaire.

Is there such a thing as hypnotism or is it humbug?

Certainly hypnotism is real, not humbug, a trance state, hypnosis, can be induced in nearly any person, the subject, by any experienced hypnotist (operator).

What induces hypnotic trances?

The commonest method is by the rhythmic stimulation of a single sense—as the regular flashing of a mirror in the eyes, or the regular sound of a melodious gong—with the body relaxed and the other senses at rest.

In the recent revival of "The Witching Hour" on the screen, the lawyer flashed his diamond studded cigaret case in the juryman's eyes and so hypnotized him: This was an authentic scene. The English physician, Braid, used to induce hypnosis by fixing his patient's eyes on the reflected light from the surface of his lancet-case.

Experienced hypnotists have, however, abandoned these "mechanical" methods, and rely largely on suggestion. The patient is convinced that the hypnotic state is going to occur, he sits in a relaxed condition, and the operator strokes the skin of the face a few times, suggests "Sleep" in an earnest voice, with the desired result.

Can a person be hypnotized against his will?

Seldom, if ever. This idea, upon which so many stories, including "Trilby" is based, is erroneous.

What percentage of people cannot be hypnotized?

Much smaller than is generally supposed. At least 80 per cent. of an average group are easily hypnotized. Children are more easily hypnotized than adults. The higher the intelligence the more susceptible the subject. The insane, idiots, imbeciles, morons and unintelligent stupid people cannot be hypnotized. Mild examples of mental derangement, such as melancholia, can, however, be hypnotized.

What is the nature of the hypnotic state?

Neither sleep nor waking. The eyes are closed, the muscles often stiffened, the subject responds to questions sensibly, remembers much of events which belong to the waking state, but almost never remembers what occurred during hypnosis.

What the state of the personality is during hypnosis has never been satisfactorily explained. I have stated merely objective facts. The essential character of the hypnotic state is the subject's far-reaching power over his own organism. Will is increased and the moral standard raised.

Will a person perform an act suggested during the hypnotic state, at a definite time after waking?

Yes, in 60 per cent of instances. The French physician, Delboeuf, discovered this and employed it in treatment. One instance:

Mr. J. hypnotized at 6:30 a.m. Suggestion at the end of 30 hours was to pull the cook's nose. Result: Suggestion carried out one hour too soon.

Is a person who has been hypnotized under the will of the operator forever afterwards?

No, certainly not. Hypnosis cannot be induced at a distance—i.e., in the absence of the operator. Although self-hypnosis is frequently performed by subjects who have once been hypnotized.

Is hypnotism valuable in medicine? Is hypnotism dangerous?

These questions will be answered in subsequent articles.

Be Beautiful

"Dear Miss Glad: Can you tell me what causes yellowish streaks in gray hair? My hair was formerly snowy-white and very pretty, but it now has an unattractive yellowish tinge. Is there anything that I can do to remedy this dismaying condition?

ARLINE."

Yellowish streaks in pure white hair may be caused by the use of a hot iron, by the application of certain hair tonics, and by drying the hair with a hot air current. Try using a bluing rinse after shampooing your hair. This hair bluing is carried in most beauty shops and cosmetic shops. If the bluing rinse in itself in not sufficient, use diluted peroxide and salt on the yellow streaks first. Then shampoo your hair and use the bluing rinse as the final step. This treatment will help a great deal to restore your hair to its former snowy-whiteness.

"Dear Miss Glad: I thought it might interest you to know that I've had simply splendid results from the reducing course in your 'New Figure' booklet. I've lost 30 pounds altogether, and feel fit as a fiddle. My bust has become firmer, too, and more in proportion with the rest of my body. Some time ago, however, you said that you didn't approve of using ice on the face. Can you tell me why you disapprove of this practice?

ADELE."

Ice, I know, is astringent in its action on the skin. But I think that the use of ice is far too drastic a measure for the tender facial skin. First of all, the frequent use of ice is drying to the skin and may cause tiny, fine lines. Secondly, the shock of sudden, extreme cold may cause unsightly little broken capillaries. And thirdly, the intense cold may even induce a condition of facial neuralgia. If you've been using ice, I'd advise that you substitute a mild astringent in its place. A good astringent will close the pores and tone up the skin just as well as the ice, but will not have any of its detrimental effects.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Cosmetics

Adele: I think that a soft peach shade of powder, soft orange rouge and light lipstick would blend harmoniously with your coloring.

Permanent Wave

Lillie: The rinse you contemplate using will not interfere with your permanent wave. However, I'd suggest that you obtain the wave before you begin using the rinse.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Frances M. Craig,
601 Water St., Peterborough.

This handwriting portrays a versatility which is quite interesting. You seem to be gifted with a splendid capacity for developing new ideas, and should not find it at all difficult to make money, but the drawback seems to be your lack of confidence in yourself, and so you keep yourself far below your station in life. Courage and knowledge that you are gifted, will do much to assist you in raising your own standard of yourself. You are introspective, and apt to worry over things, and cross many bridges before you reach them. You should try to spend a portion of each day out of doors, and rest your nerves, for they seem to be at a tension just now. You can be very sharp when the occasion demands, but as a rule you are very sensitive and so easily hurt through your own feelings, that you endeavour to spare the feelings of others. You should be deeply interested in objects of charm, and try to accumulate pretty things which will please your sense of the beautiful at your home, for one of your nature starves without beauty. Your 't' bar crossing indicates a propensity to give rather than receive, and is admirable sometimes, but not always, for you will have to sacrifice your own comforts too often if you allow this trait to predominate.

I would advise you to look to your own comfort in future. (Not in a selfish manner) but because you need comfort for the sake of your health. Your a mental type, and must relax as often as possible. Try to avoid eye-strain and learn to know that life cannot be lived in one day, by that I mean, don't try to crowd too much work into every twenty-four hours.

Your number is six. Your birthsign is Gemini the Twins, and this birthsign has a tendency to make people restless, and have a desire to spread out their activities over too large a field in their efforts to gain recognition and success. Mercury is the planet by which you are ruled, and gives you mental intellect. April and August are your most fortunate months. Friday your best day.

Mrs. Amy V. Gregson,
2788 William David Street,
Maisonneuve, Montreal.

Thank you for your confidence as to my ability to analyse your writing. I do hope you will not leave the city before this appears in print. Yes, our daily paper is most interesting and certainly is up-to-date. Camping must be fun, at this time of the year, and I wish you a delightful holiday. Your writing shows a keen interest in the raising of domestic animals, a love of children and a knowledge of the rudiments as meant for correct living. You are rather too generous, easily excited, not over strong as regards health, and your imagination is likely to cause you a great deal of mental suffering, for you flounder about in a helpless manner when your hopes and plans go astray. Don't you? It was kind of your friend to tell you to send your sample of writing to my home, and I quite understand than you hoped to get your reply sooner by so doing, and I am also sure the Editor will readily appreciate your motive. He is a very busy man, but just and thoughtful so I am sure that he will not mind this time. You do worry too much, and you seem to avoid doing many really worthwhile things, because of a fear that they will not turn out right. Isn't that so? Then you find it very difficult to make yourself complete tasks, because you begin too many at the same time. You do not dot your 'I' at all so I know you are not a positive person. However, you possess many lovable characteristics, and have a fine sense of good humor. I hope you will enjoy your holiday in this part of the country. Peterborough wants to do everything in her power to encourage visitors, and this is the season for tourists, so on behalf of The Examiner I would like to bid you a hearty welcome, and hope you will come again next year. Thanking you again for your confidence. Let me wish you the best of luck and excellent weather conditions.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

KHORASAN won his second in a row on Wednesday at Providence but did not pay off like he did last Saturday. Still he paid better than three times to one at that. High Socks which we told you about the other day also went over in a big way at nearly thirty dollars. We hear that at the close of the Connaught meeting last Saturday at Ottawa that a number of horsemen who did not have sufficient cash to ship to another track just simply shot a few horses who had passed their usefulness and buried them in the infield. It will probably save the public some money as well as the horsemen as these are the kind of nags that seldom win a race, still thousands of dollars are wagered on them annually.

We remember one race last week at the Ottawa plant where eight horses were entered and as far as value is concerned fifty dollars would be too high to pay for the lot combine and still there was over twelve hundred dollars wagered on the race. Master Bobbie managed to get down in front at Stamford on Wednesday which shows this aged campaigner has not lost all his speed yet.

THEY ARE getting Syndic ready to win one of these Canadian bred events. He always reaches the top of his form about this time of year. We expect to see Meloy pop down in front in a sprint race any day now. Protractor, a sprinter that is a little above the class of the ordinary has arrived at Niagara and should arrive home right smartly in one of the Canadian fall meetings events. They have old Martie Flynn over at Hawthorne and the wise boys tell us the old fellow never looked or acted better.

Old man Obert has been hanging around Stamford park during the past week. On Tuesday he brought Fascinator in second and what a hand he got from the crowd. Bill will not divulge his correct age but the veteran owners tell us he is around seventy. He still can ride at one hundred and six pounds and when we say ride, we mean ride. There are no tricks on the race track Bill can't perform and he knows all the answers. At Detroit is one called Enigmatic who is just crying to run.

JULES HUOT TAKES QUEBEC GOLF TITLE

Jules stalked through pouring rain for most of the two rounds, posting a 71, one over par, in the morning, and 72 in the afternoon.

Huot displaced Willie Lamb of Lambton, Toronto, who has been Quebec champion for the past three years.

ROWE AFTER HIS 16TH STRAIGHT WIN TO-DAY; TIGERS SNAP LOSING STREAK AT WASHINGTON

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Schoolboy Rowe was slated to pitch for the record today but the outstanding mound notable of the season, Dizzy Dean, already had attained his mark.

While Rowe was due to face the Senators in quest of his 16th consecutive pitching victory, which would equal the American League record held jointly by Walter Johnson, Smokey Joe Wood and Lefty Grove, the eminent Mr. Dean was resting on the laurels earned yesterday when he defeated the world champion Giants for the fifth straight time, a feat which considerably altered the National League pennant race.

Blanks Giants With 5

In avenging the defeat inflicted upon Paul Dean Thursday, Dizzy shut out the Giants with five singles, fanned six and lifted the Cards right into second place as they won 5-0. The Cubs meanwhile took their second trimming from Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-4, and dropped a half game behind St. Louis, which in turn was six behind New York.

Home runs by Jack Rothrock and Jim Collins in the sixth inning broke up a keen mound duel between Dean and Joe Bowman, providing three runs that were enough to win. The Cards went on to score two more in the seventh. Collins' homer was his 30th of the season, for Dean, who was making his first appearance since his recent suspension, it was the 22nd triumph against five defeats.

Dodgers Subdue Cubs

Van Mungo's relief pitching was a Brooklyn standout as he saved a long lead the Dodgers had built up against Pat Malone with the aid of circuit swats by Sam Leslie and Linus Frey. Babe Herman again was the only effective Cub, socking a homer with two on and then scoring the final run after a walk. He has had a hand in every Cub tally in two games.

Tigers Win At Washington

Paving the way for what they hope will be Rowe's triumphal appearance today, the Tigers belted out a 12-6 decision over the Senators, who had beaten them twice in a row. Tied at 3-3 after four innings, Detroit went on one of its typical scoring rampages, scoring seven runs in the fifth on six hits off Walter Stewart and Alex McColl and two errors by Joe Cronin. Elden Auker went the route although he gave up 15 hits. Six of the Detroit blows were doubles, including two by Hank Greenberg, who, with 51, has an outside chance of beating Earl Webb's major league mark of 67.

The victory enabled the Tigers to increase their margin over the Yankees to 4½ games as wet grounds forced the postponement of the New York-Cleveland clash. The Chicago Boston game in the American League and the Philadelphia—Pittsburgh in the National also were postponed.

Twin Win For Braves

Boston Braves had a big day in the senior circuit when they took two decisions from Cincinnati, 2-1 and 10-9. Ed Brandt outpitched Si Johnson in the opener while Wally Berger's two circuit drives played a big part in the second triumph. St. Louis Browns turned back the Athletics 2-1 when Sam West hit for the circuit with Harland Clift on base in the eighth to win a five-hit game for Bump Hadley.

Not that Junior will immediately become a turnip green addict. The Schoolboy's statement only gives the kids a swell argument on the uselessness of spinach.

ENGLISH SCULLERS DECISIVELY BEATEN IN EXHIBITION EVENTS

Philadelphian Has a Chance for Revenge of Olympic Defeat by Pearce.

BERT BARRY BEATEN.

TORONTO, August 25 (C.P.)—Chance for revenge of an Olympic Games defeat beckoned to-day to Bill Miller of Philadelphia. He will meet Bobby Pearce, the Australian ace, now resident at Hamilton, Ont., next Friday for the world's professional sculling title and $5,000. Pearce defeated Miller at the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles.

The two outstanding professional scullers last night qualified for the final by decisively defeating a pair of Englishmen under perfect rowing conditions at the Canadian National Exhibition course.

Pearce, in turning back the first challenge for the crown he won last year, left no doubt of his superiority over the 146-pound Britisher, Eric Phelps. Taking a lead at the 400-yard mark, the broad-shouldered athlete from Hamilton gradually increased the margin separating him from his slim opponent and won going away by 20 lengths. Pearce's time for the three miles was 19 minutes and 36⅕ seconds. He has never been beaten in a sculling race.

Bert Barry Beaten

In the other heat Bert Barry of England, former world's professional titlist, succumbed to the strong, stroking of Miller. The Philadelphian, away to an early lead, was six lengths ahead of Barry at the start of the final mile, but the Englishman pulled up and although Miller was always in control, he skimmed across the finish line with only a length lead. It took Miller 21 minutes and 20 4-5 seconds to cover the three miles, almost two minutes slower than Pearce's time.

Neither of the winners were extended and both appeared in fine condition at the end of their races. Phelps, however, gave everything in an attempt to keep close to the powerful Pearce and finished exhausted. Last year, Bobby Pearce won the professional sculling championship in a convincing manner, defeating Ted Phelps, Eric's brother, by approximately a quarter of a mile.

Pearce, famed for his lightning starts, was left at the post by Phelps, but he dug in and his sweeping stroke had given him a slight advantage at the 400-yard mark. The Australian then settled down to a steady 26 strokes to the minutes and pulled away from Phelps who stroked between 28 and 32.

To Coach Tigers

Heigh ho! So football is with us once again. And football this year will find the Tigers of Hamilton, toothless last year, with a brand-new set of teeth supplied by one John James Ferraro, last year captain of Cornell university and former Buffalo grid star. Ferraro has been signed to coach the 1934 Tigers.

OSHAWA WINNERS HERE ON MONDAY

Clash With Orphans in First Game of O.A.S.A. Playdown Series at Riverside.

New Service Cleaners of Oshawa are here Monday evening to meet Orphans at 5.30 in Riverside Park in the first game of their O.A.S.A. playdown series. The Cleaners won the Oshawa and District League championship and drew a bye, while the Orphans—local champions—were eliminating Lindsay. The Oshawa team is of senior calibre, having a number of C.O.B.I. ball players on its roster, and in Preem Whitely probably the best softball hurler in Ontario. The big speedball pitcher fairly burns the ball across, and with him, the Motor City nine is banking on going right through to a Provincial title this fall.

While Oshawa presents the biggest threat any intermediate softball team will meet this year, the Orphans aren't afraid. They surmounted great obstacles all year and go best when the going gets roughest. Manager Percy Harrison and his stalwarts know what they have to face and have been preparing for it with nightly practices. They hope to take the first game here, and then win one of the next two. Frank Shine, local star flinger, will pitch, and if he is going right and his team-mates, the Oshawa crew may get a huge surprise. A "natural" like this should draw a record crowd.

CRICKET.

To the Sports Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—It will be of interest to the very large percentage of your readers who take an interest in cricket—and I want to thank the Examiner for its good work in giving us foreign cricket news—to know that the English Board of Cricket Control did not select Larwood because he was not available. They thought his bowling and also Clark's fair enough, but no body line or any other bowling can account for the collapse of the English team at the wicket. That was what lost the match.

Reader.

Rowe, already the idol of all boys, could have gained immortality in the eyes of the younger generation had he only laid his success to ice cream cones and an occasional slice of watermelon.

ADMISSION 15c. Grandstands Free

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, our ball team was away from home this week, so it don't scarcely need mentioning that the lads hung up another win. It's got so now they kin grab off a ball game on foreign fields easier'n Hitler in the German election, and right now they got a road percentage of .800, which, neighbors, will take some shooting at before she's busted. Tues. the Kingston Ponies was the victims, and the Petes took a aggravating game away from the same, for the Ponies was leading 4 to 1 at the end of the 5th when Mister Lee's boys decided they had done enough fooling, and so they mauled the best Messrs. Jamieson and St. Louis could dish up for 7 perfectly good runs, and away went the old ball game, while Kingston fans trudged homeward talking to theirselfs. Three times outa 4 the Petes has humbled the Ponies right in front of their neighbors, and it's a long time since a Peterborough team has had so much fun in Kingston as the lads has been able to extract down there this summer. Our Mister Kitchen done a good job of pitching in the Tues. affair, and all the lads except Mister Batten riggered in the hit col.—a nice night's work, friends.

As I have sorta hinted before, the Petes and the Belleville Nats will tangle in the playoffs, and I for 1 can't see no reason why our talent can't cop the big serious and get into the O.B.A.A. playdowns. Of course Mister Jack Williams at his best is a tough pitcher, but then the Indian heaver is not as young as he used to be and he'll have a man-sized job trying to pitch the whole serious, while the Petes have Mister Deyell, Mister Kitchen and Mister Calladine to toss in there with a pretty handy relief heaver in the person of our old college chum, Mister Rose. It will be a great old serious, and regardless of which team finishes in 1st place I wouldn't be surprised if the Petes was to be playing the 1st game in Belleville about a week from next Wed., with the Nats here for the 2nd fixture the following Sat. And them 1st 2 games oughta be honeys, Mac, and I don't mean perhaps.

Well, Mac, they ain't much joy in the Old Country this week owing to the Aussies cleaning up in the final test match, and wotta job the birds from down under made of it! They only banged home 701 runs in the 1st inning, and mighta been in there yet if they hadn't remembered their return sailings was booked. Without Mister Larwood and Mister Voce, the speed ball trundlers, England didn't have no artillery to stop the invaders, and us long distance fans can't see the logic of laying off a coupla bowlers just because they toss in stuff the opposition don't like. Imagine Detroit leaving School Boy Rowe on the bench because the Yanks didn't cotton to his stuff, or the Giants keeping Mister Hubbell outa the world's serious last fall just to keep on good terms with the Senators. Anyway the English team took a shellacking that they won't soon forget, and down in Australia they'd probably vote to make Don Bradman or Ponsford Governor-General or something.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

KOWALIK HANGS UP 15TH VICTORY AS BISONS TAKE TORONTO 5 TO 2

Morrisey's Homer With One On in Ninth Spoils Shutout at Buffalo.

ROYALS DROP TWO.

(By The Associated Press)

Reminiscent of their closing drive of a year ago, Ray Schalk's Buffalo Bisons are putting up a great fight to squeeze their way into the International League playoffs.

The Bisons, who edged into the last qualifying place last year by the slimmest of margins and then won the play-offs, picked up another half game on the fourth place Albany Senators last night, and now stand only one game away from the last playoff berth.

The Bisons celebrated "Fabian Kowalik Night" before a crowd of 17,000 by beating Toronto Maple Leafs, 5-2. Kowalik, the club's leading pitcher, kept 10 hits well scattered and hung up his 15th victory of the year and his 12th in his last 13 starts. A homer by Joe Morrissey with one on in the ninth spoiled what looked like a shutout. Ray Fitzgerald, former Toronto star, picked on his old teammates to the extent of three runs.

A Scoreless Draw

Albany, meanwhile, played a scoreless draw with league leading Newark in a game halted by rain after six innings. Vito Tamulis and Ed Chapman were all tangled up in a neat pitching dual when the storm broke. Tamulis had given Albany only two hits, while the Bears had solved Chapman for four.

Montreal Royals, hopeful of beating out both Albany and Buffalo for fourth place, suffered a severe jolt by dropping both ends of a double-header to the second-place Rochester Red Wings. Norbert Kleinke and Johnny Michaels, the winning Red Wing pitchers, both registered their 16th victories of the campaign as Rochester won 3-1 and 7-4, coming from behind each time. The double triumph left Rochester only two games behind Newark in the race for the league championship.

Clarence Pickrel's effect pitching enabled Syracuse to down Baltimore, 8-3, in the other game.

BARNEY ROSS IS HELD 9-5 TO REPEAT OVER McLARNIN

But Runyan Says Odds Too Great—Believes Vancouver Jimmy Improved.

SEPTEMBER TITLE BOUT

By DAMON RUNYON
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Jack Adler, the veteran turf announcer, has a big commission to bet on Barney Ross to beat Jimmy McLarnin again next month, but he seeks a better price than the current market affords.

Even this early, Ross is a heavy favorite—top heavy, the writer thinks. The price makers hold Ross at 9 to 5, the longest quotation against the cherubic James McLarnin since he started his boxing career.

It is the writer's opinion that Ross did not beat McLarnin decisively enough in their first fight to justify this price. Indeed, thousands of spectators thought McLarnin entitled to the decision, or at worst, a draw, and when you consider that McLarnin is bound to improve off that fight, you can see that the price is away out of line.

Jimmy Will Be Better

If memory serves, McLarnin has always won his return matches. He had been out of action a year when he met Ross in the Madison Square Garden bowl a few months ago, and he was ring rusty. His timing was deplorable. He seemed to have no idea where his punches were going. He forced the fighting from start to finish in a manner that was absolutely made to order for Ross. McLarnin, a smart fighter, must have learned something about Ross from that first meeting.

He must have learned, too, that he requires a lot of hard work in the gymnasium with better sparring partners than his manager, old Pop Foster, has been in the habit of providing. Allowing that McLarnin gets himself in good condition, with that fifteen-rounder under his belt, the writer thinks the best risk in a speculative way would be a small wager that McLarnin will stop the Chicago Hebrew.

There is, of course, the possibility that McLarnin is practically all washed up as a big-time fighter. He has been going a long time. He displayed none of his old punching power against Ross, and little of his former speed.

Has Bad Hands

The time comes in the life of every fighting man when his ring ability abandons him suddenly, never to return. This may have happened to McLarnin, though he has always been a careful young man in his habits, and ought to go along for several years, at least, if he wishes.

But of late years, McLarnin has evinced no great ambition to continue his fistic career. He has long had bad hands. He has plenty of money put away, and it is said he wants to get married. Loss of ring ambition is fatal to any fighter. Ross has ambition to spare. It is one of his biggest assets.

McLarnin's pride was deeply wounded by his defeat at the hands of the smaller Ross. McLarnin had won the welterweight title just a year previous, and he lost in in his first defense of it against a man over whom he had every advantage in size, experience, and everything else.

Ross Improved

But you must remember that even if McLarnin shows the improvement expected, Ross is going to improve, too. Winning two world's championship titles has made Barney a mighty confident young man.

He has defeated the great McLarnin, accounted one of the all-time best. He has faced McLarnin's fire, and cunning, and came off first, and a victory of that kind is what makes a real champion of the world.

Proud papas probably will find it harder than ever to get Junior to down his spinach now that Schoolboy Rowe has announced his pitching ability is due to generous samplings of turnip greens.

C.G.E.-PACKERS DRAW ONE EACH

Teams Give Smart Display of Soccer Code—Curtis is Injured.

WILL MEET AGAIN.

Two well-balanced teams met in the final of the E. A. Peck soccer cup last night, on King Edward Park, before a large attendance of spectators, when the Canadian General and Packers battled to a one-all decision until darkness prevented further play.

One of the most beautiful goals scored this season was accomplished by Colbran; while the C.G.E. tally was of easy character. They will have to meet again to decide a winner.

Fast Tactics Prevail

In the early stages, the play ran from end to end at a terrific pace, in which the forwards always met a stubborn defence to be held outside the goal area. Through nice combination, the C.G.E. worked right close in upon the Packer's custodian to make him throw himself the full length of the goal to divert the ball around the corner for a fruitless flag kick. They kept up the pressure to find Foster and Newt Downer tackling fearlessly, and the latter, time and again, carrying the play into the C.G.E. territory. Both elevens were giving an excellent exhibition of the code as the ball travelled at a rapid pace to test the respective goalies. Midfield play held away for a while with no let-up in the well-planned manoeuvres to get within the shooting area. At last, the C.G.E. repulsed the Packer's continuous seige to confine the issue within their opponents' goal.

Chamberlain, Packers' goalie, saved a low grounder from the foot of Michell, but accidentally permitted the sphere to drop towards Darling who touched it into the vacant net. Half time: Canadian General 1, Canada Packers 0.

Packers Equalise

After the customary respite, the pace was renewed with greater vigor than ever; in fact, the Packers being more aggressive to the discomfort of the C.G.E. halfback line that was working like a machine. Eventually a throw-in by Art Downer was touched back to McCracken, who in turn outguessed the opponent with a timely pass out to Colbran, who met the ball with lightning speed that was backed by a bullet-like drive to find a resting place inside the rigging. Within the next minute, the Electrics carried the ball to Mitchell. He shot while on the run and the goal-keeper misjudged the flight of the ball, to concede an unsuccessful flag kick. Then again at the other end, the Packes split the C.G.E. full backs' close tackling to witness a golden opportunity to score. G. Downer touching the ball across the goal mouth when a tally looked imminent. Towards the conclusion of the 35-minute period, Curtis, C.G.E. goalie, was injured when he blocked a direct drive from the foot an attacking forward. He resumed playing, but he had to be carried off the field later when he collapsed as the game progressed. W. Bolam took his place until the final whistle announced the play suspended through darkness. Canadian General 1, Canada Packers 1.

Goal scorers: Darling, C.G.E., and Colbran, Packers.

Canadian General — W. Curtis, goal; J. Mitchell and G. Blowers, full backs; S. Clark, E. Jones and A. Burgess, halves; J. Quinn, F. Earle, A. Mitchell, T. McPhate and H. Darling, forwards. Subs—W. Bolam and V. Post.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

By C. J. P.

"Well, your Sugar Bowl team beat us last year, but we didn't have Whitely then; you'll be duck soup for us this year!" That's what an Oshawa softballer told us a couple of weeks ago. True, they didn't have this Preem Whitely last year; he was pitching senior softball in Toronto. This year, he and a team of senior calibre just waltzed to cop the Oshawa title. De Preem is a husky fellow of about twenty. He whistles that big ball across like a bullet—the Walter Johnston of softball. No fooling, he's about the best hurler in Ontario. And this is the team that plays our Orphans at 5.30 in Riverside Monday.

• • • • • •

But are we scared? NO! Nor are the Orphans. They figure he can be licked and their fighting spirit—shown repeatedly the past four weeks—may carry them through to a win in the two-out-of-three O.A.S.A. series. If they should knock off Oshawa, no team in the Province can stop them! And with Frankie Shine rarin' to go and the whole squad grimly determined to slap the cars off this Whitely dude, one never knows what might happen. This game rates a huge crowd Monday, so you went see a better team visiting here in a month of Sundays.

• • • • • •

Here's what the Oshawa scribe says: "New Service Cleaners will meet Peterborough Orphans in the second round of the O.A.S.A. intermediate playdowns. The Oshawa team received a bye in the first round while Peterborough eliminated Lindsay Smokies in two straight games. In Shine, Peterborough boasts a twirler who is considered far above average and is one of the leading hitters of his team. They are beginning to have championship ambitions down in the Liflock City, but Preem Whitely and his classy teammates will likely alter that when they meet Monday in Peterborough. Return game is here Thursday."

• • • • • •

Cogs are in Bowmanville this afternoon in the first game of their O.B.A.A. playdowns. Bowmanville pulled a big upset by tossing Cobourg out of the picture, the Cobourg finalists being very confident of winning in two straight. But Billy Bagnell—remember him in junior hockey?—conked two homers behind good pitching and that was that. This Bowmanville bunch must be pretty fair. They play their return game with the local Clubmen at 4.15 o'clock in the Exhibition Grounds. A big crowd is hoped for at this tussle.

• • • • • •

There was no harness horse racing at the Exhibition yesterday. Too bad, and quite a disappointment to a lot of race hoss followers, but the track was in no shape for the trots. The 2.32 and 2.18 classes were to have been run off and had good entries, but the committee in charge took one squint at the morass and the leaky black clouds blotting out the sky, and 'twas thumbs down. The drivers were satisfied, too. No fun pushing a bronc through four or five inches of mud when your goggles are covered with it and you're eating more'n your share of dirt. Ask the man who owns one. Tough luck—or should we just say "The usual Exhibition luck" and let it go at that?

• • • • • •

Unsettled weather didn't slow up the hoss-shoe tossers a bit. Nossuh, they went right ahead in front of quite a flock of followers of barnyard golf dropping ringer after ringer over the pegs. Twenty-eight competed, some ten of them being really outstanding pitchers. This is the first time the Eastern Ontario championship tourney was held here, the local Exi taking it away from the Ottawa Fair, 'cause lack of interest in the Parliament Town. Looks like this is the best spot for these championships in future, too.

• • • • • •

A number of chaps around town have told us they'd like to get back playing rugby again—fellows who formerly did their stuff in inter-school play. This idea of the Belleville Aajamas Club's of forming a Central Ontario League, perhaps playing intermediate O.R.F.U., sounding like a good idea to them. It would be if a big turnout of husky experienced players would round into shape, and if the right sort of management would take hold. Expenses shouldn't be too high and we imagine the public would go for more football in the autumn—but this prospective team should make it a point not to interfere with P.C.I. schedules.

• • • • • •

All day yesterday, hundreds of local athletes and those connected with sports—players, officers and fans—paid tribute to the late Curly LeBarr, popular umpire who died Thursday night. Among the wreaths sent as silent tokens of esteem to a good fellow were those of the C.O.B.I., the East Peterborough League, the Peterborough Senior Club, the Men's Softball League, Charlie Curtis, and the local umpiring staff of Shiner Johnston, Jack McCarney and Bob Hotrum. There were plenty of others, too.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—(C.P.)—First reported as failing to finish the Irish Day 23 mile marathon here Friday, Percy Wyer, Toronto runner, was later discovered to have failed to make an appearance in Cleveland. SPRINGBROOK TEAM ADVANCES

COBOURG, Aug. 25. — Springbrook softball team, three times champions of Rowdon Softball League have added to their laurels by defeating Evergreen team, the champions of the Centre Softball League, and thereby won the Fred T. Ward Silver Trophy. The game was the final one in the series for the championship of the district, and held the attentio n of fans for miles around. One thousand people witnessed the game. The final score of 9 to 7 is an indication of the night's play and of the excellent exhibition of ball.

RECORD OPENING DAY

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—(CP)—Exhibition authorities opened up Canada's largest exhibition today wondering just how large crowds they would draw given sunny weather.

Yesterday, despite persistent showers in the forenoon and a none too warm afternoon, attendance was the largest in history of the 56 years of the exhibition.

Figures for yesterday were 84,000 an increase of 34,000 over last year's opening day.

YANKEE LEADS YACHT SERIES

Underdog of Trials Likely Represent U. S. in America's Cup Defense.

WEETAMOE MAKES GOOD.

(By Tom Horgan).

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Yankee of Boston, the underdog, dark horse and virtually the unwanted step-child when the trials began, remained to-day the leading contender for the honor of defending the America's Cup, most prized of all yachting trophies.

Yankee's almost unbroken string of victories over her two rivals, Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow and Fredprick Prince's Weetamoe and her clean slate in the final trials now in progress, have left the Boston boat's supporters with crossed fingers and knocking on wood.

Meanwhile, Tom Sopwith and the British challenger, Endeavour, are going about the preparation for the cup races in a wholly, unruffled manner. Sopwith has not hesitated to take Endeavour out on the course with his prospective foes display a measure of his wares. Endeavour has proved as slippery as an eel and looms like the most dangerous challenger a cup defender ever has been called upon to face.

Weetamoe made perhaps her most impressive showing of the season yesterday, although she was beaten by a minute and 11 seconds by Yankee over a 30-mile windward leeward course. Despite the handicap of a burst spinnaker, Weetamoe picked up 44 seconds on the Boston sloop on the run home.

Under previously announced plans Yankee was entitled to a day off to-day, leaving Weetamoe and Rainbow to carry on the final trials. There was a possibility, however, that this plan might be revised.

Dominion Will Have Next Empire Games

MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—(C.P.)—"I feel sure Canada will be the scene of the next British Empire games," M. M. "Bobby" Robinson, manager of the Canadian British Empire games team said here last night, with several members of the home-coming team he landed shortly before from the liner Duchess of Atholl.

He declared the matter would not be settled until next August, but expressed the opinion all Empire countries would agree to having them in Canada.

Unusually early rains in Nicaragua have practically stopped transportation between points not served by railroads.

Allison And Van Ryn On "Comeback" Trial

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Following the "comeback" trail to the finals of the United States tennis doubles tournament, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn try again to-day for the title that was theirs in 1931.

After brushing the last invading title hopes from the path to the throne, the Davis Cup veterans girded themselves for a bitter battle with Lester Stoefen and George Lott, defending champions.

For the fourth time in five seasons they have a place in the tourney wind-up and the result this time is a toss-up.

On their way to the final round, the challengers yesterday lost the opening set to Roderich Menzel, the Czechoslovakian, and his South African partner, Vernon Kirby, last overseas title aspirants, and then settled down to win, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0.

BEST OF LUCK FOR SCHOOLBOY

"Rube" Marquard Co-holder of Major Record for 19 Straight Victories.

LAST FIVE HARDEST.

(By Bill King, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Aug. 25 (AP)—With his fingers crossed, Richard W. "Rube" Marquard, the old New York Giants pitcher who is co-holder of the major league record for consecutive victories, is wishing "Schoolboy" Rowe the best of luck in his efforts to set a new mark with 20 winning games.

"So he's got 15 straight wins now," said Marquard, who presides over one of the 610 mutuel windows at the Narraganset track. "Well he'll find the next five harder to get than the first 15, for every pitcher in the league will be out to break his streak. Of course, I wish him all the luck in the world but I'd hate to see the old 19-record go. It's the only mark I left on baseball to remember."

Back in 1912 Marquard equalled the 19-game record set by Jim Keefe, another Giants' hurler 24 years before.

"I don't know Rowe," he said, "but I'll bet he feels the same way I did when I was piling up my streak. I couldn't eat and I couldn't sleep, and all I could think of was my pitching record. Baseball was serious business to me then, just as it is to Rowe now."

Although the record books credit the "Rube" with only 19 wins, he claims he made 20 during the period from April 11 to July 3 in 1912.

CANADIAN BALL FANS PULLING FOR TIGERS TO COP PENNANT

Of 40,000 Applications Received by Detroit for World Series Tickets, Thousands of Canadians Included.

MANY ON TEAM PLAYED IN DOMINION.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug 24.—If, and when, those swashbuckling Detroit Tigers of Gordon S. "Mickey" Cochrane's go marching into the 1934 world series this Fall, you can mark it up on your cuff that Canada will be represented at the ringside by the largest delegation in the history of the annual baseball classic.

Seldom, if ever, before in the record-studded pages of America's national pastime has its neighboring cousins been so wrought-up over any single American team or any single sport.

To-day there are almost as many boosters for the Detroit Tigers along the stretches of the Detroit River on the Canadian shores, and reaching back into Ontario as far as Toronto, and probably farther, as in the city that automobiles built.

A day with the Canadian residents opposite Detroit is no more complete without a scrub on the teeth, than a session at the radio while the Tigers are in action. Two Detroit radio stations broadcast all home games of the clawing Bengals. When on the road, the progress of the Tigers is furnished play by play by one of these two stations. Ty Tyson, the greatest baseball announcer in the country if you believe Detroit and Windsor sport followers, mans one microphone. At the other is Harry Heilmann, former slugging outfielder for Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns and three times baseball king of the American League.

40,000 Applications

Hundreds of Canadian baseball devotees rush the international barriers daily while the Tigers are in Detroit.

Charles P. Navin, secretary of the Detroit Baseball Club, the other day offered the information that of some 40,000 applications already received for world series tickets, several thousand were from Canadian points. Mr. Navin added, sadly enough, that all series applications were being returned unfilled. No applications will be accepted until after the day, if and when, the Tigers are officially crowned American League champions. Then, and only then, will applications be considered in order received. Consequently those ticket-seeking Canadians will be asked to bide their time before reaching for precious pastboards for a world series that will furnish the first real international atmosphere since 1909 when a Tiger team clashed with Pittsburg Pirates. On that occasion hundreds of Windsor fans flocked to the Detroit games.

Several Played in Canada

Proximity to Detroit is only one of several reasons for the interest manifested by Canadians of the border region in baseball in general and the Tigers in particular this summer. There is, for example, the fact that many of the Tigers got early baseball schooling with Canadian teams in the International and other leagues. Three members of Detroit's mighty infield. Bill Rogell, Charlie Gehringer and Marvin Owen were once with Toronto Leafs. Rogell and Owen only recently served with that club. Ray Hayworth, second-string catcher; Frank Doljack, utility outfielder; Gerald Walker, outfielder; Luke Hamlin, Vic Sorrell and Elon Hogsett, pitchers, did terms with the Leafs, which was formerly a farm with London, Ont., in the old Michigan-Ontario League and later with Leafs.

Detroit has not had a pennant winner since 1909—a stretch of 25 years. Three time in a row the Detroiters hit the top in the dim and distant past — American League champions in 1907, 1908 and 1909 in succession. Twice the Chicago Cubs crushed them aside in world series games. Pittsburg conquered them the other time. The seasons since have been barren of pennants, despite the great slugging deeds of Tryus Raymond Cobb, Bobby Beach, Sam Crawford, Heinie Manush, Harry Heilmann, Lu Blue and a host of other baseball masters.

The nearest approach to a title in recent years was in 1923 when the Tigers finished second to New York Yankees. In the last five years they have never been better than fifth.

CHAPTER 23

Joan had said nothing about Giles Armiger. There was, really, she told herself, nothing to say. As she unpacked her belongings in the late afternoon she came across the little book he had given her the history of Granitehead. That had been the real beginning of their friendship—and now it was ended. Because he had failed Yet had he failed? There had been no word of his which a married man might not have said to her. And he had been wise and helpful, setting himself to understand her problems. She felt however, that she did not want to see him—things would be different . . with his wife to think of.

When she went to bed that night, the fog had cleared and the stars were bright. Old Muffet sat on the sill and looked at the stars. Joan was glad of the companionship of the little cat. "Lovely thing," she whispered in the dark, and then suddenly she began to cry. She was not sure what she was crying about—whether it was the loss of her lover or the loss of her friend, or the loss of the life which had been hers when she lived with Adelaide.

She got out of bed, and on her knees, flung her arms across the coverlet, her head bowed on them. She had no prayer on her lips, but there was one in her heart, "Make me brave, make me brave. Don't let me give up for anybody the best that is in me."

Back at Granitehead was the gay room with its silken luxury, there were the pearls which had slipped like a white snake down Adelaide's black gown . . . there was the big car, and Farley and all the rest of it . . . there was Drew . . . there was her friend, Giles . . .

Here was a plain old house, an old cat, an old woman for company . . .

When at last she threw herself on the bed, she sank into deep slumber. She was like a shipwrecked sailor, glad of any haven after the storms.

The next morning she wrote a letter to Mrs. Delafield and one to Drew. There was an appeal in both of them! "I may seem foolish, Aunt Adelaide, but I had to do it. And I really love you and miss you. Yet if I should go back, you would think it was because I wanted what you can give me. You can see that, can't you?"

To Drew she poured out her heart, "My darling, I know you blame me, but it was the only way. I shall wait for you here. And surely you will come—everything speaks of you and of our first days together."

A week passed and there was no answer. Another week. Joan grew restless. She wandered over the moor and down to the shore, a gray little wraith in foggy weather. Everywhere she seemed to hear Drew's voice—in the sigh of the winds, the beat of the waves—

"Say that you love me, Joan . . ."

"But it has been only two weeks."

"What has time to do—with you and me?"

At night she could not sleep, and Penelope, coming in, would find her propped upon her pillows, wide-eyed, and old Muffet sleeping on the coverlet.

"My dear, I hate to see you so unhappy."

"I didn't know it would be so—hard."

"We never know . . ."

"Sometimes I think I'll go back on any terms . . ."

"No," Penelope said, sternly, "never that."

"Well, I'm not very brave."

"You are braver than you think."

"I shouldn't have come here to burden you with my troubles."

"My dear, my arms have been empty. You can't know what having you means to me . . ."

The bond between them grew very close. Penelope, wisely, packed the days full. Joan helped with the housecleaning. There was old linen to mend and new linen to mark, and then to be laid on shelves sweet with little bags of rose leaves, there were things to be hung on the line in the fragrant air, lovely old quilts and hand-woven blankets, there were dishes to be taken down from the three-cornered cupboards, and washed and put back again. "How many years I have done all this. But then, that's life, doing things over and over again."

The evenings were the worst. Not the early part of them in front of the great fire in the living room with the kittens playing mad games with each other and old Muffet watching. Joan usually read aloud at this time, but about nine o'clock Penelope would grow sleepy. "If I go to bed what will you do with yourself, Joan?"

"Go to bed, too," Joan would say, with false cheerfulness, "I'll get a book."

Penelope had a library which she had inherited from her sea captain grandfather. He had had a nice literary taste, but the value put upon his books in later years by collectors would have seemed to him incredible. He had bought first editions not because everybody else was doing it, but because when he liked a poet or novelist he had been eager to read at once what he had to say. Thus it happened that in the dark, high bookcases were treasures over which Joan gloated. There was "Great Expectations," for example, three volumes in the original purple cloth. "I wonder," she said to Penelope, "if you know how much you could get for this?"

"I don't want to sell," said Penelope, shortly.

"There's a bookseller in Granitehead," Joan stated, "who would be simply mad about these. His name is Giles Armiger.

It was the first time she had spoken to Penelope of Giles. But now she told of the two shops, and of Scripps and the lame gull. "It is really like something out of a story," she said, and stopped there.

But as she read the old books, she thought more and more of Giles. He had seemed absorbed in his shop. Was he as absorbed in his wife? And was he happy? Perhaps he wasn't and had found, in his collecting, an engrossing occupation which eased his heart.

If only she, too, might find some interest as engrossing, and which might release her from her sense of obligation to Penelope. And it was with this in mind that she said, one morning, to Mrs. Sears, "You're a dear and a darling. But I must get something to do. I can't be a burden."

"I mustn't accept—everything. And I should like work."

"What could you do?"

"Once upon a time I taught school. I could do it again."

"There's only one school near here, and the woman who has it needs the money. Her husband was killed in the war."

"Perhaps I could go away and find a place . . ."

"Are you so tired of me?"

Then, whe Joan had ceased to hope, came a letter from Adelaide. "I am sure that by this time you have repented your precipitation. I sail for France late in October. The Hallams go with me. I think you have treated Drew very badly. If you ask him to forgive you he will take you back, and I will overlook what has happened. You cannot expect him to do more than this. He and I have talked it over. If, however, you persist in having your own way I am sending a check which will tide you over, until you can support yourself. You cannot, of course, expect Mrs. Sears to provide for you forever."

When Joan finished reading the letter, she sat for a long time staring at it. Then she left the house and went into the woods.

September had come, and the trees were gorgeous in their red and gold. There was, too, the rich green of the pines, and between the black trunks a vista of the sea, darkening to deep blue under the clear, cool sky.

Joan treading with light feet on brittle leaves and brown needles, came to the place where she had danced with Drew. Here—in the moonlight—in her silver slippers . . . Here he had said, "I want you beautiful always . . . for me . . . for my kisses."

Oh, how much had he meant of it? He, who had let her aunt write. Who had talked it over in cold blood and had been sure of Adelaide's forgiveness before he dared offer his own? She had only to say, "I'm sorry," and he would be here beside her, and they would ride down to the sea, and things would be as they had been before.

But would they ever be as they had been before? If she gave in, would her doubts be stilled? Might she not go back to find more heartaches, more humiliations?

She sat down on a fallen log and considered it. She was torn by her indecisions. She wanted him—she wanted Drew. Oh, why should she care for anything except to see him?

Quadruplets Are Now Nineteen Years Old

Mrs. F. M. Keys
the mother

The Keys quadruplets today

F. M. Keys
the father

Above is shown the famous Keys quadruplets who for nineteen years have held the spotlight, only to yield it up this summer to the now famous Dionne quintuplets.

FAMOUS KEYS QUADRUPLETS SEE JUST WHAT FACING QUINTUPLETS

Nineteen Years in Public Eye and They Have Made Most of It.

ADVICE TO DIONNES.

By FRANK A. LEE,
Central Press Canadian Correspondent.

HOLLIS, Okla., Aug. 25. — The famous Keys quadruplets of this town, who for 19 years have held a position of unique prominence in the spotlight of publicity, are not envious of the Dionne quintuplets of Corbell, Ontario.

Instead, they have a lot of advice to give the five Dionne sisters when they are a bit older.

Nineteen years of being the centre of attraction in their little home town in the southwestern corner of Oklahoma, in large cities, and everywhere they go have given the Keys sisters a keen insight into the vagaries of fame, and they are willing to pass along their philosophy of life to the tiny Dionne sisters.

Mrs. Keys Understands.

Nor is Mrs. Keys, 52-year-old mother of the quartet, at all put out by the sudden world-wide interest in Mrs. Dionne. In fact, Mrs. Keys, out of her experiences of 19 years, feels sorry for the quintuplets' mother.

"If I lived near them I'd not go to see them," she says. "I know what the family is going through."

However, Mrs. Keys does not regret the publicity that admittedly has helped her four girls along in a great many ways. She simply understands.

It was on June 4, 1915, near midnight, that Dr. W. C. Pendergraft, now dead, hurried to the Keys' home to preside at the birth of what he had expected to be twins. Instead he remained to gain the fame that went with giving medical attention to four girls, all alike, weighing 16 pounds in aggregate.

Big News.

Before daylight broke over the plains of southwestern Oklahoma the quadruple blessed event had been announced far and wide.

The pilgrimage of the curious was under way.

The Keys home was the mecca for a constantly increasing throng of friends, relatives and the general public. During the first month more than 3,000 persons had placed their names in a book in the living-room of the Keys home. By Aug. 4 the number had mounted to 6,600.

Telegrams, telephone calls and representatives of theatres and state fairs presented lucrative offers for exhibition of the four little sisters.

Accept One Offer.

But Flake McDaniel Keys, the father who was a hardware merchant, had ideas of his own. They coincided with those of the mother. They had first in mind the health of their famous daughters, and all offers save that of the state fair at Oklahoma City were rejected.

For nine years an annual trip to the fair was made by Mr. and Mrs. Keys and their eight children, for the family before the quadruplets' arrival had included two boys and two girls.

The years rolled along, and the quadruplets grew into strong, healthy girls. They played together, started to school together, were baptized into the Baptist church at the same time, and last fall entered Baylor university in Waco, Tex., together.

Always they wore dresses of the same pattern and color. Then, one day, when they were nine years old, Leota decided there should be a change. The girls, being just like any other girls, were becoming weary of being stared at and pointed out wherever they went. The others agreed and Mrs. Keys surrendered to their plea.

Public Objects.

But the public wouldn't have it that way. After a few days of different dresses, the girls found themselves in the centre of a turmoil that rocked their home town. Telephone calls demanding a return of the old rule clanged into the Keys home. Even the mayor called, pleading that the girls go back to their former similarity of dress, and back they went.

There was no way to escape attention, so the girls accepted it and have made the best of it ever since.

However, after the first few years the quadruplets began developing ways of their own and expressing individual personalities. To-day, though three of the girls look very much alike, actually they are as different as girls of approximate ages in any average home.

No Love Affairs.

All four girls insist they never have had a serious love affair and are not contemplating marriage for years to come.

Although individualistic in their mental trends naturally they have gone along together in many of their activities. They swim and dance, play saxophones, fish, and go on hikes together.

And they quarrel just like other sisters do when the occasion arises.

"They're just like other girls," their mother insists. "They don't have real hair-pulling contests, but they have ways of their own and follow those ways."

The chief source of disagreement is in the matter of dress. Now, as last fall, the quadruplets are face to face with the problem of selecting clothing for college wear.

The Keys home itself has been shaped by the quadruplets.

"I just had to have more rooms so we built and added to until now we have nine rooms," explains their 56-year-old father.

"It has been a task, of course, keeping things going, but one thing is certain—we've never been lonesome."

Advice to Dionnes.

Lately Keys is taking a lot of chiding from his fellow townsmen.

"Well, Flake, you'll have to take your sign down now," they say. "That Canadian went you one better."

To which the quadruplets' father replies: "I'm not taking down any sign, and when Mr. Dionne has taken care of those five girls for 19 years he will be a lot wiser."

Mrs. Keys, who is always bustling around the house doing something for the girls, especially during the summer vacation when they're home, is just as proud of them as is the father.

"I've tried to teach them to be natural in all their ways," she says. "That, too, is my advice to Mrs. Dionne. The publicity will continue, and it will be hard sometimes for the girls to keep their heads from being turned. But after all they are human beings just like other girls and their real success in life depends upon their being natural.

"I think the quadruplets got along well mainly because I nursed them myself," she explains. "They had only the usual medical attention at the hands of Dr. Pendergraft, but they grew into big, healthy girls because they had a good start."

DUCE CANCELS GERMAN VISIT

Assassination of Dollfuss, His Closest Frend, Causes Decided Breach.

WAS TO SEE HITLER.

ROME, Aug. 25. — (A.P.)—The proposed visit of Premier Mussolini to Chancellor Hitler this autumn, to return "Der Fuehrer's" visit to Il Duce in June, is definitely off, it was indicated in government circles today.

It had been expected the Italian Premier would meet Hitler at the latter's home at Berchtesbaden, near Munch, in October or November.

Government sources said that the developments in Austria which have caused a decided cleavage between Germany and Italy, now preclude the possibility of such a meeting.

The assassination of Mussolini's close personal friend, the late Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss, which was attributed by the Italian press indirectly to Germany, has removed from Il Duce's mind all thought of visiting the German Chancellor, these circles pointed out.

At the conclusion of the Venice meeting an official communique was issued saying the personal contact between the two men would be continued in the future.

RECORDS SHOW DEFICIT OF T.N.O. IS $8,360,000

Difference in Balance Sheet Accounted for by $8,187,000 Interest Owed Ontario.

NEVER RECOGNIZED.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP).—An actual deficit of $8,360,000 as of Oct. 31, 1933, is shown in the true balance sheet of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, according to a report submitted yesterday by Harry W. Steele, Ottawa accountant, appointed to audit the road's books.

Mr. Steele continued to-day to examine the T. and N.O. records, while Armand Racine, Windsor barrister, conducting the probe, is confering in Toronto with Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario.

Auditor Steele said the T. and N.O. balance sheet of last October set up a surplus of $415,000 for the road, exclusive of the Nipissing Central Railway, a subsidiary of the T. and N.O.

"The reason generally for the great difference in the T. and N.O. balance and the actual balance," the auditor declared, "is that accrued interest of $8,182,000 due the Ontario Government had not been recognized in the T. and N.O. report.

"Also, provision was not made for the writing off of the Nipissing Central electric line and equipment and also the N.C.R. deficit at October 31, 1933."

Mr. Steele's latest report showed a net loss of $352,400 for the N.C.R. from 1915 to 1933, inclusive. The loss of $288,500 charged to the N.C.R.'s electric line from Cobalt to the outskirts of New Liskeard was included in this amount.

Operation of the T. and N.O. during the first eight months of 1934 caused a further loss of $798,200, according to the auditor's written report for Mr. Racine.

Grandstand Notes

Did you know?

That Mrs. Bertha Behney is the champion solitaire player in the world—as far as endurance is concerned anyway.

That Bill Hedrick, the huskiest of the Four Rockets, is a great cook, but he makes Erna peel the potatoes.

That Bus Hutcheson is a good trombone player, but a far better plumber.

That Al Pooley, who plays the squeeze-box, sax, and croons, is the only tenant on his block. Listen to him and you'll move too.

That the Detroit Tigers are going to win the World Series this year.

Who stole the case of beer from Gallagher's car. Why don't you look in Pooley's tuba—it might be there. Maybe the beer is flat by now and has a similar influence on the said tube.

That Jeanette Lewis, one of the loveliest ladies of the ensemble is exchanging torch notes with Dick Powell? He's no fool.

That "Mussolini" Morocco of the Rangers is the matinee idol of Peterborough. He's idle in the evenings, too.

That Babe Juryea, who leads the Honeymoon Hotel number, is the sweetheart of Billy Winn, the champ dirt track driver of the world.

That Ambrose Pooley is a personal friend of the Mayor of Perth. That's his story and he's stuck with it.

That the show in front of the Grand Stand has met the unanimous approval of the exhibition officials, the public, the press, and is conceded to be absolutely the best show in the history of the fair. Come and see why.

That Jackie Jacobs of the Winter Garden Revue, is an expert athlete.

That the Exhibition Board have proved that they are trying to give the public the ultimate in entertainment by going to great expense in bringing Carl Reade, expert sound man, to install a marvellous sound system.

That Jimmy Sullivan, King of midway, is handsomer than most movie stars. That's why his midway is crowded with representatives of the fair sex.

That the Winter Garden Revue, presents a complete change of program to-night. This is your last opportunity to see it. Don't miss it.

FIND LABATT CLIPPING ON MISSOURI PRISONER

BOONVILLE, Mo., Aug. 25.—(A.P.)—Charles P. Bueller, Kansas city gangster, was taken to the Kansas State Prison at Lansing to-day for safe keeping after he was arrested here trying to pass what Sheriff Arthur Bradley said was a counterfeit $10 note.

In a fyle of newspaper clippings he carried officers said they found New York papers telling of the recent Labatt kidnapping in London, Ont. He was travelling in a roadster with New York license plates.

Mueller is charged with participating in the robbery of the First National Bank at Leavenworth, Kas., April, 1933, and also is charged with being the incendiary "torch" in the burning of the Rochambeau Hotel at Kansas City March 11, 1932.

Millbrook

A group of the younger 'teen age girls of the village, with commendable initiative, interested themselves in the matter of raising funds for the Star Fresh Air Fund, and on Wednesday afternoon staged a sale of home baking, sandwiches and candy on the green in front of the Armouries, netting $14.20, with the promise of a few more donations yet to come in. Supplies for the sale were donated, and patronage of the girls in their effort was generous. The four girls originating the idea were Winnifred Lord, Laureen Handley, Gertrude Richards and Eleanor Bigelow; also assisting were Ruth Richards and Mary Handley. Free advertising was given in the local press.

Rev. Archer L. Sisco and his two daughters, Della May and Barbara, while on their way home from their holidays last Friday, met with a serious accident in the vicinity of St. Hubert, Quebec Province. As they were about to pass a car another driver cut in, smashing into Mr. Sisco's car and wrecking both machines. Della May was thrown through the windshield, the fact that she was wearing a felt hat, the brim of which was pushed by the impact down about her face, saving her from serious head injury. She sustained a cut on her face near the eye, another on her leg and a severe one on her right hand which was so widely opened before medical attention could be secured that she will always carry a nasty scar. Barbara was thrown against the rug rack and two teeth taken out, roots and all, almost as though it had been done in a dentist's chair, with a third one loosened. The whole party suffered severe nervous shock from which it will take time to recover. Unfortunately Rev. Mr. Sisco has been obliged to shoulder the whole financial burden resulting from the accident, including the purchase of a new car, as the driver causing the trouble had no insurance, a car of little value and no means whatever of meeting the monetary obligations involved.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duncan, of Cleveland, Ohio, and their daughter, Miss Marguerite, with Mr. Donald Shouldrake, are guests of Mr. George and Miss May Duncan this week.

Dr. H. A. and Mrs. Turner and Miss Beatrice Turner, B.A., are at their summer home for a holiday this month, the individual island on which their cottage is located being near Crowe's Landing, Stoney Lake.

Misses Jean and Pearl Burnham returned home this week after holidaying at Dwight, Lake of Bays, Muskoka, for the past ten days. Muskoka resorts generally report a better season this year than last, yet hotels and boarding-houses are far from being filled with guests, Americans predominating among those spending their vacation in the beautiful Lake of Bays district.

Betty Wright, three-year-old daughter of Dr. J. W. and Mrs. Wright, had the misfortune to fall and break her shoulder while visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright, Garden Hill, last week. The little girl is home again and making good progress toward recovery.

Mr. J. E. Burnham, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. (Dr.) E. L. Burnham, for the past two weeks, returned to Chemong Park on Wednesday, intending to go back to his home at St. Petersburg, Florida, early in September. Miss Betty Darling, granddaughter of Mr. Burnham's, is visiting her grandmother and aunt, returning with them from Chemong Park on Wednesday evening.

Seven members of the Oxford Group of Peterborough took charge of the service in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday evening, under the auspices of the local Young People's Society. There was a good congregation and an impressive message was given by the visiting young people. Rev. Mr. Sisco expects to again take his own services on the circuit, following vacation, on Sunday, August 26.

Rev. William Simpson, B.A., rector of the parish of Cavan, is on his annual holidays, visiting relatives in the vicinity of Midland and at other points. Rev. W. H. Stubbs, B.A., of Elmvale, looking after the services in Millbrook and Cavan churches during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stinson and family, who have been occupying the homestead of the late Mrs. Samuel Eaking, Main street, since coming to the village to reside, expect to move back to Peterborough shortly to make their home, Mr. Stinson having secured a new position in that city.

Mrs. Genevieve Bothwell, of Montreal, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. D. R. Fowler, and Mr. Fowler, at present.

Miss Jean Stinson has been successful in passing her examinations in the kindergarten course, after taking the summer course at the Ottawa Normal School.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Williams, of Creemore, and formerly of Millbrook, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilkinson and other friends in the village recently while on their way to Havelock during his summer vacation.

Miss Esther Might has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Harry Coles, and Mr. Coles, Toronto, for her summer vacation.

Mrs. Frank Gray and Bobbie are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown and other friends at Detroit for their summer holiday.

E. H. Barnes, of the local staff of the Bank of Toronto, is relieving at the Bethany branch while the manager at that point is on his vacation.

F. W. Pendrie, of the firm Fowler and Pendrie, returned this week from his annual vacation, spent in Rochester, Toronto and at other points. Miss Lila Whyte of the same firm is enjoying a two weeks' holiday at present.

DIRECTORS GRATIFIED.

Grandstand's Aggregate Was 14,082 as Compared With 12,897 Last Year.

Rain and inclement weather during the week failed to prevent this year's Peterborough Industrial Exhibition from establishing a larger attendance record than last year. Exhibition Board directors agree that the change in dates of the show did not produce the fine weather expected, but despite this the residents of the city and district ably supported the exhibition.

On Saturday the turnstiles were kept clicking merrily as a total of 8,804 passed through the gates, for the largest day's attendance of the week. Another record day's attendance was established on the grandstand with a total of 3,995.

Last Saturday's attendance was much higher than Saturday last year, when the figures were: Attendance 7,565, grandstand 2,019.

"On behalf of the Exhibition Board I desire to thank those residents of the district who attended the Exhibition, and by their presence lent us the support that we need to maintain the show on the high level that we desire to maintain it," stated Mayor Denne, president of the Exhibition Board. "The fact that we had larger attendance is encouraging. The weather was

2 FLIERS' BODIES FOUND IN LAKE

Picked Up North of Winnipeg After Search of Nine Days.

INQUEST SATURDAY.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27. (CP).—Investigation into the crash that ended in death for George Mackie and Len Blackwell was being considered by aviation officials today as the bodies of the two Northwestern Aero Marine flyers were returned here from Lake Winnipeg.

Formal identification of the bodies was made at an inquest Saturday, at Pine Falls, and the inquiry adjourned for a week, the two flyers, missing for nine days, disappeared over Lake Winnipeg while searching for Charles Scarr whose 'plane was forced down at Sandy river.

Finding of the bodies wrote finish to a search that at one time involvd eight men and lasted six days. Bill May, another Northwest pilot, and three companions were listed as missing when their motor-launch became storm-bound. They were forced to abandon their search for Mackie and run for shelter.

Mackie's 'plane was found late Friday. Twisted wings and a broken fuselage testified to the fury of the vicious storm, that pounded it down and tossed it, a heap of wreckage, against a rocky reef on the lake's eastern shore. Indian fishermen led Pilot T. C. Travers to the spot, 150 miles northeast of here.

DRUNKEN BRAWL OUTSIDE HOTEL

Customers Alleged to Have Objected to Early Closing.

$15 FINE IMPOSED.

A drunken brawl outside the American Hotel on Saturday night "in which several people got hurt," according to Chief Newhall, resulted in police court to-day in a local youth being convicted of being intoxicated in a public place.

"I have given warning that I intended increasing fines if this rowdyism continued," stated His Worship, when the young man pleaded guilty. He was fined $15 and $4.50 costs, and if he fails to pay will spend 15 days in jail.

It was learned that one man, who endeavored to separate several combatants in the brawl, was kicked in the eye and required medical attention. Dr. J. M. O'Brien found it necessary to insert several stitches to close the wound.

The fight started, The Examiner was informed, when the beverage-room manager tried to close up at 10 o'clock in accordance with the agreement for early closing among hotel proprietors in the city. Several customers refused to leave the premises, and the free-for-all fight followed. Police were called to quiet the combatants, but only one arrest was made.

It was learned on reliable information that Provincial Constable D. Sylvester has been instructed by Provincial Police headquarters to check up on all beverage rooms in this district, and report conditions. He investigated conditions in several hotels on Saturday evening, wearing plain clothes.

Gambling Charge.

When Emmett Avery, charged with permitting 252 Brock Street to be used as a disorderly house, namely, gambling, created something of a debate between W. J. Arthur Fair, local lawyer, and Chief Newhall when he changed his plea of not guilty to guilty.

Mr. Fair alleged that Avery "had been tampered" with by police in thus deciding to change his plea. Chief Newhall stated that the lawyer was "rattled and should go into the witness-box if he had anything to say." The Chief denied that he had interviewed Avery, and the man declared flatly that he had not been talking with Chief Newhall and no police officer had urged him to change his plea. He stated

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 27 (CP-Havas).—Three were killed and 42 seriously injured when a train, skirting the Kyutokusen River in the Gensan district in Northwest Korea to-day was derailed. All the cars plunged into the water.

While rescue squads were at work and emergency units were organized to aid the injured, a preliminary investigation led to the belief that the derailment had been due to sabotage.

Northwest Korea, the area in which the accident occurred, touches the south-eastern frontier of Manchuria, while to the northeast lies Maritime Siberia.

SHOP GRIEVANCES AIRED.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP) —Resuming his investigation of the affairs of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, Commissioner Armand Racine recalled James Hume to the stand.

Hume, janitor at T. and N. O. headquarters, was again questioned closely covering the destruction of files in the basement last June.

Hume testified last week he had burned considerable files which had been sorted out by A. Burwill Odlum, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

Hume testified he had burned many "loose letters" including "yellow colored seconds or copies."

Headed by Sam Barley, a grievanc union committee representing men employed in the T. and N.O. car shops, again waited on Commissioner Racine to-day. Barley recommended a 40 or 44-hour week in the shops.

The committee told the commissioner there is plenty of work to be done as 50 per cent of the T. and N.O. rolling stock is in need of repairs.

The union men said there is "easily enough work to keep the men going for a year on the basis of a 40-hour week."

Barley reminded the commissioner there has been a 20 per cent. reduction in staff and working hours in the shops.

PLANTATION OVERSEERS SLAIN, NEGRO IS HUNTED

CHARLESTON, Mo., Aug. 27.—(A. P.)—Enraged citizens and officers scoured the hills of Southeast Missouri to-day hunting an itinerant negro cotton picker, accused of slaying two white men, plantation overseers at Wolf Island, a Mississippi river settlement south of here.

The white men, Jess Cofer and his nephew, Dan Cofer, both employees at the Tynearson plantation, were shot to death late Saturday as they watched a dance at the home of a negro tenant.

$170,000 BLAZE HITS MILL TOWN

Mill, Loader, Locomotive Are Prey to Flames—Citizens Save Lumber Yards.

100 OUT OF WORK.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 27 (C.P.) —Where the huge Fassett Lumber Company mill stood in Fossmill last week, there was nothing but ruins to-day. Fire, the worse in the history of the town, totally demolished the mill, Sunday evening, and paralyzed the little town, 25 miles east of North Bay, on the Canadian National Railways lines.

Damage was unofficially estimated to-day at $170,000, as follows: Mill $115,000, loader $20,000, and locomotive and flat cars $45,000.

The fire, which broke out at 5.15 p.m. Sunday, levelled the mill within 45 minutes. J. H. Bedard, yard foreman, narrowly escaped death, when he attempted to secure books from his office.

It was only the trojan-like efforts of several hundred men and women that saved the lumber yards, containing from 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 feet of lumber. A timely rain aided the fire-fighters in their work.

The fire is believed to have started in the lathe mill, and within a few minutes spread through the entire building.

Besides the mill, a machine shop in which a loader, a locomotive engine, and two flat cars, all the property of the company, were destroyed.

Insurance is carried on the mill, but about 100 men will be thrown out of work. The mill was the sustainence of the town. Thomas Howard, manager of the mill, is absent from Fossmill, and an official estimate was not available. What the company's future plans are is unknown.

GIRL ENGINEERS PRISON BREAK

Sends Hack Saws, Provides Car—11 Get Away, But 3 Are Recaptured.

LOVER AMONG THEM.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 27. (AP). Eleven prisoners took charge of the Hamilton county jail today, imprisoned all jailers and trusties and escaped under a fusilade of shots from officers.

Three of the 11 were captured. Lige Cagle, charged with highway robbery, admitted. Chief Deputy Sheriff W. G. Sears said, that he led the break. A girl in Savannah, Ga., Cagle said, sent him $30 worth of hacksaws with which he and two cellmates severed a lever in a lock box.

The prisoners went first into the jail office and captured Night Jailer Tom Carter and several trusties. Jack Youngblood, who was captured along with Bob Kerr and Cagle, said they raided the kitchen before leaving.

Trying to escape in an automobile he said the girl had sent, Cagle was captured near the jail.

ONTARIO BEGINS NEW MINIMUM WAGE SCHEDULE

Will Be Most Extensive Program Yet Undertaken By Any Province.

HIT ALL INDUSTRIES.

Allows Gov't to Set Rates if Employers, Workers Fail to Agree.

(By The Canadian Press)

Ontario's legislative machinery turned to-day in the process of putting into effect new minimum wage laws, sweeping in character. The proposed legislation, virtually amounting to codification of wage scales in all industries, appeared as the most extensive program yet undertaken by any Canadian province.

The Ontario regulations would permit the government to fix hours, wages and working conditions if employees and workers, meeting in conference, failed to formulate a cod. The laws would apply to all men and women, regardless of age; to skilled workers and many of those previously classed as unskilled.

A program somewhat similar to that proposed in Ontario has been adopted by the government of Premier P. D. Pattullo in British Columbia and is being put into effect by the newly-established Board of Industrial Relations.

Like the Ontario regulations those in British Columbia provide for codification of wage schedules in various industries and persons serving apprenticeships fall under its provisions. The Industrial Relations Board at present is hearing representations with a view to formulating scales in the separate industries.

MOTORIST WILL FACE CHARGES

Saturday Afternoon Smash at Bailieboro Injures Three.

2 IN HOSPITAL.

Giving the name and address of William George Dickson of Toronto, a motorist is today lying at Nicholls Hospital suffering painful injuries sustained in a motor smash near Bailieboro' Saturday afternoon.

Highway Traffic Officer A. E. Hornick stated that he is laying charges against Dickson at Port Hope, of "being drunk in charge of a car", and "having liquor in a place other than a residence".

While the motorist gave a Toronto address, the officer said, a liquor permit in his possession indicated an address in New York City.

The injured motorist was driving north on Highway 28, it is learned, and when a short distance this side of Bailieboro' his car swerved from the pavement, took to the ditch and was wrecked.

Berwyn Tillcock and James Crock both of Toronto, who were riding in the car, were also injured. The former who had been journeying to this city to spend the week-end at his home on Aylmer street north, was conveyed here in a passing car, and later in the evening his condition was such that it was considered advisable to remove him to hospital also. Tillcock it is stated, had secured a ride from Toronto with Dickson.

FIRE SWEEPING PEAT MARSHES

Rain Fails to Check Flames Threatening Acres of Reclaimed Land.

MEANS HEAVY LOSS.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP)—Rain fell here to-day but not enough to even check the progress of the peat-land fire which is devastating some 400 acres of marshland on Point Pelee close to the reclaimed lands which are planted to onions.

How the fire started on Saturday is now known, but it quickly swept over the area cleaning up the marsh grass and then ate its way down into the peatbag underneath. This fibrous soil is from 10 to 20 feet in depth down to clay, and it is feared that the entire stretch will be completely destroyed and that planned reclaimation will not be possible. No efforts has been made to reclaim this area as was done in some 5,000 acres adjoining, but with water levels low there was discussion of building dykes to keep the land comparatively dry and make it tillable.

The dykes about the reclaimed lands contain considerable peat and the fire is working its way into the dykes despite efforts to check it. Water has been poured over the sides of the dykes from the big ditches made when dykes were constructed but little progress has been made. If the dykes are burned the entire reclaimed area will be exposed to submersion again.

Loss is estimated at thousands of dollars unless the fire can be checked and this does not seem possible now.

Old residents say they have never before seen this land so dry.

Fear New Eruption On Mystery Island

ABOARD EXPEDITION SHIP AMELIA, Aug. 27 (A.P.—By Wireless),—Terrific underground forces, which may lead to its destruction, are at work "full blast" rebuilding mysterious Bogoslof Island, Father Bernard Hubbard, famed priest explorer, said to-day.

"Another major eruption may well be expected there within the next few years," the explorer said, as he and his party proceeded on the Amelia for the Katmai region in the Alaskan peninsula.

Father Hubbard and Capt. Olsen, of the Amelia, also joined in saying that an explanation of the island's "disappearances" in the past may well have been due to its being inaccurately located on maps. Three official positions have been given in recent years by the coast and geodetic survey.

Father Hubbard and his party made a successful landing on the treacherous shoreline of Bogoslof on August 19.

Pair Escape in Car Before Startled Pedestrians Can Take Action.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (C.P.) —Slugged over the head by two thugs to-day as he crossed St. Clair avenue and Dufferin street intersection, Norman Gardiner was knocked semi-conscious and robbed of $500, Gardiner, drug store clerk, was on his way to deposit the money at the bank.

The holdup was executed in view of scores of citizens but the thugs ran to a waiting automobile before citizens could give chase. The holdup men followed Gardiner across the street and jostled him under cover of what appeared to be an accidental stumble. One of the men swung a club and grabbed the satchel.

Gardiner was unable to give police accurate descriptions of the men. He said both were young, not over 20 years of age.

Japs Lay Manchukuo Trouble To Soviets

TOKYO, Aug. 27.— (AP)— The Japanese government charged today that the Third Internationale is responsible for fomenting from Moscow intrigues against Japan involving train wrecks in Manchukuo on the Chinese Eastern Railway.

This was the latest blast in the conflict of propaganda Japan and Manchukuo are waging with the Soviet, while each party awaits signs of the other's weakening in deadlocked negotiations for Japan's purchase of the railroad from Russia.

A Foreign Office spokesman said 30 Soviet employees of the railroad arrested in Manchukuo "will be tried in two sets on charges of train wrecking and intrigues against Manchukuo and Japan, at the behest of the Third Internationale.

"Some of their confessions showed involvement of the Third Internationale according to official information reaching Tokyo," he asserted.

CAR WRECKED NEAR LINDSAY

UPSET IN DITCH.

LINDSAY, Aug. 27 (Special to The Examiner).—An automobile accident which might have been attended with more serious results occurred on Saturday night on the Lindsay - Bobcaygeon highway. James Thurston, town, was returning from Greenhurst with three other occupants in the car when the machine took to the ditch and turned completely over. The car was practically wrecked, the top being crushed. Only one of the occupants, Helen Edwards, of Port Perry, was injured. She sustained a fractured rib and some slight bruises, and was removed to the hospital.

MOTORCYCLIST IS VICTIM.

Canoeist Drowns in Frenchman's Bay, Another at Huntsville—Baby Suffocates.

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—(CP)—Five persons, including a four-months-old child, were victims of accidents in Ontario during the week-end. Two died in auto accidents, two were drowned while the baby was suffocated.

When the bottom of his perambulator slipped away four-months-old John Edwards was suffocated as his face was jammed in the vehicle. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Motz of Kitchener who were vacationing when the tragedy occurred, and he was the grandson of W. J. Motz, vice-president and general manager of the Kitchener Daily Record.

The auto crash victims were James MacKenzie, 19, of Toronto and Mrs. William Shank of Toronto. MacKenzie was injured fatally when his motorcycle was struck by an auto. John W. Banks, 20, riding on the Pillon behind MacKenzie was seriously injured when the auto tossed the motorcycle 15 feet. Mrs. Shank died 10 minutes after entering Bracebridge hospital with injuries suffered when the auto she was riding in collided with a motor truck, half a mile south of Bracebridge.

The woman's six-year-old daughter is in serious condition at hospital while the father in the rumble seat with his wife and child was badly bruised. Norman Smith, driver, suffered a broken leg; his wife suffered from shock and his four-year-old son was only slightly injured while the 12 persons in the motor truck escaped without injury.

Charles Brooks of Toronto and N. E. McLelland of Pittsburgh were the drowning victims. Brooks drowned in Frenchman's Bay when his canoe overturned and McLelland met the same fate in Long Lake near Huntsville when the craft he was fishing from upset. McLelland started to swim for shore but disappeared when only a few feet from the bank while his companion, J. W. Eglie, also of Pittsburgh, unable to swim, clung to the overturned canoe until an aeroplane landed on the lake and effected a rescue.

TEXTILE STRIKE NEAR DEADLINE

U. S. Labor Relations Board Moves Swiftly to Halt Walk Out.

MAY HIT 800,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (A.P.)—The Labor Relations Board apparently is ready to-day to intervene swiftly to avert a convulsion in the gigantic United States textile industry.

The board watched closely as strike leaders in north and south, acting on secret instructions from the united textile workers here, perfected plans for a walkout which they say may eventually involve 800,000 workers.

Authoritative information is that the secret order sets the date of the walkout as September 4, the day after Labor Day.

Other sources, however, hold that the strike will be called on or before next Saturday, the original "deadline."

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, expects to make the date public shortly. The position of the union leaders as outlined to-day is that, although they are willing to discuss the matter with the National Labor Relations Board, they are not willing to postpone the strike pending negotiations.

Only a definite settlement of their demands, they say, will bring peace. These include an end to the "stretch-out" system of requiring workers to tend more machines, wage improvements, and a halt to "discrimination" against union men. The industry, denying the union's accusation, says the cotton textile code has increased employment and boosted payrolls.

LAST CORSICAN BAD MAN TAKEN

Bandit Gives Up After Dodging Gendarmes for Three Years.

TIRED OF HUNT.

AJACCIO, Corsica, Aug. 27 (A.P.)—His resistance shattered by the pitiless stalking of French Gendarmes, Francois Bornes, said to be the last of Corsica's "bad bandits," has surrendered to police.

Tired annd haggard from three years' doings of gendarmes in the hinterland, the bandit stalked into the village of Levie yesterday and gave himself up on a charge for murder in 1930.

When French troops and gendarmes, equipped with tanks, launched their big bandit round-up in 1931, Bornes, a former gendarme who joined the band of the notorious Joseph Bartoli, fled to the brush. Since then the hunted man had constantly to change his hiding places in shepherds' huts and caves.

"I couldn't stand it any longer," he said on surrendering to the police.

Friday's Playoff Game Is Protested

HASTINGS, Aug. 27, (By Examiner Correspondent).—The first play-off game in the local softball league played on Friday night has been protested. The Outlaw management entered a protest against Umpire L. B. Scriver awarding the game to Elgin.

The score was all square at the end of the sixth. In the first half of the seventh Elgin shoved four runs across in rapid order. From then on the Outlaws appeared to be not trying to retire the side, waiting for darkness so that the score would revert back to the sixth. Umpire Scriver issued a warning but after watching their efforts on the next two Elgin batters, he promptly awarded the game to the ruralites.

The matter will be threshed out at a league meeting the first of the week.

NORMAN PETERS SETS MILE MARK ON LOCAL TRACK

Stratford Horse Covers Oval in Record Time in Second Heat of Free-for-all.

FINE RACING CARD.

Norman Peters, a high-powered little trotter owned by William Grouch, Stratford, and driven by Bill Lawson, Orangeville, stepped the fastest mile on the record of the local track during the second heat of the free-for-all run at the Exhibition Saturday afternoon. Clocked at 2.10 he nosed under the wire within three-fourths of a second of the track pacing record.

The record run was the feature of a fine card of three races provided for a packed grandstand. The afternoon saw fine competition in a 2.16 class race and a 2.21 class start as well as the free-for-all. The 2.21 class event was a special put on in view of the rain postponement Friday.

Timed at 1.04½ on the half mile and 2.10 on the full distance, Norman Peters endangered the record of 2.09¼ set by Dr. J. B. Whitely of Goderich with Sid Hal during Old Home week in 1929. It was his only win in the five heats of the event, however, and first money went to Bedford Grattan, a horse owned by G. S. Litt of Goderich, with James Wellwood's Star Peter beating him out for second place.

Ribs Broken.

A spill which resulted in two broken ribs and a bad shaking-up for Dr. C. H. Heslop of Milton, brought the crowd to their toes just after the start of the second heat in the 2.16 class. Catherine Grattan piloted by Jimmy Eason of Port Hope, stepped into the wheel of Joe Patch's sulky as they were rounding the first turn. Dr. Heslop with Grattanette, following Joe Patch closely, piled on top of the heap. Of seven starters, only three finished the heat.

Attended by a doctor summoned from the grandstand, Dr. Heslop insisted on being strapped up and allowed to drive the remaining heats of the event. He finished sixth in the third but scored an easy win in 2.11 in the fourth heat, qualifying for a final heat with G. S. Litt of Goderich to decide first and second money. Litt conceded the first money to the game little driver.

Good Starting.

W. A. McCullough of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian National Trotting and Pacing Horse Association, served with a stop watch in the judges' stand. He stated he

HITLER ASSURES SAAR GERMANY IS BACKING HER

Feels Valley's Return to Motherland Will Improve French Relations.

MAIN SNAG AT PRESENT.

By JOHN A. BOUMAN
Associated Press Foreign Staff

EHRENBREITSTEIN, Germany, Aug. 27 (A.P.) — Residents of the Saar territory, soon to participate in a momentous plebiscite had assurance to-day from Chancellor Hitler that "the whole German nation is behind you."

More than 500,000 persons jammed together here yesterday for a great demonstration of loyalty to the Saar and to give Hitler a tremendous ovation.

It is inevitable, he said, that the rich region would vote January 13 to return to Germany, in preference to remaining under the mandate of the League of Nations or becoming part of France. He said this should improve Franco-German relations.

"The Saar is the greatest problem now separating France from us," he asserted. "We shall not give up the conviction that the other side eventually will view this problem as it really is and that France will not deny her assistance in solving it.

"There is no reason whatever why two great nations should remain forever hostile on this issue."

Victory on January 14

"Be of good cheer." Der Fuehrer advised residents of the Saar. "The whole German nation is behind you. When the bells ring January 14 heralding the joyful event may they also ring in happier times for two nations which once faced each other as enemies."

At least one person out of four who heard him, it was estimated, was from the Saar.

Despite rumors that he fears assassination, Hitler strolled unconcernedly throug the huge crowd before his speech, greeting many friends. Franz Von Papen, special minister to Austria, was scheduled to speak but an announcement said the recurrence of an old ailment forced him to remain at home.

Enniskillen L.O.L 252 Holds Annual Social

NORWOOD, Aug. 27.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Despite the cool evening the social held under the auspices of Enniskillen L.O.L. No. 252 on Friday, August 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Webster, was very successful.

The softball game between Cottesloe and the Ninth Line resulted in the score of 17-10 in favor of Cottesloe.

The program, on account of the cool evening, was held in the house. Selections were given by the Nixon and Beamish orchestras, solos by Mr. Rice and Mr. Petrie, musical selection by Mr. O. Ferguson and Master Bert Ferguson, an address by Rev. A. C. Reeves. Mr. Rice led the party in community singing.

After the program lunch was served by the ladies.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY DAMAGE

Elmer Kidd of Westwood, Loses Barn and Contents—Loss $9,000.

Started While Threshing.

WESTWOOD, Aug. 27. (By Examiner Correspondent).—Loss estimated at $9,000 was sustained by Elmer Kidd this morning from fire which resulted in destruction of a large frame barn, the season's crop, three head of livestock and a threshing mill. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Kidd and his gang of men were threshing oats at the barn, it is learned, when around eight-thirty o'clock a big ball of fire shot from the blower of the threshing machine, and shortly after the whole of the barn was a raging inferno.

Men at work inside the building managed to scramble to safety, but a valuable stock bull, a brood cow, and veal calf perished. The whole of the season's crop was also destroyed along with the barn.

The threshing mill was owned by Stephen Elmhirs.

Hastings Beverage Rooms Close At 11

HASTINGS, Aug. 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—The management of the two local beverage rooms have reached a mutual agreement to close up at eleven o'clock every night. The agreement will meet with the approval of the majority of citizens of the village. The new time went into effect on Saturday night.

A census of storks is being taken in East Prussia.

HERE'S WHERE YOU SEE CHAMPIONS

Hard-fisted pioneers of Ontario had barely sown their first grain among the stumps of the Niagara peninsula when leaders had paved the way for what has grown into the Canadian National Exhibition. Down through the succeeding decades agriculturists of Canada have brought their finest livestock, blooded horses, poultry, pigeons and pet stock, along with products of the field and orchard to compete for valuable prizes.

A prize list of approximately $100,000 attracts the very best that modern agriculture can produce from Ontario and other provinces. Canada's greatest Horse Show and Speed Trials, featuring the Standard Bred Society's $6,000 Futurities, are two of the leading events at your Exhibition. Fashion Service

It's simple as A, B, C to make this jaunty dress patterned for today. Either silk or woolen fabrics are suitable for this model.

A ribbed soft crepe that suggests wool, in lovely milk chocolate shade made the original dress, with belt of brown velvet. It's smart for wear now and for the first warm fall days.

Fashioned of a lightweight tweed mixture in grey with black velvet trim it's also very effective for travel and for the last fall days without a coat. Later, when the cooler days arrive, it will slip easily under a coat.

For back-to-college, a gay angora plaid, is a smart and practical choice.

Style No. 3219 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

When a woman comes to the age of forty, I am firmly convinced that her best days are ahead of her. Forty is the age of maturity, of tolerance and a mellowed sense of humor; add to these a young face and a supple figure and you have a magnetic individual who can attract life's most enviable prizes.

* * * * * *

If you, too, would be young at forty, fifty, or sixty learn first youth's secret of never looking back. Look only forward and up, this applies physically as well as mentally. Keep the chin up so that the muscles will not sag and contract. Crane the neck forward and upwards in all directions as many times as you can remember; and also revolve the head about the neck in order to keep that matronly hump from the back of the neck.

* * * * * *

In so many cases, old skin is merely neglected skin. Yet nature herself offers you a second chance by constantly renewing the tissues. And it is up to you to stimulate and feed these tissues, aiding them in their work of reconstruction. There are plenty of rich cleansing creams, as well as splendid nourishing creams which are invaluable in this work. Pat them on briskly each night, using a smart upward stroke, and soon the blood will come tingling to the surface. Now, pinch the relaxed fatty tissue under the chin, between the thumb and forefinger; and also along the expression lines from nose to mouth.

* * * * * *

Crow's feet and crepy eyelids can be erased by a nourishing tissue cream gently patted in around the eye area. The movement for this is to start at the inner points of the eyebrows, grasp the ridge above the eyes, between the two middle fingers of each hand, in "scissors grip." Press upward and outward to the temple, moving the fingers.

300,000 POUNDS OF HONEY SOLD BY TOM SHIELD IN VANCOUVER

Representing Ontario Honey Producers' Co-operative in British Columbia Trip.

MARKET IS FIRM.

Representing the Ontario Honey Producers' Co-operative, Tom Shield recently returned from British Columbia with orders for 300,000 pounds of honey, the largest quota the western province has placed with the producers of Ontario.

Mr. Shield arrived back in Toronto Thursday night, reporting an increased demand for honey as a result of the short crop of small fruits generally experienced throughout Canada.

The extent of the steady increase in the Co-operative's shipments to the coast is indicated by the fact that on his first trip in 1926 Mr. Shield disposed of 175,000 pounds. Orders have been increased at the rate of more than 25,000 pounds a year.

Ontario's honey producers are doing a business of three million pounds of their product annually. Mr. Shield reported a strong export demand for Ontario honey, partly due to a decline this year in the United States and New Zealand.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

AN ABSURD REWARD FOR LUCK

Doubtless our present laws of contract bridge are inferior to those under which we played for five years. They are poorly arranged and poorly indexed, but the worst feature of all is the absurd reward for a grand slam contract bid and made when vulnerable. Nobody ever has been able to explain why a declarer should be awarded a premium for having 4 or 5 trump honors dealt to him. The game is supposed to reward skill, not luck. To shower a side with premiums, just because they hold about every high honor in the pack, and thereby hold spread hands, even if they play cards without knowing what the game is all about, is making the game for the lucky holder, rather than for the fine player. Let us hope that the next revision of the code will reward skill more than dumb luck.

Two of my friends, who bid a grand slam on the next hand, when vulnerable, I told they should be obliged to have the hands thrown out. They did not deserve to score 100 points twice for honors held, plus 2,250 points for the grand slam made, plus 700 points for a love rubber. As the previous deal had given them a small slam, bid and made, equally on luck, that rubber gave them a net score of 4,040 points on sheer luck of the deal, and the way spades broke on the hand shown.

The stake was only one-half cent a point, but the losers each had to pay $3 a minute, just for the sake of holding losing cards.

Bidding went: East, 1-spade, fourth hand; West, 5-hearts; East, 7-hearts, although his partner had originally passed, and could not reasonably be expected to hold both the ace of clubs and either of the missing minor suit K's. West's bid of 5-hearts was bad, but East's jump to 7-hearts was worse. Players forget a very important fact: 128 chances of winning 5-odd to one chance for making a grand slam.

The opening lead was the 2 of diamonds. Up went dummy's ace. West was a wild bidder, but he knew better than to expect that North held the missing K of diamonds. The declarer banked upon spades breaking 3-3, even if the odds against that happening were 65 to 35, which are rather stiff.

A single round of trumps pulled both opposing hearts. Two rounds of spades, then a ruff of the third lead of spades established that suit. A trump gave entry to dummy. Upon its two good spades West discarded his last diamond and his 2 of clubs. It was pretty soft for him.

What conditions have been helped by hypnotism?

Mostly nervous and mental troubles: (1) Hysteria of the major as well as mono-symptomatic type—i.e., loss of voice, muscular spasm, hysterical paralysis. (2) Nervous dyspepsia and other functional disorders (3) Insomnia. (4) Mental troubles such as perversions of sentiment—melancholia, perverted sex, the apathy of young people. (5) Alcoholism. (6) Problem children—nail biting, lying, cruelty. (7) Obsessions—such as fear of cancer. (8) Semi-organic conditions, such as stuttering, seasickness, a few cases of epilepsy.

In what manner does hypnosis cure such cases?

The answer is pure theory, but the fact remains that such cures occur.

Note that all the conditions are functional.

In the hypnotic state the subject gains a far-reaching power over his own organism, and the volition and moral standard are raised. Suggestions made during hypnotic trance to overcome undesirable habits or attitudes are carried out in the waking state.

Many patients fear conflict after the hypnotic state. Thus alcoholics fear that they will be able to resist, but that the desire will still remain. Therefore, they will be unhappy. But what actually happens in the successful experiment is that the desire will disappear.

Are there any proved cases of cure by hypnotism?

Thousands. To give examples:

Hysterical Spasm. A government clerk, aged 44, developed a spasm of the neck muscles (tarticollis) so severe that he only ventured out after dark, controlling the muscular spasms by holding the handle of his walking stick between his teeth. After several month's hypnotic treatment the spasms entirely ceased, the patient gained 50 pounds in weight.

Melancholia. Girl, aged 16, had for over a year wished to die, cried continually, refused food, and constantly made self accusations. Hypnotized several times and curative suggestions made during the hypnotic state. Improvement, amounting to recovery, in three months.

Obsessions. Woman. Fear of storms and traveling. Hypnotized. Recovered.

These obsessions and fears are among the most hopeful cases for hypnotism. Said Montaigne: "I have seen more people driven to flight by the smell of apples than by arquebuses, others frightened at a mouse, made sick by the sight of cream, or by seeing a feather bed shaken."

Morbid Fears. The number of people afflicted with these fears is far greater than most medical men realize. The patients are not insane, recognize the irrational character of their fears, but cannot rid themselves of the obsession.

Doctor Bramwell gives an illustrative case: A man was upset by some trouble of a sentimental nature and went to Paris for a few days' change. There he saw a play dealing with insanity. Immediately after, the laughter and gestures of his friends appeared insane and he began to fear that he himself was going insane. He recognized with his intellect that his friends were sound, but he could not rid himself of the fear. Hypnotism frequently yields good results in such cases.

Are there any failures with hypnotic treatment?

Certainly. Medical men would be suspicious of any treatment for which 100 per cent. good results were claimed. But most of the cases have failed under all other forms of treatment.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyst for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Miss Jean Jewell,
482 Reid Street, City.

Your handwriting or analysis indicates lack of concentrated thought, inability to carry out work as per schedule or to hurry when necessary. However, this person is easy going, humorous and likes good times, yet the effort to create good times for others is seemingly far too strenuous. Nevertheless the general disposition is quite versatile and this person will find at times that there will be periods when energetic forces will surmount, and periods when the don't care attitude will predominate. The writer could be deeply hurt through love and might be considered jealous because love is the one outstanding force or factor which counteracts all other influences in the life of this type of individual. Business as a pastime, such as clerking might be an outlet for the rapid thinking capacity, but not as a career. Sometimes this person says one thing and means another, but usually in fun. The eyes must be watched for genuine expression. The writing in ink might suggest a few different characteristics, but the main body of the writing would be the same. I think youth is the predominating factor at present, and so one must allow for change as time progresses.

Mrs. Gertrude Stainburee,
57 Montcalm Avenue,
Forest Village, Toronto.

Your handwriting as portrayed on your sample delineates you as a person with dominant characteristics. Your whole outlines and formations of the writing show that you possess a great deal of energy and driving force. You should be a power for good among those who have to work with you, either in a social way or otherwise. You have the ability to lead others and to convey your wishes in no uncertain manner. Your mind is keen and retentive, yet if you desire to forget an incident, you can do so easily. The tall, upper loops depict a generous and constructive imagination. You can plan and organize. You can acquire knowledge, impart it and retain it. You are perhaps a little ambitious and visionary, but this is typical of one of your dominant nature. In that it gives you the necessary thought and perception with which to entertain plans for the future. You are a good winner and a good loser. You can look on the brighter side of life and see the good in other people. You have a fairly good sense of humor and this assists you greatly in your study of human nature.

Your lucky number is eight. Your birthsign is Libra the Balance. You are ruled by Venus. August and December are your most fortunate months, with Friday as the lucky day. Eight is an excellent number for business. It lends wisdom and common sense to the owner.

Marjery A. Wilson,
254 Harvie Ave.,
Toronto, Ontario.

Your handwriting for analysis delineates you as a graceful, careful and thoughtful person. Your ideas regarding propriety are well expressed. You desire peace and calmness to blatant noise and confusion. You are well poised and interesting. You do not allow your thoughts to stagnate, but keep conversant with current topics. Therefore you are seldom at a loss for intelligent things to say in conversation with your friends. You do not make many friends, because you prefer to choose carefully and with the object in view of disseminating intelligence, for your mind must be fed in order for you to be perfectly happy. Physically, you are not as strong as you appear, but yet you are not really ill. It is your general bodily structure which is your heritage, so must be carefully guarded at all times. You are artistically temperamental, and perhaps anything which is contrary to your expectations in that line upsets your mental equilibrium. You most emphatically dislike disorder. You are a bit romantic and do not enjoy working under supervision. However, you are very kind and sympathetic, and generally know how to make the best of any situation.

FILM STAR CLAIMS EXCESS OILINESS DESTROYS HAIR

Ida Lupino

When that pretty little English star, Ida Lupino, first arrived in Hollywood last summer, she was one of the blondest blondes you can imagine. Ida didn't remain that way very long, however. The Hollywood magnates took Ida's corn-colored locks and tinted them a rich, brown shade. And they discovered that, while the change added sophistication to her appearance, it increased, rather than diminished, her loveliness.

One of the lovliest features of Ida's hair is its soft fluffiness. Ida never permits her locks to become greasy or oily. For she claims that oiliness robs the hair of that clean, glossy appearance so essential for hair beauty. And she's right, too. Oily hair usually results when the oil glands in the scalp are overactive and abnormal. These glands exude oil in excess quantities. And as a result the hair becomes dank and lifeless.

Of course, superficial treatments, such as the use of lemon or soda rinses, are beneficial for removing the excess oil from the hair. They help to make the hair appear soft and fluffy. But the new salt pack treatment that I've recently learned about not only makes the hair appear free of excess oil, but also helps to correct the abnormal functioning of the oil glands.

Before the salt pack is applied, the hair should be brushed vigorously with a flexible-bristle brush. Then a saucer full of salt should be taken, moistened slightly with water, and applied generously to the entire scalp. When the pack has been entirely applied, the salt should be massaged over the scalp and through the hair with the fingertips. Then a towel should be wrapped about the head, and the pack permitted to remain on for a while.

After a fair amount of time, the hair should again be brushed vigorously and then fine-combed in order to remove as much of the salt as possible from the head. Next, before the hair is moistened, a good liquid shampoo should be applied to it. After this primary lathering the hair should be rinsed with warm water and relathered. As a final step, every bit of soap should be rinsed away with clear water, and then a lemon, soda or vinegar rinse used. This procedure removes the oil effectively from the head, and leaves the hair soft, fluffy and lustrous.

NATIVE WINES.

It is to be imagined that the City Council of St. Catharines in passing a resolution requesting Premier Hepburn to authorize Ontario hotels now selling beer to sell native wines under the same license has been swayed by mercenary reasons rather than by consideration for public welfare.

The policy suggested would be a fine thing for the grape-growers of the Niagara Peninsula—but we must respectfully but strongly protest against it being loaded on to the people of this province.

The opinion of law enforcement officers is that cheap native wines—devastating in their effect upon the consumer—are too readily available as it is, the elimination of the permit system in wine purchases having materially increased the already heavy consumption of these beverages, which have enjoyed a widespread popularity because of their low price and high degree of potency.

Police officers declare that cheap wines are responsible for a large amount of drunkenness, and the plan advocated by St. Catharines, which would authorize sale of native wines under a beer license and would permit advertising these beverages, would certainly step up drinking and make more business for the police and the magistrates.

The grape-growers had better be satisfied with the market they now possess; certainly there is no reason why the province should be debauched to increase their avenues of sale.

A USELESS CAMPAIGN.

Gordon Noble, of Hamilton, secretary of the Ontario Restaurant Owners' Association, urged a meeting of Windsor restaurant keepers the other night to organize for a concerted drive to impress upon the Hepburn Government the desirability of granting beer licenses to restaurants in the province.

We would advise owners of restaurants not to waste any time or money in an effort that has not the slightest chance to succeed.

If there was anywhere in the province a very strong pressure of public opinion in favor of restaurant sale it has been effectiv ely killed by what has happened since the sale of beer by the glass commenced in the hotels of Ontario.

Viewing the conditions that have been created by the opening of hotel beverage rooms, the public generally would not think for a moment of approving the providing of further facilities for drinking, inasmuch as it is obvious that the extension of sale to restaurants would multiply the drunkenness and other evils that have been so painfully evident during the last few weeks.

We do not believe that five people out of a hundred in Peterborough would endorse the granting of beer licenses to restaurants, and the fee ling here is typical of the sentiment in practically every other Ontario community.

Instead of carrying on a fruitless campaign to secure a privilege that would in the long run only hurt their business, the restaurant owners would be better advised to devote their time to improving their service and making their places more attractive and therefore more profitable.

A WELCOME REFORM.

One change that Attorney-General Roebuck has announced in his new "set up" of law enforcement in Ontario that we heartily agree with is his decision to do away with the appointing of special crown prosecutors to act at the various assizes throughout the province.

Hon. Mr. Roebuck points out that in certain cases it may not be considered advisable for the local crown attorney to take charge of the prosecution, and in these cases special prosecutors will be named, but in the main the old practice will be discarded.

This is a move that will be generally approved.

Just as the Attorney-General says, the appointment of special prosecutors was little else than a patronage racket and contributed nothing to the effective enforcement of law.

The special prosecutor arrived at the beginning of the assizes—after the crown attorney had done all the investigating and the collection of evidence and had officiated at the preliminary hearings—conducted the cases with the assistance of the crown attorney and pocketed a fat daily fee for his services.

There has never been, except in a few cases, where special circumstances made a change advisable—any reason why crown attorneys could not carry on until the completion of the cases they have started and prepared—and the Attorney-General is to be congratulated upon the common sense he has displayed in doing away with a practice that had no real justification.

TRADING WITH THE SISTER DOMINIONS.

In an article in these columns the other day reference was made to the effect of the Empire agreements upon Canadian trade, particularly in regard to trade with the Mother Country.

The returns show that the lead given by the United Kingdom was wholeheartedly followed by the sister dominions, and that the separate trade agreements entered into with several of the later have been of great value in bringing about better conditions in Canada.

Australia, for example, increased her imports of Canadian logs of Douglas fir from $60,000 to $460,000 and of box shooks from $6,000 to $130,000. She bought more of our canned salmon than in 1933 by over $200,000, and increased her purchases of Canadian-made motor vehicles and parts nearly two and one-half millions of dollars, while she paid us $500,000 more for newsprint than in the previous year.

British India purchased $160,000 of aluminum as against $10,000, $780,000 in automobiles as against $580,000, and $110,000 worth of oatmeal as against $66.00.

The British Africas drew upon Canada for ensarged supplies of apples, coal, rubber, footwear, leather, lumber and canned salmon, while the three countries, South, East and West Africa, increased their purchase of Canadian-made automobiles by $1,450,000.

New Zealand called for greatly increased shipments of our automobiles, lumber and flour; the Irish Free State multiplied by ten the value of her purchases of our barley, quadrupled those of coal and tripled those of timber, while the West Indies took half a million dollars worth of automobiles, $130,000 worth of cheese, $116,000 worth of oats and $327,000 worth of lumber.

WHERE DEATH LURKS.

Persons prone to criticize members of fire departments as having an easy life or a soft job, seldom stop to think of the seriousness of the fire-fighter's job, or the danger with which it is accompanied. There is another element that gives even less thought to the serious side of the fireman's job and that is the person who would turn in a false alarm.

Alarms sometimes come to the fire station that are not prompted by the discovery of fire, or are not turned in by the false alarm fiend, but rather are caused by the elements.

Such an alarm was sounded at the Stratford fire hall on Sunday. The wind caused a couple of wires to come into contact with one another and a short circuit resulted. The firemen responded, their services were not required and they returned to the fire station in safety.

Such was not the case with a similar false alarm in Collinsville, Massachusetts. A truck, answering an alarm sounded by a short circuit in the signal system, overturned after skidding on wet car tracks and crashed into a telephone pole, pinning its crew underneath it. Two of the firemen were killed and six others injured, one of them critically. Needless to say the truck, paid for with the taxpayers' money, was badly smashed.

Death lurks in the path of the fireman travelling to or from a blaze, as well as at the scene of the fire. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THE PRESS AND KIDNAPPING.

In a letter appearing in another column on this page a correspondent raises the question as to whether newspaper publicity respecting kidnappings does not impede the police and justice in apprehending kidnappers. Referring in particular to the Labatt case, he says:

"In the present instance the police are obviously being impeded by the activit ies of the press and their representatives."

And again:

"For years newspapers have advertised through the news columns that vast sums of money can be and are from time to time got by successful kidnapping."

Our correspondent's indictment is, we think, a bit too sweeping. It may well be that, in the Labatt case, co-operation between the police and the newspapers is not what it should be, but to say that the police "are obviously being impeded by the activities of the press" is to say something of which there is no proof. After all, the police themselves ought to be the best judges in such a matter, and, so far as the Journal has noticed, they have made no complaint. Further: is our correspondent quite sure that the newspapers, in this particular case, as in others, haven't suppressed a great deal? The public sees what gets into the newspapers; it never sees what gets into the waste-baskets of newspapers. But every newspaperman knows that in co-operating with the police, as in co-operating with public men, newspapers respect confidences, don't print everything they see or hear.

This is not to argue that there isn't something in what our correspondent says. There is something in it. But, short of absolute frankness on the part of the police, with a guarantee of co-operation by the newspapers, it is difficult to know what to print, and what not to print, as best serving the public interest.

To print nothing would be desperately wrong. When our correspondent says that for years newspapers have advertised through the news columns that "vast sums of money can be and are from time to time got by successful kidnapping," he ignores a great deal. He ignores what seems to be obvious, namely: that such information would be spread about in any event, and that, lacking authoritative publication of the facts, it would be liable to exaggeration far more dangerous than the truth. But our correspondent forgets something else—public opinion. Without newspaper publicity, without the campaign that newspapers have waged against kidnapping, the authorities would be pretty pretty powerless to deal with kidnappers. The thing that drove the United States into a relentless war upon kidnapping—a war that has had some results—was the sense of horror and indignation which newspaper publicity over kidnappings brought to the American people. There can be no doubt about that.

In the circumstances, to argue that with respect to kidnapping newspapers should enter into a conspiracy of silence, leaving the public in ignorance of crimes in their midst, and submitting themselves entirely to censorship, is to argue a pretty desperate alternative. Therefore, while the Journal is prepared to agree that newspapers should be prepared to co-operate with the authorities in all cases where co-operation seems calculated to promote the ends of justice, it cannot agree that the way to do this is to suppress the vital facts in kidnappings. Such a policy, we are convinced, could only bring aid to the kidnappers.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is to be hoped Ontario's fish and game have been notified that henceforth they are expected to protect themselves.

Says the Prince of Wales: "Experience has taught me that just as unmined gold is useless so are manufactured goods hidden away in warehouses and factories useless until they are made known and made desirable by the art of advertising."

Premier Hepburn and Provincial Secretary Nixon are to be made Indian chieftains by the Six Nations tribes, so from now on they will have their feathers as well as their scalps to guard.

Although Canada has rejected public lotteries, it is worthy of note that New York plans a series of such affairs that are expected to raise $12,000,000 a year for relief purposes.

KENTVILLE, NOVA SCOTIA.

The Indian name for Kentville was Penook, meaning a fording place, but the English name for the settlement was Horton Corner. This was the name by which the district was known in 1794, when the Duke of Kent, the father of Queen Victoria, paid it a visit. For a further twenty-five years it was known as Horton Corner and then the citizens decided it should bear the name of the father of England's queen.

After many years of French occupation the district was visited by New England planters in 1758. They were charmed with the location, the fertile soil and many additional advantages so they remained and many descendants of the original settlers are to be found there.

A Thought

MUSIC

Music lends a strange sweetness to the remembrance of the past, and makes the troubles of the present heavier, yet easier to bear. And then it borrows the comfort of hope. It drops the threads of sorrow one by one, and catches the sweet beams of light magically in among its harmonies, blending, brightening, softening the mystic web, until we are enclosed, we know not how, in a garment of consolation, and the cold, tired heart finds itself warmed, and rested, and filled with courage. Most gracious ministry of music! Happy are they who know how to exercise it in simplicity and love; happy t ey whose life-pilgrimage is cheered and lightened by such service.—Henry Van Dyke.

THE BEST SIDE OF A MAN.

Know how to get on the best side of a man?

Ask him to do something for you.

Not something enormous. Not something that demands too much of him. Not anything you have no right to ask of any man.... But something he can easily grant you, and will willingly do for you.... Ask him for that. Ask him, in effect, to give you a portion of himself.

Afterwards he will like you more than he did before.

Do you know why it works out this way? Do you know why he will think more pleasantly of you? Do you know why YOU feel a friendliness toward the people you have helped?

Perhaps I can't set it down exactly, in all details, as it is, but I can guess at it.... You ask me to do something for you, and you make me feel useful. I'm something more than nobody; I am able to help you.... You put yourself under obligation to me, and that is not unpleasant; I am a creditor as well as a debtor. I like being that.... I feel that you will like me because I have helped you. It is good to be liked.... And most important of all, you have compelled me to use the better part of myself. I want to do that. I know that I should use that side of myself more than I do. And helping you, warms me and strengthens me and makes me feel better than I know I am.... So, when you ask me to do something for you, you get on the best side of me.

But don't make the mistake of too obviously paying off the obligation. A man does not wish his friends to be ungrateful, but he hates the thought that you look upon your friendship as a business relationship, in which, if he does something for you, then you must do something for him. The man who refuses to be "under obligation to anybody" prides himself on his sturdy independence, but he flaunts his "independence" in every man's face and offends the weaker mass of us. We admire him, but he dims the flame of our affection by just a little.

But do not ask too much or too often. Your friend is glad to help you on your way, but he cannot carry you the whole distance. Keep him as your friend, do not ask him to be your guardian.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

CANADIAN VOYAGEURS ON THE NILE.

On this date in 1884 Lord Lansdowne, then Governor General, wired to Lieutenant Colonel Fred C. Denison of Toronto, asking if he would assume command of a body of selected Canadian voyageurs to go to the Nile where General Wolseley was to lead an expeditiou to Khartoum in an attempt to rescue General "Chinese Gordon".

The Denison family (for anything that concerned one of them was the matter of all) got in touch with Lord Lansdowne and despite attempts at Ottawa to switch the command to some one else, got it for Fred C. He went off in the S. S. Storm King with as motley a crowd (276 all told) as ever left Canada. Some of the men were trained voyageurs, such as had so impressed Wolseley in the Red River expedition of 1870, but others were just adventurers, young men out for a lark, with here and there some wise drifters who had physique but little character.

Yet Denison whipped them all into good shape. Wolseley came down the Nile to meet them and gave them a hearty welcome, and they did good work in navigating the rapids of the "Mother of Egypt".

Denison was given the C.M.G. and the thanks of the British Parliament and Wolseley never lost touch with the rank and file. If any one of the old voyageurs got into trouble all he had to do was to write the field marshal, who was always good for a "touch". Several of them were buried by donations from "Sir Garnet" as they preferred to style their old chief. Here and there one can find a survivor of these adventurers of half a century ago, but most of them have passed on. I should be glad to hear from any of the survivors.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 88c to 90c; oats 32c to 33c; barley, 58c to 60c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 55c to 57c; buckwheat, 55c to 56c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter and cheese made fractional advances in price on the Montreal produce and dairy market last week, eggs being easier and potatoes steady.

Butter was quoted at 19½c to 19¾c a pound for fresh No. 1 in cartots or less, up¼c over Friday's price and 1¼c higher than the price of the previous week. Small lots to the retail trade brought 20c to 21c a pound for solids and 21c to 22c for prints. Exports for the week totalled 14 boxes.

Cheese prices were ¼c higher than the week previous; Ontario colored was quoted at 10c to 10¼c a pound, while Quebec cheese brought 9¼c to 9¾c a pound. Exports reached a total of 27,618 boxes, against 18,571 boxes in the preceding week.

On the egg market, closing prices for the week were about 1c easier on the two top grades graded shipments in cartots or less being quoted at 22c to 23c a dozen for "A" large, 20c to 21c for "A" medium, 18½c to 19c for "B," and 17½c to 18c for "C". These prices apply to shipments from Ontario or the West. Arrivals for the week were 9,621 cases, against 14,114 cases in the previous week.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Corn led a general price advance at the Board of Trade Saturday, and wheat was the only grain that failed to show a marked response to the broadened speculative activity.

With outside buying more extensive than the trade has witnessed during recent sessions, corn futures rose 1¼ to 2 cents.

Wheat showed sluggishness and, after reaching an overnight gain of about a cent at times, reacted to a close ⅝ down to ⅜ up from Friday. Early strength at Liverpool and in stocks encouraged buyers at the wheat pit, but heavy liquidation prevented a sustained rise. Some strength came from corn also.

At the close September corn sold at 79 to 79¼ cents, December at 80¾c to 80⅞c, and May at 83⅝c to 83½c. December new wheat was quoted at $1.05 to $1.06¼, off about ⅞c from the high, and May wheat sold at $1.06½ to $1.06¾. Oats showed a net gain of ⅝ to 1⅝c, rye ⅞ to 1⅝c, and barley ⅝c to 3¼c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Wheat futures traded sluggishly in Saturday's abbreviated session of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, barely stirred a ripple of hedging sales. The close found prices ⅛ cent lower to unchanged, October at 84⅜c, December 85⅛ and May 89¼c to 89½c.

Foreign demand for Canada's wheat was lacking, and other buying also appeared restricted. There was sufficient support in the market to absorb the light hedging, greatly diminished from the past week of heavy selling. Values were never more than fractionally lower. But generally the market was in the doldrums. Traders watched disinterestedly from the sidelines, and the pits were deserted for most of the session. Futures idled with a ⅝-cent price range, and the market was one of the quietest in weeks.

Outside news contained little of interest. Reports of dryness were offset by lower Argentine prices. Frost-damage reports from Western Canada had no effect on market sentiment, with warmer weather in prospect.

No. 1 Durum again was in demand, but this comprised almost all the activity in cash grains. Top grades of closed were quoted at 2½c over the October future. Other varieties, however, were slow. Coarse grains futures scored gains as good buying entered that pit.

been gradually broadened during recent months to take in more industries, changes in that province have been mooted recently but as yet no definite action has been taken. A conference was proposed last May to discuss changes in the province's legislation but these plans appeared abortive.

In Nova Scotia there are minimum wage laws for women only and no changes are contemplated.

Similarly in Alberta the laws apply only to women workers except in the event of a man replacing a female employee in which case he must be paid the same minimum wage as his predecessor.

Minimum wages in Saskatchewan, applying to women and girls only, were recently adjusted downward. For those receiving less than $13 a week the rate was cut by 10 percent and for those receiving more than $13, by 15 percent.

Manitoba's regulations, supervised by the minimum wage board, set wage scales and working hours for men and women, adults and children. The act specified a rate of 25 cents an hour for adult males in all industries.

MINE ISSUES MEET SETBACKS

Hollinger, Lake Shore and Teck Hughes More Active Than Last Week.

VENTURES PROMINENT.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (CP).—The mining section of the Toronto Exchange today staggered through a typical "blue Monday." Volume was away down and prices sagged all along the line. Most of the trading was done in gold stocks. Hollinger, Lake Shore and Teck Hughes among the senior issues were a little more active than last week. Ventures, Macassa and Siscoe of the secondary golds were most prominent. Other issues occupied little attention.

Hollinger for no apparent reason was selling about 50 cents lower. It finished at 19.05. Lake Shore at 54 varied little, but Teck Hughes dropped nearly 20 cents to 6.70. Dome also was lower.

Ventures which kicked up quite a spurt last week, started off fairly well this morning but eased off during the day to lose about 8 points and fall to 1.01.

Trading At Low Ebb On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (CP).—Trading on the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange was at its lowest ebb of the year today. Volume barely reached the 10,000 share mark. Prices were inclined to be fractionally lower with all the leading issues declining from previous quotes. There were no prominent issues and no signs of a boom in any division. Everything lagged. International Nickel was perhaps the heaviest trader, but it suffered a fractional set-back at 25 1-8.

Nickel dropped the minimum fraction at 25 1-8. The other interlisteds followed New York and changes were of no consequence. Brazilian and Smelters were a shade lower, but C.P.R. and Ford "A" wavered little.

Losses exceeded gains in the distillers. Walkers Pfd. the leading trader of the group, lost 1-4 at 14 3-4. Canadian Industrial Alcohol, losing the minimum, fell to 8 1-8. Beers were dull. Budd eased off 1-4 to 10 3-8.

Hogs Show Further Advances At Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Hog prices, which for three weeks have shown a sensational upward trend, opened the new week today with a further advance of 15 to 25 cents to a new top price of $7.75 a hundred pounds, the highest since early in 1931.

Only 17,000 animals were received, compared with 21,000 a week ago and 49 000 a year ago. As the price rose observers said farmers showed a greater tendency to withhold supplies and the resultant shortage was one of the principal factors in the price increase.

Cattle also showed increases as demand for high grade steers and yearlings became more intense. Prices were 15 to 25 cents higher. The top was $10.50 for 1 500-pound steers.

REVUE TRIBUTE TO LOCAL BAND

Letter of Appreciation Received by Lieut. Peryer From Directors.

A FINE COMPLIMENT.

The musical directors of the Winter Garden Revue, headliners in the grandstand attractions at the Exhibition last week, have written a letter of appreciation to Lieut. W. H. Peryer of the 57th Rangers Band for their competent accompaniments to the Revue.

The letter, which was received today, follows:

Every man of the Rangers' Band is worthy of separate mention, having earned all the merits of the entire bill, including the Winter Garden Revue.

The public was thoroughly convinced that a huge production of this type, with its difficult scorings, rhapsodies, etc., could only be taken care of by its well-known organization, the Peterborough Rangers.. Mr. Peryer deserves personal mention for his co-operation in every way.

Of all my Canadian dates I've played, I would not class this fine organization second to any other band, as they are absolutely 100 per cent. readers as well in the class of rapidity of the cues.

Hoping to be able to direct this renowned band again in the future.

I remain, sincerely,
Catherine Bahney, Co-Director.
Prof. Edward C. Heffner, Director.
Winter Garden Revue.

A BREAK?

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP) — Unexplained absence of police investigators who made London their headquarters for more than a week seemed to-day to indicate a "break" in the John Labatt kidnapping mystery. Although Inspector H. Gardner and Detective Sergeant Crowe of Toronto, were still registered at the hotel, they couldn't be located, while the whereabouts of District Inspector T. W. Cousans was likewise in doubt to those outside the investigation.

URGES BRITAIN GO SLOW ON WHEAT CONTROL TOPIC

Expert Points Out Price May Be Soaring Inside Year

LONDON, Aug. 27—(CP Cable)—Hope the British government will not allow itself to become involved in any measure for international control of the marketing and distribution of wheat was expressed today by Sir Herbert Robson, president of the London Corn Trade Association.

Sir Herbert, who has been a British delegates to various meetings of the world wheat advisory commission in which Canada is vitally interested, has frequently expressed opposition to attempts to control the movement and price fluctuations of wheat.

After reviewing the crop situation in Canada and the United States he added "It is quite conceivable that before 12 months elapse the prices of both wheat and feeding-stuffs may rise to such a point our anxieties in this country will be on the score of dearness, not cheapness.

"It is possible the Australian crop may deteriorate further, and the Argentine crop may be of only moderate size, or a poor crop," he said, "If either of these events occur we may see really high prices for wheat."

The world wheat commission, failing for the time being to set a new export quotas for the current crop year, has adjourned until November.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

NEW DISTRICT DUTY ASSUMED

Magistrate Langley Takes Oath of New Office.

FIVE COUNTIES.

In a brief but impressive ceremony in police court to-day Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., was sworn in by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., Clerk of of the Peace, as magistrate and police magistrate for all municipalities and districts in Ontario.

The new oath of office taken by Magistrate Langley widens his jurisdiction which formerly comprised Peterborough county and city, and results from Attorney General Roebuck's action in changing the magisterial system of the province. Although Magistrate Langley's jurisdiction is now for all sections of the province, he will confine his duties to Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham, Victoria and Haliburton, over which district he will be senior magistrate.

Congratulations to Magistrate Langley on this recognition by the Government of his splendid service on the bench were expressed by Crown Attorney McElderry.

"We feel confident that Your Worship will continue to accomplish his important duties in the same fair, upright manner that has characterized him in the past. We are pleased that his very high legal attainments have been honored and regarded by the Attorney General. His duties now will be much wider and more responsible."

Magistrate Langley stated that he would endeavour to discharge his new duties in a manner acceptable to the public and all concerned. "I have always striven to do my duty and I will continue to do so."

CHICAGO PAYS ITS TEACHERS

Passes Out Cheques Worth $22,365,000 to Cover Payless Winter, Spring.

HUGE LINE-UP.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Chicago's school teachers marched up to the pay window today to the gay jingle of $22,365,000.

Distribution of more than 250,000 pay cheques, for their payless winter and their payless spring, was started promptly at 10 a.m. by that time the waiting line extended three blocks.

Five or six abreast ,the long fyle took up half of the sidewalk around the cashiers' offices. Some of the more thoughful ones had brought camp chairs or boxes and a parcel of sandwiches.

The big pay day—probably the biggest on record here—was started with appropriate ceremonies. Mayor Edward J. Kelly passed out the first cheque. It went to H. A. Kincaid, a teacher at Crane High School, who had waited since 7.30 o'clock Sunday night.

With 20 others, Kincaid spent the night in the building lobby. They whiled away the time playing bridge. Besides grade and high school teachers, the line embraced firemen, janitors and other civil-service employees.

The pay day was the brightest news for Chicago. Statisticians estimated the teachers' gold rush meant about $100,000,000 in trade, on the theory that each dollar would pass through at least five hands.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP).—Stocks were mildly reactionary in dull selling today. Steel shares stiffened in the late dealings. Forenoon losses of fractions to around a point were pared among metals, rails and others. The late tone was easy. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem ruled about even. Santa Fe, American Telephone, U. S. Smelting and Howe Sound sold moderately lower. Transfers approximated 310,000 shares.

FILES OF T., N. O. WERE BURNED

auguration of a 40 hour week. Superintendent Griffin made a similar recommendation.

At this juncture Commissioner Racine put in a long distance telephone call for Premier Hepburn.

The North Bay car shops are in need of repairs, the commissioner was informed by the Union committee. Conditions in the coach shop are unsanitary, the men complained.

The committee also complained that the men are not receiving satisfactory treatment by the compensation doctors who are under the supervision of the T. and N.O.

Barley, who is chairman of the Shopmen's Federated Trades Union, urged stabilization of working hours. He thought there could be "more co-operation" between the unions and the management. The Grievance committee, Barley maintained, has time and again the past two years directed the Management's attention to the volume of unfinished work.

Few Hours Unavoidable.

Superintendent Griffin said reduction in working hours had been unavoidable owing to a steady drop in traffic receipts.

Commissioner Racine asked Secretary-Treasurer Maund if he did not consider it unfair for certain officials to be receiving bonuses while the workmen were receiving pay slashes.

"That would be a matter for the commission to decide," Maund responded.

"You were getting a bonus yourself so I suppose you couldn't very well advise the commission," suggested Commissioner Racine.

DRUNKEN BRAWL

that Mr. Fair was no longer his counsel.

His plea of guilty was recorded, but sentence was adjourned until to-morrow, the magistrate expressing the desire to look up some law in connection with the case.

Changes His Plea.

Another surprise was introduced into the proceedings when Crown Attorney McElderry told the court that it had been brought to his attention that several witnesses were prepared to swear that Gerald Calvert, 23, Hall's Bridge, was not driving the car which last Wednesday evening struck down and injured Roy Fairburn, 12-year-old cyclist, on the Lakefield Road.

This despite the fact that last Thursday morning, Calvert entered a plea of guilty to operating the car while intoxicated. "Calvert says he was so drunk at the time that he does not know whether he was driving the car when it struck the boy or not," stated Mr. McElderry. "However, there seems to be several witnesses who will swear that George Spafford, his companion, was driving the car at the time."

Calvert was to have stood trial to-day on a charge of criminal negligence. Mr. McElderry said he had his witnesses present, but requested an adjournment of the hearing until police could investigate whether or not Calvert was driving the car at the time of its wild ride up the Lakefield Road.

Calvert was given a remand until Friday, when the hearing will proceed.

MISTAKE NEARLY ENDS GIRLS ENDURANCE TEST

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—(A.P.)—Despite disaster which threatened to end their flight, two Texas girls passed the one third mark early to-day in their attempt for a new woman's air endurance record.

The two, Mary Owens and Jean La Rene, accidentally threw overboard their reserve oil supply last night, believing it to be used lubricant. Then they brought their 'Lone Star' low over the ground and gave a distress signal.

A note was hoisted by rope from their plane to the refueling ship, and soon 81 gallons of oil were lowered in the first refueling contact at dark since the flight started.

The girls took off at 8.15 p.m. Thursday. To pass the record, they must remain aloft till after 7.58 p.m. Sunday.

CANADIAN NEWSMEN WELCOME JOURNALISTIC FRENCH VISITORS

Goodwill Between French, English Papers in Dominion is Emphasized.

PRESS HISTORY TRACED.

QUEBEC, Aug. 27.—(CP)—Canadian newspapermen of the French and English tongues today gave a warm welcome in the Legislature building to their colleagues from France at the opening of a three-day French language press congress here. The journalists from France crossed the Atlantic in the liner Champlain to participate in the Jacques Cartier quadri - centenary celebration in the Dominion.

E. Norman Smith, Ottawa, honorary president of the Canadian Press, told the congress of the harmony, goodwill and singleness of purpose animating the French and English newspapers of Canada. "We are all good Canadians and understand and sympathize one with the other in our problems and difficulties," Mr. Smith said. "I believe we have in Canada about 100 daily newspapers, of which less than one-tenth are printed in your noble French language. Virtually all of these newspapers are members of the Canadian Press."

Review History

Tracing the history of the Canadian Press, Mr. Smith said that it was not till 1917 that the existing sectional news services of Canada were joined together in a Dominion-wide news circuit. The Canadian government lent financial aid in those first struggling years, but in 1924 the subsidy was withdrawn and the service was carried on independently by its members, despite many difficulties, to eventually attain its present efficiency and wide scope.

Henri Gagnon, Quebec, president of the Canadian Press, addressed a warm welcome to the journalists from across the sea. He said that since Canada was ceded by France, the French-speaking press of the country had been constantly engaged in a struggle to maintain a love for French literature among the French-speaking Canadians, to urge the retention of racial characteristics, further the use of the French tongue and to develop the French - speaking people of the country into the good Canadians they are today.

He voiced appreciation of the spirit in which France sent her distinguished sons to Canada to take part in the celebrations of the discovery of the country. "The more the two great peoples of France and England are brought together in our day, the more chance and hope we will have of seeing peace reign throughout the whole world," Mr. Gagnon said.

PARENTS BALK AT MEDICAL AID FOR INJURED LAD

Throngs Crowd Alabama Home Praying for Faith Cure on Infected Leg.

DELAY FATAL SAYS DOCTOR

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Aug. 27.—(AP). Parents of Wallace Doyle Sharp, eight, to-day refused to allow a physician to take the child to a hospital at Garden, Ala., for an operation on his infected leg after they had been warned that further delay might prove fatal.

More than 150 persons surrounded the Sharp home this morning, praying for a "faith" cure of the infection which had swollen the boy's leg to twice its normal size.

Deputy Sheriff Rufus Smith and Dr. R. J. Guest, who went to the Sharp home to-day to take the child to a hospital for an operation on the leg, were informed the boy "will never be taken from the house except by force."

The lad was spirited away Friday by members of the Holiness Church here to which his parents belong, after county officials were enroute to his parents' home to take him to medical aid. He was returned to his home here yesterday from Dutton, 27 miles away in the hills of Jackson county, where he was taken to give the "faith cure" for which members of the church have been constantly praying, time to be completed.

Dr. Guest said further delay might prove fatal and that it was possible that the leg would be amputated immediately after the lad is taken to a hospital.

"An immediate operation is necesary if the boy is to have any chance of saving the leg" he said.

MYTHICAL ARMY CAPTURES COAST OF NEW JERSEY

Sudden Declaration of War Catches United States Off Guard.

NEW YORK BOMBED.

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 27.—(A.P.)—"Enemy" troops of the formidable "Black" Entente landed at three South Jersey points to-day under the protecting fire of mythical warship convoys, bringing sudden war to the north-east coast of the United States.

(The army-general staff flashed the reports of the enemy landing—the first act in the army war game manoeuvers, which will be climaxed next week by hypothetically sanguinary battles as imaginary American troops fight to defend—on paper — the state from an equally imaginary invader.)

Atlantic City, most of its famous hotels in ruins after a theoretical bombardment by the heavy guns of the Black Fleet, was in the hands of the enemy, who was reported virtually in control of the southern part of New Jersey.

Away to the north a swift bombing raid by the Black air armada, operating from plane carriers at sea, crippled most of the harbor defences guarding New York bay (according to the scenario of the imaginary war). The thunder of mythical gunfire and the roar of equally mythical bombs shook the metropolitan area as the invisible bombers droned overhead.

Complete Surprise.

The appearance of an enemy fleet with transports (all this is pure imagination) off the Jersey coast caught the defending forces completely by surprise. Black naval forces, acting along a front from Chesapeake to Boston, drove all available American navy ships to the protection of fortified harbors, and then, with practically no opposition, the transports proceeded with their landing operations.

The lightning rapidity with which the black forces struck at strategic New Jersey and the Metropolitan seacoast followed by a few days the unexpected declaration of war on the U.S.A. by the black alliance, which seeks to capitalize on the fact that the American fleet and half of its military forces and aircraft are already battling a blue invader on the Pacific coast.

Besides Atlantic City the blacks landed forces at Cape May and Port Norris in this state. Only meagre reports of the enemy strength filtered through disrupted communications lines, and most of the stories of the foreign landing came from the refugees who fled northward from the occupied area with a few prized household chattels.

TEXTILE STRIKE OUTLOOK DARK

Walkout Threatens to Involve Silk, Rayon, Woolen Industries.

AS WELL AS COTTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—The strike committee of the United Textile Workers, with plans completed for a general strike in the cotton textile industry on September 4, to-day began preparations for a similar walkout in the silk, rayon and woollen industries.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, said it was "highly possible" that the walkout of silk, woollen and rayon workers would be simultaneous with the cotton strike.

The committee said to-day it would announce the exact strike hour on Thursday. Other sources, however, disclosed that secret instructions already in the hands of regional leaders, called for a general stoppage of work at midnight Friday.

Inasmuch as the industry is operating on a five-day week, with mills closed on Saturday, Sept. 1, and Monday (Labor Day), Sept. 3, the walkout will not become actually effective until September 4.

If the hop is made it is assumed Admiral Byrd will return in the plane, which would leave new observers at the weather observation post.

The latest report from Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, who headed a tractor party of three which went to Byrd's relief two weeks ago, said the expedition leader is making slow daily progress.

REV. JAS. E. FORD ACTIVE PASTOR 55 YEARS, DIES

Born Near Peterborough in 1849—Once on Examiner Staff.

DIED AT GODERICH.

Ordained Method ist Minister in London, Ont., June 28, 1879.

GODERICH, Aug. 27.—Rev. J. E. Ford, veteran clergyman, for fifty-five years in the ministry of the Methodist, and since Church Union the United Church of Canada, died at his home here yesterday in his eighty-sixth year, after an illness of but two weeks. Within the past year he several times supplied in the pulpit, delivering his sermons with the clarity, reasoning and forcefulness of a man half his years.

Born Near Peterborough.

The late James Edmond Ford was born on October 13, 1840, near Peterborough, son of the late Joseph and Marie Ford, who came from Wiltshire, England. He was educated in the primary and secondary schools of Peterborough. He served his apprenticeship as a printer with the Peterborough Examiner, and before quitting the trade took out his union card as a journeyman printer. Ambition and inclination later led him into other fields of endeavor. Graduating from model school, he taught for a time, and later attended Wesleyan College, Montreal, where he received his theological training. He was ordained into the ministry at London on June 26, 1879. Rev. David Rogers of St. Thomas is the only surviving member of his class.

During his active years in the ministry the late Mr. Ford was chairman of a number of districts, and in 1912 was president of the London Conference. His first charge was at Point Edward, and later he was stationed at Thorndale; Siloam, near Uxbridge; Lambeth, Westminster, Wyoming, Lucan, Parkhill, Forest, Essex, Lucknow, Clinton and Goderich. In 1917 he was superannuated, and had since lived here.

Active Municipal Worker.

Many and varied community activities claimed the valued support of the deceased clergyman. At his death he was president of the Children's Aid Society, an organization very close to his heart. For years he was a member of the Collegiate Institute Board and for one or more terms its chairman. He was also for years a member of the Library Board and a member of the Board of Governors of Alexandra Marine and General Hospital, holding various offices in both. A life-long teetotaler, he held several posts in local and county temperance organizations. He was a Conservative in politics, but belonged to no fraternal societies.

On September 10, 1933, Mrs. Ford, helpmate in his long and honorable ministerial career, died. Surviving are one son, Mr. Arthur R. Ford, of London, and three daughters, Mrs. Howard Robertson of Goderich, Mrs. R. D. P. Davidson of Belleville, and Mrs. (Rev.) W. J. Scott of Flesherton.

Rev. Mr. Ford was an uncle of Mrs. B. Shortly of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, with a public service in North Street United Church. Local and visiting clergymen will have charge.

Emily United Church was the setting of an interesting wedding, when Mary Cullon Grace, daughter of Mrs. J. A. Elliott, was married to Joseph Russell Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Black of Lindsay. Rev. H. Wilkinson officiated. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Elmer J. Evans, sister of the bride. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white mousseline de soie with muff and picture hat and corsage of Joanna Hill roses. Miss Kathleen Elliott, in tea rose crepe, grey accessories and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay, was her sister's bridesmaid. Mr. Maurice Black, brother of the groom, was groomsman. 'WINTER GARDEN REVUE' COMPANY MAKES SEVEN HUNDRED MILE HOP

"A VERY HUMAN BUNCH."

Concluding their engagement here with a dazzling performance before a capacity grandstand on Saturday evening, the members of Catherine Behney's "Winter Garden Revue" Company, pulled out early Sunday to make a 700-mile 'jump' to a booking in the State of New Jersey.

In brining the Company here, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board provided local audiences with entertainment that proved to be as popular and pleasing, as it was novel and original. From the youngest member of the chorus ensemble to the most seasoned "trouper" among them the company left a pleasing impression.

Who among the thousands who witnessed the show during its four-day run here, can forget the skillful showmanship of Henny Cogert as Master of Ceremonies, and the funny antics of himself and partner 'Motto'; or who did not fail to appreciate the artistic, colorful dance phantasies, that featured the gigantic open air stage show?

But one of the outstanding impressions gained by those who were "back of the scenes" was the fine spirit of co-operation that was so marked, and which is undoubtedly one of the secrets of the company's success.

Another noteworthy thing was the stern discipline, exercised by Madame Behney as chaperone, and the loyalty with which the troupe of girls subjected themselves to it, for their own welfare.

As an instance of the high moral standard of the company, it is stated that Madame Behney when booking rooms for 'her girls' laid down a rigid set of rules for their personal conduct. There were to be no "dates, liquor or parties" she ruled—and there were'nt.

"Those girls were as human as could be. They were a fine bunch of kids. Just like any normal healthy girls around our own city", one member of the Show Committee of the Exhibition Board remarked.

So. That's that.

Unthinking persons who categorise all show people as being "tough" can revise their opinions. The "tough" people are the exception in the show world, and not the rule.

Smith Canoe Found Far From Railway

River of Ponds, Newfoundland, the point at which the canot of John smith, missing ocean paddler, is being held, is one hundred miles north of the nearest stop of the Newfoundland Railway, it was learned today. In its return by freight to this city it will likely be brought south by steamer, across Newfoundland by rail to St. John's, to Halifax by steamer and thence here by rail.

The empty 16-foot craft was found at Point La Fontaine, a spot approximately 400 miles from the point at which Smith was last seen off the Gaspe coast. Point La Fontaine is more than two-thirds the distance up the coast to the Strait of Belle Isles. As a strong Gulf current courses its way up toward the Strait, the canoe may have drifted over a greater part of the distance by itself during the month which elapsed after Smith's disappearance.

A detailed map showing the position of River of Ponds and Point La Fontaine on the barren west coast of Newfoundland was brought to The Examiner by E. W. Glover, 182 Reid street, today.

Scientist Discovers Eight Death Rays

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (CP).—Eight death-dealing rays of ultra-violet light have been identified by Dr. Florence E. Meirer, young woman scientist of the Smithsonian Institution.

The rays are capable of dealing death in two forms, either suddenly or slowly. They are invisible and unfelt. A thin layer of ozone high above the earth filters them out of the sunlight.

The work completed by Miss Meier, hailed as a valuable addition to the important study of animal reactions to various rays, reveals the new killer rays as black sheep of the normally beneficial violet ray group, which are known to cure rickets.

Humans would not be slain by the newly discovered rays, but they are certain death to green algae, the one-celled plants that grow in lakes and rivers.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

WITH THE closing of Stamford Park on Saturday night it means no more racing in Canada for the next two weeks or until the 8th of September when Thorncliffe opens its fall session. Stamford had a very successful session and are entirely satisfied. It is rumored that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are appointed by the Dominion Government to supervise all race tracks, have asked seven well known trainers to appear at a conference as a result of saliva taste. In the meantime no horse belonging to any of these men shall be allowed to start.

Most of the horses that have been campaigning at Niagara have shipped over to Toronto augmenting the large string that came from Ottawa a week ago. Besides these there were a good many quartered there for the past month resting up. Harry Giddings brought his bunch back from Saratoga, plus a few yearlings which he purchased at the recent sale at that point. The popular daily double and one-two bets will again be in vogue at Thorncliffe. They will as usual cater to the fair sex with five ladies days when they will be admitted for twenty-five cents.

THE GOOD plater Bill Looney was destroyed at Stamford the other day after he broke down badly in his last race. George Alexander will transfer the large Smallman string to Woodbine today, where they will rest up until the Toronto season opens. The W. H. Wright string which have been very successful lately were also arrivals over the weekend. Two of our good things clicked on Friday when Lucky Racket and Syndic both got down in front. Over at Detroit we have a nice one to hand you called Souer Blanche. This one is a real speed demon and very consistent. They have also shipped Tulliho to the Motor City and believe you us this trick will make them sit up and take notice in the near future.

Don Vern is there also and we think they have been fooling with one as last winter in Florida he was beating handicap horses who were much superior to the ones that have been taking his measure lately. He will awake one of these fine days and it will resemble the awakening of Mr. Pip. Young Cochrane will be in the pilot house and there is no better jockey at the track. The large Labrot string are going to pass up the Baltimore tracks this fall in favor of the new track at Providence. This is the first time in a good many years that this large stable have not raced in Maryland, but the large purses offered at the new track is a great magnet. In this stable are such notables as Fred Avon, Springsteel, Round table and several other top-notchers.

LEE CLAN OVERCOMES 4-RUN NATIONAL LEAD TO TAKE 7-4 DECISION

Fine Relief Hurling By Rose Along With Timely Hitting And Field Work Accounts For Win—Petes Gain Top Of Loop.

BURTON AND FOLEY COLLECT PAIR OF HITS, MILLS AND DARRAH LEAD QUINTES AT BAT.

Spotting Belleville four runs in the first three innings here Saturday, the Petes went on to win by a 7-4 score, cinching a C.O.B.L. playoff berth and taking undisputed possession of first place in the league. About seven hundred fans saw the Nationals go down to defeat in their last scheduled game in Riverside Park, a contest that brought two hurlers for each side into action. Fine relief flinging by Abbie Rose, along with timely hitting and smart fielding by his teammates accounted for the win.

The Petes practically handed the visitors their four runs but tightened up and played masterful ball the last six frames to earn the verdict. They tied it up in the third and proved a little better the rest of the way. Neither starting pitcher lasted three innings. Belleville did not use their ace, Williams, and were handicapped by the absence of Alex Weir, and an injury to Peeney Mills' finger, which forced him out in the fifth. A minute's silence was observed at the start of the game in memory of the late Curly Lebarr.

Casey started for Belleville but ran into trouble with hits and walks in the third and gave way to Smith. The lanky righthander pitched fair ball the rest of the fixture but the Petes bunched hits twice to win out. Archie Deyell, on the locals' mound, got off to a bad start and the Nats nicked him for two hits in each of the first three frames. These with errors, dumb baseball and a balk spelt disaster for Deyell and he left with two out in the third. Abbie Rose went in then and after a wobbly start settled away to hurl hitless ball the last five frames. Seven walks issued had him in the hole numerous times but snappy fielding saved him.

Mills and Darrah led the Nats at bat with two hits apiece in three appearances, and R. Smith conked a double. Burton and Foley collected a pair of safeties each for the Petes, with the former banging out a two-base blow. Whatley hit safely in one official time at bat, and Calladine got one for two.

Some excellent fielding was dished up by the winners the last half the game. Twice double-plays aided Rose considerably. Abbie had a swell pickup to his credit, and Foley and Ford made neat running catches. The whole Petes' infield starred with twenty-two putouts and nineteen assists. A feature play came in the third when Batten on third stopped Green's hard grounder and fell. In a sitting position, he tossed the ball to Deyell in the pitching box and Archie whirled and threw to first in time to get Green out.

Nats Score First.

Belleville got one in the first when Utronki was safe on an error, took second on Green's single and scored on Mills' hit. Cy Whatley cutting Mills off at second although he failed to see Utronki slip before he reached the plate—what should have been an easy out. They got two more in the second. Darrah singled and reached third as Scarlett was safe on an error. He scored and Scarlett moved up on Deyell's balk. Two infield outs sent Scarlett home. In the Petes' half, Calladine singled, stole and got home on two outs. The Nats got their last one in the third. Mills singled, took third on R. Smith's double and home on Darrah's hit.

The Petes tied it up in the third. Whatley walked and went to third on Rose's hit, Abbie going down on the throw-in. He took third on Konopka's fielder's choice, Whatley being picked off at the plate. On Batten's fielder's choice, Rose was nailed going home and Sig went to third. Foley's single scored him. Calladin's walk filled the bases and Murray drove two in with a single to right. They added one in the fourth when Ash singled, moved up on Whatley's safe bunt, was sacrificed and raced home when Utronki dropped Konopka's fly. In the seventh, Foley singled, was sacrificed and scored on Burton's double. The final run came in the eighth, Whatley being hit by a pitched ball, going to second on a sacrifice, third on an out and home on Batten's bingle. Only one Belleville runner reached third the last six stanzas.

COGNAWAGAS TAKE 3-1 VICTORY

Cliff Cadd Plays Big Part i Clubmen's Win at Bowmanville.

MASTERSON ON MOUND.

Locals Cinch Game by Scoring Pair of Markers in Eighth Frame.

Cognawagas, champs of the East Peterborough League, proved their mettle in Bowmanville on Saturday afternoon when they defeated the smart Bowmanville nine 3 to 1 in the first game of a home-and-home series in the intermediate O.B.A.A. playdowns.

Cliff Cadd's big bat was one of the chief factors in the Cogs' smart win. Of the Cogs' three runs, the lanky left fielder scored one himself and walloped in the other two. He had three hits in four appearances, one a triple and the other a double.

"Casey" Masterson pitched clever ball for the winners. Although he permitted nine hits, he bore down in the pinches only two of Bowmanville's clouts being sandwiched into the same innings. "Casey" succeeded where Cobourg pitchers failed. He held in check the heavy-hitting activities of W. Bagnell, husky centre fielder, whose home-run hitting defeated Cobourg and earned the Lakeshore League championship for his team. The Cogs' twirler allowed him but two hits.

Sensational Fielding

Backed by airight and often sensational fielding, G. Piper managed nicely on the mound for Bowmanville. Although Cogs hit him hard throughout only eight of their blows went for hits, the hardworking fielders spearing all others.

In fact both outfits worked smoothly, the fielding being the big feasture of the game. The losers' infield was particularly effective, often scooping up hard hit balls for putouts that seemed labelled for hits. None of them misfired under the heavy work.

Cogs' infield also went nicely, Vannest doing some yeoman service at short, and Masterson fielded his position smartly. Cadd and Moore both covered much ground in the outfield.

Cadd Scores First

Cogs notched their first counter in the seventh. Cadd, first one up, walloped one in deep centre for three bases. He scored on Masterson's fly to right field.

Bowmanville got that one back, but it was something of a gift. W. Bagnell hit for two bases into left. Bates flew out to Wilson and G. Piper's pop fly was taken by Masterson. Cameron singled and Bagnell advanced to third. Cameron was caught between first and second, on a throw to Vannest by Rogers, attempting to steal. Vannest ran Cameron down, but while he was doing so Bagnell countered.

However, Cogs put the game on ice in the next innings. Mein got a life when the pitcher dropped his fly. Wilson made first on a bunt. Padgett sacrificed, but all were safe when Mein beat the throw to third. Rook flew to centre. Cadd scored Mein and Wilson on a stinging single to left. Masterson whiffed and Moore grounded to short.

The game was played in one hour and 35 minutes, something of a record for speed.

Oshawa Eliminated Lose To Kingston

OSHAWA, Aug. 27. — Oshawa Dukes were eliminated from further competition in the C.O.B.L. when they split their double-header with the Kingston Ponies at the Motor City Stadium Saturday afternoon. The locals took the afternoon tilt 9 to 1 behind the fine pitching of Lefty Wills, but dropped a tight 4 to 5 decision in the nightcap.

Wills won his third victory of the season at the expense of the Ponies in the first game when he let them down with five scattered hits, and after after his mates gave him a big lead he simply breezed through to a win. The Dukes gathered a total of 12 hits of the slants of Speedy St. Louis, who did the hurling for the visitors.

In the night affair 'Moose' Mathews went to the mound for the locals in an attempt to pull out his third win in as many starts, but a bad fifth inning cost the big right-hander the game.

WARNEKE EFFECTIVE.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

Bill Terry hurt a few feelings in Brooklyn last winter when he asked, as a wise crack, if the Dodgers still were in the National League. Now he must be thankful they are.

The Dodgers kocked off Chicago twice and nearly made it three straight last week while the Giants were struggling with St. Louis and that is the principal reason why Terry's club remained 5½ games ahead after taking a 7-1 drubbing yesterday in the opener of a highly-important series in Chicago.

An overflow crowd of 43,000 saw the Cubs open their pennant bid behind the three-hit pitching of Lonnie Warneke, Manager Charley Grimm, who had just received a vote of confidence from the management in the renewal of his contract for 1935, led the attack with a double and two singles for a perfect day at bat and drove in the first two runs. Two hits by Mel Ott and one by Travis Jackson were the only blows Warneke allowed in winning his 17th game of the season.

Holds Cards in Place

Meanwhile the Dodgers kept the Cardinals from registering any important gain by holding the third-place club to an even break in a double-header. Brooklyn opened with a six-run spurt in the first inning, driving Tex Carleton out, and won the opener 11-5. St. Louis came back to pound Les Munns for a 7-2 decision.

Lou Gehrig's three home runs and the Yankee pitching that went with them to give New York a double victory over Chicago, 9-5 and 2-0 were the high spots of the American League program although the Tigers pulled their favorite stunt of coming from behind to win from the Athletics in 10 innings, 7-6.

Gehrig belied two homers to help Lefty Gomez record his 22nd mound victory in the opener, and added another back of Charley Ruffing's three-hit flinging in the afterpiece. The trio put him four ahead of Jimmie Foxx and a few days in front of the pace Babe Ruth set in 1927, when he established the big league record of 60 homers.

After the score had been tied three times, Detroit beat the A's in the 10th on the last of eight walks granted by Bill Dietrich and a double by Charley Gehringer.

the junior circuit by winning both games, 3-0 and 9-8. George Blaeholder, pitching a two-hit masterpiece in the opener, and Jack Knott blanked the Senators for eight more innings before they scored all their runs in the ninth.

Indians Break Even

Cleveland and Boston broke even in their third-place struggle, the Indians winning the opener, 3-2, as Oral Hildebrand bested Wes Ferrell on the hill, and the Red Sox pounding Mel Harder for a 5-2 decision in the second clash.

Cincinnati's Reds trimmed the Phillies twice, doing it for the second time this season, 2-1 and 6-5. Paul Derringer pitching a six-hit game in the opener while Tony Piet's eighth-inning double decided the afterpiece. Randy Moore's pinch double with the bases loaded in the seventh enabled the Braves to take an 8-5 decision from Pittsburgh in a single game.

Equals Major Record

Featuring the American bill Saturday was young Lynwood Rowe, "Schoolboy" twirler of Detroit, who equalled the league record by downing Washington, 4-2, for his 16th consecutive victory. He practically won the game single-handed, sending home the winning run in the ninth with a whistling single.

Meantime the Yankees were dividing a double bill with Cleveland.

In the National, the Giants downed St. Louis, 7-6, and humbled the dizzy one, Jerome Dean. The starry pitcher essayed a relief role and was touched for the Giants' winning hits.

Chisox bumped over Brooklyn, 4-3.

TORONTO TAKES THREE STRAIGHT

Hilcher and Bert Cole Are Winning Pitchers Sunday at Rochester.

BEARS SPLIT TWIN.

(By The Associated Press) ...

Extending the most benefit out of the latest batch of Sunday doubleheaders, Albany Senators had further strengthened their grip on fourth place and the last playoff berth to-day.

Then Senators tripped the Baltimore Orioles twice yesterday and increased their lead over fifth-place Buffalo to three games when the Bisons lost two games to Montreal Royals. Montreal, at the same time, moved to within half a game of Buffalo.

Albany took the home-run route to win both games from the Orioles by 5-4 scores. Hal Finney's round-tripper in the ninth decided the first game and Fred Sington's homer with one on in the fifth, following an earlier one by Gus Dugas, gave the Senators the runs they needed in the nightcap.

Montreal scored over Buffalo by 6-2 and 3-2 counts as Chad Kimsey pitched effectively in the opener and Harry Smythe and Clydell Castleman combined to limit the Bisons to seven hits in the second game. Presco Thompson was the individual star of the day, contributing a home run and two doubles to the attack and accepting 18 chances afield without a bobble. Ollie Carnegie's 27th home run gave Buffalo its two tallies in the second game.

Bears Increase Lead

Newark increased its lead over Rochester to three games by splitting a double-bill with Syracuse. Walter Brown gave the Chiefs only five hits to win the opener for Newark, 9-0. Syracuse returned the compliment in the nightcap, however, winning 2-0 behind Clarence Fisher's seven-hit pitching. Frank Makosky, Newark twirler, allowed only two hits but one of these, a single by Bill Cronin, came with the bases filled in the seventh.

Rochester, meanwhile, dropped two games to third place Toronto, 5-3 and 4-3. Seventh inning rallies against Pete Appleton and Ray Harrell decided both games in the Canadians' favor. Bill Regan's double in the 7th frame of the opener was the big blow of a three-run drive and George McQuinn's two-base knock in the seventh of the second game drove in the tieing and winning tallies.

ONTARIO SCHOOL BOYS ALMOST SWEEP AMATEUR TRACK EVENTS

Pair From Vancouver and Calgary Shot-putters Only Others to Register Victories.

TORONTO FARES WELL.

HAMILTON, Aug. 27 (C.P.) — Victories of a pair of Vancouver speedsters and a chunky Calgary shot-putter were all that stood in the way to-day of a clean sweep by Ontario schoolboys at the track and field trials held here Saturday to choose a team to represent Canada in Australia this November.

In Howard McPhee and Marshall Limon, the Coast presented two sprinters who give every indication of going places and only a brilliant effort by Andy Zisis of Toronto prevented McPhee from copping both the century and the 220.

Zisis produced a sparkling drive in the final stages of the 100-yard event to breast the tape a fraction of a second before McPhee. The Western flash avenged himself in the furlong when he won going away from his Toronto rival.

A Decisive Victory

Limon, who rates high in senior company as a result of his work in the British Empire Games trials, gained one of the most decisive victories of the day in the quarter-mile.

The third victory to go West was that of Eddie Wares of Calgary, who annexed shot-put honors with a heave of 46 feet, 4¾ inches. This was more than a foot better than the record, but an undersize ball prevented official recognition of the distance. The ball was two ounces too light.

Two of the victories in the other five events went to Toronto boys, Sammy Richardson, British Empire broad-jumping champion, and Bob Mitchell, North Toronto Collegiate's stellar miler, coming through as expected in their respectively specialities.

Collapses at Finish

C. Rogers of Brantford gave Richardson something to think about with his consistent jumping, while Jimmy Fenton of Hamilton chased Mitchell to the tape, only to collapse at the finish.

A. Stevenson, Ont., boy, R. Hansen, established the lone new mark of the meet when he won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 1½ inches. The old mark was 6 feet, 1⅝ inches.

Johnny Loring of Windsor hurdled his way through to victory in the 120-yard high hurdles, and W. Griggs of London accounted for the half-mile run to complete the list of Ontario victories.

HAMILTON, Aug. 27 (C.P.).—All but one record — the high-jump mark—remained intact last night following the onslaught of nearly fourscore stellar Canadian schoolboy athletes on existing standards at the track and field trials, held here Saturday for the purpose of selecting a team to journey to Australia this fall.

Following the fruitless efforts of the trackmen to establish new marks in the face of a young gale that blew down the stretch — the same wind also handicapped the broad-jumpers—it was left to Roy Jansen, Stevensville, Ont., high jumper, to accomplish the feat which had been denied all other competitors.

Competing in the last event on the program, the lithe young Stevensville lepper cleared the bar at 6 feet 1½ inches, a scant eighth of an inch higher than the previous mark.

Back In Fold

Last year Greg Kabat was an assistant as well as player to Carl Cronin, coach of the Winnipeg team, champions of western Canada. This year, with the retirement of Cronin, Kabat has taken over full coaching duties. He will probably play as well, being a halfback of no mean ability.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling etc.

By G. J. F.

This evening at 5.30, weather permitting, Oshawa and Orphans tangle in Riverside Park. It's the first game of their second round O.A.S.A. playdown series, and should be a grand softball scrap. 'Twill be a pitchers' duel, most likely, between Preem Whitely, the Motor City ace, and our own Frank Shine. New Service Cleaners—that's the Oshawa team's monicker—figure on taking the Waifs to the cleaners in this tilt, but the Harrison clan don't figure on being laundered just yet awhile. We won't make any predictions as to the outcomeof this game, as Orphan's won't meet any tougher team in Ontario than the one tonight. Should be a great battle and deserves a great crowd.

• • • • • •

Cold weather and the Exhibition cut the senior ball crowd down to about seven hundred at Riverside Saturday. Those who attended got a treat. They saw the Petes actually win at home, and come from behind to do it. The Lee squad slapped Belleville down into second place with a 7-4 swish, the win not only hoisting the Petes to the top of the heap but also assuring them of a playoff berth. And 'twas a meat tussle with several outstanding features.

• • • • • •

In the first place, neither Deyell nor Casey—starting hurlers—lasted three frames. They just weren't on. Both relief tossers made a good job of it, with the veteran Abbie Rose in particular going well. While he got himself in several jams with a flock of compliments aries, yet Abbie didn't allow a hit the last five innings. The oldtimer pitched six and a third frames and got better as the game progressed. With fine support the last five or six cantos, he was unbeatable. The Petes were shaky at the start but settled away and played hangup ball. The infield in particular was smart.

• • • • • •

Of course, the Nats weren't at quite their strongest, as they will be in the playoffs. Williams sat on the bench—being saved for Kingston Tuesday—and Weir was visiting in the States. Then, Peeney Mills got a nasty crack on the finger—it may be broken—in the fifth and had to leave. However, the Petes were clicking okay most of the way and would probably have beaten the Chief. They really handed Belleville three runs what with errors, a balk, a bit of napping and such along with some hits. But they earned their own runs all right.

• • • • • •

Several fielding features were noted, but the real one for the book was when Batten, sitting down after stopping Green's hot roller, flipped the ball to Deyell who turned and rifled it to Ash to nab Sonny by several feet at first. Sonny walked back looking cheaper than a jilted cork cowboy while the fans cheered lustily, and Peeney remarked caustically to Green: "Well, you'd better give yourself up when they can throw the ball around the infield and still get you going down to first!" But it was quick thinking and perfect playing that worked it. Yeah, the Petes are shaping up nicely for the big playoff series.

• • • • • •

Kingston Ponies went to Oshawa Saturday and split a double-header, thereby eliminating both teams from the playoffs. If either team had copped both tilts, it would have had an outside chance yet at the silverware. Now that they're both out, why not have the four teams agree to call off the few remaining league contests and get the playoffs between Belleville and the Petes started this Saturday here? Since we are on top of the circuit at present, the Nats might be willing to let it go at that and give us the first home game. It wouldn't hurt to see, anyway, and the ultimate winner would not be taking an exhausted outfit into the Ontario playdowns.

• • • • • •

Cogs got off to a fine start in their intermediate O.B.A.A. playdowns Saturday by knocking over Bowmanville, 3-1, right in Bowmanville. Good pitching by Casey Masterson in the pinches, snappy fielding back of him most of the way and Cadd's fine hitting paved the way for the close victory. They play their second series game here this Wednesday at 4.15 in the Exhibition Grounds. As good contest is promised and it should draw a big crowd.

• • • • • •

There was a full grandstand at the Ex. Saturday and quite a gang stayed till the last race around six o'clock. Three races were run off by the harness horses, some particularly good times being clocked for the heats. Norman Peters, owned by Bill Grouch of Stratford and driven by Bill Lawson, cracked a local course trotting record, doing the mile in 2.10 and the half in 1.04½. This was pretty close to the pacing record of 2.09¼ made here Old Home Week by Old Hal. Si was in the second heat of the free-for-all that Norman Peters hung up his mark—this hoss being the only trotter without hobbles on the track.

NEUSEL IS STOPPED BY MAX SCHMELING

Former Heavyweight Champion Makes Comeback in German Scrap.

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 27 (A.P.). — Undisputed kingpin of German heavyweights once more, Max Schmeling turned his attention to-day to the possibility of a world championship match with Max Baer.

The Black Uhlan of the Rhine emerged from comparative fistic obscurity yesterday to batter down Walter Neusel, blond Teuton youngster, in a savage bout fought before more than 100,000 spectators.

Schmeling's victory, gained on a technical knockout when Neusel failed to answer the bell for the ninth round, carried with it the German heavyweight title. Much more important was the effect it might have on Schmeling's chances of getting a shot at the world title. Schmeling plans to sail for the United States next month, and undoubtedly will figure in the negotiations designed to find an opponent for Baer's first title defence next summer.

TORONTO C.C. RETAINS CRICKET CHAMPIONSHIP

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—The final match to decide the Dominion cricket championship was played at Armour Heights on Saturday between the Ross Robertson Cup-holders, Toronto C.C., and Montreal A.A.A., qualifying challengers from down east. It resulted in a victory for the local team by an innings and 162 runs.

In former years it has taken two days to complete such a fixture, but a very impressive display of trundling shared by Rutherford, Carlton and Loney made it possible for the Toronto Cricket Club to dismiss their opponents twice in the abbreviated space of about two hours and a half. Toronto C.C. batted four hours and a half to put 275 runs on the score-board.

AMERICAN PAIR BEATEN

ZOPPOT, Danzig, Pomorse, Aug. 27.—Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull of Australia defeated the American Collegians, David N. Jones and Clayton Burwell, 6-0, 6-3, 3-6, 9-7, in the doubles finals of an international tennis tournament yesterday.

CRICKET

At the Oval on Saturday, Whitaker C.C. achieved one of their ambitions and beat the Senior Club easily; the final score being Whitakers 83, P.C.C. 34. The latter batted first, but found Colbran's bowling too much for them. He bowled really well, taking 7 wickets for 15 runs and was well backed up in the field. The Whitaker men saw a chance for a win, and took it, mainly through a good innings by Hamilton (32 retired). At the end of the innings Dinesen made a few big hits and was not out with 15 to his credit. Score:

Bowmanville Here On Wednesday P.M.

Bowmanville meets the Cogs at 4.15 Wednesday afternoon in the Exhibition Grounds in their second O.B.A.A. playdown game. Cogs won the first in Bowmanville Saturday by a 3-1 score and hope to take this important series in two straight contests. If they lose here, a third game will be staged on neutral grounds. A big crowd, not only of E.P.L. followers, but of baseball fans in general should take in this intermediate playdown fixture which promises to be a great battle. Bowmanville is noted for a fighting spirit, having put the classy Cobourg crew—former C.O.B.I. team—out of the Lakeshore Loop title by a battling finish, and they may upset Cogs here badly, too. Good ball with plenty at stake rates a real crowd at the south end diamond Wednesday. Cogs may go a long way in the O.B.A.A. playdowns.

Manager Dorsey Davis will use either Lefty Billingsley or Percy Vannest as starting hurler here. The former is a lanky southpaw with slow and tricky benders, while his reputation for picking runners off first has made base runners fear him for years. Vannest is a speedball flinger, with a deceptive hook; and either one of these pitchers should dish up a good exhibition. This team deserves support in this game.

Lott-Stoefen Score Decisive Victories

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27 (C.P.) —Any lingering doubt that George Lott and Lester Stoefen aren't the best doubles tennis team in the world can now be safely locked from sight until such time as a new crop of racquet wielders rise to threaten their reign.

For yesterday the crafty Chicagoan and a smashing giant from California virtually clinched their place when they overcame John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison in retaining their United States championship for the second straight year.

And the manner in which they won—the scores were 6-4, 9-7, 3-6, 6-4 was so decisive that even the defeat they suffered at the hands of this same team a week ago was eclipsed.

COLOMBO IS SCRATCHED FROM ST. LEGER CLASSIC

LONDON, Aug. 27 (C.P. Cable).—Colombo, the Derby disappointment, was scratched to-day from the St. Leger, last of the season's five classics for three-year-olds, to be run at Doncaster next month.

No reason was given, but it was supposed that Colombo had failed to show complete recovery from a knee injury that interrupted the colt's training some days ago.

Call-over of odds for the big race showed Windsor Lad, the Derby winner, still strong favorite at 6 to 5. The Aga Khan's Umidwar, second choice, was 6 to 1., with Losingaro at 100 to 9, Adept and Achtenan 100 to 7, Primero 100 to 6, and Tiberius and Patriot King 20 to 1.

MRS. SOPWITH STEERS—At the wheel of Endeavour, America's cup challenger, is Mrs. T.O.M. Sopwith, wife of the owner.

SCHOOLBOY BACK AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Rowe Will Take Mound Against Athletics in Tigers' Final Game at Philly.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27 (A.P.). —Manager Mickey Cochrane announced to-day that Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe will be his pitcher Wednesday, when Detroit Tigers make their last appearance of the season against the Athletics in Philadelphia.

Having won 16 games in succession to tie Joe Wood, Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove, Rowe will try to establish a new American League record by pitching his 17th straight on that afternoon.

"Give me a few more good breaks and I hope to set up a new all-time record," Rowe said. "If I do not pass the 20 mark it will be because somebody pitched a better game."

Rowe said his winning streak does not cause him any undue worry and declared that if he breaks it next Wednesday, he will return to the pitchers' box in the next game "still confident that if I can breeze them past the batters they will not hit me very hard."

"I am not going to feel downcast and upset when this streak does end," he stated.

The young marvel scored his 16th victory by downing Washington on Saturday 4-2. He held the Senators to nine hits and hammered in the winning run with a single in the ninth.

RAILROADERS TAKE 3 GAMES

Havelock Fares Well in Trent Valley League Bowling at Hastings.

TOTAL SCORE 36-33.

HASTINGS, Aug. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—The intermittent showers of Friday made the local bowling greens lively for the important clashes with Havelock in the Trent Valley League. Friday night's games were the last with Havelock for the season, and the Railroaders made it disastrous from a local viewpoint when they took home three out of the four games. The cool air and dampness kept the gallery down to a small number.

In the first pair, the two veterans, Mathieson and Dodd, put up a great game. Mathieson grabbed off two on the first, but Dodd nipped the next three ends to give him a lead of two, the C.P.R. boys jumped to the front at the half way mark; from then on one ends were the order; an extra end had to be played before the Havelock four won the decision. In the other game "Foxy" Wellman, formerly of Norwood skipped the Havelock four to a 13 to 9 win, leading by 10 to 1 at the half-way mark the winner had the game in hand to defeat Rivard.

SILVER SLIPPERS

By Temple Bailey

CHAPTER 24

When at last Joan rose a mood of recklessness was upon her. What did pride matter, or self-respect? The thing she had to do was to tell Drew to come to her. Happiness was of the moment. Why shouldn't she grasp it?

As she stood for a moment by the fallen log, half-screened by the underbrush, she saw coming through the woods, two children. One of them, a slender lad, carried a basket. He wore a red sweater and his head was bare. The girl who ran along beside him was younger. Her sweater, too, was red and her head bare. Both of them had crowns of thick curled fair hair.

They were not aware of Joan's presence, and she watched them with curiosity. They stopped in the open space where Joan had danced with Drew. The boy set down his basket and began to strip pine plumes from a young tree. The girl made wreaths of them. When they were finished, the boy produced from the basket two green tunics of cotton cloth and the children put them on over their sweaters. They sat on the ground and took off their stockings and shoes. Then rising, they began to dance.

Joan watched them in amazement. There was a certain grace in what they did because of their youth and ardor. But they knew only a few crude steps. They stamped and turned. Utterly unconscious of anything except the joy of the moment.

She found herself wanting to join them. Yet she hesitated to intrude on their idyll. They had come to be alone, the presence of an onlooker might seem an affront.

At last, however, when they ceased for a moment, she emerged from behind her screen, and spoke to them with an easy air. "May I have a wreath," she said, "and may I dance?"

They stared at her. "Where did you come from?" the boy demanded.

She smiled, "I live in a tree."

"You don't . . ."

But the girl believed her. "Mother says there are dryads."

A dryad . . who had called her that . . . Giles!

The boy took off his wreath and handed it to her, "Cilla will make me another."

Joan went behind her leafy screen and removed her shoes and stockings. When she came back she wore the wreath. "Now," she said, "I'm ready."

The boy gazed at her admiringly, "How nice you look. But I don't believe you live in a tree."

"Don't I?" she began to hum a tune and to sway to it, "Come on," she said, and reached out a hand to both of them.

Her feet were white as milk, the pine needles were warm under them. The dance into which she drew the children was wild and rythmical. They loved it.

When they stopped, breathless, they cried "Do you know any more? Do you know any more?"

She reached for their hands again, and, feather-light, the three of them circled, cheeks glowing, eyes bright. When they stopped again, the little girl said with her arms extended. "Isn't life—lovely?"

Joan stood and looked at her. "Do you think it is?"

"Yes. Mother says it is. She could n't quite see it when she lost daddy But now she does."

The boy said, "You mustn't tell about it, Cilla, mother wouldn't like it."

The sun was setting now behind the trees. The three of them were dyed in the red of it.

"Will you dance with us again?" the boy asked.

"I'd love it."

The girl clung to Joan's hand. "My name is Priscilla Briggs, and my brother is John Alden Briggs."

"Heavens, how historical!"

"Yes. We're proud of our blood. But mother says we're changelings."

"What does she mean by that?"

"Oh, John and I want to be gypsies. Forest people. These are the tunics we wore in a pageant in town. Most of the children wanted to be waves of the sea and things like that. But we didn't. We asked to be pine trees, and we were dressed like this only our sweaters weren't under them. Mother made us promise today that we'd keep on our sweaters. She says she's too busy to have us take cold. She teaches school, and that makes her busier."

"I used to teach school myself," Joan said, "I'd like to meet your mother."

"I thought you lived in a tree," the boy challenged, his face lighted.

"Well, I'd rather live in a tree."

"So would we, so would we!" the children sang together.

They said, "Goodby," at last, and when they had walked on a bit they turned and waved. The sun had gone down and purple shadows filled the wood. The two children in their wreaths of pine were charming in the pale light.

"You look like Hansel and Gretel," Joan called after them, "in the opera."

"We've never seen an opera."

"Next time I'll teach you one of the songs . . ."

When Joan went back to the house, she asked Penelope about the little dancers. "They're a sturdy pair, but with such imaginations. Their mother is the woman I spoke about who teaches the school. She is very brave and beautiful. When her husband died, the boy was a baby and the little girl was not born. Life has been very hard for her, yet she seems to be lifted above the hardness."

Jean did not speak of Adelaide's letter. She felt that she must make her decision without any help from Penelope. After supper, she went again into the wood. The trees were sighing, and the sky swept by the wind was bright with stars. They showed above the treetops, and Joan, standing in the clearing where she and Drew had danced, looked up at them. In the faint light, her figure in the dark cloak was hidden, but her face showed white, like a silver coin, against the night.

Then, suddenly, she heard a voice speaking, "Joan, Joan, my darling," and there was a rustle of dead leaves.

She turned and saw him in the starlight. Drew had come back to her.

Joan, following the voice in the dark, said, uncertainly, "Drew?"

She heard him come crashing through a barrier of underbrush which divided them. In another moment he had her in his arms. "My sweet . . ."

For Tuesday, August 28

Although there are certain benefits to be derived from industry, applications and fidelity to affairs in hand, according to the planetary configurations, yet there are menacing and adverse conditions to cope with. Hasty, impetuous and turbulent actions, self-indulgences and extravagances in many directions as well as tendencies to attain ends through expediency rather than principle may lead into trouble, anxiety and regrettable circumstances. Overambition and pride menace.

Those whose birthday it is may achieve success and overcome certain hazards and perils to their aims and ambitions by industry, application, fidelity and a rigorous regard for integrity. Tumult, tempest, rash and hasty judgments, extravagance and indulgences, both business and personal, wield an afflicting force, threatening some excellent prospects.

A child born on this day should be forceful, energetic, industrious but prone to false pride and ambitions, extravagance and self-indulgences; useless given careful training in youth.

NORMAN PETERS SETS MILE MARK

had seen few better handled cards in a comment on the work of Art Blade, the starter. Considering the large fields, the starts were good throughout the day.

Nine horses went to the post in the free-for-all, seven in the 2.18 and nine in the 2.21. While the 2.21 was decided in three heats, the 2.18 went to four heats and the free-for-all to five. Lastic Patch's 2.12¾ miles in the first heat of the 2.21 was the feature of that event while Gratanette clicked off the best mile in the 2.18 class at 2.11.

Three $200 purses split $100, $50, $30 and $20 were at stake.

Unsupported Stair Cause Architect's Puzzle in St. John

Circular Staircase Has Stood for 100 Years Tribute to Genius of Builder.

By DOUGLAS A. MACLENNAN
Central Press Canadian Writer

ST. JOHN, N.B., Aug. 27.—Unique in a dozen details, the marvel of engineers who have travelled far to inspect it and leave in wonder again, there stands in the old stone Court House in Saint John, N.B., a spiral staircase, unsupported by pillar or post. It has no equal on the continent.

Sweeping around in symmetric curves it ascends two full storeys from the ground floor. Upwards of 100 tons of stone were used in the making of the evenly spaced steps which some genius placed one upon the other in perfect spiral curves circling an open well several feet in width.

Almost as great a wonder as the unsupported stairway is its railing, richly fashioned of hand wrought iron by skilled craftsmen of decades ago.

Such handicraft is rare today and architects from all parts of Canada and the United States delight in its beauty, an adornment, they say, of which there is no equal.

When the interior of the building was demolished by fire several years ago, and the roof fell prey to the flames, city fathers pondered whether to rebuild the structure, but stairs stood grim and sentinel like, a reminder of the careful work of the builder. They defied time and fire and weather.

The municipality decided to rebuild and today the structure is one of the most ornamental in New Brunswick.

Architects, while puzzled over certain facts concerning the staircase, are agreed to some extent that they get their support on the very curve of the spiral. The ends of the slabs appear to be embedded in the walls of stone from which they rise, but this has been proven as impossible as in the landings the piecings of the stone slabs can be easily discerned.

Shut off by a door usually closed and tucked away in a corner of the building, the unique staircase and its railing is a thing many Saint John people do not know about, although its fame has been spread through tourist booklets.

How to Cull Hens

LIFFORD LINE, Aug. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—A study of many trap-nested hens shows certain physical characteristics which, with remarkable accuracy, distinguish a good laying hen from a poor one.

Any interested man, woman or twelve-year-old child can, in an hour's time, learn these points and with a little practice can cull a flock sufficiently accurate for all practical purposes.

If the flock is culled only once a year, August is the best month, but it is considered good practice to cull twice a year. In July, and again in September, to select good producers to be used later as breeders.

Good layers molt late in September and the new feathers grow quickly for such a hen uses her food as effectively in feather production as in egg production. Her rest period for moulting will be short. Her shanks are pale, thin and soft in the back, pale because the fat has been used in egg production and it takes a long period of heavy laying to fade them. Her face is thin and lean; comb and wattles large, red, full, waxy, warm; beak, white; eyering, white; ear lobe, full and white.

Her body features to make note of are: Vent, large, moist, pale; pelvic or "lay" bones, wide apart and ends of bones soft, thin, pliable; the body capacity (that is, the distance between the "lay" bones and the end of the breast bone), must be larger; the skin of the abdomen soft and pliable.

The characteristics of a poor layer are: Face, coarse and fat; comb and wattles, small, pale, dry, hard, scaly; beak—yellow; eye ring—yellow; ear lobe—shrunken, wrinkled, yellow; vent—small, dry, yellow; "lay" bones, close together, ends hard, thick and stiff; body capacity—small; skin of abdomen—full, hard, plump.

A catching crate with a sliding end gate and a small hinged door in the top makes culling easy. Set the crate against the small opening of the hen house, either drive in the hens or attract them with feed. Take the hen from the coop with your right hand, grasp her shanks with your left hand, let her rest on your left arm if wild and hold her head under your arm.

When culling, punch the toes or leg band of your best hens. Next, spring breed from them. Selecting the best hens and eliminating the culls is easy, but you must keep as many medium producers as you need to maintain your flock.

A flock consisting of 40 to 50 per cent. hens that have been carefully selected with the other 50 or 60 per cent. pullets, is practical for the average farmer. Don't get rid of a hen because of age. The more cullings she survives, the better. It is proof she has vitality to stand up under heavy laying—just what you want to breed into your stock.

Pullets for winter laying should be early hatched and well matured before cold weather. They should have yellow shanks, yellow beak, bright eyes and well developed combs.

DIONNE STICKS TO FARM WORK

Quintuplets' Father Caught on Binder Admits He is 31 Years Old To-day.

NO CELEBRATIONS.

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP)—Olivo Dionne, father of the world's most famous children, had a birthday to-day, but he did not celebrate it. He never has.

Taoiturn Dionne, visited by a reporter who wished him many happy returns of the day, stopped the binder he was working and talked a little, but not much. He hedged a bit on the birthday business, but finally admitted he was 31 to-day. He got to that point by denying his birthday was tomorrow, the day his quintuplet daughters will be three months old.

Despite the fame he has acquired as father of the five baby girls, Dionne still works as a simple farmer with toil-worn hands and a battered hat on his head.

To-day he was cutting oats for his cattle in a field far back of the highway and out of the gaze of hundreds of visitors swarming to see the birthplace of the babies. He stood in a blue and white sweater and sought to duck questions as they were asked.

To head off some enquiries he went into a long explanation of how his binder works. His interviewer listened patiently and was rewarded by a present of very fine green peas.

Never Celebrated

Dionne said he took little stock in birthdays. He has never celebrated any anniversary of the start of his own life and does not intend to start now, even if he is famous.

Since the birth of the quintuplets the bushy-haired farmer has gained considerable weight. He does not know how much because he has not weighed himself since the morning his latest children were born. He weighed 130 that day and thinks he has gained probably 10 pounds.

He expressed keen pleasure at the manner in which the Red Cross Society is looking after the babies. He said he also watched with great interest erection on his property of the Dafoe hospital, which will house the tiny children as soon as it is completed.

He said he had never thought such a fine building would rise on his property. The hospital now has a shingled roof and new log-cabin siding. It only remains to finish the interior.

It is in strong contrast to the poorly-furnished house in which the Dionne family lives and where the babies are now. Interior decoration of the hospital will be white like that in other similar buildings.

Irrigation has permitted the increase of acreage now being planted to cotton in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

FINAL JUDGING.

Miss Stacey, Driving for Dr. Middleton, Bumps Track Harrow.

But for a mishap—one of a series that thrilled a capacity grandstand at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Saturday afternoon, Miss W. J. Stacey, driving Dr. J. E. Middleton's outfit might have figured in he prize money.

Competing in the light horse classes for the lady driver's special, the horse Miss Stacey was driving was thrown when it fouled the drag harrow being towed around the track by an automobile.

Two thousand voices from the grandstand yelled, "Whoa", and the horse recovering itself was apparently uninjured and little excited. Miss Stacey, apparently unnerved, pluckily refrained from withdrawing from the show ring, but Judge Herbert Collacutt of Port Perry placed the entry at the foot of a class of four.

First three in the lady's special event were: Mrs. W. B. Weber, Kitchener, Mrs. N. T. Kelly, driving G. H. Smith's entry; and Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy, Bethany.

Earlier in the afternoon a spectacular spill on the race track that resulted in a call for medical aid, and the thrilling dash of a riderless horse, provided plenty of exciting diversion for the huge crowd as also did a subsequent mix-up of racehorses in front of the judge's stand.

CROSS UNVEILED AS THOUSANDS HONOR CARTIER

Stone is Hewed from St. Malo Quarry in Town Explorer Sailed From.

BENNETT OFFICIATES.

GASPE, Que., Aug. 27. (CP).—A tribute to the intrepid adventurer who brought civilisation to this part of North America, a stone cross stood to-day on a knoll in the centre of this little town overlooking the historic Gaspe Bay where James Cartier dropped anchor 400 years ago bringing civilisation to the part of this continent that was to become known as anada.

The huge cross, hewn from stone taken from a quarry in St. Malo(the little French town from which Cartier and his band of heroes set sail in search of new lands, was unveiled before representatives of the four greatest nations in the world here Saturday by the Prime Minister of Canada, R. B. Bennett.

With delegates from France, the United States, Great Britain and Canada gathered here to pay homage to Cartier on the 400th anniversary of his epoch-making discovery, the Prime Minister unveiled the great cross in memory of the cross that was planted by the first white man to set foot on these shores so many years ago.

King Sends Message

A host of prominent men in the public life of four nations listened to the Prime Minister as he read a message from King George in which the Sovereign thanked the Premier for the expressions of loyalty and devotion he had forwarded on behalf of he Dominion Government and the people of the nation. "I am convinced," one part of the message from the King read "the spirit and courage which animated those heroes of old still remains a precious heritage and under God's guidance will continue to-day to inspire the people of Canada in their united efforts for the greater happiness and prosperity of this great Dominion."

Among those to address the throngs gathered in the town from all parts of Quebec and many sections of the Maritime Provinces and the New England States to view the proceedings were Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes, who was one of the British delegates, Cardinal J. M. R. Villeneuve, Pierre Flandin, Minister of Public Works in France, Hon. Warren Delano Robbins, representing the United States and Rev. Victor Boisard, acting for Cardinal Verdier, Archbishop of Paris.

LORD EDWARD MONTAGU OPENS COFFEE STALL

LONDON, Eng. Aug. 27. (AP).—Lord Edward Montagu, second son of Duke of Manchester. The Express said to-day, in running an outdoor refreshment stall at Maidenhead, famous Thames resort where there are many country clubs.

His "coffee stall" is mounted on the chassis of an automobile, from which he serves coffee, other soft drinks, sausages and sandwiches. Most of his patronage is from taxi drivers and chauffeurs who bring clubmen to Maidenhead from London.

Lord Edward, who is 28 and a former rancher in the Canadian West, told a reporter he started his business with £1 (about $5) in cash Saturday and made £4 within 24 hours. He hopes to start a chain of stalls, he asserted.

Lad Facing Death, Hidden By Churchmen, Allowed To See Doctor After Praying Bee

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Aug. 27. — (AP)—In medical treatment, rather than the prayers of a Holiness church, rested the hope today of saving eight-year-old Wallace Doyle Sharp, Jr.

The father of the boy, whose led is swollen from an infection which a doctor said could prove fatal, agreed to let a physician treat him after he had been held since Friday night by members of the Holiness church.

Sheriff S. W. Pope guaranteed that no charges would be brought against Sharp if he permitted medical care. The boy, authorities said appeared to be "resting well."

Wallace was carried off Friday night by members of the religious group to a house near Dutton, about 27 miles away. There he stayed while parties of citizens searched for him.

The child had been suffering for several days from an infection, developed from a bruise. Dr. R. J. guest, who examined the boy, said the infection "could very easily cause death."

The leg infection continued to get worse last week as members of the Holiness church crowded around Wallace's bed, praying and "talking in the unknown tongue under the spirit."

Dr. Guest said they told him: "The Lord's taking care of him, we don't need no doctor."

The boy was abducted, officers said, when county officers were enroute to his home to take him to a doctor.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT EXHIBITION

C.N.E. Total Attendance for First Two Days Far Surpasses 1933.

VETERANS PARADE.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (C.P.)—Children take their places at the Canadian National Exhibition to-day as the big show continues to draw unexpected throngs. The first two days, Friday and Saturday, saw the crowds surpass last year's attendances with 164,000 pouring through the gates Saturday compared with 142,000 on the same day last year. Friday, opening day, brought 84,000 people to the Exhibition grounds, 24,000 more than appeared on the initial day last year.

Feature of children's day will be the fourth national model aeroplane competition. There will be indoor and outdoor contests and 121 boys from Canada and United States are competing. Models ranging from eight inches to five feet will be displayed by boys between 10 and 21 years of age.

A trophy to be given the victor has been donated by the Governor General, the Earl of Bessborough. About 40 of the 121 entrants will be given prizes and every one will be given a flight.

Saturday saw 10,000 veterans from the Canadian corps and also from United States legion posts take part in a huge parade to the Exhibition ground where a military tattoo with massed bands concluded the program for the ex-soldiers.

River Cable Breaks Five B.C. Men Drown

REVELSTOKE, B.C., Aug. 27. — (C.P.) — Searchers examined the shoreline of the cold, rushing Columbia river to-day in hope there may be survivors from among five men believed to have drowned yesterday.

The five, and one other, were plunged into the stream when they sought Sunday diversion in a thrilling ride by cable cage across the dangerous waters. The cable broke, and only Blondie Mason managed to reach shore. The others were swept away.

Two were endeavoring to reach shore about 400 yards down stream, and upon this is based a very slim hope that one or more may have escaped. Failure by police in boats and on shore to find trace of the five made it unlikely that any was saved.

The missing are: E. C. McDonald, 23, Chatham, N.B.; George Bailey, 22, son of Mrs. G. Bailey, Montreal; H. Davis, 21, son of Mrs. F. Davis, Montreal; A. W. Morrow, 18, Vancouver, and Joseph Wall, 19, believed to have come from Alberta or Saskatchewan, exact address not known.

KILLED BY TRAIN

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 27. — (CP) — Members of an incoming Canadian National Railway freight train today found the badly mangled body of a man identified as David McEwan, aged 47, Ottawa, lying on the tracks at what is known as 'the rock cut', a short distance east of here and in rear of the Ontario Hospital where McEwan had been a patient for over two years.

McEwan made his escape from the cottage at the hospital at 5 o'clock this morning by opening a window.

UNRUFFLED

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (CP)—Lupe Para, caught in a tenement fire, was forgotten by her parents in the excitement of rescuing their six other children.

She was asleep when firemen found her—and still asleep when they carried her to safety.

STOCK PARADE "EX" FEATURE

Spotted Earlier in Saturday Program Concluding 1934 Exhibition.

SPLENDID DISPLAY.

The annual parade of be-ribboned livestock, one of the annual and final features of the Exhibition, was advanced to one o'clock in Saturday afternoon's program, causing a distinct disappointment to hundreds of the crowd who were unaware of the morning's change in the time of this event.

Headed by the Rangers band the big parade which has become a colorful incident in the winding-up of the show started with the light horses in the van. This section, augmented by the splendid horses shown by breeders from west of Toronto, especially Kitchener and Delhi, was much stronger than it has ever been. Heavy draught horses followed in the second position. Some were shown hitched to waggons.

Clydesdales and Percherons on halter also attracted very favorable comments from the crowd.

William Brown and his team of oxen afforded a striking flash back to the early days of the Peterborough Exhibition, more than eighty years ago when the settlers commonly used oxen in most of their farm work.

Three herds of Aberdeen-Angus cattle headed the beef cattle section, with Herefords and Shorthorns following in that order, and including the cattle shown by the Peterborough Boys' Shorthorn Club.

Holsteins headed the dairy class with Jerseys and Gordon Mann's Ayrshires concluding the parade. Tom Shields introduced by amplification the breeders as they passed the stand.

THREE INJURED IN NIAGARA FALLS RACE RIOT

WHITES CLASH WITH NEGROES DURING NIGHT

Polish-Americans Resent Residential Intrusion in American City.

MANY WOUNDED.

Three Men in Hospital—Negro Rally Incites Street Fighting.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 28. (AP).—Negroes were warned to keep within their homes to-day as police began combing the city for persons responsible for rioting between whites and negroes last night, when three persons were injured seriously and many others suffered minor wounds.

The condition of one of the victims, Walter Korpolinski, 45, a grocer, remained critical, but hospital officials said he was resting more comfortably.

William Fisher, 20, negro, alleged assailants of Korpolinski, is also confined to a hospital with cuts and a possible skull fracture.

The grocer was standing in front of his store, police said, when a negro, whites were chasing, slashed Korpolinski in the belief he intended to block the fleeing man.

More than 3,000 engaged in the free-for-all, which started when an attempt was made to break up a meeting of the International Labor Defense called to rally workers to the aid of Alphonso Davis, negro, who had been arrested on a charge of attacking a white girl.

Several shots were fired, none taking effect, according to police. Windows in many stores and homes in the district were broken and the authorities reported considerable other property damage.

Residential Friction

The police said here had been ill feeling for some time between the negroes and whites because the former were moving into the section around East Falls and 24th Street, largely populated by Polish-Americans.

Walter Korpolinski, 45, was in Memorial Hospital in a critical condition as a result of a knife wound in the abdomen. Slight hope was held for his recovery.

William Fisher, 20, negro, Korpolinski's alleged assailant, also was in the hospital with cuts and possible skull fracture.

Joseph Buckford, 45, was in the same hospital suffering from possible concussion.

Police were called back to the scene later in the night to disperse a large crowd that was gathering in the vicinity.

LONDON OPENS SILENCE DRIVE

Stillness for Seven and Half Hours Astonishes Whole Metropolis.

NO HORNS OR SIRENS.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Aug. 28 (CP Cable).—London's campaign to quiet the big city during sleeping hours was inaugurated with complete success a half hour before midnight last night. There was a stillness for 7½ hours that astonished the town.

By order of the Ministry of Transport, the sounding of automobile horns and sirens was prohibited between 11.30 p.m. and seven a.m. in a five-mile area from Charing Cross. Motorists showed a complete readiness to respond and 3,000 extra police, posted throughout the area, were rarely obliged to caution drivers.

But the order seemed to create a far more general desire for peace. Even the late-night outpouring from theatres with the usual frantic demand for taxis was conducted in comparative silence. When the first glint of sunrise burnished the cross of St. Paul's, market gardeners' lorries rumbled towards Covent Garden without a single blast.

Not a few pedestrians were bewildered by the absence of the warning toot and the dipping headlights many motorists adopted as an alternative to horns.

As a means of reducing night noises, the experiment was undoubtedly successful. It seemed equally clear that it involved a general slowdown in motor traffic.

As they drove silently through the heavy city traffic at midnight, many a veteran cab-driver hummed the old General Quarters handout: "The night was quiet on the front."

STARTLING FIND IS MADE IN U.S. MUNITION PROBE

Committee Discovers Letters From Basil Zaharoff to American Firms.

EUROPEAN MYSTERY MAN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—The scope of connections between some United States arms manufacturers and big firms in other countries was described to-day as one of the first things the Senate Munitions Investigating Committee will put under the spotlight of open hearings starting next week.

A hint that the committee has something up its sleeve that may develop a bit of the mysterious and bizarre was contained in reports that its agents have found a link between Sir Basil Zaharoff, mystery man of Europe, and American munitions makers. The Zaharoff tie-up was reported discovered in letters from the wealthy European "maker and breaker of kings" in the files of some leading United States arms manufacturers.

Although Senator Pope (D., Idaho), the only committee member in Washington, would not confirm the investigators' findings, neither did he deny them. He acknowledged they had found international connections between American manufacturers and large companies abroad.

Interesting Situation.

Declaring he could not reveal now what had been dug up, he remarked that navy and other records "disclosed some interesting international situations."

Sir Basil, a Greek, became a British subject and was knighted for service to Great Britain. He gained prominence years ago in the munitions business and is supposed to be connected with the Maxim Company of Vienna and with Vickers and Armstrong in England.

Pope said the committee, which already has summoned a dozen munitions representatives to testify, probably would inquire, also, into scrap iron shipments from this country to Japan.

The broad objectives of the committee were outlined last night in Chicago by Chairman Nye, who said American armament expenditures were but part of "a vicious circle" of expenditures looking to war.

3 Killed, 100 Injured Buenos Aires Blast

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28 (A.P.)—At least three persons were killed and 100 injured, 20 seriously, when six oil tanks in the refining plant of the National Oil Company at Campana, 40 miles away blew up to-day.

Mayor Del Pino of Campana estimated the loss at 10,000,000 pesos, equivalent to $2,800,000. Officials of the National Oil Company, which is affiliated with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said they were unable to state the cause of the original blast.

EXCHANGE COST T., N. O. $29,767 INSIDE 2 YEARS

Paid Premiums on U. S. Coal Despite Fact it Was Not in Contract.

HELD "SOUND BUSINESS"

Chief Clerk Also Admits Virginia Mine Officials Were Given Passes.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 28— (CP). — The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway paid in less than two years $29,796 in premiums on payment in United States funds for coal, Armand Rene, commissioner examining the workings of the railway, was told to-day.

Arthur Steele, Ottawa auditor, told Mr. Racine the company paid the sum as premium on payment for 198,151 tons of coal bought from the Weaver Coal Company of Virginia at a cost of $741,400. The purchases, he said, had been made from July 16, 1930 to May 26, 1932, and the premium had been paid despite the fact it was not required in the contract.

The premiums, Steel said, were paid over a period from March, 1932, to October, 1933.

David Hamilton, auditor for the railway, said he had instructions from secretary-treasurer W. H. Maund to pay the exchange. Asked if he thought it "strange" the railway should have paid the premiums without being compelled to so, Hamilton said there had been "some question about it."

The T. and N.O. contract with the Weaver Company was examined by Harry W. Steele, government investigating auditor, this morning.

Purchases of Coal

From July 16, 1931 and until May 26 last the T. and N.O. purchased 198,151 tons of coal from the Weaver Company at a cost of $741,400, Steele testified. Contrary to the terms of its contract with the Weaver Company the T. and N.O. paid $29,767 in premums on U.S. funds for coal shipped from the mine to U.S. lake ports, Steele testified.

The government's investigating auditor claimed there is no clause in the T. and N.O. contract providing for the payment of premiums on U.S. funds.

David Hamilton, the T. and N.O. auditor, testified he had instructions from Secretary-Treasurer Maund to pay the exchange on U.S. funds.

Commissioner Racine asked witness if it had not been "strange" for the T. and N.O. to play premiums on U.S. funds contrary to the contract.

Auditor Hamilton admitted there had been "some question about it," but insisted he had taken no part.

LAD HAS EVEN CHANCE.

FORT PAYNE, Ala., Aug. 28. — (A.P.). — Surgeon's instruments glistening in the flickering lamp of a kerosene lamp—a mother's lament lost in the weird chant of the holiness cult's "unknown tongue" — a boy with a 50-50 chance for life."

Dr. W. T. Miller, one of two surgeons who operated on eight-year-old Wallace Doyle Sharp, Jr., straightened from his work and said:

"He has an even chance."

For days Wallace's parents had refused to permit an operation on his infected leg. "The Lord will heal him through faith," they said.

Finally the father gave in. But the operation must be performed in the Sharp home, he said, so members of the cult might aid with prayers, songs and talking in the "unknown tongue."

Despite the lack of hospital facilities, the doctors scraped eight inches of bone in the boy's leg. When he awoke from the anesthetic part of the swelling was gone.

His condition was "better than I expected," said Dr. Miller, who had predicted amputation as the price of further delay.

VIENNA POLICE WIN IN BATTLE WITH HEIMWEHR

Home Guards Are Arrested and Disarmed as Untrustworthy and Traitors.

SHOCK TO POPULACE.

VIENNA, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Police emergency forces rushed into the working class district of Floridsdorf to-day to disarm Heimwehr (National Guard) forces and a short hand-to-hand battle followed before the police won.

The Heimwehr men were in barracks in the former Socialist centre which was taken over by the armed militiamen after the Socialist rebellion in February.

Maj. Emil Fey, Minister of Defence, is in nominal command of the Heimwehr, but it was not immediately ascertainable whether the police action was taken with the consent or knowledge of Major Fey.

The Heimwehr detachments in Floridsdorf were denounced by other military units as "untrustworthy and traitors."

The police not only disarmed the guardsmen but made many arrests. The action was a shock to Vienna, already distraught by the rebellion of last winter and the recent Nazi putsch which culminated in the assassination of the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

No Help For Aviators Banned Indian Areas

SIMLA, India, Aug. 28 (CP Cable via Reuters).—Full particulars of the prohibited frontier area of India, over which competitors in the London-to-Melbourne air race may not fly, were sent to the Royal Aero Club to-day by the Aero Club of India.

All starters in the race will be asked to sign a declaration that they perfectly understand the extent of the prohibited areas and will undertake not to fly across them. The Indian Government desires, it was stated, to avoid undertaking any costly and politically difficult negotiations in the event of forced landings in the frontier districts.

Fliers will be advised they can expect no assistance should they meet disaster in the prohibited Indian areas. On leaving Bagdad, competitors are expected to take the southern route, skirting the Persian Gulf.

STRIKE THREATS INCREASING IN UNITED STATES

Textile Trades Demanding Something More Than Conferences.

FROM EAST TO WEST.

New York Truckmen and California Vegetable Workers Restless.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (CP)—A nation-wide United States textile strike drew nearer to-day, with workers insisting, "Conferences are not enough."

To stave off the impending strike, Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, pleaded for a round-table conference tomorrow or Thursday.

Other strike threats grew more ominous. In New York, 10,000 truckmen called for a strike vote Friday. On the West coast, 5,000 vegetable workers voted to walk out to-day.

The threatened strike of New York truck drivers would paralyze the delivery of a large part of the city's food.

Menace Packing Plants

The striking vegetable workers who left the field near Watsonville, Calif., expected their action to throttle activities in the Salinas Valley packing industries.

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, said needy strikers will be eligible for relief, unless the Labor Department of the National Labor Relations Board brands the strike unjustified.

Aluminum workers and employers prepared for a third session at conference table in Washington, D.C., also seeking arbitration, employers and striking workers of the Warren Dye Works in North Bergen, N.J., looked to the Region Labor Board to end a walkout.

Painters' Strike Ends

Their strike ended by mediation, 5,000 New York painters returned to work after a five-week walkout.

In Chicago, 300 pickets in the Chicago Motor Coach Company strike marched to the loop bearing signs and congregated at principal bus stops.

American Federation of Labor leaders charged the strike-bound Kohler Company in Wisconsin with NRA violations, and sought to have the company cited.

KIWANIS FAIR THURSDAY EVE

Generous Response to Big Appeal is Confidently Hoped For.

VALUABLE PRIZES.

The Kiwanis Karnival Committee is deciding to intensify their ticket selling campaign during the two remaining days before Thursday evening's big charity effort, are appealing for the usual measure of generous support of the public, that has made former efforts so fruitful.

When approached to buy tickets, the public are asked to remember that it is their opportunity to give according to their means towards the furtherance of a very worthy service work. Chief among Kiwanis activities is the operation each summer of Jackson Park Health Camp, where underprivileged children are given the full benefit of healthful surroundings and wholesome body-building food. It is a work which Dr. A. W. McPherson, school medical health officer, recently stated, could not be estimated in dollars and cents. Nevertheless, it is a program that cannot be undertaken without money.

Besides having the satisfaction of contributing towards the help of those less fortunate than themselves, supporters of the Kiwanis Street Fair and Karnival, will also have chances of sharing in the prize drawing, which is to take place on Thursday evening. Prizes, all of a practical nature, include a wide range of home electrical appliances, to the total value of $745.

The Street Fair is to be held on Brock Street, between George and Aylmer Street, at which there will be a variety of games, booths and

SALVATION ARMY SETTLING FIGHT AMID SECRECY

Grounds, Buildings of Great London Hall Take War-time Atmosphere.

CHECK ALL ENTERING.

No News of Election of New Commander Expected Before Thursday.

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—The Salvation Army, with a family fight on its hands in the election of a new commander-in-chief, was taking no chances with eavesdropping to-day.

The grounds and buildings of the Army's greatest training centre in North London has al lthe atmosphere of a war-time fortified zone, when the High Council came to grips behind locked and guarded doors.

Outsiders were surprised at the military efficiency with which would-be gate-crashers were repelled. Even the 47 members of the Council—leading officers from 22 countries, who do the electing—were forced to show passes before they were passed through the main entrance where four huskies stood on guard.

Reporters and photographers who could not produce bonafide passes, reached the inner grounds without difficulty, but they could not get within a city block of the hall in which the council is sitting. The news gatherers were informed by a special press officer that there was no news, but there "might be something about Thursday."

One of the morning's high lights was supplied by Commander Evangeline Booth of the United States, one of the candidates, and her entourage who swept up to the gates in a limousine after all the other members of the High Council had arrived on foot.

It was estimated that it cost $50,000 to bring the members of the Council from all over the world for the deliberations.

Edmonton Taxpayers Fight 64-Mill Rate

EDMONTON, Aug. 28.—(C.P.) — Edmonton taxpayers took up arms against their city administration to-day following a mass meeting last night at which every one of the 1,480 participants had to produce assessment notice to gain admission.

They decided on a tax strike unless expenditures are cut and a tax rate of 50 mills adopted. Redistribution of taxation liability and drastic cut in expenditures are demanded.

Edmonton's tax rate now stands at 64 mills, one of the highest in Canada.

PACKARD USED BY EX-PREMIER SOLD FOR $1,500

187 Automobiles Put on Auction Block By Hepburn.

11 CARS FOR $12,225.

Hon. A. E. Dunlop's Brings Only $600—Loan Company on Ground.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—A large sedan that carried former Premier George S. Henry of Ontario a bit more than 48,000 miles was sold today for $1,500 as a crowd estimated at 5,000 persons swarmed into the University of Toronto's stadium for Ontario's auction of automobiles formerly used by government members and officials.

Before the sale 13 cars were withdrawn for use of the Department of Health, leaving the total number to go on the block at 187.

As the former premier's car was hoisted onto an elevated runway Auctioneer M. Moore of Aylmer, Ont., exhorted the crowd to bid up, saying: "You will be proud to tell your grandchildren you bought the first government car sold at public auction, the car of Premier Henry."

There were numerous shouts of "ex-premier."

An expensive, but six-year-old, car in which the late Hon. E. A. Dunlop used to ride, was sold for $600. It had travelled 70,093 miles. A 1930 model of a less expensive car went for $400. It had done 115,307 miles.

The first 11 cars brought only $12,225.

Arguments

Persons who had bought cars, or thought they had, rushed to the cashier's wicket to make the 25 per cent deposits required of them. Numerous arguments broke out when more than one person claimed to have bought a single car. The decision as to who was the actual purchaser was left to the auctioneers.

LAKE SEARCHED FOR CHILDREN

Two Girls Trudge Seven Miles Through Bush to Cottage.

BOY PADDLES BACK

Anxious adventure crowded in upon three children, two girls and a boy, the eldest 13, last evening on Pigeon Lake. Hours after they had set out on the lake in a canoe, they had not returned and as darkness settled down friends and relatives set off in search of them. About 9.30 they were found.

The children are: Teddy Akins, aged 12, his sister, Vivian, aged 11, grandchildren of Mrs. Mary Goodwin, 296 Edinburg street, and Jean Carruthers, aged 13, of Toronto.

They are visiting Sam Bridger, Edinburgh street, at his cottage on Pigeon Lake.

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon the three left the cottage in a canoe with the intention of visiting up the lake. Instead they went south and paddled the five miles to Fee's Landing. They remained there until after dark. By that time relatives had become alarmed at their absence and started out in search of them.

The two girls were afraid to start back to the cottage in the canoe and decided to walk. They tramped seven miles through the bush to the cottage, arriving there about 9.30.

But the boy set forth in the canoe to paddle back. It was quite dark.

Meanwhile Harry Long, 2 McLennan street, and Mr. Bridger had set forth in a boat to find the children. Other groups were also seeking them.

About half a mile out from the Bridger cottage, on the edge of a great weed bed, Mr. Long and Mr. Bridger came across the boy bravely paddling along in the canoe.

"You can imagine our relief," Mr. Long stated.

HEPBURN SAYS MUNICIPALITIES ALONE DECIDE

Settle Wants Individuality — Refuses to be Stampeded by Few Drys.

LOANS BY TENDER.

Private Deal Best Where Huge Sums Requested States Premier.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Financial and beer and wine policies of the Ontario government were before the electors today with Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn firmly opposed to a provincial referendum to decide sale of the alcoholic beverages. The premier in reply to critics declared each municipality would decide individually whether it wished beer and wine sales authority — and the government was "not going to be stampeded by a few offensive temperance cranks."

In a statement on the government's $47,500,000 loan, the premier explained the reason why no tenders were asked and announced in future the province would adopt the sale-by-tender system. A private deal, he said, was the best one in the case of the huge loan. Money requirements had piled up. From now on, however, the government will not permit money requirements to accumulate.

"We will sell our bonds competitively," the premier said. "We will do that on future borrowings." He declared no one firm could have handled the $47,500,000 loan and as far as bond houses joining to handle the issue, the premier recalled that he had asked for tenders before and banks had got together, sending him all the same tender. The plan under which the large loan was made resulted in a 2.97 percent interest rate, described by the premier as the most advantageous in Canada's history.

Differs With Brokers

A statement issued by three Toronto brokerage houses declared the belief the province could have obtained a more favorable rate through competitive bids, but Premier Hepburn disagreed with this view in view of the circumstances surrounding the loan.

SALVATION ARMY CHIEFS OF WORLD MEET IN LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Salvation Army chiefs from all parts of the world filed into the Congress Hall at Clapton and began secret deliberations to-day which will result in the selection of a new commander-in-chief.

Two women, descendants of the founder of the Salvation Army, General William Booth, have been mentioned for the leadership, succeeding General Edward J. Higgins.

They are Commander Evangeline Booth of the United States and Commissioner Catherine Booth of Great Britain.

Indications were that the election may be delayed for several days while the names of willing and unwilling candidates for the post are thoroughly discussed.

Craft Races Against Winter to Pick Up Missionary in Arctic for Years.

ALONE AMONG ESKIMOS.

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 28.—(CP)—The good ship Pius XI ploughed a furrow across Hudson Bay waters today bound for the far north in a race with winter. If successful rotound Captain John Robertson, her skipper, will return before freeze-up with a plucky missionary who has waited years for a return to civilization.

In a diocese as large as all England, Rev. H. N. Bazyn has led a primitive existence for four years, ministering to the Eskimo population of Baffin Land, 1,100 miles northeast of here. His headquarters are at Igloolik Island, a good sized dot at the eastern end of Fury and Hecla Straits, far off the beaten track of white men.

During his lonely exile in the sub-Arctic he has trekked from one end of the vast island to the other. His church has been the wide-open spaces and his congregation wandering bands of Eskimos. By dint of hard labor and with some assistance he built a small mission house at Igloolik where natives gathered at certain times of the year.

Las year his mission house burned down. It was built of bits of driftwood, an old packing case and pieces of moss. For the past year he has lived in a small habitation fashioned of skins and wood which he salvaged from the sea.

BURTON LIFTS VOICE AGAINST PROBE CRITICS

Simpson Head Charges Public Been Misled by Political Self Seekers.

DEFENDS BUSINESS.

Points Out Selfish Methods Precluded by Generally High Moral Standards.

HALIFAX, Aug. 28. (CP).—The president of one of Canada's great mail order houses—Charles L. Burton of The Robert Simpson Company, Limited—was on record today in a defence of business and industry in the Dominion against "libellous propaganda."

For political reasons, he claimed, the public had been misled by "demagogues and political self-seekers," and even crown ministers had disregarded their office to "twist and distort the truth."

The Simpson executive made his defence of business methods last night before the Maritime conference on Canadian affairs, a group of educationists and professional and business men formed for the promotion of political thought.

"Many half-digested ideas," he asserted, "are brought forward by demagogues and political self-seekers who, by libellous propaganda, seek to inflame the minds of people whom they know are easy to influence by reason of their generally anxious personal circumstances.

Hits at Ministers

"Even responsible ministers of the Crown have not hesitated here and there to twist and distort the truth, evidently hoping for the tunes disregarding meanwhile their trusteeship for the welfare of the people whose interests they have taken solemn oath to protect."

A modern tendency existed, Mr. Burton declared, to assume that all business of any size was "guilty of economic and social improprieties," and he admitted that in the rapid development of industry—"such as we have experienced"—abuses would creep in.

But "ruthless and selfish" methods, he said, were precluded by the generally high moral standards of the people and by the fact that the operations of large concerns were conducted by hundreds and even thousands of persons.

TRAVELS END FOR STOWAWAY

Will be Put on Train for Fort Erie and Conductor Told Ignore Stories.

LIVELY IMAGINATION.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (C.P.).—Bernard Train, 13, a Canadian boy with a lively imagination and a desire for travel, was at Ellis Island to-night, waiting to be sent back to-morrow to his foster-parents in Fort Erie, Ont.

The lad stowed away on the S.S. Resolute of the Hamburg-American Line when she sailed from New York on a Caribbean cruise to the West Indies. How he got here from Canada is not known. The first day out he was found hiding among the ship's gear without money, ticket or passport.

He was given food and a needed bath and then the passengers, taking a liking to the lad, made up a purse for him of $150. The money proved more than sufficient to pay his return passage. Bernard was put ashore at Port-o-Spain, Trinidad, and sailed on the Southern Prince for New York, arriving July 12.

Takes New Name.

The lad has been on Ellis Island ever since, but solely through his own doing. He told Commissioner of Immigration Rudolph Reimer that his name was Ronald Bauld, that he was the son of a United States citizen and was born in New York.

An Ellis Island board of special inquiry, however, traced the boy's wanderings and learned he was a Canadian.

"Bernard is a bright lad but possessed of a lively imagination," Commissioner Reimer said. "He said the name he adopted belongs to a boy he went to school with, that he liked the sound of it and took it."

Bernard, who still has a little of the money collected for him on the Resolute left, will be put aboard a train whose conductor has strict instructions not to pay the slightest attention to any stories the lad may tell him, Commissioner Reimer said.

Fear Shark Nabbed Lost Swimmer's Body

ABBEVILLE, La., Aug. 28 (C.P.).—Since divers have been unable to find the body of Henry Eleazar, 22, who drowned Sunday in Vermilion Bay, there was a speculation to-day that he was swallowed by a shark.

A squall was threatening Sunday and Eleazar, a good swimmer, dived into the bay in his attempt to swim fifty feet for a boat with which to carry a household party to safety. Witnesses said that Eleazar sank, came up again and disappeared.

Witnesses said sharks had been noticed nearby and believed they had been blown into the bay by the backwash of the tropical hurricane that hit the Texas coast.

Bridge Troubles

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(C.P.)—This is the saga of a tourist abroad in New York. Samuel Milstein, who drove up from Jackson, Miss., to visit the Metropolis and, incidentally, Long Beach.

It was there, while he was lapping on an ice cream cone, that it happened—his tongue was caught in his bridgework.

He approached a policeman on the boardwalk, pointed to his mouth, and said something that sounded like "Nyah, Nyah." The officer hooked a finger experimentally under the tongue, and pulled. No use. So he called an ambulance.

A doctor pried loose the bridgework, freed the tongue and told Milstein the tongue would be all right.

CHINESE LOSE VILLAGE IN B.C.

250 Are Left Homeless, Without Food as Fire Sweeps Settlement.

TEMPLE IS SAVED.

CHILLIWACK, B.C., Aug. 28. (CP)—Some 250 men, women and children, residents of the Chinese settlement of this Fraser valley town, are spending to-day in the open. Their only coverings are donations by neighboring white residents or meagre belongings saved when they were forced to flee in their night clothes from fire which practically wiped out their community early Monday.

Eight of the settlement's nine buildings were destroyed with a loss estimated at $15,000. Only two buildings carried insurance. The Chinese Masonic Temple was the only building left untouched by the flames, which, ironically enough, started at the rear of the temple.

No estimate of the value of the merchandise and personal belongings in the destroyed buildings was possible.

The settlement, three-quarters of a mile outside the Chilliwack city limits, was without fire protection. Efforts of volunteer fire fighters who manned pumps connected with a nearby slough, saved the Chinese Temple.

While aged Chinese, with the stolidness of their race but none the less presenting a pathetic picture puttered about seeking to quench smouldering fires with ineffective pails of water; mothers with children strapped to their backs searched for food. At one edge of the settlement, a group of women and children gathered beneath apple trees and plucked the fruit which had been baked by the heat from the flames.

Meanwhile in Chilliwack, civic authorities and charitable organizations are gathering contributions of food and clothing as a measure of temporary assistance. The warmest weather of the summer is prevailing.

Two U.S. Aviators Reach Greenland

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 28 (CP)—Dr. Richard Upjohn Light and Robert French Wilson, companions on an air cruise which may extend around the world, have reported the successful completion of a 600-mile hop from Cartwright, Labrador, to Julianhaab, Greenland.

A message announcing their arrival at Julianhaab was received last night by Clark C. Rodiman, of West Hartford, an amateur radio operator.

The message read, Rodiman said: "Landed Greenland after good crossing, six hours, radio haywire." It was signed "Dick."

Dr. Light, a research assistant at Yale Medical School, and Wilson, of New Rochelle, N.Y., his radio operator, left New Haven in a surprise flight last week. They declined to announce their destination, and many of their friends believed they were bound on a world-girdling air cruise.

CAMPBELLFORD GARAGE LOOTED OF TIRES, CASH

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Breaking a pane of glass in the door of the T. E. Hall Garage on Bridge street, Campbellford, early Sunday morning, and forcing an entry by reaching in and releasing the door catch, thieves made good their escape with four car tires, taken from the stock and the sum of twenty dollars cash, snatched from the cash register. Up to the present no arrests have been made, but Provincial Constable Gordon Campbell of Brighton, and Chief Constable George Hardy of Campbellford are working on the case.

EXAMS TO STAY FOR STANDARD

Extension of Recommendation System Favored by Prof. D. McArthur.

MORE CO-ORDINATION.

TORONTO, Aug. 28—Extension of the system of recommendation for pupils in the secondary schools of Ontario, with sufficient of the examination system retained to maintain proper standards, should be effected as far as possible, Prof. Duncan McArthur, recently appointed deputy minister of education, yesterday stated at the Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon.

The necessity of system of education which taught "a healthy social consciousness' instead of turning out children educated in one feature and which reached a co-ordination between academic and technical training was stressed by Dr. McArthur. And the public, he said, must realise that schools are not filling stations for boys and girls which load up children with an education which can be measured in dividends of dollars and cents.

Dr. McArthur was introduced by Principal Grant of Upper Canada College, who recalled that the present deputy minister had been a "brilliant graduate engaged in research studies on Canadian history," when Dr. Grant had become a member of Queen's University faculty. Later he had been proud, Dr. Grant said, to be succeeded by Dr. McArthur, who had added to his degrees in the meantime by becoming a barrister in Ontario and had added to his laurels by becoming

DIONNE BABIES REACH 3 MONTH MARK IN LIFE

All Progressing, But Only One, Yvonne, is Regarded Normal Infant.

Weighs 7 Pounds, 1 Ounce.

Heat in Incubator is Turned Off for First Time Monday.

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 28 (C.P.)—Five infant girls born to Mrs. Oliva Dionne May 28 whose progress is the object of interest throughout the world celebrated three months of life to-day in the little farm home that has drawn visitors from all parts of the continent. Famous as the Dionne quintuplets the babies continued to startle the medical world by not only clinging to life but by growing stronger and increasing their weight.

Under the watchful eye of Dr. A. R. Dafoe, veteran physician of this sparsely settled section of the Dominion, the quintuplets have made surprising progress but only one of them, Yvonne who weighs seven pounds one ounce, is considered a normal infant so far.

She is the heaviest of the five girls with Marie the lightest, weighing only four pounds 13¼ ounces.

There was no birthday party arranged for the quintuplets by their 24-year-old mother and no celebration occurred at the Dionne home. Quiet is the watchword of Dr. Dafoe who allows the infants three ounces of human milk every three hours, tomato juice and water.

In a few weeks the babies will have a home of their own when construction of the "Dafoe hospital for Dionne quintuplets" is completed. It will be situated about 100 yards from the farm home and equipped with sciences latest devices for the care of babies. And it will be officially opened by an Ontario cabinet member, Hon. David Croll, head of the Department of Welfare.

Taking No Chances.

Extreme care will be used in removing the children from their present home. Although they have gained weight rapidly, at present tipping the baby scales at three times the figure a week after birth, Dr. Dafoe is taking no chances with his tiny charges. They can withstand the cool nights of the north country now with a stove next the nursery providing the heat.

Heat in the room is sufficient, and yesterday the heat in the oil-burning incubators was turned off for the first time since two days after birth. Very few times since May 28 have the girls, Yvonne, Annette, Cecille, Emilie and Marie, shown weight losses, and when this did occur it caused no anxiety to their physician.

For 15 minutes to-day they will be placed in the sun to kick and squirm to their hearts' content. Dr. Dafoe reports the naevus tumor on Marie's left thigh is responding to treatment of experts from Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, but it will be two months before the treatment will have its complete effect.

The party reported that it collected valuable data concerning the rock formation, mineral deposits and other facts regarding Canada's storehouse of natural wealth, together with a study of the refining processes used.

There were no eye-witnesses to the accident, as Mr. Pascoe's car struck a parked automobile. The sound of the crash drew the attention of nearby residents, and Mr. Pascoe was found moaning slumped in the front seat. He died from a compound fracture of the skull while being taken to hospital.

At the Theatres

AT THE REGENT

"THE BLACK CAT."

The sinister Karloff and the mysterious Lugosi are co-stars in this picture. Karloff, whose undeniable weird personality suffers somewhat from his slight lisp, takes the floor, as usual, and is the madman of the piece, while Lugosi has a different role. In "The Black Cat" he has benevolent intentions. The whirr of bats' wings, remembered from "Dracula," seem to beat about him, however. It is hard to realize that he has no evil intentions and that is why, perhaps, the manner of his taking off is not so greatly lamented.

The environs of Vienna form the setting for this story, which is based on Edgar Allan Poe's story about a sable feline animal. Lugosi, who is Dr. Werdegras, a celebrated psychiatrist, suffers from a cat-phobia that creates in him a terror of the animals. He makes friends with a couple of honeymooners, David Manners and Jacqueline Wells, as Mr. and Mrs. Peter Allison, who are on their wedding trip. After an accident, they are housed for the night at the home of Hjalmar Polsgeren (Karloff), a weirdly quiet person who poses in a black robe and accompanies himself by a black cat, much to the distaste of his former war buddy, the aforesaid doctor.

Karloff decided that the little bride will make an excellent sacrifice for the macabre rites of Satanism, the devil-worship which brings a throng to his house at the dark of the moon. This worship of the Evil One, which has a wide vogue in France, is a new angle for moving pictures. It is possible that the smoothly-moving Lugosi would have made a better fist of the arch-priest than the constantly-posing Karloff.

There are numerous weird scenes and slow music for most of the scenes. Karloof, like the late lamented Lon Chaney in "The Phantom of the Opera," plays the organ. His house is erected over an abandoned fort of war time, mined to the hilt with dynamite.

"The Black Cat" makes very fine hair-raising entertainment.

The program includes a chapter of the fast-moving serial, "Gordon of Ghost City," also a comedy, entitled "Nervous Hands," with Ben Blue, and a Scrappy episode, "The Match Kid," with the pop-eyed child as the victim of a measly old miser.

COTTON TRADE IN OPEN REVOLT

Manufacturers Defy Roosevelt's Orders to Cut Hours, Increase Wages.

HELD UNJUSTIFIABLE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP). — President Roosevelt and the N.R.A. were confronted to-day with open opposition from the United States cotton garment industry.

Representatives of the industry from all parts of the country voted yesterday to reject a Presidential order of a week ago lowering hours and increasing wages for 250,000 workers. It was the first time an entire industry had defied the President's power under the N.R.A. to change hours and wages.

The President issued an order last Tuesday providing a maximum of 36 hours instead of 40, with no decrease in the minimum weekly wage, and also increasing piece rates 10 percent over those of May 1.

This order the manufacturers turned down as "unjustifiable, unwarranted, burdensome and inequitable." They authorized their counsel, Raymond A. Walsh, in Washington to take steps if necessary to protect their rights and interests, and indicated they would fight the President's order in the courts.

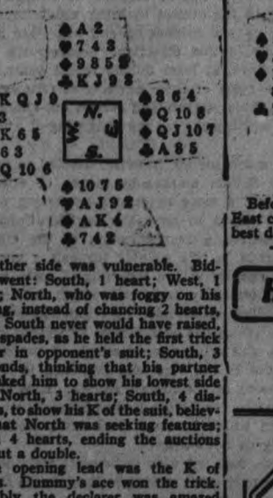
CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD

Two 9's Save the Day.

Almost anything may happen in the game, but I do not recall another case where the fate of an outrageously overbid hand depended for fulfillment of the contract upon two 9's, as in the case with this hand which I just saw played.



Neither side was vulnerable. Bidding went: South, 1 heart; West, 1 spade; North, who was foggy on his bidding, instead of chancing 2 hearts, which South never would have raised, bid 2 spades, as he held the first trick winner in opponent's suit; South, 3 diamonds, thinking that his partner has asked him to show his lowest side ace. North, 3 hearts; South, 4 diamonds, to show his K of the suit, believing that North was seeking features; North 4 hearts, ending the auctions without a double.

The opening lead was the K of spades. Dummy's ace won the trick. Probably the declarer was amazed at dummy's poverty, but he went on playing without a hint of what he thought. The 7 of hearts was led. East covered with the 8. South played the 9, and West passed the trick.

South led his top club. When West played low, dummy's 9 forced East's ace, and the 8 of spades was led. West's J won the second defensive trick. West led his top diamond. The 8, 10 and K went on the trick. South led his last spade, and dummy ruffed with the 3.

The last trump was led from dummy. East covered with the 10. South's J lost to West's K, giving the defenders their third and last trick.

When West led a spade, South ruffed, then used his last trump to pick up the last opposing hearts. Fortunately for him, each opponent held a single trump.

South led his top club. West covered with the 10. Dummy's J won. The K of clubs was led, picking up the last card of that suit held by each of the three other players. At the twelfth trick the good 3 of clubs was led. On it South discarded his low diamond, then won his tenth trick with his ace of diamonds.

Before tomorrow, see how many East can win at no trumps against the best defence of North and South.

A REFRESHING CHANGE.

A feature of Mr. Hepburn's few weeks of government has been the evidence afforded of the Premier's ability to enlist the enthusiastic services of worthwhile citizens, who are coming forward to do their bit for the province, in no hope of mercenary gain, but as a contribution to the public welfare.

Not only have two members of his Cabinet gladly consented to officiate on the Hydro-Electric Commission without pay, but other citizens outside the line-up of the Cabinet have shown an equal willingness to serve.

Notable among these is A. G. Slaght, K.C., who although a busy lawyer, has agreed to act as a member of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission without any salary, and there are several members of other public bodies giving the same kind of cheerful, voluntary service.

This is certainly a contrast with conditions under the Henry regime where volunteers willing to work for the public weal without expecting a substantial salary therefore were never prominent enough to be listed, and where the slogan so far as pay was concerned was "all the traffic can bear."

The change is certainly refreshing and will be welcomed by the people of the province, who will get a kick out of the new phenomenon in public life, the spectacle of men public-spirited enough to work for Ontario without expecting a place on the pay-roll.

CONDITIONS GENERALLY GOOD.

It is gratifying to note that the business summary of the Bank of Montreal indicates that while characterised by a degree of mid-summer slackness business in Canada is on a higher general level than a year ago, and that the outlook of the Dominion compares favorably with that of most commercial countries at the present season.

Two features in the report are of special interest. The first is the crop situation.

Hope of a bountiful harvest is not to be realized, the statement points out, but taking the Dominion as a whole, crops promise to equal, perhaps exceed, those of last year, though prolonged drought over the western and central provinces has retarded growth and reduced production.

The fundamental situation for Canadian wheat has markedly improved during recent weeks.

The carry-over announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on August 11 was 193,000,000 bushels in Canada alone, compared with 212,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Broomhall has further estimated that Canada will market some 288,000,000 bushels in the coming year, compared with 193,000,000 bushels last year, and will secure as high as 50 per cent. of the total export trade, compared with 37 per cent. for the past crop year.

The second notable feature of the report is that all reports of trade reveal improvement over last year, some over conditions of two years ago.

This is particularly true of car-loadings, always a good barometer; up to August 11, loadings were 217,209 cars in excess of 1933 and 49,414 cars better than in 1932.

ALL WORK, ETC.

Premier Hepburn has announced that he will be too busy to attend any of the functions in connection with the Canadian National Exhibition to which he has been invited.

Some of the Premier's close friends should take him to one side and remind him of the old adage about all work and no play.

The people of this province do not ask the head of the Government to devote all his time to the executive end of his duties and to politics; there is a social side as well, and the man who happens to be Premier is expected to grace with his attendance some of the outstanding events in the province, particularly Canada's show window, the great Exhibition.

Even Mr. Bennett, than whom probably no public man in the country's history has devoted such long hours to national problems, finds time to put in an appearance at important public functions, and it is only right that he should do so.

We agree readily with those who say that some consideration should be given our public men in this respect, and that too great demands are made upon them to attend here, there and everywhere, but there is a happy medium between expecting Prime Ministers to be present at all kinds of functions and Mr. Hepburn's decision not to attend any of them.

If a leader of a Government can find time to make political speeches in by-elections, the result of which are a foregone conclusion, it should be possible for him to discover an hour or two to do honor to such an important event in the year's calendar as the Canadian National Exhibition.

And besides it would do him good to get outside the atmosphere of politics and the society of job hunters, if only for a short period.

NATURE CANNOT DO IT.

"The game and game fish of the province each year bring into the province more money than is derived from the sale of the peach crop of the Niagara Peninsula. They bring into the province annually as much money as is derived from the sale of the wheat crop of the province. But because nature provides for game and our game fish, it seems to be assumed that nature will always do it no matter what man does. Anglers are moving north. There is need for restocking and conservation in the south."

So says the Toronto Star in a timely editorial, and The Examiner would respectfully call the attention of the Provincial Government to the emphasis placed in this article upon the contribution made to the wealth of the province by Ontario's game and game fish.

In addition to the large sums of money placed in circulation in this province by tourists who are attracted here mainly because of the prospect of successful fishing, it should not be forgotten that the Provincial Government itself derives a considerable amount of direct revenue from the sale of fishing and hunting licenses, etc.—in fact, the fish and game department has been consistently self-sustaining.

It is because of these facts and because we realize that to jeopardise our resources of fish and game is to do lasting damage to Ontario's reputation as a tourist centre that we protest most vigorously at the scrapping of the whole outside protective service of the fish and game department.

There are areas in the province where men well trained in fish and game matters are urgently required to provide protection; the provincial police can at best only make a gesture of law enforcement in such districts, and the work that has been done by such overseers as Fred. Marshall in our own district will be wasted if the policy announced the other day is persisted in.

Already the law-breaker who fishes or hunts or traps out of season is smacking his lips at the virtual withdrawal of law enforcement agencies from the fish and game districts; he is not worrying much about the provincial police, right feeling that a part-time protective service is no protection at all.

As the Star refers, nature can not always provide for game and for game fish, and if we adopt a retrograde policy in regard to conservation we are going to pay dearly for our mistake.

OUR DECLINING CHEESE TRADE.

According to returns made public by the New Zealand Dairy Board, that Dominion seems to be cutting more deeply than ever into the virtual monopoly that Canada once possessed in the British cheese market.

Notwithstanding what might be considered adverse marketing circumstances during the past year, New Zealand seems to have been shipping an increased amount of dairy produce to the United Kingdom, and the Dominion, as a matter of fact, made a record export of such commodities during 1933-34.

Not only did her exports of butter rise from 126,073 tons to 139,002 tons during the year, but her cheese exports, nearly all of them marketed in Great Britain, increased from 99,876 tons to 101,400 tons for the year ended on July 31. In the matter of volume of exports, the year seems to have been the best that the dairymen of New Zealand have ever experienced with increased quantities of both butter and cheese going forward for British consumption.

Canada's experience has scarcely followed a parallel course. In the years before the war, Canadian cheese dominated British market and its hold upon that area was considered to be so secure that nothing could break it. Then New Zealand began to enter the picture, partly, it must be confessed, as a result of the knowledge imparted to the dairymen of that Dominion by experts from Canada. Slowly but surely her cheese commanded a larger and larger sale in Great Britain, and as New Zealand exports rose so did Canadian exports decline. It was not so very many years before New Zealand overtook and passed Canada in the matter of supplying the British market with its cheese requirements, and the last few years have only added to the tragic position of Canadian cheese in the British Isles. We have lost our position of superiority, perhaps beyond recall, and our exports are still declining, while those of New Zealand continue to mount.

The tragedy of the situation lies in the fact that Britain is perhaps the only large market open to the reception of the cheese that continue to be manufactured in this country. If we cannot sell our cheese there we cannot sell it anywhere except within our own boundaries. A large and satisfactory market for Canadian cheese in the United Kingdom is essential if the industry is to be at all prosperous and if the remaining cheese factories in this Dominion are to remain in operation.

Who is to be blamed for what has happened to the position of Canadian cheese on the British market? Scarcely the departmental officials at Ottawa who have striven to the utmost to bring about improvement in quality and in packing and who have made notable strides in that direction. Scarcely the producers who have, at least during recent years, rallied to the support of their advisors at Ottawa and elsewhere in these respects and carried out many improvements which make for the marketing of a better article.

Half as much energy, however, devoted to retention of the British market by means of effective advertising and a more aggressive marketing policy might have helped to save the day for Canadian cheese. Moreover, a reorganization of the cheese-producing trade in this country through a merging of factories, coupled with a lessening of costs, might have proved distinctly beneficial. Such action has been repeatedly recommended by competent authorities, yet this advice has been almost invariably ignored. Canada still relies upon methods of production which sufficed at the time she remained in undisputed possession of the British market. It is all too apparent that to-day, in the face of competition from New Zealand which becomes more acute from year to year, they do not suffice.

If Canada does not wish to be completely crowded out of the only great market for her cheese that is in existence, something will have to be done, and very shortly, to reorganise the industry upon a basis more in keeping with the altered situation surrounding the export trade. And it is also essential that more aggressiveness mark the marketing policy for Canadian cheese that is being followed across the Atlantic.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. Hepburn says he is too busy to attend the Canadian National Exhibition. In other words, he's not going to authorize even a one-man exhibit there.

If the provincial police seriously attempt to enforce the game laws the spawning season ought to be the peak period of the year for bank robberies.

A lot of color comes back into politics with the selection of T. L. Church as Conservative candidate in the East Toronto by-election. Men of his independent spirit are needed in public life.

Those who want good weather in their summer holidays should insist that the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition be staged henceforth in September as formerly.

United States weather sharps are predicting an early and severe winter. However, it will have to be very early and decidedly severe if it expects to outdo the last one.

Publishers of "Anthony Adverse" appear to have overlooked something in not bringing out an edition with handles for the travel trade.—Detroit News.

Dear sir:

In the Thursday paper there was a write-up about the suspected murder case in Manvers. In that write-up the following statement was made: The sixth line of Manvers is inhabited mostly by foreign farmers, Mr. Fallis being the only Canadian-born farmer residing there. May I say that there are between forty and fifty men who own farms in the sixth concession of Manvers and only two or three of those are foreign farmers, the rest being Canadian-born, and that the sixth line is not a foreign settlement, as the reporter intimated.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

HARTLAND, NEW BRUNSWICK.

William Orser, a descendant of U.E. Loyalist stock, is credited with opening the settlement which eventually grew into the town of Hartland. Orser transported his family from St. John, 163 miles distant, in a canoe and took up a tract of land at the mouth of the Becaguimac river.

The first place was known as the "Mouth of Becaguimac", the translation of which is "river of salmon." Later it became known as "Mouth of the Guimic."

There are several versions of the origin of the word Hartland. Some claim it was named for Rev. Samuel Hartt, some say for James R. Hartley, while others declare the word had its natural origin in that the place is in the heart of the country.

ACHIEVEMENT

Achievement is the answer to accepting responsibility, duty. Why do some rise faster than others? Answer: They invite responsibility—they accept cheerfully and courageously agreeable and disagreeable duties, and they do them promptly, loyally.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

THE UNITED STATES—BUTTE, MONTANA.

GREED makes the possessor stone-hearted. Any evil of whatever kind has this unchanging effect. Look over the world in the light of this truth and you will find the stones, and the rocks and the boulders plentiful everywhere. It is not thus the human heart comes from the creator. Evil hath done this. And greed is a major evil. Industry is shot through with greed. Take the first opportunity to study the personality of some industrial manager. Then step inside the circle of a group of employers. Not all managers have hearts of stone. Nor do all employers. But industry, in the large, is in the hands of men who have become cold, and as hard as a stone, while in action.

Let me tell you where you can find rare material for the building of a modern novel. The characters and the setting are nearer to the heart of the age than are the characters and the setting of Ralph Connor's novels. If you wish to understand our day world, go where civilized folks suffer the most. True, every group-life setting holds a possible novel, or romance. By way of the novel, or the fable, or the parable, or the nursery-tale, folks are given eyes to see themselves and the opportunity to visit with themselves for a while.

Here is hoping that some one will arise in the Montana mountains to portray the greed and heartlessness of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company. The Shepherd of The Hills had an extensive reading. Both the author and the book have passed almost out of sight. That work of fiction does not smack of the conditions under which men and women live and work in our day. Find men and women who need finding the most. They are to be found, wherever industry is functioning, in the mountains as well as in the city.

In the industrial realm, life is found battling for an existence. In the Anaconda Copper Mining plants as these lines are being written, men are at work in temperatures of a hundred, and often more, degrees of heat. Go down, for once, into a deep mine. You will be choked by gas and dust. This condition is difficult to master. But human lives are more worth than big employer profits. How long will such conditions be permitted to continue? Just as long as the folks who do not toil in the mines permit. Those who do not are responsible for the well being of those who do. Aroused public sentiment is a mighty weapon. This is not a speak-out age. Even the church seems to have lost its voice. Fidelity to the decision to take God's part, which is every wronged man's part, is a summons to courageous action.

Take a Look at Workers

Their faces and hands and arms and necks are as black after an hour of work as if they were negroes. But they are not. They are white men. When they come up out of the mine and wash and clean away the deposit of dust and grime of the day's work, they are whiter than the men who live above the earth's surface. Do they work hard? They are driven as horses are driven. Two men in the intense heat and dust and gas must load thirty-five tons of ore per shift. In this mine they work half time. The month's pay is $50.00. Some folks get angry if done a wrong. There are those whose anger mounts when they see others wronged. Anger is as religious as patience. Indifference is given a place where wrath ought to reign. There is such a thing as constructive anger and controlled wrath. Men and women with convictions are not given to hesitation. What ought to be done to correct human wrongs they undertake to do. The conditions in the Anaconda Copper mine ought to stir the American churches into a storm of protest and legal action.

Fifty dollars a month did not retain fifty dollars. The N.R.A. Code cut the pitiable salary 15 per cent. The miners protested. General Johnson remained unmoved by their plea. What he decided must stand. The miners were angry. The mine owners made good profits. For the miners and their families the hour was heartbreaking. A unanimous decision was reached within a few days. To walk out meant suffering. It meant undernourishment. Rather than suffer their rights to be trampled on, wives and children encouraged the men to walk out. All affiliated craftsmen also walked out in sympathy. The mine had to close down all operations.

The Richest Hill on Earth.

Three months of shutdown have passed. This Copper Hill now bristles with rifles and machine guns. It looks more like a fortification than a mine. There are cupolas covered with thick steel sheating. Through gleam machine guns. Search-lights have been placed. Gallows frames have been built. They are flooded with light. Fingers of light point to them Gunmen, ex-sheriffs, ex-toughs guard the mine. On the streets within view of the mine walk the miners hurling imprecations. Take a squint at the buildings the miners call home. They are unpainted, water-leaking shacks. Do you imagine these children and mothers ever sing "Home, Sweet Home"? A vivid imagination which carries through life the picture of a shack home and the memories of a mother denying herself in ways that could not be hidden from the eyes of children will bring to the possessor many an hour rich with reminiscences. Rembrandt's painting, Mother, is, as he in after years saw her as she was.

Men in the Anaconda Mine are short-lived. Silicosis and overwork cut their years short. The Finn is one of the most rugged of men. His average life in the mine is seven years. The Swede lives ten. Neither family gets any insurance benefit. Nor does the family of any other nationality.

15-Mile Marathon Held on Wednesday

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—The first 59 entrants in the Canadian National Exhibition 15-mile swim for men passed their medical examinations yesterday. The event will be held tomorrow.

George Young, once known as the Catelina kid for his victory in the famous Californian grind, revealed he had changed his address. He used to live in Toronto. Now he lives in Philadelphia, home town of Margaret Ravior, his wife and former winner of the women's swim.

Young looked well and considerably lighter than last year when he swam well but struck a buoy en route to the finish line and knocked himself out.

Marvin Nelson, Fort Dodge, Ia., last year's winner; and George Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., another former winner, did not line up before the doctors to-day.

Heaviest swimmer to pass the test was Thomas Nisky, veteran Toronto merman, who tipped the scales at 245 pounds. The lightest was Thomas Fedder of Belleville, weighing 126. The only one-legged man admitted was Tony Sarvajol, El Paso, Tex., lifeguard.

4,120,000 MORE WORKING SINCE ROOSEVELT ELECTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28—(AP)—President Roosevelt has received a report saying employment in United States has increased 4,120,000 since he took office.

The document, submitted by Donald R. Richberg as head of the executive council, also cities figures to show a substantial business advance and declares today in this improvement NRA was a "dominant influence."

"Reliable figures," said the report made public last night, "indicate that 40,180,000 persons were employed in the United States in June, 1934, an increase of 4,120,000 over the low figures of March, 1933, and an increase of 2,320,000 over June, 1933. The latter increase is due mainly to shortening of hours under NRA codes."

PICK POCKET JAILED

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

G. E. CARTIER'S ONLY DEFEAT

On this date, in 1872, the electors of Montreal East surprised the public by electing to the House of Commons an unknown young lawyer, Louis J. Jette, and defeating by a 1,259 majority, Sir George Etienne Cartier, the Minister of Militia and chief lieutenant of Sir John A. Macdonald, up to that time regarded as unconquerable. In 1867 Mr. Cartier was elected by 346 majority.

The Rouges were greatly delighted at their victory, but it was not so much a political triumph as a personal rebuke to Cartier. This is made clear by Sir John Macdonald, to whom the defeat was not a surprise, and who wrote to Lord Lisgar, a former governor general:

"Cartier was defeated in East Montreal by an overwhelming majority. This was anticipated by us all. We knew that he had lost his hold there, but he would listen to no advice. He had everything against him. The Catholic Bishop of Montreal and Cartier had a personal quarrel and all the power of the former was exercised against him. From Cartier's professional connection with the Grand Trunk railway he was supposed to be adverse to the rival railway running on the north bank of the St. Lawrence from Montreal to Quebec; and as this railway will have its terminus in East Montreal you may fancy the feeling that was roused against him. The British element, which in former years went as one man for him, was dissatisfied and the volunteers were against him for some cause or another. In fact he had no chance. The constituency is not Rouge and any good man of Cartier's own party would have carried it but he himself was doomed. I would not regret his defeat at all, as he brought it on himself by sheer obstinacy, were it not that I greatly fear it will affect his health".

Cartier was then suffering from the disease which carried him off in 1873 while on a militia mission to England. He was given an election by acclamation in Provencher, Man., largely through the influence of Archbishop Tache with whom he had tried to avert the Red River rebellion in 1869 and to later plead for clemency for Riel. Cartier never forgave Montreal for his defeat, and showed his resentment more than once during the last year of his life.

DAY DREAM.

I wish I could play the violin.

Not just in an amateurish way. Not even professionally, either. I wish I could play it better than Kreisler, Heifetz or Menuhin. (As long as a fellow is day-dreaming something he'd like to have or be, he might as well wish for everything.)

I wish I could play it naturally, simply, as any bird sings, as convincingly as any meadowlark on a fence-post, like an angel out of heaven, like a devil out of hell, like a demi-god from some other world.

I wish I could play it right now. Wish I could pick up a Stradivarius and with "majestic instancy" place it beneath my chin and my fingers upon its throat and make grand music that would bring tears to the soul and merry laughter to the human heart. . . . Never mind the interminable practicing. The long hours of fingering and faltering, melancholy disharmonies, the struggling and failing, the agonies and ecstasies and despairs. . . . No, I want to know how to play the violin right now.

How grand it would be. . . . People would ring up and invite me to the party and beg me to bring my fiddle. And they'd tell other people to be sure to come because I was going to play. . . . And when I got there they'd say: "Did you bring your fiddle?" And I'd say yes, I did, but I forgot my music and they'd say it didn't matter, to play anything. . . . So I'd play anything. And people would be quiet and thoughtful and the cats outside in the moonlight would quit fighting and the moon itself would stand still and the children upstairs in their small beds would have delightful dreams and the clock would silence its ticking most respectfully and great crowds would collect in the street and the theaters would be deserted and all traffic would stop and all the taxis would collect and burglars would cease from burgling and the wind would die down and wars would no longer threaten and the nightbirds would die of envy and the engineer would be ashamed to blow his distant whistle and the government would give me a medal and when I had finished my amazing harmonies—hours after I'd begun to play—even the policemen would give a hearty cheer and put their arms around the strikers' shoulders and dance for joy and gratitude.

If only I could play the violin!

JOHNSON QUIT, CHANGED MIND

N.R.A. Chief Reconsidered Resignation Only on Roosevelt's Firm Insistence.

SUGGESTS REST.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press).

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The deep-seated character of N.R.A.'s latest troubles became apparent today when it was learned that General Hugh S. Johnson angrily walked out on last Monday's White House conference, resigned in writing, and reconsidered only on the firm insistence of President Roosevelt.

The dispute arose over an N.R.A. reorganization plan submitted to the President by Donald Richberg, the N.R.A. counsel, and Francis Perkins, the United States Secretary of Labor. Among other things, the plan was interpreted by Johnson as contemplating his own retirement to private life.

The General walked out when Mr. Roosevelt, seeking to sooth the ruffled spirits of his conferees, suggested that a decision be postponed while Johnson took a rest and a trip to Europe.

The reconciliation, so far as Johnson is concerned, was consummated just before Mr. Roosevelt's departure Saturday for Hyde Park. Under its terms Johnson stays on as administrator, and probably will become, later on, chairman of a board controlling N.R.A.

The implications respecting Mr. Richberk and Miss Perkins are less clear. Richberg's friends say he will remain the N.R.A. counsel, although there will be no further doubt that Johnson is boss. Miss Perkins is expected to confine her activities more closely to the Labor Department.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 89c to 90c; oats 35c to 36c; barley, 58c to 60c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 55c to 57c; buckwheat, 55c to 58c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Buying support in grains evaporated yesterday under the weight of liquidation pressure and prices sagged, wheat and corn losing around 2c a bushel.

Easiness at Winnipeg, where hedging pressure forced prices down more than a cent and warmer weather in many parts of the grain belt giving favorable conditions for harvesting, were bearish factors.

Failure of the forecasted frost to develop in Iowa led to scattered selling n the corn pit and that grain abandoned its role as market leader, this in itself being a discouragement to bulls.

Wheat tumbled 1¼c to 2¼c below Saturday's finish. At the close December new deliveries were near the day's bottom figures at $1.03 to $1.03⅛. September new sold at $1.02¼ to $1.02⅝ and May at $1.05 to $1.05⅛.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Cheese advanced in price and butter declined on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday.

Ontario colored cheese was quoted at 16⅝ cents a pound and Quebec cheese brought 9⅛ cents a pound, each price being ⅛ cent above last week's closing levels. Arrivals totalled 440 boxes.

On the butter market, fresh No. 1 in carlots or less was off ¼ cent, yesterday's price being 19¼ cents a pound. Small lots to retailers were priced at 20½c to 21c a pound for solids and 21½c to 22c a pound for prints. Receipts totalled 1,005 boxes.

Egg prices were unchanged, graded shipments in carlots or less being 23c to 23c a dozen for A-large, 20c to 21c for A-medium, 18½c-19c for and 17½c to 18c for C. Receipts were 353 cases.

Potato prices were steady, New Quebecs No. 1 brought 45 to 50 cents per 80-pound bag, while No. 2 were quoted at 35 to 40 cents per 80-pound bag and old N.B. Mountains were 20 to 25 cents per 80-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Pressure of Western Canada's new crop continues to weigh heavily upon the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Wheat futures prices yesterday swept by continuous hedging sales as elevators "insured" their country purchases were weak throughout the session, closing with net losses of 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents.

Even the presence of substantial buying that included 600,000 bushels for export failed to make any impression against the impouring offerings. The close was at the day's lows: Oct. future at 82¾c, Dec. 83¾c and May 87½c to 87⅝c.

Weakness at Chicago also was a factor in the decline. Prices also were lower at Liverpool and early gains at Buenos Aires were replaced later by losses. Unfavorable weather reports from Australia had sent Liverpool values higher, but that market later developed weakness in sympathy with North America.

Cash grains trading was slow, featured only by some demand for top grades of wheat. Spreads in lower-grade varieties closed generally unchanged. Deliveries to elevators Saturday totalled 2,174,000 bushels—the first time deliveries have passed the 2,000,000-bushel mark this season. Coarse grains futures all were lower with wheat.

MAJOR-GENERAL BRAY DIES

LONDON, Aug. 28 (CPTHavas)—Major General Sir Claude Arthur Bray, Quartermaster-in-Chief of the British Army during the war, died to-day at his home at Dewlish, Devonshire in his 76th year.

PLANES NEEDED FOR PROTECTION OF TIMBER AREA

Hon. William Finlayson, Former Minister, Before Airway's Enquiry.

RECALLS PLANS.

Co-ordination of Ground and Air Services Was Department's System.

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (C.P.)—Hon. William Finlayson, former Minister of Land and Forests in Ontario, was present when this afternoon's session of the inquiry into the Ontario air service started.

The former minister was called by D. J. Coffey, commission counsel, to clear up some points that had arisen in the inquiry.

"I think it is no exaggeration to say that our fire prevention service in the north is the most technical in the world," he said.

He declared the Crown's interest in standing timber in northern Ontario is about $6,000 000. "There are tremendous assets that are exposed to fire, besides timber there are paper plants and mines."

"The result of my eight years in the department," he continued, "convinced me that the air service alone cannot handle the fire situation. Ground service must be co-ordinated with air service.

"We tried to build up a northern service of northern men. There is no longer an opening for students to spend their summers there. They were not suitable.

"The air service is not the solution to the problem, but the air service is absolutely indispensable," said Mr. Finlayson.

Department's Boat

Temagami has one of the world's largest stands of timber, said the ex-minister. A boat was equipped for Lake Temakami which cost around $4 000, ncluding labor. T was in it about twice," he added.

"The forest service cannot be neglected," emphasized Mr. Finlayson. "The settler is the most valuable asset we have and I think he's entitled to protection." He said it "would be a terrible calamity" if the fire service was withdrawn"

The minister has to take the responsibility for meeting emergency fire situations, said Mr. Finlayson.

Mr. Finlayson said a set of fire irons had been sent down to him from sault ste. marie. A room of his was redisigned and finished in white pine by the Air Service he told the commission, and a fire screen was sent down for the fireplace in the room.

Held No Stocks

"I have never had at any time any lumber stock, lumber securities, paper stock, paper securities, power stock, power securities, air stock or air securities" Mr. Finlayson emphatically declared.

Theoretically, said the former minister, the Air Service and the Forestry Service were conducted jointly. Men who had been war pilots, he said, resented taking orders from forestry men and the director of the Air Service put through his requisition with the Forestry Department.

Leave of absence granted to Captain Roy Maxwell, director of the Air Servce, was explained to Commission Counsel Coffey by Mr. Finlayson.

Professional Work For Married Women

EDMONTON, Aug. 28 (C.P.).—Professional women must have the privilege of continuing their profession after marriage, Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, said here to-day in an address to the Canadian Federation of University Women which is in session here.

He added that he would like to see professional women carry on their professions and "have reasonably large families."

Dr. Wallace said he believed in what the "nurture of education" can give children, but he would be blind as an educationist if he did not recognize the importance of the fact that super-intelligent people come from the highest types of families where there is natural mental ability, which is something to be protected as well as nurtured.

The winner of the Marshall Mattress contest conducted by the Canadian Department Stores, was decided to-day at three o'clock when R. M. Glover of The Examiner drew the name of Mrs. S. Henwood, 183 Lock street, from the large number of entries that had been made. The mattress is on exhibit in the C.D.S. display window.

MONTREAL—One man, a striker, was injured as police broke up an attempt of striking women's garment trade pickets to prevent non-strikers from going to work in a loft building here to-day. B. Malmade, member of the Industrial Needleworkers' Union, received head injuries from police clubs, and was placed under arrest after receiving medical treatment.

CHATHAM—Cash totalling thirty-five dollars, a revolver, supplies of cigarettes and motor oil represented the loot of thieves who, in the early hours of the morning, broke into and robbed five gasoline service stations. At each place the thieves forced windows to gain entrance. Early yesterday, gas stations were robbed at Thamesville, Kentbridge and Kent Centre.

Continues to open high grade ore sections at its property in the Rouyn section. The north cross cut on the 125-foot level intersected a 12-inch vein from which assays of 1.6 ounces a ton were obtained. North of this the H vein has been picked up showing a width of 12 inches. On the 250-foot level work will be started immediately to pick up the downward continuation of the new high-grade finds.

Sakoose.

A contract has been awarded for 2,000 feet of diamond drilling to be carried out. This will be started immediately. Additional mining plant also will be installed to facilitate mining operations on a large scale. Underground workings have been partially dewatered and as soon as this work is finished a mining engineer will make an examination at depth. On the first level the SW face of the stope shows high-grade ore with a generous distribution of free gold.

Wingold

Wingold Mines.—Good results from development work at the property is reported. Latest word from the property is to the effect that the cross cut in 1,500-foot level intersected a second well-mineralized vein carrying visible gold. The new vein is 6.5 feet in width and was encountered 22 feet north of the No. 1 vein which was picked up a couple of weeks ago.

McMillan

New 125-ton mill is now operating on pay ore according to official advice. It is the first producing mining in the West River gold area.

Gunnar Gold.

In the Central Manitoba Gold area, has completed 387 feet of drifting in continuous ore on the 1st three levels. Drift faces still are in ore.

Robb Montbray.

Recently resumed development work. Is said to be arranging to ship ore to the Noranda smelter for treatment.

Teck Hughes.

Mutchs' Mining Service states there is absolutely no unfavorable developments underground to warrant present rumors. The company, owing to high taxation and costs of mining low grade ore, have decided to discontinue this policy and concentrate on higher grade. Costs will be lowered with little, if any, reduction in production. This means profits for dividends will remain as in the past. No cut mill tonnage, as low grade 300-ton daily mill will be used to retreat tailings. All rumors based simply on the changed policy which entails laying off one shift underground with no loss in productions.

NICKEL LEADS SLOW MARKET

Fractional Declines in Toronto Industrials—Walkers Unchanged.

WESTONS MOVES UP.

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (C.P.)—Without recovering from the dullness of the previous session the industrial section of the Toronto exchange witnessed another drab trading period to-day and volume of sales hardly exceeded that of Monday. Prices were generally lower and the few increases were only fractional. International Nickel, although lower in price, was a leading trader. Weston's also showed considerable activity, finishing higher.

Fractional decreases characterized the interlisteds. Brasilian and C.P.R. suffered ¼ point losses. Smelters lost 1½ points to 139½ and Ford A dropped the minimum fraction.

Brewery and distillery issues failed to respond to the slight distillery boom in New York. Favorable reports from the Peoria plant produced only slight trading in Walkers. The preferred stock remained at 15 and the common held steady at 27.

Trench War Obsolete Say Italian Experts

ROME, Aug. 28 (A.P.).—Italian military authorities, calculating the results of the recent army manoeuvres, declared to-day that trench warfare was obsolete.

This conclusion, they said, results from their observations of the new rapidity in troop movements due partly to the greatly increased use of tanks.

They declared the first onslaught of tanks and fast moving troops would break through a line of trenches and force fighting out into the open. The movement would then become so rapid that there would be no opportunity to dig trenches nor would there be anything gained by digging them.

A Gold Prospect rapidly assuming an outstanding position in the Noranda District of the Quebec Field.

PROPERTY
The property of the company consists of 12 mining claims, approximately 480 acres, located in Dupuy Township, Quebec, 7½ miles west of the Noranda Mine, and is the staking of George Birrell to protect his own gold discovery.

DEVELOPMENT
The initial discovery consisted of the finding of free gold in heavily mineralized rhyolite which, on being shot into, was shown to be lying on the north side of a clayey gouge, or mud seam. This material was pitted to a depth of 12 feet and free or visible gold was in evidence in the broken material taken from each separate blasting.
Since January of this year, a crew of eight men have been continuously employed in further opening up this original showing by means of deep cross trenches and pits, and later by deep trenching into the vein over a full length of 400 feet, at which extreme points, both east and west, heavy overburden made a continuance impracticable. Other pitting done on out-croppings at 600 feet to the further west and the same distance from the easterly end gives evidence of the continuance of the shear zone at least to include those distances also. It may therefore be said that the mineralized zone is proven for a length of 1,000 feet.
The work done shows the clayey gouge or mud seam to be in continuous evidence throughout the full length of 400 feet. It is formed to divide two classes of vein material—the heavy mineralised rhyolite, which lies on its north side and which has a width from 15 to 25 feet, and a whitish quartz vein which lies on the south side of the mud seam. The gold values are higher in the quartz than the rhyolite and all quartz recheck assays run have been consistently near the original result, while it is found that the rhyolite is erratic in results secured from channel sampling indicating the gold to be more in a free state therein than is the case with the quartz. It is, however, important to note that free gold has been found in the rhyolite vein in six out of eight trenches, indicating its dissemination to be general over the full extent of the vein material.

SAMPLING RESULTS
A bulk sample of 2,400 lbs. of white quartz was forwarded to the Department of Mines, Ottawa, for mill test purposes and advice has been received from the Department that the gold content averages .74 oz. per ton, representing a value of $25.90 per ton gold at the present price. Heavy channel samples taken along 124 feet of its length between Nos. 1 and 4 trenches and across an average width of two feet gave .41 oz. gold or $14.35 per ton at $35.00 gold issue. Channel samples taken in the rhyolite on the north side of the seam have given gold values of from $9.50 to $11.40 per ton over five-foot widths, after removing therefrom all pieces showing gold.
The development work has followed the lines recommended by J. W. Morrison, B.Sc., Mining Engineer, who acted as consultant to the Company.

FUTURE DEVELOPMENT
Work has now begun on cutting of road to main highway, 6 miles distant. On completion, a complete mining plant capable of carrying depth development to 500 feet is being installed. Immediate shaft objective is 250 feet and drifting will be done on 125 and 250 foot horizons.

SAYS JAPAN DESIRES PEACE TO ALL FUTURE PROSPERITY

Prominent Politician is Attending International Conference at Belgrade.

PLENTY IN MANCHURIA

By PERCY C. RICHARDS.
Central Press Canadian Correspondent.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 23—Friendship of the world, not more territory, is Japan's national ambition, according to K. Inabata, member of the House of Peers and Japanese industrialist, who passed through Canada en route to Belgrade to attend the inter-parliamentary conference there. He arrived in Canada aboard the Empress of Japan with his grand-daughter, Miss S. Matsumoto.

Mr. Inabata can see no good in war talk, and believes international differences can be adjusted in more peaceful ways.

"Those of our people who talk of war with Russia constitute a very small minority. We have all we can do in Manchuria for some time, and as for trouble with the United States, such a thing is unthinkable and impossible. Interdependent as we are, we need each other's goodwill for our mutual advantage. Our greatest desire, to the exclusion of everything else, is peace and friendship with America."

Economic conditions controlled the political situation in Japan as was the case in most countries, the emissary stated. With regard to Japan's relations with China, Mr. Inabata said, "the Japanese government is prepared to make any reasonable concessions to bring about and maintain friendly intercourse between the two countries."

"Many people do not understand our position. Japan is a small country with a large population, which is continually increasing. We must find employment for them, and to do this we must manufacture and sell goods. This is very essential to our existence. Before the depression, Great Britain, the United States and Germany were under-selling other nations, and practically controlled all markets. Nothing was said about the competition.

"Because we were in an advantageous position to go after business with the yen away down, it was comparatively easy to under-sell other countries, which we were compelled to do when we lost the China market, largely through the action of the League of Nations in encouraging the boycott of all Japanese-made goods by the Chinese."

Mr. Inabata also contended that the western world had a wrong conception of working conditions in Japan, as well as the standard of living. "Our prices are cheaper, it is true, but if the working man can purchase all his requirements out of his wages shouldn't that standard be sufficient if he is satisfied?" the emissary stated, answering a question with a question.

Japan, he stated, was facing a serious agricultural problem. Land had been cultivated for centuries, and fertilizer was expensive, so that productivity of the soil was practically unprofitable compared with more fruitful soils of other countries.

Blue Shirts Banned In Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Aug. 28.—(CP-Havas)—The government of Northern Ireland today officially banned blue shirt movement headed in the Irish Free State by General Eoin O'Duffy. The announcement was made by the Minister of the Interior.

General O'Duffy's declaration that he would appoint a party high commissioner for Ulster and organize a section of the party in the northern counties spurred the Northern Ireland Government into action.

On Saturday Sir Dawson Bates, Minister of the Interior, declared at Ballymoney: "Any attempt to carry out this project will be repressed."

Murder Trial Ticket Sale To Be Halted

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Sheriff George H. Mitchell today warned that sale of tickets issued for seats at the murder trial of Mrs. Eva Coo would not be countenanced.

Because hundreds of persons have been turned away from the courthouse doors, unable to find seats in the courtroom, the sheriff had hit on the plan of giving tickets of admission to later sessions to all those who could not get in. Word had reached him that there "exists a regular market for the sale of the tickets."

"We won't let them get away with that if we can stop it," he said.

The sheriff also reported that many persons calling at the door have offered good money, thinking they could buy tickets, as at a moving picture show.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN HEAR REPORTS BY LOCAL CLUBS

EDMONTON, Aug. 28 (CP)—Submission of reports by representatives of 32 local clubs occupied attention of delegates to-day at the sixth triennial conference of the Canadian Federation of University women here. The conference ends Wednesday.

Increased circulation of The Chronicle, official Federation organ, was advocated by Miss Vera Leech, convenor on publications, as a means of increasing interest of members. Miss Leech reported that for the past three years The Chronicle had been published annually, instead of triennially as in former years. The organ has been distributed free of charge to members of the organization.

Fifteen applications were received for the 1934 Federation Scholarship, enabling the holder to spend one year on the Continent engaged in study, the report of the Scholarship Committee revealed.

HEPBURN SAYS MUNICIPALITIES ALONE DECIDE

Takes 2 and 3—Hepburn ... ... ernment, he added, had the effect of making Ontario a more favorable place for loans by Montreal and Toronto financial interests and were a definite factor in establishing the record low interest rate. What was to be done with the $10,000,000 of the loan which has been reserved would not be revealed by the Premier.

"The $10,000,000 deal was consummated before the other," he said. "It was the means of getting the low rate. It won't be offered to the public." Later a statement will be made on the matter, and he refused to even comment on whether the $10,000,000 was for the Hydro Commission.

Speaks Plainly

Emphatic terms were used by Mr. Hepburn in his beer and wine statement. He referred to criticism of the beverage sale system from Dr. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, who said he would stump the province in opposition to beer and wine.

"I don't care what he does," the Premier declared. "We are not going to be stampeded by a few offensive temperance cranks. We are going to give this law a good chance—the best we can.

"They can raise all the ballyhoo they want, but it is not going to budge us one iota. Let him tour the province."

The government head added: "I can tell you this much: There will be no provincial referendum. Every municipality will have the right to vote itself wet or dry. We might as well take the municipalities as entities to deal with this question."

Abuses To Go

At present the new system of sale of beer and wine was a novelty. This would disappear and with appointment of the Government's hotel inspection staff abuses would be eliminated. In reply to criticism of the granting of licenses in Goderich, he declared law officers of the department found there was no legal reason why licenses should not be granted. City Council had approved it and a delegation headed by the district's Legislature member had asked for the right to sell beer and wine.

"The offensive prohibitionist makes a lot of noise but the test will come when the municipalities decide," Premier Hepburn concluded.

NORTH SMITH.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Blewett, of the West, are visiting friends and neighbors on the 16th.

Rev. Mr. Claire, of Brecken, was renewing old acquaintances in the neighborhood.

A. of Wesley Church and Lakehurst young people joined together to play a game of volley ball and then proceed to the lakeshore for a camp-fire service and weiner roast, which was enjoyed by all, conducted by E. M. Joblin, and Mr. Cook as guest speaker, about 100 being present.

Mrs. George Sutton and family, of Guelph, are visiting at the home of J. W. Blewett.

Miss Viva Harris is visiting friends in Peterborough and Emily.

MORE RECOMMENDATIONS.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Extension of the recommendation system to supplant examinations in the school was urged by Duncan McArthur, Deputy Minister of Education, in speaking before the C.N.E. directors' luncheon on "Children's Day" to-day.

"Responsibility for determining standing should be placed on those most intimate with the work of the students," he declared.

Old Sol Started $2,500,000 Fire

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 28 (C.P.)—One of the biggest fires in Portsmouth in 20 years is supposed to have been started by the sun, the damage being estimated at about $2,500,000. The fire was at the stores of a mutual co-operative society and it broke out under the roof in the centre of the block of buildings. It is believed that the sun, shining strongly through the glass windows of the skylight, set papers alight.

It took the Portsmouth Fire Brigade and the Dockyard Fire Brigade four hours to get the flames under control while a patrol from the Royal Naval Barracks helped to keep the crowd clear. Six departments of the plant were destroyed, only a skeleton of brickwork and masonry being left.

EXAMS TO STAY FOR STANDARD

Tribute to C.N.E.

The Exhibition was complimented by Dr. McArthur for its results in teaching young Canadians about their own country. Much criticism was heard, he said, of present education methods, but it was not realized fully, he said, that the system of education was no stronger than those men and women who engaged in teaching children. It was of prime importance to make teaching a profession of high standards and ethics. Similarly, he said, in days when complaint was voiced that rural youth drifted to the cities, it was essential that teachers should play the most important part in teaching the importance of rural life.

"I have no doubt that my friend, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, will co-operate in the work of arranging a system which will embrace the best of academic and agricultural teaching," said Dr. McArthur. "The problem of the rural teacher is one of the most important issues facing us to-day and is one which must be solved, giving the teacher in rural schools a position of knowledge of rural life and an ability to teach the importance and advantage of rural life."

Blame Quebec Driver For Killing Farmer

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 28. — (C.P.).—A coroner's jury last night brought in a verdict that Wilfred De La Ronde of Aylmer, Que., was the driver of a motor car which injured James Jenkinson, Sherwood Springs farm laborer, with the result that he died last Saturday night. The accident took place on the King's highway three miles west of Brockville.

The jury also recommended that some measure of protection for pedestrians on the highway be devised in order that accidents of this nature be avoided. It commended Motorcycle Patrol Constable A. J. Ferguson for his evidence and for his prompt action in apprehending De La Ronde at Prescott about an hour after the accident occurred.

Provincial Officer For Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — After months of agitation on the part of the Campbellford Council, and after much pressure had been brought to bear on the Provincial Government by the local member, Mayor H. N. Carr, M.L.A., it is understood that a Provincial Police officer will be stationed in the town and cover the northern portion of Northumberland County. It is understood that Constable Gordon Campbell will receive this position, and will move his place of residence from Brighton, where he is now stationed, to Campbellford.

Is Likely To Retire

Reports from Ottawa state that Hon. Phillipe Roy, Canadian minister to France since 1911, will soon return to the Dominion. At left above, Mr. Roy is shown as he arrived on a visit to Canada during his long years of service in the French capital. Top right is a recent study of the dapper little minister, and below a picture of Mr. Roy as he appeared at the time of his appointment 23 years ago.

SPLENDID SERVICE AT END AS PHILIPPE ROY RETIRES

For Twenty-Three Years Served Canada as Minister to France.

APPOINTED IN 1911

(By Central Press Canadian.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—One of Canada's most famous and most highly honored diplomats is, according to reports, about to retire after one of the longest periods of service to his country that any Canadian diplomat has ever served.

The Hon. Phillippe Roy is on his way to Canada from France and it is stated that he is about to resign his post of "envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary for his majesty's Dominion of Canada to the Republic of France."

It was back in 1911 that Hon. Philippe Roy was appointed by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier as commissioner-general to France. Seventeen years later he had graduated to the post of minister plenipotentiary.

Born in Quebec on Feb. 13, 1868, Philippe Roy studied to become a medical doctor. Not content with settling down to practice in his native province, he heeded the call of the west and adventured to Edmonton where he soon became interested in public affairs as well as medicine. He worked with considerable success in finance and journalism and in 1906 was called to Ottawa by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to take a seat in the Canadian Senate.

Because he made frequent journeys to France in connection with his finance company and his medical profession, he was appointed commissioner.

Philippe Roy could scarcely be called a politician. He has defended and built up for Canada a fine reputation in the French republic; it can truly be said of him that during his 23 years in the service of his country he has never once failed his duty. Through his charming personality and kind hospitality he has made the "Canadian house" of Paris one of the most popular diplomatic residences in France.

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 28 (AP)—An official report to-day said floods resulting from an overflow of the Ganges and tributary rivers had caused extensive property damage and rendered several thousand persons homeless in the Bihar district without, however, causing a loss of life.

Textile Walkout Plans Go Unchecked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (CP)—An 11th hour call for a peace conference failed to put the brakes today on a drive for a United States-wide textile tieup starting next Monday. Warnings of bloodshed were heard.

The national strike committee of the United Textile Workers was expected to heed the plea of Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, for a round-table conference to-morrow of Thursday.

But the workers insisted that conferences are not enough and unless definite concessions satisfactory to them are made by employers, the national strike will cripple the industry Monday. In addition to summoning 400,000 cotton mill workers from their machines, they worked on plans to extend the walkout to 300,000 silk, rayon and woollen workers.

CHILD WORK TO BE OUTLINED

Dr. H. B. Longmore Will Submit Report to Public of Work to be Undertaken.

BY ROTARY CLUB.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28. — A discussion on child patients who have come to the notice of the Campbellford Rotary Club, featured the regular club luncheon held yesterday in the St. Lawrence Hotel, and presided over by Vice President Clarence Williams.

Opening the discussion on the work that the club intends to do in connection with the program to hold a clinic in Campbellford in the near future, Dr. H. B. Longmore outlined each of the thirty odd cases which the club members have had under observation, pointing out that many of these cases could not be dealt with, but that a system of elimination would have to be undertaken. This will be dealt with in full by him and a report on situation submitted to the public. It was felt however that no definite action should be taken until President Stanley Neale returns to take over the leadership of the club.

A report in detail of the street fair was given by Rotarian Edge Dolman, secretary-treasurer of the club, which showed the gross receipts at $530.11, with a net profit to the club of $360.46.

The tag day held by the club netted $19.20 while the three booths run at the swim took in a total of $15.03. The night of the street fair booths consisting of wheels, bingo, the duck and money games, the fish pond and two refreshment stands, in all totaled $188.83, while the street dance had a gate receipts of $81.23.

80 MILE GALE RAKES FREEPORT ON TEXAS COAST

3,500 Citizens Warned Beforehand Flee Inland to Higher Ground.

COASTGUARDS STAY.

FREEPORT, Tex., Aug. 28 (AP)—A driving gale, estimated by Coastguardsmen at 80 miles an hour knifed through this town early today as the centre of the Texas coastal storm apparently headed inland. Guardsmen reported a noticeable rise in the tide.

Warned beforehand by government bulletins, nearly all of the town's 3,500 citizens had fled inland to higher ground. Only a few coastguardsmen, a telephone operator and her family and several men in a fish house remained here.

More indications that the wind was shifting inland was seen in a report from San Luis Pass, 30 miles east of here that the wind had shifted to the east and lashing winds had diminished to a velocity of about 45 miles an hour. Galveston residents, protected by a high sea wall, were not apprehensive.

Sheets of rain poured down in this vicinity as the wind roared. However, no loss of lives or serious property damage had been reported.

Hastings Tanners Take 15-2 Victory

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Aug. 25.—The Tanners handed Doc Hay's Clerks a real drubbing in their first game of the playdowns in the local softball league on Monday night before a big crowd of noisy fans, the final score reading 15 to 2. Those two teams meet again Friday night in the best two out of three series, the winners meeting the winner of the Elgin-Outlaw series for the Uncle David Cup.

Earl Hahn on the mound for the Tanners was much too good for the counter hoppers. He only issued one walk, struck out nine and allowed but five hits. The first innings saw the Clerks make their best bid for runs when they bunched two hits for one run; from then on Hahn had them eating out of his hand, retiring the side with three strike-outs in the fifth. Whitred went the route for the Clerks and was touched for fourteen safeties, including two homes, by L. Scriver and N. Scriver. His support was weak.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—(C.P.)—When a burglar opened the Signal Oil Company safe last night and found $1,500, he was so pleased with himself he sat right down and wrote a note to the owner.

"Your safe is as easy to open as a can with a can opener."

Then he was so pleased with the note he didn't look further in the safe to find the other $1,500 that was there. The oil company is getting all the satisfaction it can out of that.

FEARS MEN FALL TOWARDS NUDISM

Visitor to Toronto Queried Fair Sex Regarding Garterless Males.

TORONTO, Aug. 28. (C.P.) — Garterless males came in for a slashing attack by a manufacturer of these articles speaking to clothing merchants of this city.

"For every nudist there are hundreds of semi-nudists," claimed the speaker. "There are men who have eliminated underwear, who go without hats, and who are discarding neckwear, socks and garters, as a direct outgrowth of the nudist movement." Speaking of garterless males, he hinted that considerable money had been spent in a nation-wide search in the United States to determine the opinion of women with regard to male hosiery that drops unsupported. "The results will surprise you," he added.

In the growing tendency toward nudism there was contained a direct and ringing challenge to the clothing dealers. "By supporting this movement by going without hats and underwear, we are digging our own graves," he declared.

FEELING TRIBUTE TO JEAN BLEWETT

Fellow Writer Tells of Her Sunny Outlook and Tender Personality.

TORONTO, Aug. 28. — (C.P.)—"Bride Broder" in the Mail and Empire pays this tribute to a fellow newspaperwoman:

"After a long struggle with illnesses brought on some years ago by overwork and worry, Jean Blewett, who always won the hearts of her readers, died just recently. Mrs. Blewett had a lovely personality, a sunny outlook on life and a chuckle that never failed to gain friendship.

"Born in Scotia, near Lake Erie, in 1862, of Scottish stock, her maiden name was Jane McKishnie, Mrs. Blewett began writing when quite young. As long ago as 1897 she published a book of poems—Songs of the Heart—and did a great deal of prose work, including articles for magazines, as well as contributing short stories to the daily press, and, for a time, editing the Homemaker's page on the Globe.

"There is a simplicity about Mrs. Blewett's prose and verse that has made a wide appeal, and her gay-hearted attitude to life, the humorous twist she gave to little things, made her very welcome as a speaker at women's gatherings. In all her writings she touched on the things that appeal to women everywhere and, in doing so, won the admiration of men readers also. She never attempted flights into unknown territory, but contented herself with touching tenderly and understandingly the life about her and found it very full of color and romance."

Drought in Germany has stopped shipping in the upper Elbe River and tributaries and made it necessary to unload 400 barges in the Oder above Breslau.

DEAL UNFOLDED BY McCAUGHRIN

Orillia Magistrate Relates Story Leading Up to Proposal to Retire.

AT ROYAL PROBE.

TORONTO, Aug. 28. (CP). — Daniel McCaughrin, former Orillia magistrate, to-day gave Mr Justice R. G. Fisher, sitting as a Royal Commissioner, his account of negotiations leading up to a proposal that he retire and receive $2,000 as a retiring allowance from his successor, Magistrate Howard Gover of Coldwater.

Mr. McCaughrin told of a meeting with Angus Carss, Orillia Conservative party executive, at which Carss suggested he resign from the bench. On August 11, 1933, he said, Hon. William Finlayson, then Minister of Lands and forests told him that if he retired he thought "I can get you $3,000.."

A fortnight thereafter, he continued, he met Magistrate Gover and Mr. Finlayson in the minister's office in the legislative buildings and that the magistrate offered to pay him a retiring allowance of $1,500. He declared he rejected this proposal.

Magistrate Gover, the former magistrate said, had raised his offer to $2,000 and Mr. Finlayson had dictated an agreement covering his retirement and receipt of the money.

Had Faith in Price

However, Mr. McCaughrin said, he declined to sign the document until he had shown it to Hon. William H. Price, then Attorney General of the Province because he had some faith in Mr. Price" and thought he should not commit himself to any agreement of that nature.

He said he had signed his resignation.

He added he had consulted his solicitor in Orillia and had received the advice the proposition "didn't look good." Therefore, on Dec. 2, he wrote Mr. Finlayson that he could not accept the $2,000 and had withdrawn his resignation.

Subsequently, he said, Mr. Finlayson telephoned him and asked him, "What the devil is wrong with you now," and had told him he was "through."

This, he claimed, was followed Dec. 12 by a communication from Mr. Price informing him his resignation would take effect New Year's Day, 1934. Two days later, he said, he received from Magistrate Gover a cheque for $187.50 which he returned saying he would not be a party to trafficking in public office.

The former magistrate testified Mr. Price had asked him to destroy a letter he received from Mr. Finlayson that "would look very damning on the files."

Weddings

TANGNEY—BLANCHARD

A quiet wedding took place in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Lindsay yesterday morning, when Helen Alice, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Blanchard, was married to Mr. Michael Joseph Tangney, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Tangney. The nuptial mass was celebrated by the bride's cousin, Rev. Father Vincent Gilligoly of Kirkfield. The bride looked charming in a brown travelling suit with brown hat. Miss Grace Blanchard and Mr. John Tangney were witnesses. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Tangney left on an extended motor trip through the eastern provinces.

LAUDANO—THOMPSON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at seven o'clock yesterday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Helen Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of 463 Parnell street, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Laudano of Guelph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laudano of Guelph.

The Rev. J. C. Maloney officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white silk crepe, made on long lines in princess style. Her white tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, she wore white kid slippers, white silk hose, long white lace mittens and a necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses.

Her sister, Miss Christina Thompson, was bridesmaid, wearing pink silk crepe, a large hat of pink mohair, pink slippers and white lace mittens, and carrying a bouquet of Columbia roses.

Mr. Charles Embro was best man.

Mr. J. Armstrong played the wedding music.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, attended by nearly seventy-five guests, including twenty-five relatives of the bridegroom, from Guelph and Toronto. The wedding party was met on the lawn by an orchestra from Guelph, composed of friends of the bridegroom, and was escorted into the house to the strains of the Wedding March.

Decorations were carried out in pink and white. The table, centered by the bride's cake, was done with a profusion of lovely flowers and pink candles in silver holders.

Mr. Laudano and his bride left in the afternoon by motor for a trip to Hamilton, Buffalo and New York. They will reside in Guelph, where the bridegroom is a foreman in one of the large factories.

The bride travelled in a brown ensemble, trimmed with gold, with brown hat and matching accessories.

A number of automobiles filled with friends and relatives followed the bridegroom's car as far as Bewdley, the parade being led by the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. John Simons.

The afternoon and evening were spent in dancing by a large gathering of happy guests.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a ring, and to the best man a silver cigarette case.

Forest Fire Deaths Increased To Five

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 28.— (A. P.)—The toll among men fighting western forest fires was increased to five to-day with the death of John Everett, supervisor of the Mt. Shasta National Forest in California.

He was burned to death while shouting a fire which started from an electrical storm Sunday. He was trapped when the flames leaped a fire line. Previously two deaths had been reported among Idaho fire fighters, one in Montana and one in California.

Forecasts of "thunder storms" in the mountains" of North Dakota caused the fire service apprehension as three major fires were nearing control. Lightning means fires in tinder-dry forests that have seen no rain for a month.

Glacier Rink

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 28. (CP). James Simpson, guide, naturalist and artist, has scraped smooth the surface of a glacier lying between two mountains near here to make a summer skating rink for his husky daughters, Mary and Margaret. He says skating on glaciers will be common in a few years.

The skating rink is about two miles from Simpson's camp on Bow Lake, 25 miles from Lake Louise. It lies between Mount Thompson, 10,119 feet high, and Portal Peak, 9,552 feet in altitude. Simpson made the ice fields with an ice plane.

In five year's time, he says, the world will call it obvious, will take it for granted.

ONTARIO GRAIN YIELDING WELL

Rains Improve Pastures—Potatoes in Sections 25 p.c. Diseased.

HEAVY FOWL TURNOVER.

TORONTO, August 28 (C.P.)—Satisfactory grain crops and improving pasture conditions are the two most noticeable features of the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture for the current week.

Rain was reported to have done much good in sections of Western Ontario and in Central Ontario. Threshing in the Eastern division was delayed in Carleton, Dundas and Frontenac counties by a steady soaking during the week-end. Pastures were expected to recover somewhat from their extreme dryness, which has caused loss of weight in the stock.

Potato fields in Dufferin County were reported 25 per cent diseased, there being a great deal of wilt in the commercial fields. Certified areas were in good shape.

A heavy turnover of poultry, averaging about four tons of chicken and 900 pounds of duck to the day, was reported in Haldimand County. Apples were reported down in quantity, but of good quality in Southern Ontario. Peach, plum and pear crops were of very satisfactory grade.

Later sown grains in Northern Ontario were quite green and some fear existed the very cool weather would delay ripening until frost. Harvesting of the early crops was under full swing.

Climber Seeks Victim In Depths Of Crater

GOVERNMENT CAMP, MOUNT HOOD, Ore., Aug. 28 (AP)—With only feeble flashlight beams to guide him through sulphurous fumes, Garry Leach clambered down the precipitous side of Mount Hood crater before dawn to-day to bring back the body of Victor Von Normann.

The veteran mountain climber entered the crater on the remote possibility that the 23-year-old University of Washington junior had survived a 200-foot fall and the fumes which pour from hundreds of jets on the crater's floor.

Ten other men stood by ready to help Leach. Four of them were members of the hiking party who had stood near Van Vormann Sunday when he leaned too far over the crater's edge. Six were forest rangers, veterans of many a rescue expedition.

Employee Of C.G.E. Loses Top Of Thumb

Harry Lemmings, 64 Auburn street, suffered the loss of the top of his thumb while operating a saw at the Canadian General Electric Company yesterday. Attended in Nicholls Hospital, he was released this morning and is recovering in his home from the effects of the accident.

Mr. Lemming is unable to explain how the plainful misfortune took place. In some manner while he was cutting a piece of lumber his hand slipped and became entangled in the rapidly moving saw. First aid was administered in the plant surgery before he was removed to the hospital.

A Music Lover

ESTES PARK, Colo., Aug. 28.—(C.P.)—A deer that appeared out of the darkness while a party of hikers were singing about the camp fire, showed himself to be something of a music cutie.

Each time the music stopped the animal started away, only to return when the singing was resumed. The deer finally strolled away after the singers became hoarse.

$90,000 SAVING IF INTEREST CUT

City Would Materially Benefit by Suggested Rate Reduction.

NOT DEEMED PROBABLE.

While doubtful that debenture rates can be reduced to 3 percent. as mooted by the Ontario Government, Peterborough would save approximately $90,000 a year if such a reduction is made. The Examiner was informed to-day by the city treasurer.

At the present time Peterborough pays $260,865.91 interest on its debentures and if the rate was cut to 3 percent, there would be a saving of at least a third of that.

"It's absurd, it can't be done" an interested city official commented. "Those holding the debentures would have to agree. One can't just repudiate contracts that easily. Of course it would be a nice thing if it could be accomplished."

Another official said: "It would be fine if they could reduce the current rate of interest charged by the banks to municipalities for funds advanced until the taxes are paid. We are now paying 5 percent. If it was reduced to 3 percent, something which could be easily accomplished, it would save Peterborough about $5,000 annually.

FEAR BRITISH BOYCOTT

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 28 (C.P. Cable via Reuters).—Alarm at the threatened boycott of Australian goods by North England grocers was expressed to-day by Thomas W. White, Minister of Trade and Customs, in a statement to The Melbourne Herald.

The Minister emphasized Australia has not transgressed against the Ottawa Empire trade agreements. It would be unfortunate, he said, if Anglo-Australian relations were strained by any rash action such as a boycott.

Sad Days

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 28.—(C.P.)— A veteran bartender has thrown up his job and asked for a place in a street gang.

"In the good old days," he told Mayor John Schuder, in applying for a city job, "we served men only. But now with the women bringing their sewing into the place and sipping highballs, well, it is too much for me."

The nieces, nephews and other relatives of the late Mathew James Ryan, who died at Victoria, B.C., on July 22, 1934, are requested to communicate with Messrs. Stewart & Stewart, Barristers, Fulford Building, Brockville, Ont.

Police Hunt Firebug After Double Blaze

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 28 (C.P.).—Police and firemen to-day joined in a search for a fire bug held responsible for two fires in a vacant house at 117 St. Julien Street during the night. The house is owned by M. Morkin of King Street.

When apparatus reached the scene firemen found three separate fires burning in the house while a strong smell of rags penetrated the interior of the frame dwelling. One blaze was located in the south side partitions, another in the cellarway and the third in the dining-room.

The fires were extinguished after only slight damage resulted. At 7 o'clock another call was received from the same address, and once again firemen hurried to the scene. This time the blaze was located in the stairway partitions. Damage on this occasion amounted to about $250.

Chief Mitchell started an investigation, and after questioning neighbors, discovered that a tall, slim man had been seen to emerge from a basement window, a few minutes before 7 o'clock, while neighbors stated he had also been seen around the house at the first outbreak.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

TO WALK into either Woodbine or Thorncliffe either Sunday or yesterday one would think from all appearances that a race meeting was in progress. Horse vans were coming in and unloading thoroughbreds, trainers were hustling about, exercise boys were breezing their charges over the tracks, and owners were supervising all activities. While there will be no actual racing until a week from Saturday there will be plenty of action at these two tracks.

× × ×

The Seagram string have time for some time, that is been quartered at the Woodwith the exception of Young Kitty, who has been sent back to the farm at Waterloo. This gallant little nine-year-old mare, who was never out of the money in eleven starts this year is being given a rest until next spring, when Johnny Thorpe her trainer thinks she will duplicate her fine performances of this year. Shady Well another member of the same stable is being given a special prep for the stake races this fall. Candy Feast and Irish Kid are a couple of Seagram three year olds who will be dangerous in all events fashioned for horses of that age.

WE HEARD a good story the other day of a man who is well known in racing circles. It seems that his wife never witnessed a horse race until one day at Hamilton this past July when she accompanied Friend Hubby o the track. They were seated in the grandstand awaiting the appearance of the horses for the first race. Our hero gave his better half a ten spot, explained to her that the nags would parade slowly around the track for ten minutes or so to give the public a chance to make their selections, and that she could pick out one she fancied and go down and make a wager at the women's betting booth.

The parade arrived in due course and she looked them over very carefully and finally turned to her husband, announcing in breathless excitment that she had selected one and immediately set off for the mutuel machines. The payee after asking her which one she liked and she yelled back in front of all that crowd that it was the one at the front of the parade with the man in the red coat on his back.

× × ×

WELL, OF course you all know that was the lead pony which leads the field to the post at all tracks. And was the legal boy friend's face red as he became the target for a good many wisecrackers from several of his friends in that section of the stand. With a last heated look around as he buried his head beneath collar of his polo he was heard to mutter, "Believe me, this is her first and last appearance on any track, she can look after her afternoon tea and bridge engagements in future and I will do all the betting in this family."

Leafs Sweep Series Against Wings

WINGS' ERRORS HELP BOONEMEN TO COP VICTORY

Gene Schott, Toronto Right-hander, Registers His 18th Victory of Season.

FINAL SCORE 4-1.

Syracuse Chiefs Rally in 8th to Bring Defeat to Bears 4-3.

(By The Associated Press)

With the close of the season less than two weeks away, Buffalo Bisons apparently have blasted the hopes of Montreal Royals to get into the play-offs and at the same time enhanced their own changes.

The Bisons in fifth place and with 15 games to be played to-day held a game and a half margin over the sixth place Royals and were only 2½ games back of Albany Senators, who held the last play-off position.

Ollie Carnegie collaborated with Fabian Kowalik in leading the Bisons to a 4-3 victory over the Royals yesterday, squaring the series to two-all. While Kowalik was holding Montreal to eight hits for his second triumph of the series and his 16th of the year, Carnegie drove in three of the Bisons' four runs. His 20th homer with Joe Mulleavy on base in the third accounted for two of the runs.

The league-leading Newark Bears dropped the series to Syracuse, three games to one, when the Chiefs took the final encounter, 4-3. A three-run attack, led by Bobby Hearn, semi-pro recruit, in the eighth inning brought the Chiefs from behind. With Johnny Watwood on base, Cronin doubled, scoring the Syracuse centrefielder. Then Heran came through with a triple, counting Cronin, and a moment later brought home the winning run on a scratch single.

Rochester failed to cut down Newark's three-game lead and found its hold on second place threatened by Toronto, as the Leafs scored a 4-1 victory over the Wings. It was Toronto's fourth successive victory over Rochester and left the Leafs only 2½ games out of second place. Gene Schott gave 11 hits but was accorded sensational support.

Albany split two games with Baltimore, dropping the first game, 3-2, as George Darrow outpitched two rivals, and winning the second, 3-1 on Cy Blanton's three-hit pitching.

Waner Makes Gain

Baseball's Big Six was increased to seven yesterday when Al Simmons cracked out two hits to gain two points and go into a tie for third place in the American League with Charley Gehringer, who failed to get a safe blow against the Athletics. Each had an average of .356. Paul Waner, the National League leader, made the only gain among the regulars. He cracked out three hits for a gain of three points and ended the day with an average of .369, six points above Bill Terry, who dropped a couple of points.

Keene Bats Defeat Omemee Girls 11-5

Keene dampened the Omemee girls' hopes of a play-off berth last night on the latter's grounds when they came through with an 11 to 5 win, in a close battle that saw the losers play their best ball of the year only to crumple under the superior batting power of the Keensters.

The losers made a bid for victory in the seventh frame when they loaded the sacks, but Marilyn McCarthy, youthful Keene hurler, rose to the occasion with a smart display of pitching that made the opposing batters pop to the infield. Mary McCarthy pitched the first five frames for the Keene crew, and was fairly steady. She gave way in favor of her sister Marilyn, who started in the sixth and finished the game, holding the opposition scoreless. Jean Hickson twirled the whole game for Omemee. She weakened in the third when Keene counted three times, but was more steady than usual, and only miscues with runners on, robbed her of a closer score. Ev. Bigelow, Omemee catcher, had a great night with the willow, hitting a homer and two triples in four times up.

The teams:

Keene: Cocks, c; Brown, 3b; G. McCarthy, cf; Nelson, ss; L. McCarthy, 3b; M. McCarthy, p, lf; M. McCarthy, lf, p; I. Short, 1b; Gainor, rf.

Omemee: Rahill, cf; Sherin, ss; Fisher, 2b; E. Bigelow, c; Pickett, 1b; F. Bigelow, lf; McQuade, 3b; Hickson, p; Hart, rf.

Umpires—Dick Galbraith at the plate, Ab Frick on the bases.

WHITELY HOLDS WAIFS TO FOUR FOR 13-2 GAME

Motor City Cleaners Play Good Ball Behind Brilliant Mound Work.

SEVENTEEN STRIKEOUTS

Shine Walks Eight and Allows Sixteen Safeties, Three Homers and Two Triples.

Orphans dropped their first O.A.S.A. playdown game to New Service Cleaners of Oshawa, 12-2, before nearly eight hundred fans in Riverside Park last evening. Frosm Whitely's whistling speedball proved too much for the Waifs and seventeen of them struck out. The big Oshawa righthander allowed only four hits, though he walked seven. Behind his superb flinging, his teammates played good ball in the field and at bat to earn the verdict.

Frank Shine hurled for the locals but had difficulty with his control. He walked eight and had to slow his pitches down to get them over the plate, thereby permitting the visitors to club out sixteen safeties, three of them homers and two triples. He fanned three and received good support most of the game. Shine's sore knee bothered him at times.

Considerable controversy arose over Whitely's habit of wetting his fingers before the pitch. Manager Harrison kicked several times about him moistening the ball and quoted the rule-book, but nothing came of it. The game was a snappy enough affair, but too one-sided to prove very exciting. The Orphans play the return game in Oshawa Friday.

All the visitors got at least one safe hit, with Rowden hitting three. Homers were knocked by Whitely, Rowden and Hall; while Daniels and Goodall hammered out triples. Cadd, Hope, Shine and Board were the only Orphans to get a single. Willshaw, Wesse and Miller all turned in some smart defensive plays with Chamberlain and Cornish making good catches for the winners.

Neither side tallied in the first, the locals being retired one-two-three on strikes. Oshawa threatened in the second but failed to tally while Hope's safe bunt came to naught in the homesters' half. In the third, the Cleaners got three on Whitely's homer, a walk, passed ball and hits by Hurst and Rowden. They added three in the next on hits by Chamberlain, Cornish and Whitely, with Goodall's triple. They were blanked in the fifth when Miller walked, moved up on Shine's single and home on Board's hit.

Continue To Pile Up Score

Trott tallied for Oshawa in the sixth on his single with hits by Rowden and Hall. They got one more next time out on a walk, wild pitch and error. Orphans got their other one in the seventh when Willshaw walked, moved up twice on a wild pitch and a passed ball, and raced in on a miscue. The visitors got two on the eighth on Rowden's four-bagger, a walk and a single by Cornish. Their last three were counted in the final frame on a walk, wild pitch, error, an out and a homer by Hall. The locals' only serious threat was in the fifth when three walks and two singles resulted in just one run, one man being nicked at the plate, and the last one fanning with the sacks loaded.

TOMMY BRIDGES HURLS DETROIT TO 11-0 BATTLE

Babe Ruth's Double Scores Two to Give Yankees 3-2 Win Over Chicago.

INDIANS DOWN SOX.

Pirates' Belated Rallies Serve to defeat Braves at Pittsburg.

(By Herbert W. Barker—A.P. Sports Writer).

Young Bill Lee, six-foot three-inch right hander, has re-asserted his mastery over the world champion New York Giants just where it would do Chicago Cubs the most good.

The burly rookie, striking his best form in weeks, scored his third successive victory over the champions yesterday, shading Hal Schumacher in a great pitching duel, 1-0. Lee gave only three hits, permitted no giant to plant his feet on third base and allowed only three to get as far as 2nd. Coming on the heels of Lon Warneke's three-hit triumph of the previous day, the victory enabled the Cubs to shave the Giants' National League lead to 4½ games.

Lee needed assistance to protect his perfect record against the Giants and he got it from his fellow-rookie, George "Tuf" Stainback, and the veteran, Hazen Cuyler. In the seventh, the fleet Cuyler singled and came all the way home on Stainback's double against the left-field wall. That was the end of the day's scoring, as Schumacher gave only five hits.

The American League situation, in the meantime, remained unchanged as Detroit Tigers, declining to crack under the strain, walloped Philadelphia Athletics 11-0, while New York's Yankees were squeezing out a 3-2 decision over Chicago White Sox. This combination of results left the Tigers still 4½ games in front.

Tom Bridges gave the A's only five hits as he pitched his first victory of the Tigers' current eastern tour. His mates supported him with a 14-hit drive to which Manager Mickey Cochrane and Marvin Owen contributed three hits apiece. Babe Ruth's clinch double in the seventh drove in the tying and winning runs for the Yankees and ruined Milt Gaston's seven-hit pitching performance for the Pale Hose.

Other American League games saw Cleveland hold on to third place by downing Boston Red Sox 6-5 and Washington break its fifth place tie with St. Louis by downing the Browns, 6-1.

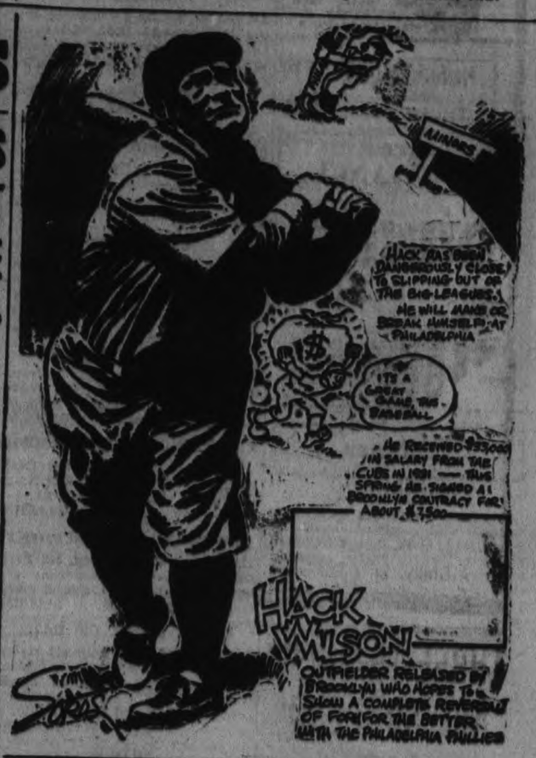
Casey Stengel's Brooklyn Dodgers kept the Giants' defeat from being any more costly than it was by hammering out a 10-1 victory over third place St. Louis Cardinals behind Tom Zachary's effective pitching. The defeat dropped the Cards two games behind the Cubs. It was the Dodgers' ninth victory in 18 games in the west.

The only other National League game of the day saw Pittsburgh score seven runs in the seventh and eighth to down Boston's Braves, 8-5.

Tight Battle Likely In Wednesday's Game

Tomorrow (Wednesday) at 6.15 p.m. in the Exhibition Grounds, Cogs entertain Bowmanville in the return game of their O.B.A.A. playdown series. It should be a fine intermediate ball game between the Lake Shore League champions and the E.P.I. titleholders. The Cogs nosed out a 3-1 win in Bowmanville Saturday and are hoping to repeat and end this series in two games. Not only E.P.I. fans but baseball followers here in general should attend in a large crowd. If a third game is necessary, it will be held on neutral grounds. The Cogs are expected to travel far this season in their playdowns.

Lefty Billingsley, the elongated southpaw, is expected to do the flinging for the Clubmen. The colorful portsider, with his slow deceptive hooks and his trick motion to nip runners off first, has won all his games this year and is well up in hitting. If Manager Dorsey Davis does not start Lefty, then Percy Vannest will be the choice—a fast thrower with a nice hook. The Cogs have a smart scrappy team, good fielders and hitters, and they will make it hot for Bowmanville. It is uncertain who the visiting hurler will be. Bowmanville beat Port Hope and Cobourg to cop the Lakeshore title.



County L.O.L. Annual Picnic On Labor Day

The County L.O.L. annual picnic and softball tournament will be held Monday, Labor Day, in Nicholls' Oval, and the tourney is expected to draw at least twenty softball entries. A number of out-of-town teams have signified their intention of entering this competition, which is sanctioned by the O.A.B.A. and for which some excellent prizes have been donated. Play will start at 9.00 a.m. and continue till evening.

Further entries may be made up till Monday morning to J. A. Holden, 593 Lock St., or at the grounds Monday. Teams wanted are: Seniors, intermediates, juniors under seventeen, and girls. Close to twenty have been accepted already, most of them being intermediate men's. Prizes include: Senior—catcher's mitt, bat and ball; intermediate—twelve prims to the value of a dollar each for the winning players, a donation by Board and Huffman; some good junior prizes; and girls—twelve silver compacts for the winning players, donated by the Elsie Bennett Gift Shop. Children's races will be held also.

KINGSTON VICS BEATEN BY BELLEVILLE 8 TO 6

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 28.—Canada Drys, softball entrants in the O.A.B.A. intermediate playdowns, gained an edge on the Victorias of Kingston here last night when they won the first game of a three-game series 8-6 which about represents the play. The winners outhit the Kingston squad 12-7 and also made their hits count in the pinches.

Callery, hurler for the losers, only struck out three, but his control was nearly perfect, he walking but one man. Ridley, second-string hurler for the Canada Drys, although wild, kept his seven hits well scattered, and was backed by clever fielding by his teammates. He walked six. Gerald Milster, at third base for the winners, played a fine defensive game, while Hannah, in left field, made several nice catches in the outfield.

Darkness Ended Game at Bailieboro in Seventh Inning.

SNAPPY SOFTBALL

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 28.—(Examiner Correspondence). — A snappy exhibition of softball was demonstrated on the local diamond on Saturday evening when the Bewdley club played a game against the local softball boys, the final score reading 11 to 11 with the local team missing their turn at bat when darkness fell, making it necessary to call the game in the seventh.

Lawrence Johnston started on the mound for the locals, but after allowing seven hits and receiving poor backing in the field during the first two innings, was replaced by K. Barnard. S. Fair pitched five innings of the visitors' game and was substituted then by Davidson.

The teams lined up:

Cubs Abandon Idea Chicago City Series

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)— On the theory that they might overhaul New York Giants and win the National League pennant, Chicago Cubs yesterday decided to pass up the annual city series with the White Sox.

The White Sox won last year's series, so it was up to the Cubs to do the challenging.

"The Cubs are still trying to win the flag and will continue to do so right up to the finish of the race," said President William Walker of the club, thus explaining that the Cubs don't want anything like a city series on their minds during the stretch drive.

HARD-BOILED BROWNS MANAGER TRYING HARD TO PLACE TEAM IN FIRST DIVISION OF LOOP

Former Batting Champion of National League Seven Times, Six in Row.

TIED WITH COBB.

Has Acted as Manager of Cardinals, Braves and Cubs, Won Pennant for Cards.

Rogers Hornsby, former firebrand of the National Baseball League, is now battling to put his team in first division of the American League as manager of the St. Louis Browns.

A great ball player, the Rajah is also a fighter of the hard-boiled type that made Cobb and McGraw famous. He has been in numerous fist fights in his day and at present would just as soon slap an umpire's or a rival player's face as look at him. He is a very colorful player, and has been a great one in his day. But let Bud Shaver, Detroit Times' sports editor, tell how good he is:

"There are many reasons why Hornsby is quite a gent. He topped everybody in baseball except those that nobody beats, and he tied them—meaning Tyrus Raymond Cobb and Honus Wagner.

He was batting champion of the National League seven times, and six of those times were in a row.

He had the highest batting percentage in the National League for 10 years or more, a mere .361 for 17 seasons.

He tied with Cobb for batting the most years .400 or better—three. He tied with Cobb for the most years batting .400 or better consecutively—two.

Now, when you tie Cobb at all, you're good, but when you do it twice, you're better.

Sets Batting Record

But that isn't all. His batting average of .424 in 1924 is still the highest mark hung up in the history of modern baseball.

Five times he led the National League in most games played in a season. They couldn't get him out, you see, though they threw at him and tramped on his toes.

Eight times he led the National League in runs scored, and right to-day he leads the National League for the most runs batted in—1,525 in 17 seasons.

Four times he led the National League in runs batted in, and not even Honus has tied that one.

He tied Honus for the most years leading the National League in extra base hits—nine.

He holds the major league record for most base hits for two consecutive seasons—485. No one has ever tied that.

For seven consecutive years he made 200 or more hits in the National League, and no one has tied that, either.

Twice he led the National League in home runs—42 in 1922 and 39 in 1925.

He still leads the National League in extra base hits, with 1,748.

There are a lot of other things in which he leads, but that is enough to show he was quite a ball player.

But Hornsby was more than a ball player. He has been no sucker as a manager, either. On May 30, 1925, he succeeded Branch Rickey as manager of the Cardinals. The next year he won the pennant and world series, and when he had a disagreement with Sam Breadon it didn't keep him from throwing up his job and taking the road again as a journeyman ball player.

He was traded to the Giants, but in May, 1926, he turned up as manager of the Boston Braves. He was traded to the Cubs that Fall, and in September, 1930, he bobbed up as boss of the Cubs, succeeding Marse Joe McCarthy, where he remained until Charley Grimm took over the job in August 1932.

He became boss of the Browns last Summer.

Lays Cards on Table

You might gather, because of all his vicissitudes, that the Rajah is a hard guy to get along with, and perhaps he is, but any chappie who has the fnnards to speak his piece and lay his cards on the table is apt to be disliked in diplomatic circles.

This bureau is not so much awed by the Rajah's baseball record as it is attracted by the man's forthrightness and gameness.

I am, no doubt, repeating myself, but I can't forget that day in the Spring of 1929 when one of our strong arm Tiger pitchers plunked him in the ribs with a fast ball, and the Rajah didn't even wince or beef, although there weren't enough customers in the stands to pay for a mustard plaster."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. — Clark Griffith, President of Washington Senators yesterday announced that Allen Benson, pink-whiskered pitcher, who came here from the House of David team by way of the Albany club of the International League, had been returned to Albany. Lawn Bowling BY Herb Martin

Dr. Allan and T. McMillan came through with two nice win in last night's play-downs in the Globe Scotch Doubles.

—O—

In Their First game they met and defeated D. Little and D. Smith by the score of 23-14. A nice big seven and along about the middle of the game settled the argument'

In The Second game against J. Sedgewick and C. Williamson they finished up with a nice lead and removed last year's representatives out of the picture.

—O—

G. Gimblett and B. Chesler had a nice lead on J. Harrison and T. McDonald but things changed during the last half with Jimmy and his partner doing some nice bowling and tieing up the game on the second last end. In the final frame it was nip and tuck and only a little bit of hard luck on Harrison's part or he would have won. However, there is no hiding the fact that Gimblett and Chesler were glad when it was over.

—O—

In The Other half J. J. Howden and Joe Bennett had a nice tidy tussel with H. Freeman and H. Martin. They led all the way and were one up coming home but Freeman and partner happened to get two on the last end and by so doing win the game. It sure was a neat affair.

—O—

Thursday's Draw—

Dr. Allen and T. McMillan

G. Gimblett and B. Chesler.

W. Oke and C. Seymour vs.
H. Freeman and J. Fitzpatrick.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer, Softball, Bowling etc.

By C. J. P.

Quite a number of ball fans will no doubt be trekking down to the Exhibition Grounds tomorrow (Wednesday) p.m. along about 4.15 o'clock to take a peek at the intermediate game. It's betwixt Bowmanville, Lakeshore League champs, and Cogs, who grabbed the E.P.L. allverware. Should be a pretty fair fixture and, of course, is quite an important number, seeing as how it's an O.B.A.A. playdown tilt. The Bowmanville roster bears a striking similarity to their hockey lineup. Here's their batting order: Cameron, rf; I. Piper, 3b; Osborne, ss; Colwell, 2b; Corden, 1b; Large, lf; Bagnell, cf; Bates, c; G. Piper, p.

Things weren't so hotsy-totsy over at Riverside last eve around in the neighborhood of six bells. Just about that time, the New Service Cleaners from up Oshawa way were dusting our Orphans off and they kept on doing it till the ninth inning wound up in next thing to pitch darkness. Result—Motor Citizens 13, Waifs 2. Not so good. Quite a crew took in this tussle to get a squint at Preem Whitely, Oshawa ace tosser-upper, and he had all the earmarks of a royal flush to us and not merely an ace. He should be a good pitcher one of these years.

• • • • • •

Let's see what Da Preem did to our hopefuls. Well, he walked seven, and that's nothing to brag about. However, that's about the only thing wrong he did. He fanned just seventeen with that bullet ball of his and allowed a stingy four hits. He struck out three batters in a row in the first and third and two in a row in the sixth, eighth and ninth. Not a bad evening's work, when you remember that he also hit a homer and single in four, and scored twice. Put this senior flinger on a senior softball squad, toss 'em in against an intermediate team and what do you get? That's right, a 13-2 licking for somebody.

• • • • • • •

Frank Shine wasn't throwing his fast ball worth a nickel last night. He has more speed than he showed there. His wildness cost him plenty as he had to slow up to get control and that's how they bingled him so freely. He might go lots better in the return game and, with his team waiting Whitely out or bunting him to death, the Waifs might possibly even the series. They've got a tough job, but one never knows in sports. The Orphans fielded okay last eve, but they couldn't hit Whitely, and that is enough to lose a game for any outfit.

The Kingston sportswriter, never having heard the tale re "sour grapes" apparently, is saying the Ponies ought to leave the C.O. B.L. next spring and go to a better loop—as he calls it—the St. Lawrence League. Hop to it, Kingston, and see who cares! But we strongly resent the remark he makes about us and the Petrie question. He calls us a "cousin" of the Oshawa scribe. We rate this a deadly insult and will challenge ye Kingston guy to a duel at sunrise—no, better make it sunset, 'cause we need our sleep—any old day at all. In fact, if he'll just recall some of the fancy names we called the Oshawa scribe this spring, he will at least agree that we are not close cousins. Of course, the Oshawa writer may also resent this "cousin" crack, in which case ye Kingston plugger might have two duels lined up. Have a care, sir!

• • • • • • •

The O.B.B.L. schedule will be finished out here Saturday with Oshawa playing a double-header, starting at 2.15, in Riverside with the Petes. This should be a good practise session for the locals who meet Belleville at three Monday, Labor Day, in the first game of the loop playoffs. But the boys want to be careful and avoid injuries. Ike Batten, the original hard-luck player on the Petes' squad, suffered a cracked rib Saturday that time he stopped Sonny Green's hot grounder and fell. He may beokay for Monday. Our guess is that Deyell and Calladine will hurl Saturday with Kitchen and Rose saved for Monday. Second playoff tilt will be in the Quinte town Wednesday.

• • • • • • •

Here's the remainder of the Inter-County Lacrosse League schedule: Aug. 29—Dinty's Inn at Millbrook; Aug. 31—Port Hope at Dinty's Inn; Sept. 5—Dinty's at Port Hope; Sept. 7—Port Hope at Millbrook; Sept. 10—Millbrook at Dinty's; Sept. 12—Dinty's at Millbrook; Sept. 14—Port Hope at Dinty's; Sept. 16—Millbrook at Port Hope. Games at Port Hope start at six, standard time; and at 8.30 in Millbrook. The local team plays its home games in Millbrook. Incidentally Millbrook won the first half, but thinks look bright for Dinty's Inn this second half the schedule.

• • • • • • •

Dr. C. H. Heslop of Milton left word with his host here, A. E. Juby at 174 Alberius Street, of his appreciation of the local crowd's action Saturday at the Ex. in applauding him when he resumed racing after being injured. This plucky little driver was in a four-bike crash in the second heat of the 2.18 race and he suffered two broken ribs. He had 'em taped up and returned to the wars, the crowd giving him a big hand. That's one thing about local sports followers, in any game. They give visitors unstinted applause when they rate it. They like to see the home fellows win, but they like to see real ability or sportsmanship even more.

Up and down Sports' Rialto: Keene gals 11-8'd Omemee yester twilight to hurt the O's playoff chances plenty . . . . Orphans' management sent the Relief Office two hundred ducats for that game last eve for softball fans who are unemployed . . . . Won't be long till the boys are getting lined up for rugby and boxing locally—there'll be some of each this autumn.

HOCKEY SITUATION AT NIAGARA FALLS

Cataract City May Be Without Senior Representative in O.H.A. Next Season.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 28.—The hockey situation here is in somewhat a muddled state, and unless some efforts are made shortly to fill the depleted ranks, the city is liable to be without senior representation in the O.H.A. next winter.

Of the old guard, only Gordie Peterson and Bill Hunter remain uncertainties to play here next season, and Peterkin is seriously considering retiring. The first big news from the camp occurred last night when Henry Lauson left for Ottawa to confer with the Senator management regarding a try-out during the training period, and it is almost a certainty that "Hank" will be among the candidates when the Bytown team starts preliminary work.

GOLF HOPES FIRM IN BRITISH TEAM

Fearful a Little About Heat But Have Designs on Curtis Cup.

LONDON, Aug. 28 (C.P.).—Great Britain's team for the international golf matches in the United States in September is a strong one and should stand a chance of bringing the Curtis Cup home, writes Diana Fishwick in The News Chronicle.

"American friends tell me that the heat is likely to be tropical at Washington when the match against the United States is played." Miss Fishwick says. "But we ought to be able to stand up to it with only one round to be played each day. Members of the team have been advised to go into strict training until they sail."

Discussing the British women golfers, The News Chronicle says:

"Miss Molly Gourlay is recuperating by the sea after a tonsil operation, and is already swinging her clubs again. She is a very reliable golfer, quick to adapt her play to strange conditions. Miss Diana Plumpton proved her value to a team on the South African tour, and is so calm in a crisis that she has earned the name of 'the Sphinx.'

"Mrs. George Coats, Scottish international, is playing remarkably well this year and never gives up hope of winning a match. Mrs. 'Pat' Walker is renowned as a fighter and is happiest when playing against big reputations — a 'tiger' slayer. This witty Irishwoman is sure to win hearts in the States and will keep the team smiling. Miss Pam Barton has thoroughly earned her place, and altogether it should be a very happy team, with Miss Doris Chambers' skilful and sympathetic captaincy."

YANKEE IS BEATEN BY THREE MINUTES

Rainbow Takes Lead in Final Tests for America's Cup Defense.

NEWPORT R.I., Aug. 28.—Rainbow, Harold S. Vanderbilt's new candidate for defense of the America's Cup yesterday defeated the leading aspirant for that honor, Yankee, skippered by Charles Francis Adams by three minutes, seven seconds over a thirty-mile triangular course.

The result somewhat complicated the work of the committee empowered with the task of collecting a defender against the challenge of T. O. M. Sopwith's British Endeavour in the cup series next month. It was Yankee's first defeat of the final trials and temporarily placed Rainbow in the lead so far as the trials are concerned. Rainbow now has won three races and lost one, beating Frederick Prince's Westamoe, now eliminated from the series, twice and Yankee once, Yankee now has defeated Rainbow and Westamoe and lost to Rainbow.

FARLEY-NASH ARE GIVEN BYES

Other Three Canadians Play In First Round of U. S. Amateur.

68 PLAYERS DRAWN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The immensity of the national amateur golf championship, under its present set-up, was revealed clearly yesterday when the U.S.G.A. announced that no fewer than 68 players had been drawn for byes in the first round, thus placing them in the second round without teeing a ball.

Included in the 68 selected by a blind draw are the defending champion, George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York; Lawson Little of San Francisco, the British amateur champion; Johnny Goodman of Omaha, last year's open champ; Jess Sweetser of New York, another former titleholder; Albert "Scotty" Campbell, the new "menace from the Pacific Northwest"; T. A. (Tony) Torrance, the long-hitting British ace from St. Andrew's; Phil Farley of Toronto, and Jack Nash of London, Ont.

These and others among the luckier 68 will line the fairways on Monday, Sept. 10, when the remaining 120 players in the field of 188 will engage in 18-hole, hand-to-hand contests. The 60 survivors from the first day's play, and the 68 byes will supply a field of 128 players who will meet in 64 matches on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Prescott S. Bush, chairman of the championship committee, said yesterday that the draw for the first round would be deferred until Saturday, Sept. 8. On that date names of the players who failed to draw first-round byes will be placed in a figurative hat and drawn blind for the opening matches.

Deferring the draw until 36 hours before the first shots are struck will serve to defer the wails of anguish certain to be caused. There will be no seeded list, and the "guys named Joe" will get as much consideration as the gallery favorites. This, of course, means that some of the early matches will involve standout performers.

Boy Scouts of Kent, England, saved enough small coins during the winter to entertain 300 unemployed youths at a summer camp.

SILVER SLIPPERS

BY Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Joan Dudley, vacationing with her wealthy aunt, Adelaide Delafield, is engaged to Drew Hallam, who is twice her age. At Granitehead, where they are stopping with Drew's sister, Nancy, is a bookshop owned by Giles Armiger, below which is a shoemaker's shop run by his war-time friend, Stephen Scripps. Drew grows jealous after Joan meets Giles and they become interested in each other. Meantime Drew is paying considerable attention to Rose Carter, an old sweetheart. Giles goes to Portsmouth for some old books and Joan decides to leave Granitehead after her aunt has reprimanded her for her interest in Armiger. When Joan goes to Giles' shop to leave her address, Scripps lies and tells her Giles is away because his WIFE is ill, fearing he may lose Armiger's companionship because of his love for Joan. Stunned, Joan returns to the Maine woods and the home of a friend, Penelope Sears, but she is not happy. Her aunt writes she is sailing for Europe with Drew and Nancy. Unexpectedly Drew arrives and Joan feels she is happy again.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 25

Joan had come uncomfortably near the truth, but Drew wouldn't admit it. "No, it was not. Listen, dearest. I tried to get her not to send that letter. She couldn't talk about anything else but how you had treated her. I think she wants you back. Only she won't give in. She insists that you owe both of us an apology . . ." There was silence for a moment, then he said, softly, "But I knew I was the one to apologize . . . I'm sorry, Joan."

She clung to him in the dark. "Why should we talk of forgiveness, now, my dear?"

He enlarged on Adelaide's state of mind. "She simply raved when she found you'd left her."

"I know. She had Farley pack up all my belongings and sent them after me . . . In the letter I got the other day she said if I returned anything she'd burn it."

"She meant it, too. But I think I'm smoothing her down, gradually. I have a real influence with her, Joan. She likes me and she likes Nancy, and she loves you, my sweet. I'm sure of it. But she loves having her own way better."

The Hallams had, it seemed, been with Adelaide most of the time since Joan's departure, first in Granitehead, then in New York. "And we are invited down to her big house in Baltimore. You lived there, didn't you?"

"Yes. She gave me a party when I first came, to introduce me to her friends. I was scared stiff, Drew. All strangers. I went down into the drawing room before the other people arrived. There was a long mirror at one end, and I saw myself in it. It was like seeing somebody else. I couldn't believe that the girl in the party dress with the pearls was myself. But after that I wasn't afraid. I simply made myself act like the girl in the mirror would act, not like the Joan who had been a school teacher."

He laughed. "You're a strange little person, Joan."

"No, I'm not. I was playing a part, Drew, I think I'd like to be an actress."

"If you were, you'd be the leading lady," he laughed and kissed her. "You are shivering, my dear, we must go in.

They followed the path which led to the bluff, and stood looking out over the moor to the sea. In her state of exaltation, the world seemed to Joan like a vast, vaulted cathedral; the stars, its candles; the beating waves, the sighing winds, the sources of celestial music; the deep blue of the canopied night, the curtain which shut them into a holy place.

"Do you remember," she asked, "what we said when we last stood here together?"

On a muted note, he sent out the call: "We are coming again . . . we are coming again . . ."

"And we are here. Oh, Drew, how wonderful!"

He spoke then of that first day in the fog, and she saw him riding beside her, splendid as a king. And he was splendid. All she had been thinking of him had been unjust. Her doubts fled.

It was a long time before they came to practical things. "Do you think Mrs. Sears can put me up for the night?"

"Of course. You can have your old room. No one is here but the two of us."

The windows of the house as they turned towards it seemed, against the blackness of the forest, like golden rectangles suspended in space. As they opened the door, the warmth of the great fire met them. Penelope had put on fresh logs. "I was afraid you'd be half-frozen, Joan. I told Mr. Hallam when he went for you to bring you back as soon as possible."

Hallam laughed, "This is as soon as possible."

Penelope had set a small table in front of the fire. "I've made coffee," she stated, "and I am going to leave you to drink it. You'll have a lot to talk about."

Hallam stood on his feet until she went away. He treated her with courtesy, but she knew he did not consider her in his class. To him she was the boarding house keeper. Yet she knew herself as the descendant of men better than he.

As she went upstairs, Penelope told herself that this visit of Hallam's was a sinister thing. She had needed only a look at Joan as the child came in to know that Drew had made out a case for himself. "He would, of course," said the wise old woman, as she made up the bed in the west wing, "but it will always be her sincerity against his shallowness—always his materialism against the fineness of her spirit."

When Penelope had left them, Drew's eyes rested on Joan with delight. "I like your dress and the way the wind has blown your hair."

"It's an old dress."

"But the gray is charming with those ivory beads. You are like a little nun."

"I'm not a nun."

"Thank heaven."

He made her sit beside him while he drank his coffee. Joan ate and drank nothing. She leaned against him, looking in the fire while he talked to her. He told her that he had motored up. That Adelaide had gone down to her old house in Baltimore to get things ready for her departure in October. Nancy was visiting friends in the mountains. "So I took this opportunity. Neither of them knew that I came."

"Didn't Aunt Adelaide?"

"No. Why should she?"

Joan said, earnestly, "I should have liked it better."

"But it wouldn't have been politic. We'll have to humor her, dearest. She's old and obstinate. And there's no reason why we should rub her the wrong way."

There was a flush on Joan's cheeks, but she was silent. And after a moment, Drew bent down to her, smiling: "Would it hurt you dreadfully to eat humble pie?"

"What do you mean?"

"If you could write her a letter, saying that . . . perhaps you were wrong . . . It would satisfy her, and it wouldn't hurt you in the least. I've told her over and over again, that I have no grievance. But she won't give in. And she has made up her mind that you can't come back except on her terms."

"I shall never go back except on my own . . ."

"Joan . . ." he put a finger under her chin and made her look at him. "You care more for your pride than you do for me."

"It isn't that. It's something fundamental."

"Just what do you mean by—fundamental . . ."

"It's that I can't give in to Aunt Adelaide because she has . . . money. If she hadn't any, I wouldn't seem to be—selling myself."

He rose and moved restlessly about the room. Joan's eyes followed. She felt suddenly very isolated on her low bench in front of the fire . . . as if she were on an island with all about her raging waters of controversy. Yet neither of them had said a word. It was merely that their minds were in opposition, their arguments beating in their brains.

At last Drew came back and stood looking down at her. "There's another way out," he said, slowly.

"What way?"

He drew her up to him. "Shut your eyes, while I say it."

She obeyed, and he brushed a finger across her closed lids. "Listen my sweet. I want you to marry me—tomorrow."

Her eyes flew open: "Tomorrow?"

"Yes."

"But why?"

"Why not? If you are my wife nothing can ever come between us."

"What could come between us?"

"Oh, a thousand things. And I want to know you are mine . . . mine . . ."

She felt herself yielding to the spell of his wooing. "But Drew ——"

"There are no 'buts'. We'll motor off in the morning and find a minister. I'll get you back here in time for supper tomorrow night. It will be just between the two of us. Nobody need know anything."

"Not Penelope?"

"No."

"Then it is to be—clandestine?"

"If you choose to call it that—yes."

DAVID FINLAY TAKEN BY DEATH

Noted Stove Manufacturer Passes at Carleton Place in 65th Year.

KEEN SPORTSMAN.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont., Aug. 28. (CP)—David Finlay, prominent in business, political and fraternal circles during many years and for nearly three quarters of a century a resident of Carleton Place, is dead at his home here. President of Findlay's Ltd., Mr. Finlay was well known throughout Eastern Canada.

Born in Perth, Ont., on April 4, 1860, Mr. Finlay was brought by his parents to Carleton Place in that year, and remained here almost constantly ever since.

On June 6, 1893, he married Miss Effie Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. Hamilton and the late Duncan Hamilton of Carleton Place, to which union was born five boys and three girls: David K., of the law firm of Findlay and Findlay; D. Hamilton, Mayor of Carleton Place; Kenneth, George and Hugh John, of Carleton Place, Mrs. W. McCall, of Toronto; Miss Helen, at home; and Mrs. William Phillips, of Carleton place.

In the by-election of Lanark County in 1923 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. J. A. Stewart, Mr. Findlay was the unanimous choice of the Liberals to contest the riding in the interest of the King administration.

Besides his widow and family, who were all present at his bedside, he is survived by five brothers, William, George H., John K., and Thomas, of Carleton Place, and Dr. Ephrem Findlay, of Chicago, and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Lang of Edmonton, Alta.

The funeral service will be conducted at his residence on Tuesday afternoon.

FIND MUCH OPPOSITION WOMEN HOLDING OFFICE

EDMONTON, Aug. 28 (CP)—The Canadian Federation of University Women is doing everything possible at the present time to bring students and available positions together but is hindered by a reactionary attitude toward women holding office. Mrs. Douglas J. Thom, Regina, president of the federation, said in an address to the group here to-day.

The federation opened a three-day convention here to-day and Mrs. Thom reviewed past progress of the organization.

"Our major undertaking in the past," he said, "has been the support of a scholarship for study abroad and we have the satisfaction of knowing that it has been held by young women who have made fine use of it and who have, in most cases, returned to Canada to make some return to our national life.

"Young women whose choice lies in academic work should feel that they have the support of the federation."

Mrs. John aBrnett, Regina, corresponding secretary, reported on methods used to co-ordinate local clubs, reports of the membership committee showed new locals at Thunder Bay, Ont., and Moncton, N.B.

SPIRIT OF DOLLFUSS STEELS AUSTRIA AGAINST HITLERISM

Canadian Press Writer Portrays Tension on Tyrol Border.

CONTRASTING SCENES.

(By George Hambleton—C.P. Staff Writer).

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Aug. 11.—(C.P.).—From Munich, the train climbs slowly to the Austrian frontier. Among these forest-clad mountains, Bavaria slips almost insensibly into the Tyrol. Except for a halt at the frontier town of Kufstein, a double examination of passports and a double inquisition into currency, one scarcely notes the change. Uniforms differ. The language is the same.

Yet one is quickly brought face to face with another world. On the plain below lies Munich, where, fourteen years ago, Hitler founded the Nazi party in a beer hall. There he held his first meeting. There the Austrian Legion had its headquarters. From Munich, propaganda was directed to bring Austria into the Reich. Munich is Nazi of the Nazis.

At the first train stop on the Austrian side of the frontier, the scene changes.

Accuse The Nazis.

A huge placard in red and black letters makes no secret of its opinion about the Nazis. It is the placard of an Austrian anti-Nazi party. The traveller is emphatically told that the real murderers of Dollfuss are in Germany. "Wir klagenan—we accuse," the placard clatters in big letters.

"We accuse the real murderers who sit in safety on the other side of the frontier. We accuse them before the tribunal of the world.

"Never, in Austria, would a movement so contrary to the principles of human culture have been established had it not been for the poison of a spirit which to us is eternally foreign.

"Dollfuss is dead. In the name of Nazi barbarism, the murderers and brethings of the third Reich refused the assistance of a doctor and a priest to the dying man."

Appeal To Independence.

Nor is the placard alone. Placards of this organization or that shout from every billboard for an independent Austria. Dollfuss has been raised to a cult. His sayings, his policies, are held forth as the new inspiration. Only a few miles away, over the frontier, and the Nazi is all-powerful. Opposition is suppressed. Here, he is under cover, appearing in sudden swoops. Only three weeks ago, the Innsbruck chief of police was shot in the back by a Nazi as he entered his office. The chief was killed. The Nazi was hanged. Another Nazi who kept watch got 20 years' imprisonment.

And though Innsbruck is now quiet and the Nazis show no sign, there is no slackening of precautions. Police notices warn local inhabitants to keep from protested points on the railways, particularly at dusk.

in the negotiations with the Weaver Company.

Secretary-Treasurer Maund was asked for an explanation of the premium payments.

"Sound Business"

Maund said the Weaver Company demanded payments in U.S. funds but at first the T. and N.O. did not want to pay in American funds because the contract with the Weaver Company called for payment only in Canadian funds.

The T. and N.O. commissioners concluded after conference and after discussions with their legal advisers, it would be "sound business" to pay the premiums.

Tilley, Johnson, Thompson and Parmeter of Toronto served as legal counsel to the T. and N.O.

The change in policy was determined by the T. and N.O. Commission, Secretary-Treasurer Maund explained. Mr. Maund would not accept Commissioner Racine's suggestion the premium payments to the Weaver Company had been "gifts."

Issuance of passes was again reviewed briefly by Mr. Racine. Chief Clerk Roy Herbert testified the issues on recommendation of Chairman George W. Lee or Secretary-Treasurer W. H. Maund. And in event of their absence he issues them himself.

Herbert admitted passes were issued to Hotchkiss, a representative of the F. B. Weaver Coal Company of West Virginia and a Mr. Costango, manager of the mine in the United States, and a Mr. Berry, also connected with the Weaver mine. These passes had been issued on instructions of Chairman Lee, the chief clerk said.

NUMBER 391

Golf is one task you must go about with malice toward none.

No player has ever been consistently successful at this game while harboring a grudge against the ball, a particular club or shot on the course or an opponent.

You must prepare yourself for each shot and continue throughout the round with a relaxation that is both mental and physical. Obviously, your personal feelings can prevent this relaxation. And lets usually arouse the feelings of most players to a point where they forget self-control.

Instead of the poise they normally enjoy, they're continually on edge over some personal issue.

NUMBER 392

When it comes to body action all the player seems to think about is how his body moves from side to side; seldom does he notice how he moves from heel to toe.

The heel and toe balance is just as important as the side motion of the body; in fact, it's more important, for without the proper balancing of the weight between the heel and ball of the foot the correct side motion of the hips cannot be had.

Demonstrate this for yourself by standing fully erect. Don't bend forward, don't even look down. If anything, keep back on your heels. Then shift your hips from side to side.

You'll find this hip motion quite easy as long as you stand erect.

LAST POST SOUNDS FOR BRAVE SISTER

Death of Nurse Katharine Barden Recalls Gallant Service in War.

MONTREAL, Aug. 28. (CP). — The death of Nursing Sister Katharine E. Barden at the Military Hospitals, St. Anne de Bellevue, removed another Canadian who served overseas during the Great War. Miss Barden was in France four years with No. 2 Canadian General Hospital at Le Treport. During the severe fighting in the spring and summer of 1918, she was six months at an advanced casualty clearing station. Her service in that period won her mention in despatches and the Royal Red Cross.

After the war Miss Barden joined the staff of the military hospital at Christie Street, Toronto. In 1926 she was transferred to Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where she was on duty at the time of her death. Burial took place at the Pointe de Clare Field of Honor.

Born in Quebec, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barden of that city, Katharine Barden was a graduate of the Ursuline Convent in Quebec and the St. Vincent Hospital, New York. She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. W. G. McConnell and Mrs. L. C. Denis of Montreal, and Mrs. E. F. Jones and Mrs. T. B. Gilbert of Quebec.

HON. R. B. BENNETT PAYS TRIBUTE TO VIRTUES OF QUEBEC'S PEOPLE

Principal Speaker at Banquet to Journalists From France.

"ENTENTE CORDIALE."

QUEBEC, Aug. 28—(CP)—French delegates to the Jacques Cartier-Centenary celebrations today visited many historic spots in the district and attended a number of receptions in their honor as Quebec continued to play the host in typical French-Canadian fashion.

The delegates were greeted by screeches from the sirens and whistles of ships in the harbor as they steamed into port yesterday aboard the S. S. Champlain which carried them from Gaspe where they witnessed the unveiling of the huge stone cross in honor of Jacques Cartier, their famed countryman who made history 400 years ago with his discovery of the St. Lawrence river.

Lauds Homely Virtues

Last night tribute was paid to the French-Canadian race for its "noble contribution to Canadian development" by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, who was chief speaker at a banquet tendered the visitors by the province of Quebec.

The premier described French-Canadians as a "hardy, industrious and loyal people and I count it a privilege, not only as prime minister of Canada but as one of the country's citizens, to vaunt their homely virtues."

Mr. Bennett was thanked by Premier L. A. Taschereau, Prime Minister of Quebec, whom he had decribed as "my personal friend and worthy opponent."

The French-Canadian, Quebec's Premier stated, would always be proud and willing to lend his shoulder to the wheel of Canadian government. They had unswerving allegiance to the crown and the "entente cordiale between the two races that shared Quebec reigned here long before King Edward VII cemented it", because Great Britain had been a generous protector.

Admiral Keyes

Sir Roger Keyes, admiral of the fleet, who with Rt. Hon. H. A. Fisher, warden of New College, Oxford, is the official representatives of the British government, said he could think of no better way of answering the call of adventure stirred up by thoughts of Jacques Cartier than by joining the navy.

The leader of the official French delegation, Pierre Etienne Flandin, was greatly pleased to see the attachments French-Canadians still had for their former mother country. It was remarkable, he thought, that the decendants of two great races lived side by side, understood each other and were bound to the common cause of maintaining peace.

1,273 Philadelphia Convicts On Strike

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (C.P.). —A strike of prisoners at the Eastern State Penitentiary here in sympathy with inmates of the Graterford branch, spread to-day to the entire population of the old prison, which confines 1,273.

The rebellion stopped all work except in the kitchen. At the Graterford prison farm, scene of Saturday's riot, about 1,400 prisoners refused to work and to eat.

Three hundred prisoners in the weaving, tailor, shoe and print shops were the first to strike at "Cherry Hill," the main unit of the penitentiary.

They were joined a short time later by 300 more, known as yard and maintenance men.

Then the remainder of the prisoners, who were exercising in the yard, learned of the strike and walked back to their cells where, with the others, they were locked in.

Warden Herbert Smith disclosed the strike at Cherry Hill, and said "there has been no disorder."

"Don't fail to help along Kiwanis activities. Throw in your weight make the Street Fair and Carnival the success it should be." 3d.51

L.O.O.F. SERVICE AT CENOTAPH

Millbrook Lodge and Rebekahs In Decoration Day Ceremony.

REMEMBER DEPARTED

MILLBROOK, Aug. 28.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Millbrook lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 308, and Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 178, paraded from the Oddfellows' hall at 2.30 on Sunday afternoon to the cenotaph in the Town Hall square in observance of their annual decoration day service.

Brother H. J. Armstrong, N.G., and Brother Weston C. Fallis, chaplain, conducted the I.O.O.F. ritual, and the singing was led by a community band under the leadership of G. E. Burnham. Reeve P. Stinson was called upon for the introductory address, congratulating the orders on the place chosen for the service, "round the monument commemorating those noble lads who gave their lives, as they and we thought, in an effort to end war. Comparing conditions in Europe today, we wonder if it was worth while. Such conditions might not prevail if the principles of your order had a place in the councils of the nations. Such a service as this presents a challenge to us to so live that when our call comes we shall be ready to answer."

Brother H. A. Fallis, P.D.D., G.M., read the names of the brethren who had paid the supreme sacrifice, Bruce Fisher and Bert Elliott, and in honor of these Brothers A. J. Henderson and Bruce Elliott laid flowers on the base of the cenotaph, Brother George Cobley, V.G., performing a similar service in commemoration of all the soldiers whose names are inscribed on the memorial. Rebekahs buried in outside cemeteries were also remembered with sheaves of beautiful blossoms deposited on the cenotaph, these including Sister Eunice Bingham at Port Perry and Sister Sara Bentley at Cherry Valley. Departed brethren in outside cemeteries were enumerated, and as each name was mentioned individual Oddfellows placed flowers on the soldiers' monument, the list being Brothers J. H. Eastcott, Welcome; W. H. Preston, Orillia; Walter Green, Little Lake, Peterborough; Delbert Adams, Lindsay; William H. Pickup, Toronto; J. A. Horner and J. H. McGill, Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

Rev. A. L. Sisco's Address.

Closing this part of the service, G. E. Burnham sounded the Last Post, and afterward all united in singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The address of the day was delivered by Rev. Archer L. Sisco, recently come to the community as pastor of the United Church circuit, who spoke on "Roads," and after mentioning some of the famous highways of history, climaxed the story with reference to the Jericho road, the scene of the Samaritan's kindly charity. Speaking of some of the things to be met with on the Jericho stretch of life, poverty was mentioned, hard knocks, rough usage, robbers "who would take from us our good name, rob us of liberty and justice, and upset the peace of the world.

"This service is in memory of those who have gone before over a road we have failed as yet to tread upon, and to which unknown stretch we all must certainly come. How shall we best serve their memory? By fighting daily and faithfully the battle for truth and righteousness. If we seek Him we shall surely meet on the Jericho road of life the Leader, even Jesus, who is always busy helping those in need. So let us consecrate our lives anew to the great principles of Oddfellowship and acknowledge His mastery."

Following the National Anthem, committees repaired to the various cemeteries of the vicinity and decorated the graves of departed brethren and sisters, members of the Rebekah Order who had passed away during the year and whose graves were visited included Sister Mabel Isbister at Cent reville and Sister Mina Bradley at Fourth line cemetery, Cavan; in this cemetery the grave of Sister Ruby McCamus was also remembered with floral tributes.

Convenors of committees for the separate cemeteries included: Presbyterian, Brother H. J. Armstrong; Gardiner's, United Church, Brother H. A. Fallis; St. John's and Ninth line, Brother V. R. Hunter, Fraserville and Centreville, Brother J. H. Isbister; Bailieboro and Fourth line, Brother P. I. Bentley.

MORE SPOILED BALLOTS

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—The election inquiry commission probing the count in the St. Patrick's riding of Toronto in the Ontario general election yesterday uncovered 4 more ballots that were spoiled after the deputy returning officer had delivered his locked boxes.

Charles Hunt swore that the four spoiled ballots marked for Col. Fraser Hunter, member-elect, were not in the envelope when he locked the ballot-box on election night. This raised the total of spoiled Hunter ballots laid before the Commission to 32.

BEER PARLORS ARE ATTACKED

Lindsay Minister Says People Sold to Brewery Interests.

FROST IN HALIBURTON

LINDSAY, Aug. 28.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The local branch of the Royal Bank, which was established here about fifteen years ago, will close its doors on August 31, according to a letter received by patrons of the bank to-day. The business of the local branch will be transferred to the Bank of Montreal, who are making arrangements to close a branch in another centre in favor of the Royal Bank. It was pointed out in the letter that there was not sufficient business to support the number of local banks, thus making the change necessary.

Attacks "Beer Parlors."

A slashing attack on the beer parlors was made Sunday night by Rev. J. M. Fleming, pastor of the local Regular Baptist Church. The reverend gentleman said: "You people have been made a fool of, your government has betrayed you Judas-like and sold you to the brewery interests."

The meeting, which was advertised as a "protest meeting," has as its object the tying up with Rev. Dr. Shields, of Toronto, in an effort to suppress the free flowing of beer and wine. Rev. Mr. Fleming protested that the Government without apparent authority had forced upon the people a thing that was "damnable"—a deluge of drink that is floating and flooding the community and the province at large. It was the result, he said, of high politicians playing with the people.

Potato Crop Nipped.

Severe frost conditions are reported from the north country. A resident of Minden informed The Examiner to-day that the frost during the past few days destroyed the corn and seriously damaged the late potato crop. FARMER LOSES SEASON'S CROP

Two Barns on Elmer Kidd's Farm Burn at Threshing.

TWO GARAGES DESTROYED

NORWOOD, Aug. 28.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Norwood citizens were aroused at three o'clock Monday morning by the clang of the fire bell which called them to a double garage fire on Belmont street. The garage, owned by Mr. Alfred Rogers, and his Ford V-8 coach, as well as a garage adjoining it on the property of Mrs. Ida Leeper, were consumed.

Flames were first noticed by Mrs. J. Rathwell bursting from the Rogers garage. She immediately sent in the alarm which called out the chemical engine, the fire brigade and scores of citizens, who turned their attention to saving the adjoining homes. The stillness of the night averted what might have been a more serious fire since many houses were in close proximity to the garage.

It is understood the buildings were partly covered by insurance, but the car which was practically new is a total loss to Mr. Rogers.

Two Barns Burned.

Fire destroyed two barns and other out-buildings, together with the season's entire crop, four head of cattle and a large number of fowl, this forenoon on the farm of Mr. Elmer Kidd. The farm is situated on the boundary between Asphodel and Otonabee Townships, half mile south of No. 7 highway. Threshing was in progress at the time, and the fire is said to have started in the blower of the separator and spread so rapidly that threshers were unable to save the machine or any other contents.

For some time the farm house was in great danger and a call was sent to Norwood for the chemical engine, which responded and added materially in saving the dwelling.

Mr. Kidd suffers a heavy loss, and also Mr. Stephen Elmhurst, owner of the threshing outfit.

COMMUNITY CLUB AT HALL'S BRIDGE

W. T. S. Wood, President of Buckhorn Social Group.

HALLS BRIDGE, Aug. 28. (Examiner Correspondence).—On August 13, the "Community Club" was inaugurated at Buckhorn, twenty-three members being enrolled, including the following officers: President, T. S. Wood; vice-president, Robert Dixon; secretary-treasurer, Miss Margaret Reil. On Monday last, the 21st, the club gave the first entertainment at the True Blue Hall, which took place immediately after the business meeting, in the form of a debate on the statement, "It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." The affirmative view was taken by Mrs. T. S. Wood and the negative by Mrs. B. Hall and Miss M. Reil. After a spirited discussion, it was decided in the negative. This was followed by community singing, after which refreshments were served and the gathering brought to a close with the National Anthem.

Mr. Max Parnell and his sister, Ruth, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shearer.

On Saturday last Mrs. Willis journeyed to Montreal to meet her sister, who was on her way from England on the Cunarder "Ansoria." Owing to bad weather and fog, the "Ansoria" did not dock until Monday instead of Sunday as expected. Mrs. Willis and Miss Dean returned home on Tuesday, being met at Peterborough by Dr. and Miss Iris Willis. Miss Dean reports a rather unpleasant voyage, heavy rain, icebergs and fog being met with, ending with high winds and rough seas when coming up the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

In the lair of a fox recently raided at Gauerstadt, Saxony, was found a pig, the remains of three hares, two pheasants, three partridges, a crow, a woodcock and a mole.

CITY SANITARIUM PLAN APPROVED

MAXWELL USED ACCOUNT MONEY IN AIR SERVICE

Director of Ontario Government Planes Unable to Recall $500 Item.

WAS $4,000 SHORT.

Some of Engines Purchased Were "Marked "Scrap."

TORONTO, Aug. 29. (CP).—Admission by Capt. Roy Maxwell that he used money issued to him in the form of accountable accounts by the government for personal purposes marked the inquiry today into the administration of the Ontario Air Service. Capt. Maxwell, director of the Air Service, said a sum amounting to $3,532 outstanding for a period of about two years, was repaid in the Autumn of 1931.

A veritable barrage of questions laid down by Commission Counsel D. J. Coffey regarding a cheque for $500 Maxwell had received from "Doc" Oakes, an Air Service employee, failed to draw much information from the director. He denied several times that it had any connection with the Patricia Airways.

"You have for many years been using the moneys in your accountable warrants for your personal use?" asked commission counsel.

"Yes, I have," said Capt. Maxwell. He said he made loans on his accountable warrants to certain Air Service officers at various bases.

Asked if he was short $4,000 in his accountable warrants at any time, Capt. Maxwell said he had obtained a loan against collateral bonds to repay a shortage of $3,532 in his accountable warrants in 1931. This shortage was carried over "a period of about two years" he said.

A Forgotten Cheque

The director did not recall receiving in 1925 a cheque for $500 from Patricia Airways. He did recall a cheque was returned as "N.S.F." which was from Oakes.

Coffee insisted upon knowing why Maxwell was given this money.

"As far as I can remember," witness said, "it had to do with some mining stock. I sold some mining stock to Oakes."

The $500 had "nothing whatever" to do with government service, government aeroplanes or mining claims in the Red Lake gold area, he said. It had no connection with the Provincial Air Service.

As Good As New

A memorandum from Captain Maxwell to Mr. Eavits (then Deputy Minister) in 1926 was produced by commission counsel who read from it to show that Captain Maxwell said the H-SIL planes bought

SUPPORT URGED FOR BIG EFFORT

Kiwanians Look for Generous Response to Annual Appeal.

FOR SOCIAL SERVICE.

All plans are set for the big Kiwanis Street Fair and Karnival to be held tomorrow evening to raise funds for the promotion of the club's service work activity.

Features of the effort are to be the dance in Brock Street Summer Gardens with Mose Yokom's orchestra, and special floor shows of exceptional merit, and a big outdoor fair on Brock street between George and Aylmer streets, with entertainment and games for young and old.

The Karnival presents a novel avenue through which the public as a whole may contribute towards helping along the worthy social service work in which the club is engaged. The Kiwanians are looking for generous support, and are confident that their hopes will be fully justified by the attendance.

Not the least of tomorrow evenings attraction will be the prize drawing, to be made by Mayor Roland Denne, for the number of choice and practical gifts of electrical household equipment for which tickets have been on sale for some weeks past. In addition a number of equally acceptable door prizes are to be given away.

Canada Packers, Ltd. Maintain Increase

A bright spot in the local trade situation is revealed in the fact that the shipping and order departments at Canada Packers Limited are experiencing a period of unusual activity.

Gordon S. Matthews, plant manager, stated that once July 1 double shifts have been worked in both departments. One shift in the shipping department is working from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the other from 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. In the order department the first shift comes on from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and the second shift from 12 noon to 10 p.m.

It is also interesting to note that Canada Packers have recently leased the factory premises vacated by Knitters Limited some time ago. The building is being used for storage of canned goods.

42 DISMISSALS IN FARM BRANCH LATEST SAVING

Resignation of 19 Municipal Boards of Supervisors Likely to be Asked Shortly.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(C. P.)—Ontario Liberal government's program of cutting expenditures and reorganizing departments extended into the agricultural department, censor board and supervisors' board today. In the agricultural department 42 dismissals were made and it is expected the resignations of 19 municipal boards of supervisors would be asked for shortly.

These boards of supervisors have been administering affairs of municipalities which have defaulted on debenture payments and were appointed by the former Conservative government. It is expected Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Welfare and Municipal Affairs, will make the announcement today that will result in removal of these boards which have been protested by various municipalities.

The new department of municipal affairs, it is understood, contains the necessary machinery to handle the situation which will arise from abolition of the boards and it is possible, according to the Mail and Empire, that an inspectors' board, headed by Alfred Gray, York township, will be appointed for this purpose. This board would expedite refunding of outstanding debentures of the municipalities.

W. C. Nixon, Agent-General of the province in London, England, headed the list of dismissals from the agriculture department. George A. Elliott, Director of Colonisation and Immigration, also was dismissed.

Salaries Up to $6,000

Salaries of those dismissed ranged from $6,000 for the Agent-General

Two Chicagoans Die In Suicide Plunges

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(A P)—Plunges from loop buildings left two dead and one dying today.

Miss Pauline Rudin, 28, plunged 10 stories to her death from a window in a store.

Peter Ostrowski, 43, leaped or fell six stories to his death from a theater building.

Early today, Bernice Wojnarowski, 27, plunged from the 46 story observation tower at the Morrison hotel, striking a ledge five stories below. She suffered a broken neck, fractured leg, and internal injuries. Little hope was held for her recovery.

All were Chicagoans.

A TROUBLESOME LAD.

PORT ERIE, Ont., Aug. 29. — (C.P.).—U.S. immigration officials at Buffalo to-day are on qui vive to-day to see that 15-year-old Bernard Train, foster son of Joseph Train, Canadian Customs staff here, is safely returned to Canada upon his arrival in Buffalo.

This clause was insisted upon by U.S. officials at Ellis Island, N.Y., where the wandering boy has been held nearly a month while officials pondered whether he would be sent back to Fort-Au-Spain, Trinidad, B.W.I., or allowed to come back to his home here.

Notables From France And Canada Honor Jacques Cartier

Continuing the route of Jacques Cartier, "discoverer of Canada," from Charlottetown, a colorful pageant was held in Gaspe in celebration of the 400th anniversary of the explorations up the St. Lawrence of the intrepid sailor of St. Malo. France joined hands with Canada in celebrating the occasion. In the layout is seen, TOP, LEFT TO RIGHT, Senator Beaubien addressing the huge gathering. Senator Beaubien was largely responsible for the success of the celebrations. E. L. Patenaude is shown next, while Cardinal Villeneuve adds his eulogy (CENTRE). France was represented by P. E. Flandin, seen next to the cardinal, being received at Gaspe. Extreme right shows Prime Minister R. B. Bennett with Senator L'Esperance arriving for the ceremony. BELOW is shown the scene of decorated small fishing boats that gathered to welcome the liner Champlain carrying the Cartier party. The liner is shown lower right.

Property Fadeout

RIVERHEAD, N.Y., Aug. 29 (CP)—After a four-year search for three lots which he bought for $25.38 at the Suffolk County Tax Sale in 1930, Andrew Anderson reported the lots have vanished.

The Board of Supervisors authorized the county treasurer to refund the purchase price. It was not explained why the previous owner paid taxes on apparently imaginary property.

ROEBUCK TAKES HAND IN STRIKE

Aid Guelph Cloak Officials and Workers Draw Up Proposed Pact.

FURTHER SESSIONS.

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (C.P.).—At a conference between Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck, Sam Kriesman, business agent of the Cloakmakers' Union and other strike leaders from Guelph, a proposed agreement was drawn up which, it was hoped, would end the troubled labor situation in the Western Ontario city.

Draft of the proposed agreement was made at a lengthy conference this morning, and the strike leaders are meeting this afternoon at 3.15 to study the proposals and it is expected they will ratify them with perhaps a few minor changes.

The strike in Guelph involving the popular and superior cloak companies had kept police and citizens in turmoil for more than a week with several outbreaks of rioting in which several people were hurt, none seriously.

POLICE INVESTIGATING N. YORKER'S KIDNAP CLAIM

CAMDEN, N.J., Aug. 29. (AP).—Investigation of a kidnap story told by Ralph Sosis, 38, New York nectie maker's son who says he was abducted in New York and freed here on payment of $10,000 ransom, will be turned over to New York police, Camden police announced early to-day.

Officials declined to comment on conflicting ransom statements from the wife and brother of the self-styled kidnap victim, who walked into police headquarters here last night and told his story.

Although Sosis said his father paid the ransom that brought his release, and his brother, Irving, declared he understood the money was paid, the alleged abduction victim's wife denied any money had passed.

WATER SKIING

TORONTO SWIM IS POSTPONED FOR 24 HOURS

Men's Marathon Will be Held on Thursday A.M., Women's on Friday Afternoon.

TEMPERATURE 54 DEGREES

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (C.P.). — Canadian National Exhibition authorities this morning announced a 24-hour postponement in the men's marathon swim scheduled for today. The temperature of the water was 54 degrees. If possible, the men's swim will be held at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. The women's swim will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

C.N.E. Program.

The cold waters of Lake Ontario, steadily growing colder, to-day gave little hope that entrants for the 13-mile swim for men would be permitted to go to the starting floats off the Canadian National Exhibition grounds to-day. Conditions of the modified marathon, billed as the world championship test, provide for a temperature of not less than 62 degrees. The water to-day had slipped under the half-century mark.

Meanwhile, the rest of the program will continue in the various sections, including musical contests of different types, yacht racing, livestock judging and numerous other events.

Yesterday's agenda, dedicated to the automotive industry, included an address from G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner at London, who expressed a hope Canadians would purchase more goods manufactured by countries buying Canadian-made merchandise. He said he expected much good would result from the Maple Leaf tours to Canada and trusted they would become annual events.

Yesterday's crowd also heard from D. R. Grossman, president of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, that sales of the industry were up 115 per cent. for the year, while iron and steel production had increased 200 per cent.

Feature of the sport card was the new world record established by H. L. Gamber, of St. Louis, Mo., who won the York round of the North American championship of the international archery tournament by scoring 838 points, 26 more than the score made in the former record of Russ Hoogerhyde of Bristol, Conn.

Your Evening Smile

NO WONDER

Doris: Yes, she was furious about the way in which the newspaper reported her marriage.

Helen: Did it allude to her age?

"Indirectly. It stated that Miss Olde and Mr. Yale were married the latter being a well-known collector of antiques."

His Face Red!

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 29 (CP) —A newspaper editor, who apparently was confused with the work, received this note in childish scribble:

"Dear Sirch,—I wish to have a baby with brown hair, blue eyes, and I hope you send me a baby I like. Please send me a girl.

"Sincerely yours,
"Josephine H."

The letter was placed on file.

STRIKE PICKET ACTION UPHELD

Montreal Police Head Also Urges Warrants Against Any Attacking Members.

HOODLUMS INVOLVED.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29 (CP) — A delegation representing 3,500 striking women's garment trade workers here was received to-day by Fernand Dufresne, Director of Police, who accorded the strikers permission to picket loft factories housing the 90 clothing firms affected by the strike. Director Dufresne also invited the strikers to swear out warrants against any persons attacking the pickets.

Visit of the strikers' delegation to police headquarters followed an attack on union men this morning by a gang of men armed with sticks and blackjacks.

Union officials claim the manufacturers have tried to break the morale of the strikers by attacks of armed hoodlums. The attack on union headquarters to-day was repulsed by union officials and union members on the premises, and the invaders were pursued into the street where police halted hostilities.

A dozen persons to-day face police charges of disturbing the peace and resisting arrest, as a result of the disorders of the past two days. Parades of striking workers have twice been attacked in the street by men armed with blackjacks. Several pitched battles have been staged in city streets.

Bill Aucker Picked To Hurl First Game

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (CP)—Effort of Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe to break the American League record of 17 victories was delayed a bit to-day when Manager Mickey Cochrane sent in Bill Aucker to pitch for the league-leading Detroit Tigers in the first game of the twin bill with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Rowe will pitch the closing game unless Cochrane makes a last-minute switch and there was no indication of this as the first tilt got underway.

PRINCE GEORGE TO WED MARINA GREEK PRINCESS

Marriage of King's Youngest Son to be First in 11 Years for Royal Family.

5 YEARS' COURTSHIP.

Wedding Expected to be in London This Fall, Possibly in Westminster Abbey.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Empire welcomed the news to-day that Prince George would desert in bachelorhood his elder brother, the Prince of Wales.

Announcement that Prince George, 28-year-old fourth son of the King, would wed the beautiful Princess Marina of Greece, caught London off guard. But approval of the match, the first in the Royal Family in 11 years, was quickly forthcoming.

Princess Marina, who is 27, has one qualification among others which will be welcomed by British folk. She speaks English perfectly, having been taught it from infancy, and has spent much time in this country.

The question of her religious profession probably will arouse some discussion. Her family belongs to the Greek Orthodox Church but her own religious views are not known here. There is nothing, however, in English law or custom to prevent a member of the Church of England from marrying a woman of another faith.

Prince George

A courtship in the romantic Alps of Yugoslavia, culminating five years of friendship, resulted in the match. Prince George, who is visiting with Princess Marina at the summer home of Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, her cousin, wired his father for consent. It was speedily given.

A Court circular said: "It is with the greatest pleasure that the King

Health Officials Declare Hospital Ideally Situated

Inspection Of Queen Mary Hospital By Dr. William Bell, Deputy Minister Of Health Department, And Other Officials Yesterday Convinces Them That Hospital Would Make a Splendid Tubercular Sanitarium.

FORTY PATIENTS CAN BE ACCOMMODATED; IS UNSUITED FOR ISOLATION PURPOSES.

Minister Of Health May Make Personal Inspection — Grant Will Be Sought From Department—Decision On Project Rests With City Council, Mayor Denne Rules.

Full approval of the Board of Health's suggested plan of converting Queen Mary Hospital, Peterborough's municipally-owned isolation hospital, into a sanitarium for tubercular patients, was expressed yesterday by Dr. William Bell, deputy-minister of the Provincial Health Department, following a thorough inspection of the hospital by him and members of his staff.

"Our inspection convinced us that the hospital is ideally suited for use as 'T.B.' sanitarium", stated Dr. Bell. "It is splendidly located for that purpose, giving proper isolation for that purpose. In fact no better location could be secured. Its building, well constructed and well kept, can be transformed into a sanitarium at little or no capital expenditure. I approve fully the plan to discontinue its use as an isolation hospital and make of it a sanitarium for tubercular patients."

Municipal Generosity

Dr. Bell caused some surprise when he expressed the view that the building is really most unsuitable as an isolation hospital. "It is the finest piece of municipal generosity that I have ever seen to maintain such a fine building for the few patients that have been using it," he declared. "It is much too good a building to be maintained for the slight use to which it is now put as an isolation hospital."

Asked by Mayor Denne if he though the Department would make a grant to support the hospital as a sanitarium, Dr. Bell replied, "It depends on how good a story you can tell. I am confident that you will be given a most kindly hearing."

He urged that the matter be taken up with the Minister of Health. "The city should ask for financial assistance from the government for the project, because it would not only benefit Peterborough but the

DENIES EFFORT TO TRAP PRICE

McCaughrin Enlarges on Details in Probe of Retirement Proposals.

HAZY ON PARTS.

TORONTO, Aug. 29. — (CP) — Daniel McCaughrin, former Orillia magistrate, today denied he had tried to "trap" W. H. Price, former Attorney-General of Ontario, at any time.

On the stand at the inquiry into details concerning his retirement before Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher, McCaughrin was asked by R. H. Greer, counsel for Price and William Finlayson, former Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, "Well, at what time did you decide to trap Mr. Price?"

"I did not try to trap Mr. Price at any time," witness declared.

He was asked about a conversation with Finlayson in connection with the Cotter case. He persisted he did not clearly recollect this conversation.

"I think Mr. Finlayson did mention a contribution to Mr. Cotter," McCaughrin finally said.

Counsel dwelt on the arrangements relating to the proposal to retire McCaughrin. Col. Greer handed a letter to witness written by him to Finlayson and mentioning $5,000.

"Did the mention of $5,000 have anything to do with your financial position?" "No, it did not," said witness.

"I suggest that you were seeking to have Mr. Finlayson take care of you because of your comparative poverty."

"Well, naturally that entered into it," said McCaughrin.

Afghanistan plans to encourage its manufacturer by barring from the country 26 different articles made in foreign countries.

NEWSPAPERMEN HEAR NOTABLES

Progress in News Transmission Past 113 Years Reviewed by Havas Chief.

RADIO BEEN AID.

QUEBEC, Aug. 29. (CP) — The business of their conference nearly completed, French and Canadian newspapermen attending the French press congress here prepared to-day to bring their meeting to a close and move on to Montreal to-morrow in company with the visiting French delegate to the Jacques Cartier quatercentenary celebrations. But before closing the congress the delegates were to hear several prominent newspapermen from North American and European cities.

Yesterday M. Charles Houssaye, vice-president of the Agence Havas, French news agency, described the progress realized in news transmission during the past 113 years. The French journalist gave his listeners a history of newspapers, from the Papyrus of the Egyptian, the Ephemerides of the Greeks, the annals of the Romans and the acta diurna of the Pontiffs down to the present day newspaper, complete with up-to-the minutes news from all points of the globe.

When founded in 1825 as the first news collecting agency, M. Houssaye declared, the Agence Havas used carrier pigeons, the Chappe Telegraph and couriers in the transmission of their despatches. Relaying of important events was necessarily slow, Today, he explained, radio helped to speed news transmission and overcome many obstacles. Transmission of radio between the United States and Paris had greatly increased the volume of news exchanges, he said, and had made possible the recent working agreement between Havas and The Canadian Press.

Mr. Charles Gauthier, editor-in-chief of Le Dettrot, Ottawa, spoke on French-lanuage journalism in Canada outside of Quebec. The 700,000 French-speaking people in Canada outside of Quebec, he said, understood the need of a press of their own to champion their religious and radical causes. To-day the needs of the minority French communities are well cared for, he declared.

RESIDENTS FLEE ARGENTINE TOWN BEFORE FLAMES

Five Are Dead, Others Missing in Series of Blasts at Oil Tanks.

MILLIONS DAMAGE.

Blazing Oil Spreads Over River and Sweeps on City—Hundreds Injured.

CAMPANA, Argentina, Aug. 29 (A.P.).— Residents fled in terror to-day as a sea of flaming oil and gasoline rolled toward explosion-rocked Campana.

A change in wind early this morning sent the fire licking toward the city, after giant oil tanks had gone up like firecrackers. More than a score of them are burning, along with numerous smaller ones.

Five are known dead in the catastrophe, with others missing. The list of injured is in the hundreds and property damage runs into the millions.

A fire yesterday caused 12 tanks to explode, shaking a wide area, and shortly after midnight 14 other huge containers exploded. More than 100,000,000 gallons of gasoline of the National Oil Company, a Standard Oil subsidiary, spread over the territory.

Evacuation of Campana was speeded under the direction of marines and police. Hardly a house in the city of several thousand was left standing. The explosions were felt in Montevideo and other Uruguayan cities, some as far as 60 miles away.

Transatlantic freighters were menaced. There is much traffic on the Parana River near the city and it could easily be covered by burning oil, now pouring from the tanks and spreading freely. A shift in wind would put boats in the path of the fire, spreading by land and on parts of the river.

Outside Aid Called

Fire departments from Buenos Aires, 40 miles away, and other nearby cities waged a desperate fight against the advancing rings of flame and to defend other tanks.

Damage to the refining plant of the National Oil Company was placed at $2,800,000. The first series of shocks caused nearly $500,000 damage in Campana.

Officials of the company said they did not know how the fire started.

Some pilaging was reported in Campana. Shattered windows and cracked walls were everywhere.

A witness said "the panicky populace scurried into the country as though the world were ending amid the weird reflections of the flames in the sky overcast by smoke."

PRINCE GEORGE TO WED MARINA GREEK PRINCESS

and Queen announce the betrothal of their dearly-beloved son, Prince George, to Princess Marina, daughter of Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece, to which union the King has gladly given his consent."

Plans Unlaid

No plans, it was understood, have been made for the wedding, but a Belgrade dispatch said it was assumed it would be held in London this Fall or Winter. Westminster Abbey may be the scene.

No important political significance was seen in the forthcoming union.

Princess Marina, renowned for her brunette beauty and a lover of outdoor sports, is a niece of the late King Constantine I of Greece. The monarchy ended in 1924. Her mother was the Grand Duchess Helen Vladimirovna of Russia.

Popular opinion is that tall, blue-eyed Prince George is the most handsome member of the British Royal Family. He now receives an annuity of £10,000 ($50,000) and upon marriage this will be increased by £5,000.

One of the first to learn of the engagement was the Prince of Wales, summering at Biarritz. The Duke of York, the second son, and Princess Mary, only daughter of the King and Queen, are married. Prince Henry is a bachelor.

Prince George's health forced him to relinquish a naval career and also later caused him to withdraw from the Foreign Office. He is an accomplished musician and also is fond of dancing—as is Marina.

Like the Prince of Wales he has visited Canada and most of other parts of the Commonwealth where he has been enthusiastically proclaimed.

EDUCATIONAL TROUBLES

15 Witnesses Called Rum Smuggling Trial

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—With 15 witnesses subpoenaed, Canadian officials to-day began their inquiry into the American end of an alleged international alcohol smuggling conspiracy believed to have cost the Dominion Government $1,700,000 in taxes.

Jean J. Penberne, Crown attorney, and Sgt. James A. Churchman of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are in Newark to question the witnesses before Richard M. Glassmer, Newark attorney commissioned by the Canadian courts to conduct the taking of testimony.

The case involves the transporting, in tank cars purported to be carrying oil, of thousands of gallons of bootleg alcohol from "dummy" shipping corporations in New Jersey to Montreal and other points in Canada, where it was allegedly made into other liquors and sent back to the United States.

The Canadian Government has charged six men—William Fraser, Amedee Brabant, Radolphe Pharrand, Louis V. Millman, alias Louis V. Gordon, and Jack Winters—with complicity in the case.

LACK OF BABIES

WILL MEET WEST.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Winning all along the line since they captured the district championship in the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, the Campbellford doubles team of A. J. Meyes and W. S. The championship games will be played off in Hamilton, the tentative date being September 12.

All games played were 21 ends; the Campbellford aggregation defeating Ottawa in the first round by 23-16. Ottawa and Markham then played off, the latter getting an easy win from the Dominion city. In a game that was all Campbellford's, the Markham aggregation, in the final round, fell before the local doubles by a 31-12 count.

Ottawa won out, however, in the singles group, and Markham in the rinks. These semi-final games were played off on the Kingston greens.

Two Buildings Burn In North Augusta

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 29.—(CP)—Assistance of Brockville firemen was sought at 3.30 o'clock this morning to fight an outbreak in the village of North Augusta, 15 miles distance which resulted in the complete destruction of two frame buildings, a two-storey dwelling owned by Mrs. G. N. Moffatt, and a barber shop owned by Mrs. William Matthews.

The fire started in the barber shop and spread with such rapidity that the villagers, having only a volunteer brigade at the disposal became alarmed. A detachment of Brockville firemen headed by Chief John Hartley assisted in bringing the blaze under control.

Twelve hundred penholders and 7200 pens were stolen from writing desks in 78 London post offices in a recent month.

DEATH COMES TO GRANT HALL

Ambitious Mechanic Rose to be Vice-President, Director of C.P.R.

IN 71ST YEAR.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29 (C.P.). — The career of an ambitious railway mechanic, who rose through his own efforts to the position of vice-president and director of one of Canada's two great transportation systems, was brought to a close here to-day with the death of Grant Hall, director adn vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The 70-year-old vice-president, who started out in the company in 1888 as a mechanic and quickly rose through positions of trust to one of the highest offices in the system, died early this morning after doctors had waged a losing battle to save his life for three weeks. Stricken with an apoplectic stroke while on duty at his desk three weeks ago, he was rushed to hospital, where he held his own for more than two weeks. Three days ago, however, he took a turn for the worse and early last night his life was despaired of.

It was in Western Canada that Mr. Hall won railroad fame. He assisted in opening up vast plains, prairies and woodlands in the western provinces while associated with the western lines.

After starting his career as a fitter he joined the old Intercolonial Railway as general locomotive foreman in Moncton, N.B., in 1886. His rise was rapid after he joined the C.P.R. on his return to Montreal in 1888. From Montreal he was sent to McAdam, N.B., and then went west as general foreman in Winni-

BOTH SIDES IN TEXTILE FRACAS STICK TO GUNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (A.P.)—On the eve of a peace conference called to prevent a strike from crippling the United States textile industry, union leaders and employers stuck to their guns to-day.

As the national labor relations board threw all its influence behind the peace move, these storm clouds hovered:

1. Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the United Textile Workers Strike Board, accused employers of trying to depict the workers as striking against the government.

2. Some cottons mill managers were reported ready to close their factories if the strike materializes next Tuesday as planned.

The union leaders have accepted the Labor Board's invitation to a "round table" talk tomorrow and the manufacturers, though reported to be making preparations for the strike, are expected to attend also. Chairman Lloyd Garrison, noted mediator, will preside.

UPTON SINCLAIR LEADING POLLS

Incomplete Returns Indicate Writer Will be Democratic Candidate in California.

FOR GOVERNOR'S POST.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (CP) — Unless incomplete figures from yesterday's primary elections are overthrown by later returns, Upton Sinclair, Socialist, will be the Democratic party's candidate in November for the Governorship of California.

The fiery-penned novelist-crusader rode to the nomination yesterday on an E-P-I-C platform—"End Poverty in California."

In apparently defeating George Creel, who was President Wilson's propaganda chief during the war, and two other candidates—Milton K. Young (the 1930 nominee) and Justus S. Wardell, Conservative Democrat—Sinclair scored what he termed to-day a "victory for the New Deal."

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, one-time seeker of the Republican Presidential nomination and before that a Bull Mooser, was nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets to succeed himself. An Independent Republican, he had the support of President Roosevelt, whose policies he has supported.

Acting Governor Frank F. Merriam, who succeeded to the gubernatorial chair when James Raolph, Jr., died several months ago, was named by Republicans as their candidate to fight it out with Sinclair at the November elections.

WORLD GROOMS FOR WARFARE OF HIGH SPEED

France, Britain, Italy Build Speedy Tanks, Fast Battle Planes.

TRENCH THEORIES DIFFER.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Confident that the "eventual war" will be fought at high speed, the world is grooming fast iron soldiers to do the job.

While London and Paris army men tended to differ with the opinion Italian military authorities expressed yesterday to the effect that trench warfare was obsolete, Great Britain and France nevertheless went forward with Italy in efforts to speed up the movement of troops.

The League of Nations' Armaments Year Book, published at Geneva yesterday, estimated that the world spent between $3,471,000,000 and $4,399,000,000 gold for armaments in 1933. A great part of this, army men agreed, went for tanks, aircraft and other fast fighting machines designed to wage war at maximum velocity.

Italian Experts' Views.

Calculating the results of the recent army manoeuvres, Premier Benito Mussolini's military experts asserted the first onslaught of tanks and fast-moving troop detachments would break through trench lines, force fighting out into the open, and make the movement so rapid that nothing would be gained by digging new trenches.

While willing to admit the speed of highly mechanized modern armies would radically affect the old stalemate of trench warfare, French military leaders said they still believed that trenches would continue to play an important part in warfare.

They indicated their belief that the $100,000,000 fortified trench system built along the German border would turn back the first shock of an attack and give time for mobilization, asserting they held to the theory that the infantry is still the backbone of an army.

Petain's Attitude.

Nevertheless, France, like Italy, has concentrated on speed. At the last manoeuvres; Marshal Petain, Minister of War, stressed the importance of co-operation between tanks and fast armored cars on land and aeroplanes.

The French intended to test transportation of troops by aeroplanes in air manoeuvres; this is in line with the development of speed which recently has seen construction of fleets of fast mobile tanks, motorization of cavalry and mounting of light field and machine guns on heavy armored cars.

Great Britain's conviction that another war in Europe would be more open led to the creation this summer of the first permanent tank brigade. A War Office spokesman said yesterday that statements that "trench warfare has ended" are a matter of opinion, but declared the value of tanks is now firmly established.

The British spokesman said an important issue was the question as to what extent aeroplanes could harass tanks in movement. This was tested in manoeuvres in the Wiltshire Plains last week, but results were not made public.

HEALTH OFFICIALS DECLARE HOSPITAL IDEALLY SUITABLE

health of the whole Province," he said.

Minister Be Interested

"I think the Minister will be very interested and will come down here to look the hospital over for himself," Dr. Bell commented. "I'll certainly tell him all about it, but I suggest that a letter setting forth all the details of the change should be sent the Department."

Dr. Bell inspected Queen Mary Hospital yesterday morning in company with Dr. A. C. McKay, director of the division of Preventive Disease of the Health Department; Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman of the Board of Health, and Dr. G. Murray Fraser, City M.O.H.

Later he and Dr. McKay discussed the suggested change in the hospital with Mayor Denne, Alderman Stocker, City Clerk Armstrong, Dr. F. C. Neal, Dr. A. Moir, Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick, president of the local Medical Association, and Dr. Fraser. The informal meeting was held in the Committee Room at the City Hall and Alderman Stocker acted as chairman.

Opening the discussion Alderman Stocker recalled that a few days after Dr. Fraser had started upon his duties, he accompanied the M.O.H. on an inspection of the hospital. "We both decided that every effort should be made to find some further use for the building," he explained.

Completely Satisfied

Dr. Bell then stated that as a result of his thorough inspection of the hospital he was completely satisfied that it was ideally adapted for use as a sanitarium. "There would be no expense in adapting it for that use," he said. He urged that the whole building be turned over to a tubercular sanitarium, explaining that it was unsuitable for use as an isolation hospital.

"It was approved for that purpose by the Government when it was built some 25 years ago," commented Mayor Denne.

"Conditions have changed and so has the Department of Health," answered Dr. Bell.

Mayor Denne asked if one wing could be maintained as a ward for contagious disease. "Suppose we keep one wing for that purpose?" he asked.

"It is an awful building for isolation purposes," answered the Deputy-Minister.

It was suggested that a bungalow for isolation might be built near the hospital and the same staff serve any patients that might be sent there.

Mayor Denne was opposed to this plan. "It will mean more capital expenditure and Peterborough citizens don't want that at this time."

Tent For Isolation Cases

Dr. Bell stated that it was not necessary to have any elaborate building for isolation cases. "A double-wall tent has been found suitable," he said. "Perhaps it could be arranged to treat such cases in their own homes. Any method would be cheaper than maintaining the hospital for that purpose. It has been practically unused."

Alderman Stocker commented that the records showed that there had been eleven cases confined to the hospital in eight months.

It was suggested that most of those case scould have been treated in their own homes.

Dr. Bell stated, "Peterborough is to be congratulated on the fact that it is able to consider doing away with its isolation hospital. It shows a splendid health record." Later, however, he acknowledged that few cities of Peterborough's size was equipped with an isolation hospital.

Answering a question of Dr. Neal, Dr. Fraser said that already this month nine cases of tuberculosis had been reported to him in the city. Three of these cases are in one family. The city is maintaining its cases in sanitariums in other towns, an expense of $10.50 a week for each patient.

Dr. Bell pointed out that those 17 cases could be accommodated at the Queen Mary Hospital almost at once. "You certainly would not figure on keeping that elaborate accommodation for nurses that you have now," he said. "A ward of six or seven beds could be put in there. You could easily accomodate 30 cases and possibly 40 in the hospital. If you went through the city you could easily find 40 cases of tuberculosis that need hospital treatment."

Tuberculosis Toll

Dr. Neal said that some years ago there was a death in the city from tuberculosis on an average of every ten days. Before the war there was a marked decrease in the disease, but after the "flu" epidemic it rose again. "Our chest clinic has disclosed that there are many cases here that are not getting proper treatment," he stated.

With the sanitarium here, Dr. Bell maintained, that the city would be saved a large expense in its annual health bill. Hamilton had experienced that result since a sanitarium was built there, it having now the lowest death rate of any city in Canada.

"But if we turn the hospital over to use as a sanitarium, what are we going to do if we have an outbreak of diphtheria?" asked Mayor Denne.

Outbreak Impossible

Dr. Bell said: "You can't have an outbreak of diphtheria."

Mayor Denne: "How about scarlet fever."

Dr. Bell: "The chances of an outbreak are slight." He explained that diphtheria and scarlet fever are not spread through the air or on clothes, but are carried in the nose and throat of the person affected by the disease.

"The most important thing has not been touched upon yet," declared Dr. Bell. "That is the public health point of view regarding the spread of tuberculosis. It is necessary to isolate those with tuberculosis to prevent the disease from spreading to others. Dr. Neal has stated that he traced six cases of the disease to one focus of infection. That is not a large number. It is not only a case of caring for a person sick with tuberculosis, but the much more important point of preventing the spread of the disease. The only way to protect others is to isolate those who have the disease."

Municipalities Shirk Bills

Dr. Bell had suggested that the hospital be transformed into a sanitarium for the district, but Mayor Denne stated that it had been the intention of maintaining it for city cases. He pointed out that the surrounding municipalities had not played "fair" with the city in connection with cases received from the county at the hospital. "We haven't been able to collect our bills," he said.

"Will the Government look favorably on us if we have it just for the city?" he asked.

"You will have to ask them," Dr. Bell replied.

Best methods to ensure payment by municipalities of patients received at city hospitals were discussed and Dr. Bell stated that if one such case was taken to the courts the problem of collecting payment would be solved. "The municipality is always responsible for patients at hospitals," he said. "If the patient is no indigent the municipality must pay the hospital and then endeavour to collect from the individual."

Investment Is Made

Dr. Bell urged that the hospital could easily be turned into a sanitarium. "You have your investment all made."

Dr. Moir commented that it was very important that tubercular cases in the city should be isolated and have proper treatment. He endorsed the plan to make the hospital into a sanitarium.

Later Dr. Bell commented, "It looks to me as though you have a splendid proposition in this hospital as a sanitarium. You have a number of rooms for private patients, a splendidly equipped building for such a purpose with a beautiful sun porch with a southern exposure."

He suggested that it could easily be arranged to isolate other contagious disease elsewhere.

Dr. Moir stated that nearly all such cases could be very well-treated at home. "But will the medical men co-operate and be satisfied to treat them at home" asked Mayor Denne.

Dr. McKay stated that the hospital was a splendid building as a sanitarium but was not suited and not needed for isolation purposes. Dr. Bell said: "It is really a rotten layout for isolation."

Mayor Denne stated that the whole matter would have to be considered carefully by the City Council. He thanked the Department officials and the local doctors for entering into the discussion. The meeting then adjourned.

Thousands At Government Car Auction

Wild confusion reigned at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, when the Ontario Government auctioned off nearly 100 cars from the regime of ex-Premier George S. Henry. Thousands of bidders and curious packed the stadium as though to witness a titanic gridiron struggle. And it was a struggle for baffled auctioneers and cashiers who tried vainly to keep track of bids and money. The first 50 cars to be sold brought the government more than $25,000. Ex-Premier Henry's car, a $7,000 limousine, was first to be sold and brought $1,200. Above is only part of the throng that examined the cars as they were put on the block.

OTTAWA TO GREET WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Reports of Delegation to International Council in Paris to be Presented.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29 (C.P.). — For the first time since 1904, Ottawa will this year entertain the annual meeting of National Council of Women of Canada which will hold its sessions October 15-19.

Miss M. Winnifred Kydd, C.B.E., president of the council, will preside, and it is expected will be re-elected by acclamation to serve another term. With the exception of two morning sessions, the meetings will be open to the public.

The National Council of Women was formed with the idea that the welfare of Canada would be advanced by a greater unity of thought, sympathy and purpose, and that an organized movement of women would best conserve the highest good of the family and the state. The Council acts as a clearing house for the women's organizations throughout Canada. It is non-political and non-sectarian.

Reception of reports of the Canadian delegation which attended the triennial meeting of the International Council of Women in Paris recently will mark one of the features of this year's Canadian Council gathering. Miss Kydd headed a delegation of 20 Canadians to Paris. Usual reports from standing and special committees will also be presented.

Among the standing committees are Cinema and Printed Matter; Citizenship; Economics; Housing and Town Planning; Natural Resources and Industries; Arts and Letters; Public Health; Child Welfare; Mental Hygiene; Education; National Recreation; Laws concerning Women and Children; League of Nations; Migration; Soldiers' and Sailors' Pensions and Dependents; Trades and Professions.

Through the Citizenship Committee, efforts have been made to educate and interest more women in holding public office, and during the past year an exceptionally large number of Council women have been appointed to responsible positions in public life.

Plans for new dwellings in England call for an expenditure of over $115,000,000.

GIVING WOMEN A BREAK.

The Examiner agrees with the Ottawa Journal in its opinion that Hon. David Croll may make good his promise of appointing a woman as his Deputy Minister of Public Welfare without much danger of criticism.

Although for a decade and a half the fair sex has had the privilege of voting, it must be admitted that its representatives have been given practically no consideration when high administrative commands were being filled.

There is no fairness in that condition.

Many positions in the public service could be acceptably filled by women, and certainly the post of Deputy Minister of Mr. Croll's department would seem to be an admirable office for the appointment of a woman, inasmuch as many of the problems with which the department has to deal might be helped by the feminine touch and understanding.

To those who argue that women are unsuited to the hurly-burly of public life it may be pointed out that Miss Perkins, whom President Roosevelt named as Secretary for Labor, has proved one of the strongest members of the New Deal Cabinet, and in the face of the difficulties created by labor unrest and economic distress, has displayed courage, tact and determination that have made her a real force in the Roosevelt administration.

Undoubtedly a woman with similar qualities could score an unqualified success as Ontario's Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, and Mr. Croll probably has one in mind who will make good in the responsible position to which she is to be appointed.

ADVERTISING CANADA.

The Examiner is in receipt of a proof of the initial advertisement to appear over the name of Canada's newly-created Travel Bureau.

This very attractive publicity, headed "Canada, the Open Door to an Unforgettable Autumn Vacation," will, owing to the lateness of the season, be the main item in this year's drive for fall visitors, and it will be circulated in United States dailies from coast to coast, placing Canada's story before some thirty million Americans.

The Travel Bureau was set up late this summer by the Federal Government under the supervision of Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, to further the promotion of tourist travel in Canada, and its first step has been a campaign to extend the tourist season by advertising the charms of the Dominion during the fall months, a move that has long been advocated in these columns.

Early next year the Bureau will get into full swing with an extensive advertising campaign in American dailies and a "See Canada First" drive in the newspapers of this country.

This national publicity will, The Examiner believes, have speedy and important results, and the money spent in this way will bring returns far out of proportion to the cost of the campaign.

There has been a need of this kind of advertising, and our neglect in this respect has kept us from cashing in to the fullest possible extent upon the advantages nature has so abundantly given Canada.

HELPING A GOOD CAUSE.

As a social service organization which ever since it was launched here has had a consistent record of community service to its credit, the Peterborough Kiwanis Club merits the generous support of the public, and should receive it in connection with its street fair and carnival to-morrow night.

This is the major event upon which the Kiwanians depend for funds to carry on their health camp work and other important activities, and that being the case, the community should show that it is solidly behind the organization that has set up such a splendid record in caring for children of sub-normal health and in other important welfare work.

To-morrow night's carnival promises to be a gala occasion with color and movement enough to provide interest for everybody who attends. The Examiner hopes, therefore, that the citizens of Peterborough will turn out in record numbers and provide encouraging patronage for the games as well as absorbing large numbers of tickets, the sale of which will be a very material assistance in financing the club's program for the next year.

Upon the carnival, as we have already pointed out, the Kiwanis rely for the revenue necessary to meet their budget needs for the health camp and other activities, and as it would be little short of a calamity if any of this work had to be curtailed owing to lack of funds, it is most desirable that to-morrow night's enterprise should be a complete success.

You can have a big night's fund and help a most deserving cause by attending to-morrow night's carnival.

HAMPERING THE GOVERNMENT.

The most dangerous enemies of the Hepburn administration at the present time are not to be found among the Government's political opponents, but among those who regard themselves as enthusiastic supporters of the new regime.

We refer to the multitude of job hunters who are pestering the Premier and members of his Cabinet for positions on the public pay-roll, and who are urging the Government to dismiss every civil servant appointed under the previous administration in order to make room for some Liberal who feels the urge to serve the people of Ontario, provided he can do so in some capacity that guarantees a good salary.

What is happening up in North Essex, as pictured by W. L. Clark in his popular column in the Border Cities Star, is typical of the general situation throughout the province.

Says Mr. Clark:

"The hungry Liberals are getting impatient to land some of those jobs that were promised the workers before the election last June. The crowd that packed the Liberal meeting in Tecumseh on Saturday demonstrated that the boys and girls of North Essex are pretty sore about the delay in making the appointments.

"In North Essex as in every other riding in Ontario, the member and his advisors are faced with a problem. They have only so many jobs to dish out and for every one available there seem to be a hundred and one applicants. And each individual believes that his claims to the plum are better than those of his competitors.

"Another trouble is that some of those who worked hardest will not be satisfied with any $150 per month job. They want to be placed where they will draw down $5,000 and more per year without having to do much work in return for the salary."

These job-hungry supporters must be causing the Government a great deal of anxiety.

Mr. Hepburn, keen to carry out his economy pledges, has tackled the problem of cutting down the cost of government with surprising zeal, and has been lopping off services that he considered the province could do without in view of present-day conditions.

Back in the ridings, however, supposed to be friends of the Government are hampering this economy drive and throwing doubt upon the Premier's sincerity by demanding jobs in the civil service.

Apparent ly they are delighted to see Tory appointees tossed out, but their delight is mingled with a sense of disappointment that the vacancies in many cases are being left unfilled when there are so many Liberals willing, very anxious, to step into the breach.

Among the things Mr. Hepburn would undoubtedly like to abolish are the patronage committees in the various constituencies.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED.

Every motorist should be a traffic officer.

It is in the personal interests of all motorists that the highways should be kept safe for traffic.

It is unreasonable to expect official traffic officers to be everywhere at the one time. They are bound to miss a lot of the offenses which are occurring regularly on the highways.

Motorists should co-operate. They should do something to help themselves, instead of depending upon traffic officers to do everything for them, in the matter of protecting life on the highways.

This has been suggested before—with indifferent results—but there is one respect at least in which this suggestion should be conscientiously adopted by every motorist. We refer to the condition created by drunken drivers.

The man who wishes to use the highways in safety should immediately inform the police when he discovers a drunk man driving a motor car.

He shouldn't hesitate.

There is nothing "sneaky" about such action. In fact, we might put it in its strongest light and say that, morally at any rate, if a drunk driver takes a life the man who saw him prior to the fatality knew he was drunk and neglected to inform the police might very w ell be considered an accessory to the crime. That is indeed putting it strongly, but it is just a question, in a moral sense, if it isn't the proper way to put it.

The Daily News has been told of a case which occurred in a rural district of Kent the other night. A farmer on his way home saw an approaching car which was zig-zaging all over the roadway. Fearing he might be hit, the farmer stepped on the gas and just managed to pull into a driveway when the other car reached the same driveway and lurched into the ditch.

It was a close shave.

The farmer went to the assistance of the other motorist and discovered he was intoxicated. This explained the zig-zaging of the car. The drunken motorist was confused and didn't even know where he was. Farmers are noted for their neighborliness, and so this farmer helped the other to get out of the ditch and allowed him to proceed upon his unsteady way.

That farmer instead should have sent in a call for the police—but he didn't. The case never reached the courts.

That motorist might have killed somebody after he left the farmer—indeed the potential victim might have been a member of the farmer's own family.

It would have been an easy thing for the farmer to have slipped the key out of the car while it was in the ditch. A telephone message would have done the rest. The police would have investigated; and it would not have been necessary for the farmer to even give a statement to the police, let alone appear in court to testify. And another serious menace would have been removed from the highway.

The man who told this incident to the News concluded with the remark; "You can depend upon it, if I see a drunk man driving a car I will get his number and inform the police immediately."

That man has the right idea.

Other motorists should do the same thing.—Chatham Daily News.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

When Hon. David Croll said that municipalities must face concrete facts he may have been thinking of highway bills.

Chicago school teachers have had their first pay day in seven months. They will not have to learn to spend again, however, for that, like swimming, is something that is never forgotten.

There is to be no plebiscite on the beer question, Mr. Hepburn declares in a tone that leaves no doubt that he means just what he says. But unless conditions improve there may be a few local option campaigns.

The Health Association is doing a great work in Peterborough, and it should have the hearty support of all those who are in a position to help.

Given normal August weather, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition would have undoubtedl' set up new attendance records. As it was the Exhibition did well to beat last year's mark.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS.

MONTREAL, QUEBEC.

According to some historians the word Montreal came from the Mount Royal, the mountain so named by Jacques Cartier, while others claim it came from Monreale, a town in Sicily.

Montreal was known as Hochelaga, when Cartier first visited it, that Indian name meaning "beaver dam." Later a society was formed known as "Compagnie des Cent-Associes l'Ile de Montreal," which afterwards was changed to "Societe de Notre-Dame de Montreal."

In February, 1641, members of the "Societe de Notre-Dame de Montreal," standing before the altar of the Virgin Mary, consecrated "Montreal" to the Holy Family by giving to that place the name of "Ville-Marie de Montreal." About the year 1669 the name of "Montreal" began to replace that of "Ville-Marie," but its definite adoption was not complete until after 1726.

The show which opens to the public at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, is unique in so much as it is believed to be the largest show of its kind held in Canada by an organization within an industrial plant.

In former years the show has resulted in some remarkably fine displays of flowers, and this year is to be no exception judging by the number of entrants who have signified their intention of competing.

The committee who have charge of arrangements for the event, include: Messrs. T. McMillan, chairman; H. Turner, vice-chairman; H. Darling, secretary; A. E. Prest, W. H. Young, George East, C. Jay, J. GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat, 89c to 90c; oats, 35c to 36c; barley, 58c to 60c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 58c to 97c; buckwheat, 55c to 56c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Slipping wheat values gave a tone of weakness to the entire grain market yesterday, the one exception being a comparatively sensational closing spurt of buying that lifted corn prices to a fractional net gain for the day.

The otherwise lethargic market was a drab affair that to a great extent reflected a general weakness at all leading world markets and an apparent hesitancy of traders here.

Wheat prices lost ¼ to 5 cents a bushel, but corn showed gains ranging from ¼ to ⅝ cents.

Lower wheat prices at Winnipeg and Liverpool had a depressing effect here. Wheat marketings in Canada, Monday aggregated 3,367,000 bushels, the heaviest movement of the season so far.

September wheat here closed at $1.01⅞ to $1.02, only a fraction better than the mid-August price. May, however, finished at $1.04⅛ to $1.04⅝, representing about a two-cents loss since Aug. 15. September options of corn ended at 77⅞ to 78c, almost three cents higher than a fortnight ago. May deliveries closed at 82⅝ to 82½c, fractionally lower than the Aug. 15 price.

Oats closed unchanged to ¼ down; rye lost ¼ to ⅝ and barley was unchanged to 1¼ off.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Cheese and butter prices were up on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday. The egg market also had a firmer tone, while potatoes were unchanged in price.

On the regular cheese market, Ontario colored was steady at 10½c a pound, while Quebec cheese advanced ½c at 9½c to 10c a pound. Arrivals totalled 2,499 boxes.

Butter was up ¼c a pound, being quoted at 19½c to 19¾c a pound for fresh No. 1 in car lots or less. Small lots to retailers were 20¼c to 21c a pound for solids and 21½c to 22c for prints. Receipts were four boxes.

Graded shipments of eggs in car lots or less were priced at 23c a dozen for A-large against 23c to 23c Monday; 21c for A-medium as compared with 20c to 21c; 19c for B in comparison with 18½c to 19c; and 17½ to 18c for C. Receipts totalled 816 cases.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Waves of selling that swept away the little support in evidence sent wheat prices skidding on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Values closed 1⅝ to 1½c lower; October, 81c; December, 83¼c, and May, 86c.

The pressure of hedging sales, which for two weeks has pressed heavily upon the market, was augmented to-day by considerable short selling. Pounded right from the opening, futures recovered from earlier losses of more than 2c in a brisk closing rally, the first of the session.

It was apparent farmers were freely selling their new crop wheat with country receipts for Monday, totalling 2,367,000 bushels, nearly five times as much as on the same day last year.

Demand for higher grades of wheat was the sole feature in cash grains, spreads on other varieties closing generally unchanged. Increased hedging had its effect on coarse grains futures, sharp declines being registered in all futures.

ESSAY ON THE NOSE.

The nose is a prominent part of the human face. Think how funny we would look if we didn't have any noses. But think how funny a nose would look if it weren't attached to a face. . . . If an able man has a big nose, we say that a large nose is a sign of ability. If a commonplace man has a big nose, well, that's just an accident. Some noses turn up, some turn down. If you follow the advice to follow your nose, there's no telling where you'll end.

A turned-up nose, if it's on a pretty girl, is called "retrouse". If it's on a boy, you don't call it anything. . . . Pointed noses are supposed to denote inquisitiveness. . . . Mothers worry a great deal about their babies' noses (or nose). They wonder what it will be like in 20 years. . . . The nose lasts a long time. If it's ugly it stays that way. If it's a fine, straight nose, it is likely to remain a fine, straight nose. Unless something happens to it like J. Pierpont Morgan's. He didn't have a very handsome nose. But he had a lot of money.

Men sometimes complain that they have their noses on the grindstone. We have never seen a nose on a grindstone, but wouldn't mind if we did. . . . Sunburned noses are odd sights. . . . Noses get in the way of kisses. Observe affectionate closeups in the movies and you will see that this is true.

Noses are their own bosses. You can't disconnect their main function, which is to smell. Noses have a lot of fun and a lot of trouble, too. They enjoy gardens and appetizing food and they like to take them past coffee houses and ocean wharves. But they are unhappy in the presence of polecats, gasoline exhaust and burning rubber.

Noses get blamed for a lot of things. When you talk through your nose you're really talking through your mouth. Cleopatra had a lovely nose and they say history would have been different if it had been shorter or longer. Cyrano de Bergerac had a monstrous nose, and was very sensitive about it. . . . A blue-nose is a man who doesn't want you to have any fun. Noses get colds in them. The nosephone is a funny musical instrument that you blow through your nose. . . . The eyes have it, but many a horse has won a race by a nose. . . . That isn't all I know about noses.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE QUEBEC BRIDGE COLLAPSE

On this date in 1907, the southern span of the Quebec bridge, then in course of construction, collapsed. Ninety lives or more, were lost. It was a staggering blow to Quebec, for it was thought to mean the abandonment of a project first suggested more than half a century before and the victims had left families who had to be cared for. Some of the bodies were never recovered those that were, were given public burial.

Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways, at once ordered a searching investigation by a commission, composed of Henry Holgate, C.E., of Montreal, John G. Kerry, C.E., of Campbellford, Ont., and Prof. John Galbraith, of Toronto. They set to work with vigor, made a thorough investigation, and submitted their report to Parliament in the following March. They found that the collapse resulted from the failure of the lower chords in the anchor arm near the main pier. The failure of those chords was due to the defective design.

The designer and the consulting engineer who approved the plans were found guilty of errors of judgment "which cannot be attributed either to lack of common professional knowledge, to neglect of duty or to a desire to economize. The ability of the two engineers was tried in one of the most difficult problems of the day and proved to be insufficient for the task."

As a matter of record it may be interesting to state that as early as 1852 the Quebec City Council was told by William Serrell, C.E., that Quebec "must either build a bridge or a new city". The bridge, when it came, was at the site suggested by Serrell. It was ten years after the collapse when the bridge was completed and opened for railway traffic. It was officially opened by the Prince of Wales in 1919 when its total cost was placed at over twenty-two million dollars.

Agricultural Notes Of Interest To Farmers In District

A CASH COMMODITY

Pork is one of the products that year in and year out seem to offer a fair return to the producer over and above the cost of feed consumed.

At the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S., data have been compiled for a number of years on the feed cost of raising young pigs from birth to weaning age, (six weeks); also from weaning until they are ready for the market.

The eleven-year average feed cost to raise young pigs to six weeks of age was $3.18. The $3.18 plus the eleven-year average feed cost to grow and finish the hog ready for market was $7.81 per hundred pounds live weight.

The average market value per hundred pounds live weight for the same period was $9.41. This left a spread of $1.60 per hundred, or $3.20 on a 200-pound bacon hog.

In computing the feed cost to produce 100 pounds of pork, all feeds are charged up at market prices and home-grown feeds are charged at cost of production, which includes rent of land, use of machinery, labour, etc. Therefore, taking into consideration that on the average farm the bacon hog is carried as a side line and consumes many waste products otherwise unmarketable, the above figures would seem to demonstrate fairly conclusively that on the average the bacon hog is a fairly profitable cash commodity for the average farm to have.

The greatest success will be realized from the well-bred hog, for when properly fed it will make the best use of feeds consumed and give a higher percentage of selects than will the nondescript-bred hog.

FEEDING TESTS

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N.B., experiments have been carried on to determine the value, when fed to hogs, of feeds comonly produced on the farm. Potatoes, skim-milk and oats were the main feeds under consideration. Hogs which were fed on a mixture of grains, mill feeds and milk were compared with hogs fed largely on a mixture of crushed oats, middlings, potatoes and milk. Two lots were started on cooked potatoes, meal and milk and finished on raw potatoes, meal and milk. Potatoes were fed at the rate of 4 pounds to 1 pound of meal.

All lots made equally good gains during the first sixty days of the feeding period. The hogs receiving raw potatoes during the finishing period required twelve days longer to finish than the meal fed lots but a considerable saving in meal was obtained in the potato fed lots. The carcasses were scored similar to those in advanced registry and there was no significant difference in the carcasses of hogs from any group.

FROST AT WOODSTOCK

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Aug. 29 (C.P.) — Heavy frost this morning played havoc with the tobacco crop in the Tillsonburg area and information from large growers indicate that the losses will run from 10 to 25 per cent of the crop. Ice was frozen in water tanks during the night. The low areas suffering most severely. Several growers kept fires in there fields all night long but to no avail.

PRICES SHOW ADVANCES IN TORONTO TRADE

Westons and Oils Are Bright Spots in Increasingly Busy Market.

NICKEL FINISHES HIGH.

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (CP).—Continuing increased trading activity which started just before noon under the leadership of nickel and alcohols the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange today completed the best market in the past two weeks. Prices were on the upgrade, especially in the interlisteds. Westons and oils also provided bright spots in an increasingly busy market. Nickel finished high.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP).—The stock market yielded to light selling following forenoon firmness today. Packing shares and alcohols held part of their earlier advances, but rails and a number of industrials dipped for small net losses. The late tone was irregular. U. S. Steel and American Telephone held around their previous closing levels, but New York Central, Case, and Western Union more than cancelled early gains. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Aug. 29—(CP)—Encouraged by the improved tone of markets in other centers, issues on the Montreal Stock Exchange rose to higher levels in today's trading and at the close, leaders advanced fractions or more. Volume was heavier.

Brazilian Traction was up ⅛ at 11 while International Nickel was ⅛ higher at 25⅛, ex-dividend today. Canadian Hydro Electric preferred rose 1¼ to 64¾.

National Breweries was an outstanding feature in the day's trading, being up ⅞ at 28¾ in heavy turnover. Hollinger came back strong after yesterday's softness and was 60 cents higher at 19.35.

Smelters Corporation.

Operations have been resumed at the telluride property of Smelters Corp. of Canada in Skead township, according to official advice. The underground workings have been dewatered to the 150-foot level and work is proceeding in this area.

Paymaster Consolidated.

Paymaster Consolidated Mines Ltd. is rapidly nearing the production stage at its property in the Porcupine gold area. Latest report from Chas. E. Cook, managing director, is to the effect that the mill and crushing plant are being overhauled and arrangements made for disposal of tailings. It is understood that the present milling unit will have a rated capacity of 400 tons per day. Mine development is being steadily pushed forward with good ore sections opening up.

Cuniptau.

Good results are reported from this property. A station is now being but at the 225 foot level. A government road from the highway to the property is under construction and will be completed in October.

Siscoe.

With prospects of increase in milling rate to 500 tons in near future, stock looks cheap. Advices to us are that good ore is being opened up and we can see nothing but a bright future minewise. Internal friction and law suits have detracted from popularity of stock market-wise, but these have not harmed the mine. Favorable to stock for moderate hold.

BROKERS' OPINIONS

Engel & Co.: "We look for the metals, rails and steels to do better."

Horneblower & Weeks: "Unless the movement into new high ground last week is going to prove another false start, then the market in order to maintain its upward direction, should again be in a position to resume the advance by mid-week at the latest."

TWISTER TERRIFIES COAST

FREEPORT, Tex. — A tropical storm which has played hide-and-seek with Texas coast cities for several days, kept residents on edge today while weather observers sought to determine the location and direction of the blow.

Lashing first at Galveston with a 40-mile wind, which caused no appreciable damage, the storm next veered southward towards this Sulphur shipping port. The wind reached a velocity of 60 to 70 miles an hour here, then abated and the storm twisted back out into the gulf, hovering off-shore last night.

HELD FOR CAR THEFTS

HULL, Que., Aug. 29 (C.P.) — Police to-day arrested Edward Dion at his home here and announced he had confessed to car thefts and store robberies in this district and at St. Thomas, Ont. Dion implicated three other men and a woman, police said.

Dion told police, they said, his gang stole a number of cars at St. Thomas, later abandoning them after store robberies. Until the men implicated by Dion are arrested, police said they did not know whether he would be tried here or returned to the Western Ontario city.

"They Are Quite a Care, But Just The Same I Love Them Every One"

"These aren't really mine, you know," smiles Nan of Samara, Russia, as she grants the press an interview in London where she is visiting. "I'm a maiden aunt and haven't any such notions of raising a family. These little duffers belong to my two sisters."

LEVIS WELCOMES DUKE

QUEBEC, Aug. 29 (CP)—The City of Levis entered into the Jacques Cartier celebrations to-day when citizens of the south shore town turned out en masse to greet Duke de Levis-Mirepoix, who crossed over from Quebec for a visit to the town named for his renowned ancestor.

The two ferry boats plying between Quebec and Levis were gaily decorated for the occasion and the whole city was elaborately hung with flags and bunting. The French duke was met at the quay by Mayor L. S. Durand and members of the City Council and escorted to the City Hall where he was officially

LONDON IS HARD HIT BY FROST

One of Heaviest Early Costings Many Gardeners Remember.

POTATOES SUFFER.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 29 (C.P.)—Local farms and garden crops were damaged extensively last night during the freezing cold which left thin shales of ice on shallow pools in low lying districts. One large field of beans east of the city is reported a total loss as result of the frost.

Cucumbers were destroyed in many gardens and with the prospects of the crop being seriously curtailed the price of small pickling cucumbers doubled on the market. Produce, such as melons of all kinds, peppers, cucumbers, beans, lettuce and other plants lying close to the ground suffered the most. Potatoes are said to have been seriously affected in some places.

The frost seems to have struck in scattered areas. Damage is reported from almost all directions in the immediate vicinity of London.

Gardeners report noticing one of the heaviest costings of white frost that they could remember.

No reports were available on the damage to tobacco crops but it is feared that the crops will have suffered severely.

HELD FOR MURDER

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 29.—(CP)—State police at Williamson, early today arrested William A. Prest, formerly of Montreal at the request of Canadian authorities, who charge him with attempted murder and bank robbery.

Following receipt of information from Montreal police, eight Rochester detectives were sent to surround a house in Ontario, where Prest had been working on a farm since Aug. 26. State troopers were notified and brought Prest here to await arrival of Canadian authorities.

SERIOUSLY HURT

WINSOR, Aug. 29 (CP)—Mrs. Clyde Yanuska of Detroit was seriously hurt to-day when an auto driven by her husband went into a ditch near Cottam. Mr. Yanuska and two children were cut and bruised. They were en route to Buffalo but were returned to their home in an ambulance.

20 Areas To Vote On Local Option

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(C.P.)—E. G. Odette, Ontario Liquor Commissioner said to-day more than 20 Local Option municipalities would hold plebiscites before the end of the year on whether they would allow sale of beer and wine in their borders.

The Commissioner estimated the number would be somewhere between 20 and 30 municipalities. Ten already have made arrangements for voting and set dates for their plebiscites.

BRITISH PRESS LAUDS PRINCE'S ENGAGEMENT

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 29. (C.P. Cable)—Comment already appearing conveys the warmest interest and general approval in the announcement of Prince George's betrothal to Princess Marina of Greece.

"Prince George, who like the rest of our overworked Royal family has not spared himself, will find the nation hearty in gratitude and sincere in good wishes," says the Morning Post. "We can assure the bride-to-be she will receive from every class and section of our people the warmest reception and heartiest greetings." Special reference is made to Prince George's visit to the Dominons beyond the seas.

The News-Chronicle comments: "While Princess Marina is yet of necessity less well-known to the British public we may be sure her association with our country will be warmly appreciated."

The Daily Telegraph comparing Princess Marina with the late Queen Alexandra who came here as "a Princess from over the sea" expresses the belief she will be welcomed here as heartily.

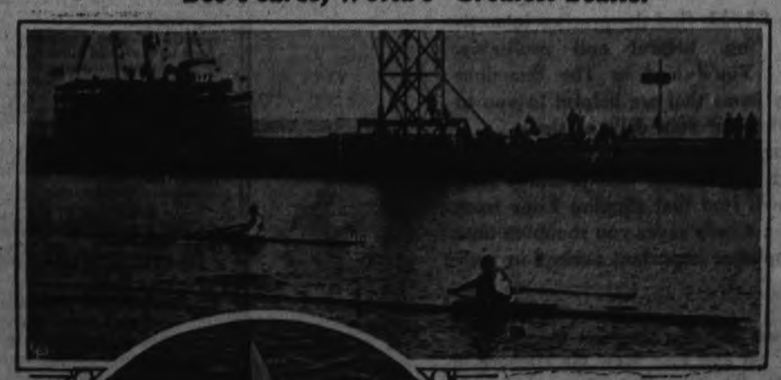
Bob Pearce, World's Greatest Sculler



Without doubt, one of the greatest, if not the greatest, scullers the world has ever seen is Bobby Pearce, of Hamilton, originally from Australia. Last year Bobby defeated Ted Phelps by a long city block for the world's sculling title. This year he took on Ted's brother, Eric, and beat him so far away that when the photograph was taken, they couldn't get them both in the picture. Now Pearce meets Bill Miller in another race. Miller having taken Bert Barry, another English sculler, for the right to challenge Pearce. Bobby is a strong favorite to whip Miller easily next Friday in the final race. The layout shows, TOP, Miller defeating Barry. BELOW, Phelps congratulating Pearce on his victory.

LAKE SHORE AT NEW HIGH.

TORONTO, Aug. 29 (CP). — Spurred on by the jump in the gold price at London, gold stocks soared upward on the mining section of the Toronto Exchange this afternoon. Lake Shore hit $56.50, establishing a new all-time high. Hollinger and Teck Hughes scored notable gains and the prices advances spread also to secondary gold issues. The movement was reflected further in increased acitvity in other metals.

MAXWELL USED ACCOUNT MONEY

from Laurentide Air Service were new. It further said two Loening planes were "slightly used."

"Why did you put in your memmemorandum this fact, when you knew they were not new planes?"

"No H-52L planes were new, as a matter of fact. They were as good as new."

Captain Maxwell said two Air Service men who had leave of absense had gone into the Red Lake gold rush and staked several claims for him. He had exchanged these claims for shares in Patricia Airways.

The government took over the 13 Laurentide ships in 1924, when the air service was being organized, Maxwell said.

"Did you report in writing that half the machines had been used "

"I talked it over."

"With Mr. Lyons?" (Hon. James Lyons, Minister of Lands and Forests at that time).

Captain Maxwell said he thought the Minister was aware some of the planes had been used.

The words "not to be used" on some Liberty engines bought by the air service from the United States was asked about by Mr. Coffey. Captain Maxwell could not remember whether he had complained to F. G. Ericson, the purchasing agent, about these engines.

He was asked if some of the engines were marked "scrap."

"Did you complain to Ericson about this?"

"I don't remember."

The engines were serviced and some parts were removed from the engines and put in stores. Some of these parts were later scrapped by being placed in the slipway.

"We made tools from the old valves," said the director. Mr. Coffey had asked whether these removed valves were of any use.

Mr. Ericson bought engines from the Baltimore auction of Liberty engines and stored some of them in his warehouse. Captain Maxwell did not know how many Mr. Ericson bought.

Captain Maxwell said the service bought the hull and wings, then the engine and propellor and assembled them, instead of buying complete planes.

Cost of the pigeon loft built at the hangar at Sault Ste. Marie was around $1,000, the director told Mr. Coffey.

E. J. Zavitz, former Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests said accountable warrants were returnable at the end of each fiscal year, Oct. 31. Sometimes a new accountable warrant was issued to carry over an outstanding warrant.

Enquiry Adjourns

Sum of $1,359,615 was outstanding in accountable warrahts in April, 1931, for all departments of the Ontario Government, the inquiry was told by Gordon Brown, Ontario Provincial Auditor.

But the figure did not go into the record without a protest from Brown. He refused to give the sum in answer to a question put by D. J. Coffey, Commission counsel, and appealed to Commissioner D. W. Lang on the ground it was not pertinent to the inquiry.

The commissioner, however, ruled it must be given. A sum of $231,916 was outstanding in travelling expenses. In the Department of Lands and Forests, the sum outstanding was $204,750.

The inquiry was adjourned this afternoon sine die.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(CP)—Two hundred thousand roving waifs of the highways of the United States have given up their journeying to accept government hospitality in the transient camps that dot the countryside, according to reports made public here.

Young and old, more and more of the wanderers are dropping their make-shift travel gear to eat three certain meals a day and sleep in a clean bed, untroubled by the command: "On your way, buddy."

Federal emergency relief officials said the transient camps, together with city treatment centres, have cost the government about $20,470,000 since last September.

CANADIAN LUMBERING BOOMS EXPORT MARKETS EXPANDING

Statistics Reveal Steady Climb Towards Peak in One Year Period.

INCREASE 100 PER CENT.

By JAMES MONTAGNES
(Central Press Canadian Writer)

TORONTO, Aug. 29—Canada's lumbering is going in increasing quantities to Great Britain, according to official figures for the early part of 1934. Not only finished lumber, but also shipments of logs, pulp and paper, have increased in recent months to Great Britain, United States, China, Australia and Japan.

An increase of 100 per cent in sales of Canadian hardwood to Great Britain has been reported for the first three months of the year. The figures are placed at 1,200,000 cubic feet this year, as compared to 604,000 cubic feet during the same period last year. More and more Canadian hardwood is being used in Great Britain for flooring, furniture and the manufacture of automobile bodies.

Nineteen empire countries and 28 foreign countries bought lumber in some form from Canada during the past year, marking Canada's recovery of many of her lumber and wood product markets which had disappeared during the preceding two years. And in the logging camps during the early part of this year twice as many men have been employed to cope with this increase in business than in corresponding periods of recent years.

Shipments of pulpwood have increased 93 per cent, pulp and paper 63 per cent, and other forest products 56 per cent, in recent months, largely because of the increased markets in Great Britain and improved conditions in the pulp and paper and other wood using industries.

Lumberjacks have been busier, logging camps have been fuller, the shipping world has been handling increased quantities of lumber and lumber products, and the newsprint business has been getting back to its peak days of 1929, producing during May more than any other month since November, 1929, with a total of nearly 250,000 tons. Over a million tons of newsprint have been produced during the first five months of this year, as compared to 726,000 for the same period in 1933. Only 50,000 tons separate the production of 1934 from that of 1929 for the first five months, showing that production is not far behind the record year.

DERRY HOSPITAL CROSSES BORDER

Northern Irish Town Has Patientless Wing in Free State.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29 (CP).—Derry Port Sanitary Board has just held a remarkable meeting, the members leaving Northern Ireland to go into the Free State to deal with the business for which the meeting was summoned.

The Board crossed the border in taxis to inspect its hospital at Ballyrattan, near Moville in County Donegal, a hospital which has never had a patient since its opening 13 years ago. It was built to deal with cases of infectious disease on vessels coming to Derry but before its completion, the border had been created with the result that the board was left on one side of the border and the hospital on the other.

No solution of the situation has ever been devised and the board decided to effect repairs to the institution, the chairman remarking that "the present state of affairs cannot go on forever."

MISPLACED CASH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (C.P.).—Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, is going to think a couple of times if he ever has occasion to make any more public works allotments to United States railroads. He returned to his desk to-day after passing what he describes as two sleepless nights on a rough railroad train.

"It was a road to which an allotment of a good many millions was made," the Secretary told reporters. "I thought of that all last night and wondered why in the hell I had approved it."

KILLS OFF WEEDS MASTERS DROUGHT

Chinese Small Farmer in London Lonely but Very Successful.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP).—Giving the lie to the idea Chinese abroad are always laundrymen, Louie Choy, settling in London township, has become one of the few of his countrymen to "farm" in Ontario.

Although he cultivates his Canadian crops by his own Chinese methods, his art of agriculture has resulted in a practically weedless farm. He meets drought conditions by spending many hours irrigating his land.

The farm is really only a market garden less than 20 acres. Louie with characteristic frugality has utilized every available square foot of land. A good crop seems assured and a light truck will bring the harvested produce to the Chinese cafes in this city, his principal market.

Louie Choy is 42 years old and has been in Canada since 1910, passing most of that time on the Pacific coast. As to his life as a Middlesex farmer, he has but one regret. Canadian immigration rules have so far prohibited his Chinese wife and family from joining him. Louie would "very much like to see her."

Shots Halt Trolley In Spokane Strike

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 29 (AP)—Shots rang out during the first day of Spokane's street car strike and all busses and cars were called off their runs.

R. M. Schultess, Spokane United Railway official, said nine shots were fired at the Hillyard terminal, near the city limits, Tuesday night. Five of the shots, Schultess said, struck a bus. All the windows and light were smashed by stones, he said.

Schultess attributed the vandalism to "hoodlums," saying he was at the scene an hour and did not see one of the strikers.

To Hold World Convention In Stockholm

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29. — Young Tim Sharon, of Camden, N. J., is going to get an important letter. For months the 14-year-old boy has clutched the picture of Ginger Rogers when he went to the doctor to get treatments for his crippled leg. Poor kid, he looked at it while they were working over him and it helped to take his mind off the pain.

The other day he wrote Ginger all about it, along with a momentous request. The doctors have released him from the hospital and his parents have promised him a trip to Hollywood for a vacation. The one thing he wants to do is to see Ginger.

Well, in a few days the mailman is going to drop a letter at Tim's house. And that youngster is going to feel as important as the president. For Ginger has extended him a cordial invitation to lunch with her in Hollywood and to see how movies are made at the R-K-O- studio.

HOW BRAVELY these Hollywood youngsters talk. Sixteen-year-old Anne Shirley, who was Dawn O'Day and who gets her big break as the heroine of R-K-O's "Anne of Green Gables," tells the world she'll never marry until she has completed a $75,000 trust fund for her mother. She has just made the first payment.

Oddly enough, Anne might have won a $50,000 trust fund for her mother at the age of three. She worked with William Farnum in a silent picture called "The Miracle Child". When it was over, Herbert Brenon, the director, wanted to adopt Anne. He offered to establish a $50,000 trust fund for her mother, Mimi O'Day. The only stipulation was that the youngster was to work no more in pictures.

Mrs. O'Day refused to part with her baby.

Today, they'll tell you, she is the ideal movie mother. Always is at the studio but never goes on the set where Anne is working. If she is wanted for anything they can find her in Anne's dressing-room.

HILDEGARDE WITHERS and Police Inspector Oscar Piper return to the screen in "Murder on the Blackboard," their latest adventure into crime detection, at the Capitol Theatre. The show is charged with comedy, thrills and romance greater than those which the same team highlighted in "The Penguin Pool Murder."

Hildegarde and Piper are again characterized by Edna May Oliver and James Gleason. In "Murder on the Blackboard," they have new material for their rapid-fire exchange of repartee and expert handling of very funny situations, interspersed through a series of spooky thrills.

CO-STARRED FOR the first time since their appearance in the epic picture, "Cimarron," Irene Dunne and Richard Dix comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre today in "Stingaree," a romantic tale of the seventies in Australia, with Mary Boland.

Both Miss Dunne and Dix give splendid performances and their respective roles are ideally suited to their talents. Lavish settings and beautiful photography add to the enjoyment, and members of the supporting cast contribute excellent characterizations.

"Stingaree" is a musical, dramatic and scenic treat, well worth seeing for any of these three qualities alone. The work of Miss Dunne and Dix is at least equal to that in the epochal "Cimarron," than which it would be indeed difficult to give higher praise.

Thermometer Drops To 40 Degree Level

Fireplaces in offices at the County Buildings to-day contained welcome and cheery live embers to counteract the chilling effect of the thermometer's overnight drop to 40 degrees, for the second time in the space of two days.

Walter Peters, local weatherman, who declares that the weather is unusually chilly for August, is borne out by Sheriff F. J. A. Hall who in the whole course of his long term in office never remembers having to put fires on so early in the season.

There was a fire not only in the grate in the Sheriff's office, but also in the fireplace in the office of the County Clerk and Treasurer.

DELAY INQUEST MANVERS CASE

Provincial Police Actively Engaged in Solving Murder of Farm Laborer.

FINDINGS KEPT SECRET.

Provincial Police are still actively engaged in trying to solve the murder of Peter Rogouskie, 43-year-old Lithunanian carpenter and farm laborer, of Manvers Township, whose half-decomposed body was found a week ago in a creek on the 6th line of Manvers where it had been concealed.

Inquest into the death which was to have been held in Millbrook this evening has been postponed indefinitely.

Met Symons, aged 35, Ukranian farm laborer, is still held in Cobourg jail on an open charge in connection with Rogouskie's death. Dr. Edgar R. Frankish, expert criminologist of the Attorney General's Department, performed a post mortem on the body last Thursday and found concrete proof that the man had been murdered. Important evidence has been found by police in connection with the case recently, The Examiner was reliably informed, but no disclosures of these new finds have been made.

TEMPERANCE HEADS PLANNING RENEWED BATTLE AGAINST BOOZE

World Convention Seeks Cause for Recent Prohibition Defeats.

Central Press Canadian Correspondent

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 29 — Confronting the overwhelming tide that has washed away prohibition from the last stronghold among world nations, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which has 1,000,000 members in 54 countries, is sending delegates here for an international convention to plan new strategy.

Within the past two years, its leaders have seen the United States and Finland slip from the "bone dry"side of the fence, to end in the former's case, a prohibition "experiment" of 13 years.

When Frances E. Willard founded the W.C.T.U. in 1874 at Evanston, Ill., to combat alcohol and narcotics, it crystallized the aims of millions of women throughout the world who had unceasingly fought for control and abolition of liquor.

Formed World Body

Its rapid growth and success spurred Miss Willard in 1883 to organize the various national temperance societies into a unified international body. The first world convention was held in Philadelphia, Pa., eight years later.

The Scandinavian countries, one of which now is host to the convention long have been sympathetic toward control of the alcohol traffic.

Indeed, Finland twice under czarist Russian rule passed prohibition acts that were vetoed, only to be made legal when the country obtained its independence in 1919 after the revolution. As with the United States, bootlegging sprang up, and smuggling became so widespread that Finnish authorities finally compromised on government-controlled distribution.

Sweden, of course, has achieved such success with the famous Bratt system, instituted in 1914, that the plan has been copied throughout the world. All strong spirits are controlled by a certain organization, with monopoly to manufacture and sell wholesale. The liquors are sold in turn to district companies which supply individuals, according to a rigidly-controlled pass-book system on a monthly quota basis.

Revenue Large

Under the Bratt system, local option districts exist by the hundreds. Through government control, drunkenness and crimes of violence have decreased enormously, while a handsome revenue has flowed into the state's pockets.

In England and Scotland, the British W.C.T.U. long has sought to stem the "pub" evil, and following the war the Defence of the Realm Act, restricting hours of beer halls and cafes, marked the first important step toward control.

Despite the many fronts in the battle, however, the congress in Stockholm, held under the sponsorship of his royal highness Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, seems likely to concern itself mostly with the problem of the American "defeat."

Dr. Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, N.Y., international W.C.T.U. president and leader in the "battle against booze," will preside over the meetings.

Canuck Films Win In Oversea Lands

MONTREAL, Aug. 29 (CP).—Regular production of Canadian talking pictures has now advanced to a point where they are receiving continuous distribution on four continents, according to B. E. Norrish, managing director of Associated Screen studios here.

Mr. Norrish reported the successful reception of a series of such Canadian films in Australia and New Zealand, following conclusion of an arrangement for distribution. Similar theatrical release is under way in South Africa. For the past two years, Canadian sound films have been very popular in the British Isles.

Mr. Norrish said technicians, scenario and studio staffs are entirely Canadian. The films are short subjects and in planning them, advantage has been taken of themes which were distinctively Canadian, including stories and backgrounds in all parts of the Dominion. The Rockies, the Maritimes, Montreal, Ottawa, Canadian sports, engineering achievements and natural resources have been among the backgrounds featured.

Second Negro Shot In Rioting At Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 29 (A.P.).—A second Negro was under treatment to-day for a bullet wound in the neck after rioting between whites and Negroes broke anew last night when police believed tension was relaxing after Monday's battles.

James Pride, 30, was wounded in the neck by shotgun slugs fired from a street through the window of a billiard room.

Another Negro took shelter in a store when a crowd milled about him as he was waiting for a trolley car. Police dispersed the throng quickly.

Several arrests for not obeying orders to "move on" were reported by police after shotgun slugs, fired from an automobile, peppered a house in 13th Street, near the centre of Monday night's trouble.

Walter Korpolinski, 45, white grocer, slashed across the abdomen in the first outbreak, was reported "somewhat improved" in a hospital to-day.

GAELIC POPULAR IN IRISH KIRKS

Protestants of Free State Go Ahead With Translation of Psalms.

DUBLIN, Aug. 29 (CP).—Good progress has been made with the translation into Gaelic of the Book of Common Prayer and the translators have been authorized to proceed with work on the Psalms in the Book. This was reported to the annual meeting of Cumann Gaodhalach na h-Eaglaise—the Irish Guild of the Protestant Church of Ireland.

The services which are conducted wholly in Irish on the first and fourth Sunday of each month in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, have become so popular, especially with the younger members, that the governing body has made arrangements for regular weekly services in the national language.

Membership of the Guild has shown a remarkable increase and it was decided to embark on a campaign for a greater use of Gaelic in services and to encourage Irish art and music in the Church.

Railway to Chemong Crossing Otonabee Before C.P.R. Built

H. Brosius, Forgotten Draftsman, Leaves Record Of Factories And Homes In Peterborough 59 Years Ago.

SKATING RINK ON HUNTER STREET FACTORIES SHOWN ON RIVER BANKS.

No Railway To Lindsay Before "Missing Link" Was Constructed—Wide Open Spaces Now Completely Occupied.

In 1875, H. Brosius, address unknown but something of an artist in his own particular field, visited Peterborough. His short stay in the then thriving little town on the banks of the Otonabee river has been definitely recorded in a most peculiar way. With amazing energy, patience and skill, the mysterious Mr. Brosius drew a picture of it.

Art entered little into the picture. Mr. Brosius was more concerned with scale, streets, factories, public buildings, trees and roads; and he apparently missed no slightest detail. His finished product gives a most comprehensive view of the whole town as it then stood.

Then And Now

Even the modern way of securing views of a city to show its factories, buildings and streets—sending a photographer aloft in an airplane—although much quicker, is no improvement upon the work of Mr. Brosius, the early town portrayor. Mr. Brosius probably had time on his hands. To accomplish his task must have taken weeks of careful work with crayon and pen.

He pictured the whole town to scale on a sheet of paper less than four feet long and two and half feet wide. A copy of his picture, copies of which were doubtless lithographed and sold to the residents of the town, recently was loaned to The Examiner. It is named a "Bird's Eye View of Peterborough, 1875", and truly it would be a long-sighted bird that saw all that the artist presents in his work.

The copy of the "Bird's Eye View" of the old town was formerly the much-prized property of the late Mrs. Hallhan, who died but recently in the city. After her decease it was found in the bottom of her trunk, among her other possessions, by Gladstone Chapin, of 91 Gladstone avenue.

Boundaries of Town

According to the view of the town presented by Mr. Brosius, Peterborough's boundaries were then Dalhousie street on the south, Park street on the west, Smith street on the north, and on the east was Ashburnham with its tanneries and little more than a dozen houses. Even within these narrow confines, there were many wide open spaces. Some streets, as pictured in the view, had very few houses on them.

Cobourg, Marmora Line

One of the first things to strike the eye in studying the view is the line of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railroad spanning the Otonabee with a handsome five-tiered bridge just north of the Goose Pond. The artist even pictures a snorting, wood-burning engine, drawing several cars across the structure. The railroad line disappears over the north-eastern horizon on its way to Chemong.

Another puffing train is pictured entering the town from Lakefield over the Midland Railroad. This line follows the present course of the railway to Lakefield, and the station of the Midland line is shown where the C.N.R. station is now located.

The C.N.R. apparently was not serving Peterborough at that time, at any rate it is not shown. But something else in connection with railroad lines is missing. There is no line to Lindsay—the missing link had not been constructed on the Midland then. The rail traveller to Lindsay must ride to Millbrook and there transfer to another train to reach Scugog town.

Goose Pond's Island

North of Smith street, little is shown on the view except a few houses on George street and farm lands. Water street stopped at Edinburgh street, at least there was no roadway between Edinburgh and Antrim street. The Goose Pond, with its large island, which now can only be glimpsed when the river is very low, with a dozen or more trees growing on it, stopped passage up Water street at that point.

West of Park street, where the city's restricted residential district now stands, was nothing but farm land and orchards in 1875. Weller street is shown and named, but there are less than a half dozen houses on it. West of Park, Bonaccord streets is also shown but it has only one house. What we know now as Monaghan Road is shown away off west of the open spaces, but in the view it is Gilmour street.

Many Lumber Piles

Lumbering apparently was the chief industry of the town. Where the London street dam now stands, a dam is shown in the view but instead of a powerhouse beside it stands the large Dickson lumber mill with acres of lumber piles about it. On Waterford and Harvey streets, north of London street there is shown more huge piles of lumber, while in the Goose Pond floats a large drive of logs.

At the end of Murray street, and served by a raceway from above the Dickson dam, stands an important three-storey building with a tall chimney, Brodie & Paisley's Peterborough Woollen Mills — a building which since has disappeared entirely.

Ashburnham Depicted

Following along down the river, one comes to the bridge joining Peterborough with Ashburnham. West of the bridge is Hunter street, but on the east the street becomes Elizabeth street. In Ashburnham are shown, besides the tanneries, the brewery, a machine shop on the north side of Elizabeth street near the river, and further east a saw mill with many more lumber piles. Serving the sawmills is a raceway running parallel and east to the river.

Further down the Otonabee a steamboat with paddle wheels threshing is pictured steaming up toward the islands.

The market place is shown where it now stands, but in 1875, where the present market house is, was an open space. In fact, the four corners of Charlotte and George streets had buildings, and small ones too, on only two corners. The east sides being bare. The market building faced then on Water street.

The post office then stood on the southeast corner of Water and Hunter streets.

The Old Drill Shed

Where the Collegiate Institute and Armouries now stand was an open field, with a small Catholic Separate school on Murray street and a tiny wooden drill shed being almost lost amid the trees of what is now Confederation Square.

The Collegiate Institute was on Murray street where the Central School now stands. The Gas Works is shown where it still stands, while at the corner of King and George streets is pictured the flourishing foundry and machine shop of Peter Hamilton.

Churches shown, are St. John's, Old and New Wesleyan Church (now George Street United); Charlotte Street Wesleyan, on the corner of Charlotte and Reid streets; First Presbyterian Church, now St. Paul's; St. Andrew's, the Baptist Church, where Gillespie's Garage now stands; and St. Peter's Cathedral.

Many Hotels Existed

At various vantage points in the business district are pictured the Huffman House, Smith House, Casey House, Albion Hotel, Fancher's Hotel and several others.

Factories shown include: William Hamilton's, Baptie and Stewart's Peterborough Planing Mill on Dublin street, near George street; William Toole's planing mill on the corner of Murray and Bethune streets; Walter Paterson and Son's tanners' and curriers' leather manufactory on Aylmer street midway between Brock and Hunter streets; August Sawyer's woollen factory and saw mill on McDonnel street between Donegal and Park streets; William Helm's foundry and machine shop on Simcoe street where the Lock Works now stand; Monroe and Dawson's Ontario Flour Mills just south of Dickson's saw mill; and the Auburn Woollen Mills at Auburn.

Breweries Also Numerous

Many breweries are shown about the town, a large, unnamed one bewest of George on the south side, west of George on the sout haide.

Along the streets of Mr. Brosius' Peterborough of 1875 are drawn many horses, teams drawing wagons, single horses drawing buggies. Horseback riding apparently was a favorite form of locomation because many figures are shown astride horses, galloping along at breakneck speed.

BEER DOUSES FIRE

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 29. (CP) Beer, that "life saver" of many businesses in Connecticut, also was a property saver, when it extinguished a tavern fire here. GAVE UP POETRY FOR "DICK" YARNS

Katherine Green at 88 Chuckles at Way She Wrote Her First Story.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 29 (C.P.)—Anna Katharine Green, now 88, who wrote "The Leavenworth Case," one of the first detective stories, 56 years ago, is chuckling these days in her Buffalo home.

A sensation in 1878, the book has been such a good seller through the years that new editions have appeared with regularity. Even now she still collects royalty on about 2,000 copies a year.

But what amuses the smiling old lady is that she wrote the book under a nom de guerre in order to make herself known so she could sell her poetry. The success of the volume was so great she practically gave up writing poetry, however, and contended herself with producing a succession of thrillers, some 30 in all, of which the last, "The Step on The Stair," appeared when she was 75 years old.

Anna Green is Mrs. Charles Rohlfs to her neighbors. She has lived quietly, her husband and children always coming before her books. "My family have been everything to me," she says.

RANGERS HONOR CAPT. F. T. HART

On Eve of Departure to Promotion At Hamilton.

WAS MESS PRESIDENT

Captain and Quartermaster Frederick T. Hart of the Peterborough Rangers was last evening tendered a complimentary dinner by his brother officers of the Mess. The function, held at the Armouries, was largely attended, not only by a full representation of officers of sister units of Peterborough Garrison, but by a number of personal friends of Captain Hart from this city and Lindsay.

As president of the Mess, Captain Hart presided over a larger part of the proceedings, and was in reminiscent mood when replying to a striking tribute to the contribution he had made to the welfare of the Rangers, paid to him by Lieut.-Colonel G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.O.M., Officer Commanding.

The function marked Captain Hart's pending departure from this city, where for the past nine years he has held the position of Senior Weights and Measures Inspector of Belleville division. He leaves here at the end of the present week to take over the district inspectorate at Hamilton.

In Canada 21 Years

Captain Hart came here from England 21 years ago, and has since spent a greater part of his time as resident of this city. He is not only well-known and highly regarded in the city, but throughout the wide district in which his duties took him with periodic regularity, and which includes Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton and North Hastings counties.

Before going overseas with the 39th Battalion, he was employed with the Canadian General Electric Company, but since demobilization has been in the civil service for which he qualified by examination.

When overseas he was transferred to the 21st Battalion, and has since maintained steady allegiance to his former overseas unit. He was vice-president of the 21st Battalion Club, and secretary-treasurer and circulation manager of the 21st Battalion Association.

Captain Hart was first appointed weights and measures inspector at Kingston in 1930, and was transferred here as senior inspector of Belleville division five years later.

"A Fine Tribute"

Colonel Winterbottom expressed the opinion that the gathering "is a fine tribute to the wide esteem in which Captain Hart is held." He referred in terms of deep appreciation to his active and honorable connection with the unit.

"I want Hart to know," the Colonel stated, "that when he goes away this unit is going to miss him very much." He extended congratulations to Captain Hart on the well-merited promotion he had received in his line of work, and on behalf of the unit wished him success in his new appointment.

This afternoon a group of merchants and friends presented Captain Hart with a leather travelling bag as a token of the esteem in which he is held, at a pleasant function held at the Rifle Ranges. The committee in charge of arrangements, was composed of Messrs. James W. Geraghty, Frank T. Stinson, Barney Quinn, and Herbert G. Mason.

Certificates Presented

One of the features of the program in connection with the dinner in the Rangers' officers' mess last evening was the presentation by Lieut.-Colonel W. Gordon Hall, V.D., of certificates of qualification to the following officers of the unit: Commissions: Lieuts. Archibald Maxwell Hamilton, Harry Willis, Neil Gemmell. Certificates —Lieut. W. Peryer qualified as Director of Music; Capt. G. R. E. Melton qualified for rank of Major; Lieut. N. P. Brooks qualified for rank of Captain; Lieuts. J. G. Armstrong and R. S. Allen, certificates from Infantry Training School.

Separation of maintenance orders granted in courts of England totalled 17,000 in the last year.

OFFICIAL WILL ATTEND BOARD

Will Outline Insurance Policy to Campbellford Educational Body.

SEPTEMBER MEETING.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 29. — A discussion on the liability insurance policy recently taken out by the Campbellford Board of Education, for the protection of the board in case of accidents to pupils at the schools, for which the board has a liability, featured the regular session of that body last evening, over which George A. Kingston presided.

The matter came before the meeting when Clerk Wesley Stephens read a letter from the insurance company, outlining the claims that had been met since the policy was taken out last fall. Four out of the five claims rendered had been settled, and the remaining one was still in abeyance.

Speaking on the matter A. G. Thompson told the board that an official of the company had interviewed him regarding the policy and it had been agreed that a representativeof the company would attend the September meeting of the board and outline fully the policy held by it and the obligations the company had in regard to claims, as it was felt that when the board bought the policy, the insurance representative at that time did not fully explain the policy. The correspondence was laid on the table for consideration at the next meeting.

USE BIG SYSTEM TO CHASE CRIME

Old London Increases Radio Fleet ad Plans New Wave Centre.

LONDON, Aug. 29—(CP)—One of the highest points in London, on the top of Denmark Hill, is the site of the new $50,000 crime wave centre" proposed police wireless station and when ready for operation 500 radio cars—more than double the number now in service — will be placed on duty in the metropolis. The cost of the erection of the new station, which is to be in Grove Park, Camberwell, is estimated at $50,000.

Elaborate experiments have been carried out in different parts of London, including Tottenham, Kew, Imber Court and Esher, to find a site free from all interferences, and the one at Camberwell has proved to be the ideal. All wireless messages will be sent by Morse code, as the radio-telephone system has been found slower, more liable to serious mistakes, and most costly.

The madio cars—some of which will have transmitting as well as receiving apparatus — will be on constant patrol throughout the 700 square miles of the Metropolitan police area.

RELICS UNCOVER SOLDIER HISTORY

Coins and Buttons Showered on Sergt.-Major in Niagara Barracks.

IMPERIAL TROOPS.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP)—Old Niagara Camp on the Canadian side of the Niagara River is giving up its treasures of historical relics as though it too would participate more intimately in the festivities at Fort Niagara, where restoration and peace celebrations are being held Sept. 2-6.

These relics, discovered by the falling of plaster from the ceiling of Butlers Barracks, perhaps bring modern occurrences nearer to the affairs of 100 to 150 years ago when Imperial soldiers guarded Upper Canada. The barracks is used at the present time as a storeroom for the Ordnance Corps of which Sergeant-Major Jennings is in charge. He decided to pull the rest of the plaster from the great oak beams, and a shower of old coins, buttons and cartridges greeted him.

The collection on investigation was found to hold at least one memento from each regiment ever stationed at the old war zone. An old, oddly-shaped knife; an old button stick; musket balls, the size of marbles; a one-pound cannon ball; a unque key; a Hindostan Peninsula helmet; a flattened old lead bullet and a number of old helmet facings and fittings.

Among the coins which are mostly copper and vary in dates from 1744 to 1844 are a number of George II and George III mintage. There is also a small Spanish piece, the size of a small five-cent piece, inscribed 1789, Carlos 4; a copper halfpenny coin incribed "Commemorate Battle of Waterloo, 1812-13-14," a copper coin with the words "Colonies and Commeroe Wellington," on it; and one which is probably the most unique, a copper coin inscribed "1813 Trade and Navigation Preferable to Paper." This has a ship on one side.

The regimental buttons are some of those used on uniforms worn by soldiers of the 15th Foot (East Yorkshire), 37th, 70th (Surrey), 85th Shropshire Infantry, 70th, 86th the King's Dragoon Guards, 76th, Duke of Wellington, West Riding Yorkshire.

The building was one of the first built in military occupation days at Niagara, and dates back to 1790. It was moved probably back from the brow of the hill near St. George, after the burning of Niagara by the American Army. As a barracks it has not been used since 1865, when it was occupied by the Queen's Own Regiment, during the Fenian Invasion.

It is thought the relics had fallen from the pockets of soldiers bunking on the upper floor and become lodged in the wide cracks of the floor. The old oaken beams under the plaster were found to be in a perfect state of preservation. They are all hand-hewn.

Harcourt Child Is Accidentally Shot

LINDSAY, August 29 (Special to The Examiner).—The story of a distressing tragedy came out of the north country yesterday. It happened during the week-end at the home of Reginald Cox, who resides at Kennaway, Harcourt Township, Haliburton County, when his young son accidentally shot and killed his sister, Marjorie, aged six years. Mr. Cox, it appears, had been using the gun during the day, and had hung it on the wall. The little fellow took it down from the rack, and not knowing it was loaded, pointed it at his sister and pulled the trigger. The little girl was killed instantly. Mrs. Cox was visiting her parents in Toronto when the tragedy occurred. There are eight children in the family; Marjorie being the third oldest. The sad affair has cast a gloom over the north country.

The sad death occurred yesterday morning following a stroke of paralysis of a highly-esteemed resident of the town in the person of Miss Elizabeth Hanahoe. The deceased, who was a daughter of the late Michael Hanahoe, was a well-known school teacher, having been principal of schools in Western Ontario and in the Canadian West. She is survived by three sisters.

IMMEDIATE INFLATION MAKES ROOSEVELT LAUGH

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 29 (AP) —President Roosevelt emphasized to-day at his regular press conference here that it is only the ultimate intention of the United States Government to use the gold profit from devaluation of the dollar and he laughed away inquiries of inflation by immediate use of this fund.

The President spoke in response to questions about the speeches last night by Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau stating the purpose to employ the $2,800,000,000 gold profit eventually for retirement of the public debt.

Sitting in his small study room at the family home, Mr. Roosevelt smiled broadly at the suggestion this opened the way to inflation by way of additional currency base.

He called attention to the word ultimately and that that meant a time pretty far in the future. The Gold Profit Fund, he added, is a nest egg and would be so regarded.

CHARGES BANKS BEEN GETTING BENEFIT FIRST

Unfortunate Holders of City Bonds Got Nothing—Province Paid Through Nose.

ARRANGES REFINANCING.

Says Too Many Municipalities Shifting Burdens—in Other Words "Cheating."

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—(C. P.)—"It is the chartered banks which have been getting the benefit first; the debenture holders and the taxpayers have been holding the bag," said Hon. David Croll, Minister of Municipal affairs, announcing to the Ontario Municipal Association today his request that committees of supervisors in 19 municipalities cease operation.

"I have today sent letters to the committees of supervisors in each of the 19 supervised municipalities of this province, asking the committees to complete their work as soon as possible and to cease operation not later than the end of this year," said the Minister. "At the same time I have asked these committees in each instance to submit to me a scheme for rearranging the debenture debt of the municipality so that it may be refinanced on a basis that will ensure the municipality of being able to stand on its own feet.

"I say I have asked the committees of supervisors to give up their duties. Do not think I am critical of these committees. They have done useful work within the scope of the legislation upon which their existence and functions were based.

Wrong in Principal

"But in my opinion that legislation was utterly wrong in principle, should never have been enacted, and it will of course be changed at the next session of the Legislature of Ontario."

Taking the case of Windsor, of which he is still Mayor, Mr. Croll remarked this was one of the first Ontario cities to be placed under a committee of supervisors when it became impossible to pay both principal and interest on its debentures debt nearly a year and a half ago.

Since then debenture holders had received no interest or principal. The city, however, had reduced its bank debt by $1,000,000 and paid the bank $148,000 interest, and had $863,000 on deposit to its credit. Yet during 1933 the province paid 100 per cent of relief in Windsor, or $1,646,420.

"In other words, the only effect of the appointment of the supervisors, so far as the creditors of the city were concerned, was that the bank immensely improved its position, but the unfortunate holders of the citys' funded obligations got nothing, and the province paid through the nose."

That also had happened at Mimico, where the municipality now had $56,000 to its credit in the bank. The debenture holders were still "whistling for their money" and last year the province had paid 100 per cent of direct relief.

In only a few of the 19 supervised municipalities under Part 6 of the Municipal Act had debenture holders received any interest payments, while in every case where supervision had continued more than two or three months the bank had succeeded in having the municipality's indebtedness greatly reduced. It is the intention to place the municipalities on as nearly equal a footing as we can, so that they may each and all be able to bear their fair share of the burden of unemployment relief and of their other service. This will be done by rearranging the financial structure of the municipality where it is needed."

Ready to Cut Indebtedness

"We are even prepared in rare instances to scale down the debenture indebtedness below 100 cents on the dollar," said the minister. This was no injustice in certain cases. Te cited the town of Riverside, whose debenture indebtedness was $3,071,903, and its entire assessment $3,119,421. Anyone who bought debentures there may a buy which was "bad on its face" and must be prepared to take a loss on the face value rather than lost the investment.

"What I have just said about a new financial setup for the municipalities does not apply only to those which are already in default; there are other municipalities which are rapidly approaching the point where they will be unable to maintain their payments as they have been doing. These, too, will be able to apply for remedial measures to set them on their feet again."

Perhaps the "most dangerous feature" of the (supervisory) legislation was that it took the right of municipal administration away from "the elected representatives of the people and placed it in the hands of appointed representatives of special interest, chosen by the Provincial Government."

It was the government's intention in the future to "assist the municipalities by sound advice, by reasonable control over capital expenditures, and by the provision of uniform methods of assessment, municipal bookkeeping and so forth, to operate on a more businesslike basis than in the past." The minister firmly believed the local government of a municipality could best be conducted by the municipal council.

Too many municipalities had been shifting their burdens to provincial and federal governments, he said at the outset. "In plain words a good many of the municipalities have been cheating."

Magistrate Favors Ideals Of Roebuck

"I like the idea very much," Magistrate O. A. Langley said this morning in a comment on Attorney-General Roebuck's announcement of plans to separate the work of hearing complaints and laying informations from that of deciding cases.

"We have received no definite information as to the procedure in working out the change but I can say it is a move which I have regarded for a number of years as highly desirable." In Peterborough as in other centers most of the work of hearing complaints and laying informations has devolved upon the magistrate, Mr. Langley said. With those duties in the hands of justices of the peace, the magistrate will now be able to sit in judgement on a case with his mind free from previous knowledge of the case, he pointed out.

MARY AND DOUG, WILL MAKE UP

Actress Quizzed About Reconciliation says, "I Won't Deny It."

MAY POOL RESOURCES.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 29. (AP)—Answering a question about a reported reconciliation with Douglas Fairbanks, film star, Mary Pickford, screen actress, said today: "I won't deny it."

The question was asked the actress after reports became persistent that the couple would announce a reconciliation within several days.

They have been seen together frequently since Fairbanks returned here 10 days ago from Europe, where he went some 14 months ago after separating from the actress. Later she sued for divorce but the case has not been brought to trial.

Told by one questioner that he possessed information from an authoritative source that a reconciliation soon would be announced, the actress said:

"I hope it is true. I can't discuss it now. I have never discussed the matter. Why should I begin now?"

Fairbanks was at the estate of the couple, Pickfair, at the time but refused to say anything about the reports.

The rumors of a reconciliation were accompanied by reports that the couple intended to pool their resources for the production of a new series of motion pictures, as they did for a number of years prior to their separation.

After the announcement, reports said, Miss Pickford will drop her divorce action and Fairbanks will move back into Pickfair.

NO VOWS TO OBEY NOR YET CHERISH

London Society Has Chinese Wedding Where Neither of Couple Spoke.

LONDON, Aug. 29 (C.P.). — Romance which began last autumn between a young house-physician at St. Thomas' Hospital and an 18-year-old student at the Royal Academy of Music culminated in a pink-and-gold wedding at the Chinese Legation.

The bride, a tall and beautiful girl, was Bessie Yio-Chung Li, daughter of the chairman of the Bank of China and the Chekiang Industrial Bank, and the bridegroom Dr. Sze-Ming Sze, son of the Chinese Minister to the Court of St. James', 1914-21 and 1929-32, and now Minister at Washington.

Gold brocade covered the seats reserved for the family and the two traditional "match-makers."

Neither bride nor groom spoke a word throughout the ceremony. The bride did not promise to obey, nor the groom to cherish. They listened to congratulations by the presiding official, Tai-Chi Quo, the Chinese minister, and to speeches of advice from the heads of both families, and silently bowed their thanks.

When the bridegroom put a circlet of diamonds on his bride's finger, they bowed silently to each other.

Cartier Blazed Trails That Made New France

Notables from France, Belgium, the United States, Great Britain and from every part of Canada are taking part in the many celebrations to be held in eastern Canada, commemorating the 400th anniversary of the "discovery of Canada" by Jacques Cartier, famous French explorer. Here is drawing by C. W. Jefferys, noted Canadian historical artist, depicting Cartier at Montreal, breaking the trail of what was to become New France.

British Airmen Test New Tailless Fighting Plane

A view of the military version of the pterodactyl aeroplane, now undergoing rigorous tests by British air authorities at Yeovil, England. Since its invention by Captain G. T. R. Hill, the pterodactyl, or tailless aeroplane has attracted world-wide interest because of its revolutionary design and strange bat-like appearance. The aeroplane pictured is a two-seater fighting aeroplane. The elimination of the tail and the after-part of the fuselage, greatly increase the field of view and field of lure, important advantages for military use.

Painting Causes Controversy

"Annunciation", an oil painting on display at the Art Gallery of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, has evoked a heated controversy between artists and clergy. There has already been one storm of protests aroused over the painting when it was displayed in England. The work of Walter Evans, the picture depicts the Virgin Mary clad in blue pyjamas and an aviator in bright yellow. Critics claim the picture is in bad taste since it portrays the Annunciation, one of the most sacred mysteries of Christianity wherein the Virgin Mary was told of the coming of Christ by a messenger angel. The artist denies his work is in bad taste.

Moncton Man Wins Title As Canada's Best Rifle Shot

Sgt. J. L. Ward of Moncton, N.B., 40-year-old engineer, is Canada's champion rifle shot for 1934. Ward won the title when he won the Governor-General's prize at Ottawa at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches at Connaught Ranges. Ward won a gold medal and $300 cash prize, presented to him by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett. The Governor-General's match is frequently referred to as the King's Prize of Canada. The best rifle shooters in the Dominion gather for these matches and the feature event is a gruelling test of all-around ability at all ranges. Ward is shown in firing position and being chaired in traditional Bisley manner after his victory.

Scene of the tragedy

In his fight to escape the electric chair, Robert Edwards, church-going youth of Edwardsville, Pa., whose plight so closely resembles that of the hero of Theodore Dreiser's "American Tragedy" at least has the consolation of the loyalty and love of his sweetheart, Margaret Crain, 27-year-old East Aurora, N.Y., music teacher. Police of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., contend that Edwards confessed to killing his former girl friend, Freda McKechnie, who was an expectant mother, with a blackjack, while she was swimming, to pave the way for his marriage to Miss Crain. She has refused to believe in Edward's guilt. The slain girl was last seen alive by a chum on the day of the tragedy.
